

CHRISTIANS ASKED TO RAISE $15,000,000 FUND FOR JEWS IN EASTERN EUROPE

To Match $15,000,000 United Jewish Campaign Fund; Appeal Issued by Gentile Members of Amos Society; "We Cannot Leave Entire Burden to Jewish Fellow-Citizens Who Generously Contribute to World's Non-Sectarian Philanthropies," Appeal Says

An appeal by leading non-Jewish clergymen and publicists was issued to the Christians of America to raise a fund of $15,000,000 to match the $15,000,000 fund sought from the Jews of this country by the United Jewish Campaign, a statement issued yesterday by the headquarters of the United Jewish Campaign declared.

The signatories to this appeal are Rev. Dr. A. W. Anthony, chairman of the Committee on Good Will Between Jews and Christians of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, who has assumed the trusteeship; Dr. Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Rev. George Elliott, editor of the "Methodist Review," New York; Rev. Dr. Charles P. Fagnani, of the Union Theological Seminary, New York City; Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Pastor of the Community Church, New York; Rev. Dr. Frederick Lynch, former editor-in-chief of "The Christian Work," New York; Dr. David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Leland Stanford Jr. University, California; Edwin Markham; Dr. Nathaniel Schmidt, Cornell University; Mrs. Vida D. Scudder, Professor of English Literature, Wellesley, Mass.; William H. Short, Secretary of the Amos Society; and Dr. George F. Moore, Professor of the History of Religion at Harvard, and vice-president of the Amos Society.

Explain Reasons for the Appeal to Christians

All of the signatures to this appeal are members of the Amos Society, an organization for "the propagation of the lofty humanitarian doctrines of the Hebrew Prophets from Amos to Jesus of Nazareth." The appeal was issued by them, the statement of the United Jewish Campaign declares, on the ground of the "central twin-dogma of that sublime religion of the spirit and heart which was the unity and the Fatherhood of God, and its inescapable conclusion, the Brotherhood of Man."

"What would Jesus do in such a case," the appeal asks, after quoting from the description by David A. Brown, of the Jewish tragedy in Eastern Europe. The appeal calls upon the 100,000,000 Christians of America to match the $15,000,000 Jewish fund with a $15,000,000 fund of their own for the same purpose. Checks are to be sent to Dr. A. W. Anthony at the offices of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, 105 East 22nd Street, New York City.

The appeal reads as follows:

"Appeal of the Gentile members of the Amos Council in behalf of the poverty stricken Jews of Eastern Europe.

"In the month of August 1923, the Amos Society was founded in the City of New York for the propagation of the lofty, humanitarian doctrine of the Hebrew Prophets, from Amos, the Shepherd of Tekoa, in the 8th century B.C. to Jesus of Nazareth in whom the teachings of his countrymen and predecessors reached their acme, both as to depth of thought and intensity of feeling.

"The central twin-dogma of that sublime Religion of the Spirit and Heart was the Unity and the Fatherhood of God, and its inescapable conclusion, the Brotherhood of Man.

"We Cannot Leave Entire Burden to Jews," Appeal Says

"It is upon this ground that we, the undersigned Gentile members of the Amos Council, appeal to our brethren and sisters in Christ to extend their help to the over 1,000,000 starving Jewish families of Eastern Europe, whose miserable plight almost defies description. We cannot and will not leave the entire burden of this stupendous work of philanthropy upon the shoulders of our Jewish fellow-citizens, who never fail to contribute their generous share to the alleviation of the world's misery at large, without ever asking after creed or race of the victims of the calamity.

"The $15,000,000 which the Joint Distribution Committee through the present nation-wide Drive attempts to collect will not only serve to relieve the immediate and most urgent needs of nearly 7,000,000 human beings, most of whom formerly belonged to the bread-winning classes, but also to send nearly 100,000 additional Jewish families back to the soil in Southern Russia to join the 50,000 Hebrew farmers who are already settled in the Ukraine. The soil has been generously offered by the Russian government; all that is needed is to equip the newcomers with the necessary tractors and farm implements.

