JEWISH DEPUTIES IN POLISH SEJM DISSATISFIED WITH PILSUDSKI GOVERNMENT

Refrain from Voting for Budget; Vice-Premier Makes Contribution to Jewish Sanitarium

(Tewish Telegraphic Agency) Warsaw, Dec. 15.—The negative attitude of the Club of Jewish Deputies toward the Pilsudski government was expressed by Deputy Frostig in a statement he read on behalf of the Club during the discussion of the preliminary budget for 1927. In explaining the reason for this attitude, Deputy Frostig stated that the Club of Jewish Deputies is dissatisfied with the Pilsudski government in view of the facts that the demands of the Jewish population concerning the necessary measures of relief from the burden of taxation were not fulfilled, the agitation raised by the anti-Semitic students concerning the submission of Jewish corpses for dissection in the clinics of the Medical College has not been curbed, the expected relief from the compulsory Sunday rest law was not forthcoming and no steps were taken to increase the facilities of the declassed Jewish population to find employment.

The measure will now he referred to the Committee of Conferces, representing the Senate and the House, and will not have to be referred first to the House itself, which would have probably greatly delayed action.

The Reed Bill, which was passed along with Wadsworth's amendment, admits as non-quota immigrants women who lost their American citizenship by marrying aliens prior to the Cable Act. If the House Conferees accept the amendment they will make their report to the House and, barring unexpected events, an early vote will probably be taken by the House.

Whether the House Conferees will accept the amendment is a question. The Senate's favorable action does not assure acceptance by the House which is necessary before the amendment can become a law. The House Conferees will probably be Congressmen Johnson, Taylor of Tennessee, White of Kansas, Sabath of Chicago, and Raken of Caliornia. All except Congressman Sa-bath are not particularly friendly to a liberal immigration. Of the Senate Conferees, Senators Hiram Johnson, Keyes of New Hampshire, Willis of

HOUSE OF LORDS PASSES PALESTINE LOAN BILL ON THIRD READING

Samuel Addresses Commons Parliamentary Committee on Conditions in Palestine (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

London, Dec. 14.—The bill authoriz-ing the British Exchequer to endorse the Palestine Government loan was passed in the House of Lords yesterday at the first reading of the bill.

It was learned today that the British treasury has agreed to give the Palestine Government the surplus of the supplies left in Palestine by the liquidated British gendarmerie. This will make good the expenditure of the Palestine Government of £16,500 incurred while liquidating the British gendarmerie in Palestine.

London, Dec. 15.-The Palestine Loan Bill was passed in the House of Lords on its third reading. During the second reading, the Earl of Clarendon yed the adoption of the resolution.

Earl said that he is confident the House of Lords will not dispute the desirability to utilize Great Britain's credit for the development of the resources of the Empire. "It is our duty to help the mandated territories just like the colonial dependencies. We cannot place them in a worse position because of the fact that they are not strictly a part of the Empire. The British taxpayer is not involved in this loan because the loan is amply covered by the revenues of the country. The Palestine loan will create a substantial volume of trade for Great Britain.

Lord Arnold, who took part in the debate, stated that the Labor party favors the Ioan and warmly approves of the Zionist movement. He rejoicent the great progress of Palestine, which is a gratification to Lord Balfour, whose part in this development is a matter of Philadelphia, Dec. 15.—Congressman Isaac Bacharach of Atlantic City is being urged for the Republican nomination for Governor of New Jersey, it is learned here. William H. northern Republicans to the Govern-ship and failed," said Reeves. "Now we should try the southern section, where there is no better candidate than Congressman Bacharach.'

Louis Marshall's Role in Cementing American Jewry

The conviction that the arrival of a spirit of better understanding and unity between the diverse elements in American Jewry is due in large meas-ure to the activities of Louis Marshall is expressed by "The Reform Advo-cate" of Chicago. Writing on the occasion of the attainment by Mr. Mar-shall of his seventieth birthday, the paper observes:

"Child of a German Jewish home, Louis Marshall, by his work in the cause of Jewry, has carried over the traditions of one group into the life of another and has in many ways brought the divergent elements of Jewish life into common action. Some of these days American Jewry will be a unit. It will have the experience that Russian Jewry had in Russia that was not originally a unit. There were Portu-guese Jews, Italian Jews, German Jews and other Jews besides the Polish Jews in Russia. But as the years went by Russian Jewry developed with its schools and its community and its united striving-perhaps also strife. There never was a Jewry that was not, if we might coin the phrase, influxy. Italian Jewry had an Ashkenazi group of families. Dutch Jewry had Germans and Portuguese, but in the end they worked together. That will have to happen in American Jewish life sooner or later. But when it happens the work of Louis Marshall will not be forgotton. Respected and appreciated by the group out of which he came, and admired for his great ability by the other group that came later into American Jewish life, he is in his work a cementing influence in American Jewry."

