COOLIDGE REJECTS MARSHALL'S PLEA TO ADMIT DEPORTEES

President Declines to Issue Blanket Order, Repeats Promise to Consider Hardship Cases

Washington, November 22 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency). President Coolidge refused in his conference with Louis Marshall today to issue a blanket order admitting all immigrants detained on account of the exhausted Russian quota, but reiterated the promise already made by Secretary of Labor Davis to the American Jewish Congress delegation to admit extreme hardship cases, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent learned from a person authorized to speak for the President. Each case appealed to the Labor Department will be considered on its own merits.

Mr. Marshall conferred with President Coolidge twice. He spent a half hour about noon, and emerged hurriedly, apparently perturbed. He flatly refused to make any statement of his interview to newspapermen who tried to intercept him. He proceeded to the Labor Department where he was closeted with Assistant Secretary Carl White, having failed to find Secretary Davis in his office. Within a short time he returned to the White House in company of Mr. White, both of whom were admitted to the President.

Upon emerging this time Mr. Marshall told reporters he had appealed to the President for the admission of 700 detained aliens on bond for a sufficient period to enable Congress to pass legislation allowing them to remain permanently.

From surface appearances it seems Mr. Marshall's visit made a considerable impression and it is evident the Labor Department officials have been instructed to admit as many as consistency under law possibly allows.

Meanwhile, the policy regarding the hardship cases showed first results when about twenty cases at different ports were allowed to enter late today on nine months bond under an order by Assistant Secretary White, who approved the favorable recommendations of the appeal board.

BRITISH JEWS PAYING FOR PALESTINE PAVILION AT EMPIRE EXHIBIT

The Economic Board for Palestine Hears Optimistic Report.

London, November 23 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency). The third annual meeting of the Economic Board for Palestine, Wednesday evening, heard from Sir Robert Waley-Cohen who presided, that the economic situation of Palestine was better than the press represented it to be. Sir Robert presided in the absence of Sir Alfred Mond, the Chairman, who telegraphed he was unable to attend owing to the election campaign.

Palestine has suffered from the general wave of depression, Sir Alfred reported, the banks having found themselves unable to extend credit. This must have been due, he said, to the fact that no economic progress is possible without political stability. The situation, however, is better than the press represents it to be. The speaker mentioned a number of important enterprises such as the "Shemen Oil Company" and the "Grand Moulin" founded by Baron Rothschild at Haifa. Municipal loans were being given for water supply, which Sir Robert thought would be another paying enterprise.

At the request of the Palestine Government, the Economic Board undertook to guarantee the fund for the Palestine Pavilion at the Empire Exhibition.

JEWISH IMPORTER OF NEW YORK INNOCENTLY HELD IN RIGA

New York, November 23 (J. T. A.). Samuel Getmansky, a millinery importer of New York, arrived in Berlin following an extraordinary experience at Riga, where he was arrested and held for seven days on the charge of having in his possession $2,700 in American Express Checks, says a Berlin despatch today.

After traveling in Germany, Russia and other countries, Mr. Getmansky was arrested in a hotel in Riga and two detectives were detailed to sleep in the same room he and Mrs. Getmansky occupied, merely because a representative of the express company there, Dr. Meyer, complained that somebody had been passing forged checks.

While he remained in confinement his wife frantically appealed to John P. Hurley, United States Consul, who is believed to have cabled to Washington. There were no results, however, until the New Yorker had been detained a week, when the Latvian police declared the charges false and released him. Mrs. Getmansky was later informed ~~xxx~~ by the American Consul that her husband was not guilty of the charges.

ISADORA DUNCAN'S HUSBAND "DISCUSSES" JEWS, LANDS IN MOSCOW JAIL

New York, November 23 (J. T. A.). Serge Esenin, peasant-poet husband of Isadora Duncan is in jail in Moscow with three other poets, and likely to stay there a long time, because he "discussed" Jews too freely while "only slightly drunk," according to a copyright wireless despatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES today.

It happened thus, wires the Times Correspondent, "Shortly before midnight on Tuesday there was a telephone call in the Kremlin apartment of the Bolshevik poet laureate Denys Tlyedni.

"Hello, old top," said a cheerful voice, "This is Esenin, and I'm here in Police Station 47 with three other fellows. We want you to tell them to let us out."

"Well, it's like this," Esenin went on readily, "We were sitting in a beer saloon getting ready for the celebration, and the conversation turned on the Jews, Jews everywhere--even in literature, and so on. Then some chap at the next table butted in and there was a bitter argument, and the result was we got arrested."

"So, not so good," said Tlyedni.

"Not good at all," came the unabashed reply, "when one blessed Jew can put four Russians in jail."

Whereat Tlyedni rang off, and after a short talk with the Police Captain told the latter--perhaps wisely in prudence their friend-snip--"I don't back up these rascals; the law takes its course."

NOVEMBER 23, 1923.

"It appears that Essenin and his friends did not make anti-Semitic remarks, but criticized the position of Jews in the Soviet Government, mentioning well known names. They resisted arrest until a squad of police arrived."