"To quote the words of Mr. Louis Marshall and Mr. David A. Brown, two of the most devoted and indefatigable chief conductors of this Good Samaritan Campaign:

"We are called upon to help a people who have put up a valiant struggle against the current that is dragging them down. They have struggled as no people have ever struggled and today they are facing the blackest tragedy that has ever confronted any human group.

"When the national debt question is settled and Europe can begin to func-

ANTI-SEMITIC AGITATION DEVELOPS WITH PROGRESS OF ROUMANIAN ELECTION Government Campaign Manager Asks for Measures to Stop Agitation (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Bucharest, May 4.—Alarming news with regard to anti-Jewish agitation in connection with the elections throughout Roumania are being received here from various parts of the country. The reports state that the Hakenkreuzler and certain circles of the government party are conducting a strenuous anti-Semitic agitation, creating a dangerous atmosphere.

Hakenkreuzler agitators are inducing the peasants in many villages to swear to take revenge on the Jews.

The campaign manager of the government party asked Prime Minister Averescu for assistance in stopping this agitation, the results of which might be very dangerous, he stated.

Several Jews are on the lists of the government party. The Jewish national bloc, which was formed as an opposition to the government party, could not compose its own list and will, it was learned, work for the support of the Jewish candidates.

In Bukovina, Streitmann and Wurmband are candidates on the government list; in Bessarabia, Gutnik, former bank director and minister in Ukraine, Attorney Friedman and Mr. Berocwici are candidates on the government list.

MAX NORDAU'S REMAINS ARRIVE IN PALESTINE (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Tel Aviv, May 4.—All work in Jewish offices, factories and institutions in Palestine stopped at 1:30 p. m. today, as tribute to the late Dr. Max Nordau, philosopher and Zionist leader, whose remains were brought to Palestine today from France.

The coffin arrived at 7:30 this morning in Tel Aviv, where representatives of the municipality and various institutions and organizations met it. The body was transferred to the Town Hall, escorted by the Maccabee scouts. On its way the procession halted at the Great Synagogue where a religious ceremony was held. Thousands of inhabitants came to see the body lying in state in the municipal pavilion.

tion normally, the Jewish situation will improve. But, in the meanwhile, not only in Poland, in Russia and Bessarabia, but also in Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia, Austria and every other country in Eastern Europe, death stalks in every Jewish home. We must help them to bridge over this terrible period. The star of hope to which their eyes are strained is right here in America. Let us not cause this star to wane on the horizon.—Louis Marshall.

IMPORTANT ARCHAEOLOGICAL DISCOVERIES IN PALESTINE

Unearth Bronze Age Wall at Mizpah;
Archaeologist Believes He Has Found Joshua's Altar

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, May 4.—An important archaeological discovery in the ancient city of Mizpah was made by Professor William Frederick Bade of Berkeley University. The city wall, five meters thick, probably erected in the bronze age prior to the occupation of Palestine by the Israelites, was unearthed by the expedition of which Professor Bade is the head.

When interviewed today by the representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, Professor Bade stated that the excavation work at Mizpah was crowned with success. The wall uncovered represents an unprecedented fortification in Palestine. The outside face of the wall was constructed of Cyclopean stones and is an example of the bronze age structure, not previously found in Palestine.

Within the wall, seven grain bins six feet deep, were uncovered. Two cave molos were discovered underneath the wall, where were found a hundred jars, pots and other pottery dating back 2,000 years before the Christian era. A cism of solid limestone was unearthed. This is probably where Ishmael threw the body of Gedaliah after murdering him.

Philadelphia, May 4.—The altar that Joshua built at the command of Moses for the Israelites captured Jericho and it is believed to have been discovered, according to a despatch received here from the "Catholic Standard and Times" in Jerusalem.

The Rev. Raphael Canneau, archaeologist and professor at the Ecole Biblique de St. Etienne, who is now in Palestine, after examining authorities on the subject, and traversing the ground, served a valley that runs up to the

UNITED JEWISH CAMPAIGN
IN NEW YORK PROGRESSES

Further progress was reported in the United Jewish Campaign for the first day of the second week of the drive. David M. Bressler, Acting Chairman of the $6,000,000 United Jewish Campaign of New York announced that the Rockaway, Long Island community, which originally assumed a quota of $100,000, raised $163,000 and now seeks $200,000. The division is headed by Leon Lauterstein as chairman for Long Island.