A parallel between the careers of Louis D. Brandeis and Louis Marshall is drawn by the "Chicago Chronicle" the occawhich writes editorially on the occa-sion of the attainment of their seven-

"The year 1856 saw the birth of two great American Jews, Louis D. Mar-shall and Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court. The careers of these two great men bear a curious resemblance. Though born in opposite ends of the country, one in the opposite ends of the country, one in the north and the other in the south, both sought and gained fame in the legal profession. Their contributions to the growth of American jurisprudence is both copious and profound," the 'Chronicle" says.

Marshall constitutes a perfect synthesis of American and Jew, in the best sense of the two terms, declares Wm. Z. Spiegelman in the "New York Letter" released this week to the American Jewish press by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

"If there is any significance in the trinere is any significance in the term 'American Jew' it applies in the full meaning of the two words to Louis Marshall," we are told. "His American Jew' is any significance in the full meaning of the two words to Louis Marshall," we are told. "His American Jew' is any significance in the full meaning to canism is as much of an ideal as is his

Friday to obtain consideration of the amendment had failed because of the parliamentary situation. Congressman Perlman, author of the companion bill to Wadsworth's amendment in the House, announced following the Senate's decision that he will immediately make an effort to persuade the majority of the Republican Conferees to forward the acceptance of the amendment.

Just before the Wadsworth amendment came up in the Senate the House Immigration Committee granted a hearing for next Thursday to Congressman Sabath on his bill to admit a limited number, not to exceed one thousand five hundred for any one country, of parents over fifty-five and children between eighteen and twentyone of citizens, unmarried children un-der eighteen and the wives of declarants who have resided in America for at least three years. Congressman Sabath intends to bring to the hearing a number of important witnesses to speak for liberalizing the law. The Wadsworth amendment, however, will probably admit a larger number of wives and children of declarants than Sabath's measure. If Wadsworth's amendment is accepted by the Conferees, Sabath may abandon his bill.

Congressman Dickstein who previ-ously announced his intention to ask for a hearing on his bills, which would admit a larger number than Sabath's supported Sabath's request for a hearing on his bill in deference to the latter's seniority on the Committee and to facilitate some favorable action to liberalize the law.

Louis Marshall expressed his appreciation of the vote taken in the Senate on the Wadsworth amendment when interviewed by the representative of the "Jewish Daily Bulltin." Mr. Mar-shall stated: The adoption of the Wadsworth amendment, does not constitute a change in the immigration law, but represents an effort to hu-manize the effect of the immigration laws. It will make possible the unit-ing of husbands and wives and minor children and their parents, a measure which every human being will heartily welcome."

Jewishness. As an interpreter of the principles of the American constitution before the bar of justice, he has the recognition of the leading minds of the legal profession. As a champion of justice along the lines of constitutional development, he has demonstrated unusual abilities which have brought benefit to the state and the nation. As a Jew-there was not, in his long and fruitful career, a Jewish matter or question which came up for consideration or which was ripe for action that its fate and course did not depend on the scrutiny of the Marshall mind."

Many Organizations Represented in National Body In accordance with a resolution adopted at the last annual meeting of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America, Hias, calling upon Jewish national organizations to create an Advisory Council, steps have now been taken, after a number of meetings were held, to organize the Council. The following national organizations are represented on the Council through their delegates: Independent Order Free Sons of Israel, David H. M. Weynberg and H. J. Hyman; Jewish National Workers Alliance of America, Nathan Zvirin and P. Gingold; Jewish Writers Club, H. Rogoff and H. Lieberman; Independent Order B'nai B'rith, Louis Osterweis and Maurice Bloch; Independent Order B'rith Sholom, Moses N. Helfgott and H. H. Cohen; Independent Workmen's Cir-cle of America, Hyman Hurwitz and Morris H. Tubiash; Order B'rith Abraham, John Afeenkraut and Abraham Wohlegemuth; Order Sons of Zion, David Podolsky and Harry Grayer; PARTY GROUSSY and Harry Grayer; Progressive Order of the West, Sam-uel Epstein and Morris Shapiro; Uni-ted Hebrew Trades, M. Feinstone and M. Tigel, Union of Orthodox Lewish Congregations of America, Rabbi Herbert S. Goldstein and Morris Engelman, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, A. Beckerman and A. Miller; Cloth Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers International Union, Max Zuckerman and Jacob Roberts; Francy Leather Goods Workers' Union, Morris Goldberg and Isidore Lefkowitz. The officers of the Advisory Council are: David H. M. Weynberg, President; Nathan Zvirin, Vice-President; H. H. Cohen and Louis Osterweis, Secretaries. The organization of the Advisory Council is intended to bring about a democratization of Hias. The organizations that responded, while they have varying views and purposes, are united in the desire to be of service to the Tewish wanderer. The purpose of the Council is as follows: (1) To act in advisory capacity to Hias; (2) To examine all matters relating to Hias activities whether they be legislative, administrative or financial as well as all matters that have any connection with lewish mineral properties.

