RABBIS APPEAL AGAINST MISSIONARY PLANS OF CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE IN BUDAPEST

Home and Synagogue Conditions Discussed at Cleveland Convention of Union of American Hebrew Congregations

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Cleveland, O., Jan. 19.—An appeal to Christian leaders to refrain from missionary activities among the Jewish people was formulated by the Executive Committee of the Central Conference of American Rabbis which met here in connection with the thirtieth biennial convention of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

The appeal was made on the occasion of the forthcoming Christian conference which is to be held in Budapest. Advice received stated that at this conference the question of the conversion of Jews to Christianity was to be taken up. The appeal was despatched by telegraph to Alfred William Anthony of New York, Chairman of the Joint Commission on Good Will Between Jews and Christians.

"We are advised that at the coming Christian conference in Budapest," the telegram read, "the question of the conversion of Jews will be considered and we most respectfully invite your attention to the covenant of our Joint Commission on Good Will, adopted in New York City on December 30, 1924 to the effect that 'because of our natural respect for the integrity of each other's religion and our desire that each faith shall enjoy the fullest opportunity for its development and enrichment, these committees have no proselytizing purpose.'"

The appeal urges the representatives of the Federal Council Committee on Good Will to "represent strongly that this American compact which opened a new chapter in the relations between Jews and Christians, be not weakened in spirit and vigor." It urges further that "your representatives on our Joint Commission of Good Will take such a position as will not jeopardize the continuance of our amicable relations."

The appeal was signed by Dr. David Philipson, Rabbi H. G. Encow, Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, Rabbi Louis Wolsey and Rabbi Abram Simon.

The question of the Perpetuation of Judaism in American Jewish families through the Reform synagogue continued to hold the attention of the delegates at the Tuesday afternoon session. Dr. Nathan Krass of Temple Emanu-El, New York, addressed the session on "Judaism and Youth." Mrs. Abram Simon, honorary president of the Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, spoke on "Judaism and the Home."

"Not a machine but great personalities will perpetuate Judaism," Dr. Krass declared in his address.

"We have transferred our faith from God to machinery. We like to trust to charts, card indexes, textbooks and even methods for testing the human soul by machinery; and we are coming to believe that machinery and money are going to perpetuate Judaism."

"What we need more, however, is a multiplication of personalities to come in contact with our young people. We

JUDGE HARTMAN REPORTS TO I. O. B. A. ON THE ROUMANIAN EXCESSES

Details of the anti-Jewish excesses in Roumania were presented to the National Executive Board of the Independent Order B'nai Abraham at the first sitting of the Board in 1927. Judge Gustave Hartman, Grand Master of the Order, cited a number of instances where Jewish attorneys appearing in the Roumanian courts are mistreated. Every Jewish litigant is called by the officials "Zhidon," a derogatory Roumanian expression directed against Jews. The Jewish attorneys are not treated better than those whom they defend, Judge Hartman stated.

He submitted a report to his Board on the participation of the Order in the protest of American Jewry and its representation on the delegation which appeared before Secretary of State Kellogg last week.

Max L. Hollander, Grand Secretary of the Order, reported a membership of 125,000 and stated that it is on the increase due to the recent changes introduced in the insurance department of the Order. The Executive Board voted to proclaim a week of mourning on the occasion of the death Achad Ha'am and the Yiddish poet, Yehoash.

HOUSE COMMITTEE DELAYS CONSIDERATION OF IMMI- GRATION AMENDMENT

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Washington, Jan. 19.—Hearings were resumed yesterday by the House Immigration Committee on the national origin plan of the Immigration Act. Instead of further consideration with a view to action upon the amendment of the immigration law, the Committee heard Dr. Hill of the Census Bureau, a member of the departmental committee which compiled the national origin plan quotas. Captain John B. Trevor also testified regarding these quotas.

Dr. Hill told how the quota figures were arrived at. Captain Trevor will resume his testimony this morning. It is not known how long the committee action will be delayed pending these further hearings.

President Coolidge has considered the report on the national origin method of determining immigration submitted by the Secretaries of State, Labor and Commerce and if it is necessary he will endeavor to carry out the provisions of the present law which set aside the quota systems, an Associated Press despatch from Washington states.

The President understands, however, that the difficulties raised by the national origin method, which the three Secretaries discussed in their report, will be entirely eliminated if legislation pending in Congress is enacted. But the law as it stands will be enforced, it is said at the White House, if Congress desires to make no change.

The report laid down the basis for determining what is the national origin of the present population of the United States. At the same time it declared that the figures as to national origin were very uncertain because of a lack of statistical and historical data, the despatch states.

The New Peace in American Jewry

The signing of the statement by Dr. Weizmann, on behalf of the Zionist Organization and Louis Marshall, on behalf of the American non-Zionists, on the establishment of the Jewish Agency, has finally brought about a united front of all classes of American Jewry for the reconstruction of Palestine.

The solution of the problem of rebuilding Palestine through well-financed scientific methods, declares the "Day" in Tuesday's issue, is nearer realization and the chances for success in the United Palestine Appeal are doubled as a result of the historic meeting in Mecca Temple on Monday, Jan. 17. The "Day" continues:

"This colossal, almost astounding change in the Zionist position today is due to the wise, far sighted statesmanship of Dr. Weizmann.