Messrs. Mandel and Saxe, of the St. Nicholas Baths, 11th St. and St. Nicholas Avenue, stated that they would donate the receipts on Monday, May 10th to the fund.

A call for men was made by Louis Marshall in an address at a conference of members of the Real Estate Division yesterday at the Hotel Biltmore. "If this campaign fails," he emphasized, "it will not be due to the fact that the Jews were not generous in the giving, but because of the lack of a large army of workers."

Harry Goodstein, chairman of the Realtors, also spoke, and appointed a committee to assist him in raising its quota of $1,000,000. The committee consists of Edward Blum, Hyman Sonn, Nathan Wilson, Benjamin Winter, David W. Kempner, Benjamin Benson, Max Gordon, Barnett M. House and Nathan C. House.

The Curb Exchange Committee of the United Jewish Campaign was organized yesterday at the office of Carl H. Pforzheimer & Co., under the chairmanship of Mr. Emil Mosbacher and Mr. Herbert G. Einstein. Among those present were Messrs. Herbert Einstein, George C. Winchell, Herbert D. Oppenheimer, Edwin Posner, Emanuel Jackson and Carl H. Pforzheimer. Mr. Mosbacher contributed $1,000.

JEWISH COMMUNAL ACTIVITIES

Ground has been broken for the West Philadelphia Jewish Community Center. Three hundred children from Beth Tzedek Sunday School and West Philadelphia Hebrew School participated in the ceremonies.

The Jewish community of Beaumont and Port Arthur, Texas, undertook to raise $200,000 for the United Jewish Campaign and the United Palestine Appeal at a mass meeting at which $16,000 was raised. Dr. J. Kowitz of Dallas, Texas, delivered the appeal for European relief and Rabbi H. Raphael Gold of New Orleans delivered the appeal for Palestine.

two flanks of Mount Hebal and Mount Garizim, forming an amphitheatre.

This seems to correspond to the Biblical account of the location of Joshua's altar, since the people, seated in this amphitheatre, with the ark and altar at the base, would be "by Mount Garizim" and "by Mount Hebal."

Father Canneau found near the spot where he had theoretically placed the altar, seven great blocks of stone, disposed in a semi-circle, with a broad stone at the center. The central stone, the archaeologist said, was of such height that it might serve as an altar.

Examples of Semitic altars have already been found, but this is believed to be the first example of an authentic Israelitic altar.

ON JEWISH MATTERS

[The purpose of the Digest is informative: Preference is given to papers not generally accessible to our readers. Quotation does indicate approval.—Editor.]

Oscar Solomon Straus

The death of Oscar S. Straus, noted American statesman and Jewish leader, is lamented by the Jewish as well as non-Jewish press.

The Jewish papers take occasion especially to emphasize that throughout his life, replete with constant and varied activities as a diplomat, statesman, international peace arbitrator and author of numerous learned works, Oscar Straus never failed for a moment in his loyalty as a Jew. As the "Day" puts it: "Jewry gained a tremendous force in Oscar Straus, the American. America was enriched through the life and work of Straus, the immigrant. And who knows," the paper speculates, "how many Strauses America and the Jews in this country will now lose because of the quota laws?"

The "Jewish Morning Journal" points out that "with the exception of Judah P. Benjamin, Secretary of State in the South during the Civil War, who prior to that played a conspicuous role in the United States Senate, Oscar Straus was the most prominent Jewish statesman developed so far in America. The fruitful career of the statesman and diplomat which has just been concluded, can be regarded as a symbol of the growth of American Jewry."

In performing his duties as diplomat and statesman the "Jewish Daily News" writes, "Mr. Straus felt as all true Jews feel under similar circumstances, that his work was related to Jewish honor. He strove honestly to enhance through his own work the name and honor of the Jewish people, and in this he succeeded in no small degree."