have any connection with Jewish migration and wanderers everywhere; (3) To recommend improvements in the administration and operations of Hias and in all affairs relating thereto. The Council will hold at least one meeting a month.

of the Daughters of Jacob, the largest home for the aged in the world, celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of its founding, at a banquet at the Hotel Astor Tuesday night. Samuel C. Lamport, who introduced the speakers of the evening, paid a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Bertha Dworsky, the founder of the Home. Assistant Corporation Council Arthur

J. Hilly, represented Mayor Walker and presented the congratulations of the Mayor to the gathering.
Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, contrasted

the present home, erected at a cost of $1,2500,000, and now containing over 500 inmates with that of the original home on Montgomery Street. He stated besides Joseph Barondess and himself there were no survivors of the first annual dinner of the Home, which took place in the Tammany Hall thirty years ago, and on which occasion the sum of $500 was raised whereas today the home is run on an annual budget of $300,000 entailing a running expense of $600 per day. To Philip and Max Weinstein, who subscribed $100,000, and who raised a large part of the building fund is due the credit for the present Home of today, declared Judge Rosalsky.

Mrs. Peter J. Schweitzer, the president of the Home, welcomed the guests in behalf of the Home.

Mrs. Esther Surut sketched the personalities of many of the earlier patrons of the Home and the part they played in the efforts for creating the first Hebrew home for the Aged in New York, declaring that this institution is a monument to the capacity of women for service to the Jewish com-munity. This Home was erected and its expense met hitherto solely by Jewish women.

"JEWISH DAILY FORWARD" OFFICE IS STORMED BY COMMUNIST STRIKERS Charitable Efforts of Jewish Women Developments Follow Swiftly on Ousting of Left Wing Leadership in Garment Workers' Union

Virtual settlement by artbitration of the combination strike and lockout affecting 20,000 garment workers, who have been engaged in a struggle for twenty-five weeks, was reached Tuesday night following a conference between representatives of the Interna-tional Ladies' Garment Workers' Un-ion and the American Association of Cloak and Suit Manufacturers, the organization of contractors. The conference was held on the invitation of the international at the office of Raymond V. Ingersoll, impartial chairman of the garment industry, 132 West Thirtieth Street, New York.

Heading the international delegation was Morris Sigman, president. William O. Beskind, president of the American Association, was leading spokesman for the contractors. Present also were Morris Hillquit, counsel for the union, and Harry Uviller, attorney for the contractors

After more than five hours of negotiation the following agreement was reached:

"The lockout of the American Association to be called off immediately. "All workers employed by members of the association under temporary individual contracts (concluded during the strike pending conclusion of a collective agreement) shall immediately be reinstated under the terms of such contracts

"All differences between the American Association and the union with reference to the terms of the pending collective agreement to be made between them shall be submitted to arbitration by Herbert Lehman, Professor Lindsey Rogers of Columbia and Judge Bernard L. Shientag within forty-eight hours. Their decision shall be rendered before December 20, 1926, and shall be final.'

It is expected that all the garment workers will be back in the shop by December 25.

Two thousand striking garment workers, apparently under the leader-ship of the Left Wing, the Communists, were prevented from storming the office of the "Jewish Daily Forward", at 173 East Broadway, New York, Tuesday afternoon by prompt action on the part of the police, who had been warned in advance that the strikers would make a demonstration against the newspaper, which has opposed the communistic tendencies of some of the strikers.

Justice M. Proskauer will be appointed Associate Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court by Governor Smith to one of the vacancies left by the retirement of Presiding Justice Clarke and Arsistant Justice William P. Burr, it was learned yesterday.

Of the 256 candidates admitted to the New York bar on Monday, 119 were Jewish.