The happy fusion of Jewish loyalty and American patriotism exemplified in the life and work of Mr. Straus is also stressed by a number of non-Jewish papers. Says the New York "Herald-Tribune":

"Mr. Straus was firmly attached to his faith and yielded to men of no other creed in belief in and warmth of devotion to American ideas and institutions."

"This immigrant paid more than lip-service to American institutions. He was a patriot in the real meaning of the word. He was an American asset," the "Evening World" remarks. While the "World" prefaces its editorial with the observation:

"Coming to this country a Jewish immigrant boy, Oscar Straus in his long career contributed public services notable even in a family distinguished for its public spirit."

The New York "Telegram" feels that with the passing of Oscar Straus ends "one of the busiest and most useful careers of the notable Americans of foreign birth."

Referring to the Straus family, the New York "American" declares:

ENTIRE NATION MOURNS OSCAR STRAUS: TRIBUTE PAID BY PRES. COOLIDGE

See Hoover. Cardinal Hayes, Bishop Manning and Elihu Root Eulogize American Jewish Statesman

Funeral services for Oscar S. Straus, philanthropist and diplomat and the first Jew in the United States cabinet, who died Monday at his home, 1010 Fifth Avenue, in his seventy-sixth year, will be held today at 10 A. M. in Temple Beth-El, Fifth Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street. They will be conducted by Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue. George Foster Peabody, who was a friend of Mr. Straus in boyhood, will speak at the service. Burial will be in the family vault in Beth-El Cemetery, Salem Fields, Queens.

The passing of Oscar Straus was mourned throughout the nation. Many messages of condolence were addressed to his family. Leaders in every walk of life paid tribute to his memory.

In his telegram to Mrs. Straus, President Coolidge said: "News of the death of your distinguished husband was a great shock. As Minister and later as Ambassador to Turkey, as Secretary of Commerce and Labor and as a member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague he rendered unselfish service. His contributions and devotion to the public welfare and to humanity will remain as an example to others. Please accept my sincere sympathy."

Tributes were paid to Mr. Straus by the following:

Loss to Nation, Says Hoover

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce.—"The death of Oscar Straus comes as a great shock to all his friends. They were legion. I am proud to have been one of them. He had the rarest gift of making friends and keeping their close affection, and all over the world they will mourn his passing. His was a long and fine career of public service, and in his death the public life of our nation has suffered irreparable loss."

Charles G. Dawes, Vice President.—

"Oscar, Isador and Nathan Straus, became exemplars of the finest traits of the American people—courage, honesty, tenacity, fighting ability, kindness, energy, love of family. The entire Straus family has been as notable for its domestic virtues as for its patriotism and for its benevolence."

"How much we owe," the paper concludes, "to the free spirits whom American opportunity a half century or more ago lured as exiles to our shores! How rich that old spirit of hospitality has made us and how foolish now to cast it aside!"

"It is hard to say," the New York "Times" observes at the end of a lengthy editorial commemorating Mr. Straus' many achievements, "whether Oscar Straus will be more mourned and longer remembered for his public services than for his unusual private virtues and personal qualities."

"The death of Mr. Straus removes from our national life a true American. The whole span of his seventy-five years was marked by qualities which we all like to feel are typically American, and America is better for Mr. Straus' having come here and lived here."

Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme Court—"I am very sorry to know that Mr. Straus is dead. He and I were for four years in President Roosevelt's Cabinet and then, when I became President, I sent him to be Ambassador to Turkey. He had been there before, as Minister, under Cleveland. He made a very excellent Ambassador and he made a very excellent head of the Department of Commerce and Labor. He and I were together and very active in the League to Enforce Peace, and we had a great many aims in common. He was always a valuable man in the community and I am sorry he is gone."

Frank B. Kelogg, Secretary of State.—"I have known Mr. Straus for many years, and his death is a great shock to me. As Ambassador of the United States, member of the Hague Tribunal and public spirited citizen his work has been characterized by a high devotion to duty and by a spirit of the highest patriotism. The country will sincerely mourn his loss."

Gov. Smith Grieved

Governor Smith.—"I was grieved to learn of the sudden death of Oscar S. Straus. Both the State and the nation lose a citizen whose life is an example to all Americans. Coming to America in childhood as a Jewish immigrant, Mr. Straus rose to eminence by a devotion to the ideals of his race and to the ideals of American citizenship. His diplomatic service is so well known that it needs no comment. He is perhaps best known for his social and philanthropic work. I extend my personal sympathy to the members of his family and his legion of friends."

Bishop William T. Manning.—"Oscar Straus' death is a loss to this city and to our country. His fine character and public services won him a high place in the esteem of his fellow countrymen. He will be gratefully remembered for his breadth of vision, his high ideals and devotion to the public welfare."

Cardinal Hayes.—"Our city and our nation may well lament the passing from our midst of Oscar S. Straus. His long and useful life will hallow his memory for many a decade as an ornament to his race, as an honor to American citizenship and as an inspiration to a fine conception of public service, all combined with an unfailing sympathetic understanding of his fellow man."

Elihu Root.—"I deeply regret Oscar Straus' death. I have known him for a great many years very well, and valued his friendship very much. He was a most public spirited citizen, very able and unselfish, a kind and noble character. He had a most useful life. His death is a great loss to the country."

Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey.—"It is greatly to be regretted that a career like Oscar

INDIANA FLOORINGS CHALLENGE HAKOAH TO A RETURN GAME

Half of Proceeds to Go to Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Other Half for United Jewish Campaign

The Indiana Floorings, who, with the New York Giants, defeated the Hakoah soccer team last Saturday, challenged the Hakoah to play a charity game on May 29. This challenge was made as a result of the claim made by the Hakoah that it could defeat either the Giants or Indiana teams individually.

The Indiana Floorings proposed that half of the proceeds of the challenge game go to the Sports Section of the Cathedral of St. John Building Fund and half to the United Jewish Campaign Relief Fund.

PLANS FOR STRENGTHENING JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY

Plans to raise funds for the continuation of the work of the Jewish Publication Society were discussed by Jewish leaders at a dinner given by Ludwig Vogelstein.

The Jewish Publication Society, it was declared, finds its work hampered by lack of funds.

It had a deficit in 1921 amounting to $120,000. President Simon Miller announced, and although all but $40,000 of this amount has since been paid, he said, funds must be raised if the society is to continue its work.

One suggestion adopted toward financial support was that of increasing the membership of the society. Several Rabbis present agreed to further this feature of a campaign for increasing the income by appealing for support to their congregations.

Straus' has ended and that the world be deprived of the benefit of his large experience and profound wisdom. Oscar Straus was ever ready to use his versatile talent for the benefit of all people and all good causes. He has been a beacon light to many or not and in the future surely will be an illustrious example of what a man of honest purpose and broad sympathies can accomplish in his life. Straus was a fine diplomat, a good administrator, a delightful and commanding orator, a successful mediator, and above all, the real man that creditably performed every task thrust upon him."

Mr. Lee K. Frankel.—"Oscar Straus will probably be best remembered in connection with his career as Ambassador to Turkey and as the Secretary of Commerce and Labor in the cabinet of President Roosevelt. In both of these positions he gave conspicuous service, as he did later in his efforts to settle industrial disputes. I personally feel that when a true appraisal of his activities is made, emphasis will be laid on his researches into religious liberty. His book on Roger Williams published in the 90's, was epoch making. His life was typical of his belief in religious and personal freedom. America meant to him the country where each person had the opportunity for self-expression. I always admired his fearlessness and courage in the expression of his personal opinion, and in particular, the soundness of his judgment."

Ludwig Vogelstein, chairman of the Executive Board of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.—"In the death of Oscar Straus American Jewry loses one of its most prominent and faithful sons, who in his long career of service to his country and his fellowmen has always brought honor to the Jewish name."

"Coming from a family which cherished high ideals, he devoted himself in addition to his extensive professional work, to the uplift of the standards of the Jewish people here and abroad. He was a loyal and faithful member of Temple Beth El, one of the synagogues belonging to the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and at all times rendered service to the Reform movement in America."

"Mr. Straus had the distinction of serving the United States under four Presidents, and won particular fame as Ambassador to Turkey and as Secretary of Labor. In all his positions he showed himself a loyal and faithful son of Israel. Yet he never hesitated to demand full protection for Christian mission-establishments as well as for the institutions of his co-religionists."

"The Jews of America, and particularly the liberal element which he espoused, have suffered a great loss through the death of Mr. Oscar Straus. His great personality, his prestige, his wise counsel and his unselfish devotion and willingness to serve will be missed even more by us than by his fellow citizens of different faith. The memory of his life must inevitably be a blessing to mankind."

Tributes also were paid by organizations in which Mr. Straus was interested. Among them were the Young Men's Hebrew Association, of which Mr. Straus was a founder; the United Jewish Campaign Committee and the National Civic Federation. John F. Gilchrist, Chairman of the Transit Commission, sent a message to Mrs. Straus conveying the sympathy of the Commissioners, and praising Mr. Straus's interest in municipal matters. Tribute was also paid the late American Jewish statesman by Curtis F. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House, James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War, Chauncey M. Depew, George B. Cortelyou, fellow member with Mr. Straus in the Roosevelt Cabinet, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, Mayor James J. Walker, Adolph Lewisohn and Samuel Untermyer.

Mr. Straus's work in behalf of international cooperation was extolled in a resolution adopted by the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association.

on the streets from hunger in Bessarabia. Many others are found dead in their homes in Poland. A horrible scourge of typhus is sweeping over the Jews, in both lands, adding to the toll of death."

"In thousands of homes, men, women and children are sick to the point of utter exhaustion from hunger. There is another gruesome picture that is given in the cables received by me and by the Joint Distribution Committee in the last few days that unless substantial help comes quickly—the Jewish orphan asylums will be compelled to close because their resources have been exhausted to the last penny. Thousands of children will be turned out into the streets to roam about aimlessly, hopelessly, blindly. Many children already on the streets eat what they can find in garbage cans or what they can pilfer from a shop or a stand. They sleep in alleys, in cellars. They are ragged. They are tattered and their morals are being destroyed."

"My European correspondents inform me that hundreds are killing themselves, are hastening death because their sufferings have made them impatient of its arrival."—David A. Brown.

"We Gentiles, when we are face to face with a perplexing question often ask ourselves, 'What would Jesus do in such a case?' No Christian heart can be in doubt as to the action Christ would have taken in this stupendous catastrophe which has befallen the descendants of his own brethren in race and faith among whom he walked and worked and for whose benefit he felt having been called by the Lord. Let, then, all noble-minded Gentiles, from the bottom of their Christian hearts, give the demerit to the pessimistic prognostication of one of the speakers at the New York Drive Rally on May 2nd last:

"If we do not help these people, these men, women and children of our faith, race and kin, then nobody will aid them. Either we help them or they perish—miserably, hopelessly, in unnumbered thousands!"

"During the World War we came to the help of the Allies; let us repeat now our Argonne stunt by helping mitigate the terrible consequences of the aftermath of that war. Let us help our Jewish fellow-citizens to 'go over the top'; let us, the 100,000,000 Gentiles, match their $15,000,000.

"Checks to be made out to the order of the Joint Distribution Committee and to be forwarded to the Treasurer of the Amos Council Appeal Committee, Dr. A. W. Anthony, Chairman of the Committee on Good Will Between Jews and Christians of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, 105 East 22nd Street, New York City."

Isidor Singer, former managing editor of the Jewish Encyclopedia, was the founder of the Amos Society.

A bequest of $23,000 to the Eazelville Sanatorium for Consumptives, a Jewish institution in Philadelphia for the establishment of a memorial, is provided for in the will of Mrs. Caroline Hirsch Sidenbach, of Philadelphia, who left a $100,000 estate. Mrs. Sidenbach also gave $5,000 to the Federation of Jewish Charities and $1,000 to the Congregation Rodeph Shalom. The Hebrew Sunday School Association was bequeathed $200.