"It is impossible to read the exchange of letters between Dr. Weizmann and Louis Marshall without becoming permeated with a feeling of profound admiration for Dr. Weizmann's unsurpassable tact. The leader of the World Zionist Organization had a tremendously difficult task before him. He was confronted with the necessity of repairing, if not apologizing for, the action of the American Zionists against the J. D. C. group, centered around Marshall, while at the same time he had to spare the feelings of the Zionist leaders, who, regardless of the misstep they made, are, after all, the chief pillars on which American Zionism and the Palestine reconstruction work in general must rest. From this immensely difficult situation Dr. Weizmann succeeded in finding a way out. The Zionist leaders, though somewhat hurt perhaps, will remain loyal and the Marshall group certainly has every reason to be satisfied. Now, after months of wrangling, the atmosphere has been cleared of suspicion and bitterness and the Jewish Agency, the hope of two Zionist Congresses, is to become a living and vitalizing factor in the reconstruction of the Jewish national homeland.

"The happy change in the situation," the paper continues, "does not free the American Zionists of their difficult duties. The main burden of creating the funds for the Palestine work still rests on their shoulders. The new peace in American Jewry will have to be considerably older before it will be able to yield the full, ripe fruits for the Palestine movement. But the fact alone that a foundation for a united front has been laid, that an investigation for a common effort will be made and that at the head of the present work in New York stands such a well tried leader as Judge Rosalsky, who knows how to lead and command different armies, is a victory in itself which is bound to grow bigger with every step of progress.

"Dr. Weizmann's statesmanship has won a great deal already. Now is not the time to count the sacrifices. The future will show that they were justified and not too costly."

With the successful conclusion of the negotiations for the creation of the Jewish Agency, declares the "Jewish Morning Journal" editorially, the ground has been prepared for the entrance of all classes of Jewry into the Agency. "The average non-Zionist has accepted the view of Mr. Marshall," the paper says. "That view is: a historical experiment is being made to help the Jews establish themselves firmly in Palestine and it is the duty of every Jew to support or at least not to obstruct the work until it is made clear how far the enterprise can succeed. Now, the opponents of the Agency must adopt the same attitude. An experiment to attract the non-Zionists to the Palestine work is about to be made and success is, at any rate, not improbable and not impossible. The men who participated in the conferences, and their representatives, who will enter the Agency are not anti-Zionists; the real opponents stand at a distance. Some of the non-Zionists are friendly enough to justify the assumption that they will help the 50% of Zionists in the new Agency to have a majority, assuming that the Zionists will be united.

"The strongest argument in favor of the enlarged Agency," the paper continues, "is not the economic one, important as that is. Everyone who is familiar with the situation in Palestine knows that the Mandatory gives very little recognition to the present Agency, often acting in an unfriendly way and giving cause for serious complaints. A stronger Agency in which America will be well represented can have greater influence and better luck. This alone is sufficient to justify the wish

LORD BEARSTED DIES WITHIN 24 HOURS OF LADY BEARSTED

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

London, Jan. 18.—Viscount Bearsted, the former Marcus Samuel, founder of the Shell Transport and Trading Company, died here yesterday at the age of 73.

Lord Bearsted died within twenty-four hours of the death of his wife, Lady Bearsted, the former Fanny Elizabeth Benjamin, the only daughter of the late Benjamin Benjamin.

Lord Bearsted rendered valuable service to the cause of the Allies during the war through his oil business. Before he founded the company, he was engaged in a small business in Houndsditch, London, trading mainly in seashells.

It was during a visit to Japan that he became acquainted with the petroleum industry. He started in a small way as the shipper of oil from Russia to the Far East, and the business gradually developed into the huge organization of today. He was closely associated with the Japanese government in the development of trade. His firm was entrusted with the issue of the first Japanese £4,500,000 gold loan.

Lord Bearsted, who was made a Viscount on the King's birthday in June, 1925, introduced the transportation of petroleum in bulk through the Suez Canal, and is said to have done more than any other British subject to develop the oil fields of the East.

He was made a Baronet in 1903 on completing his term as Lord Mayor of London. In May, 1915, he received a vote of thanks from the Admiralty for "services of the utmost importance to the fighting forces at the present time."

His heir is his only son, Captain Walter Horace Samuel, 43 years old, who is chairman of the Shell Transport and Trading Company. He won the Military Cross as a Captain of Artillery in the World War. Another son, George, a Captain in the Royal Kent Regiment, was killed at the front in 1917. Lord Bearsted was a vice-president of the League of British Jews, Jews' College and the Hayes School for Jewish Boys.

JEWISH LEADERS IN PARIS START RELIEF CAMPAIGN FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

2,000 Free Meals Distributed Daily;
To Aid Returning Immigrants

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Paris, Jan. 18.—The economic crisis in France has affected a great part of the Jewish population in the French capital.

A joint meeting of French and Russian Jewish leaders was held in the consistory to consider means of relieving the situation. Rabbi Israel Levi presided.

Reports submitted to the conference disclosed that a great number of Jewish workmen in Paris are unemployed. It was decided at the meeting to launch a relief campaign for the purpose of maintaining soup kitchens and assisting some of the immigrants to return to their native countries. A committee of ten was elected to have charge of the campaign.

The central relief committee issued an appeal to the Jewish population of Paris. The appeal states that 2,000 free meals are distributed daily among the Jewish population and that this requires a daily expenditure of 4,000 francs. The Jewish population is urged to help raise the necessary funds.

JEWS SMALLEST NUMBER IN MARYLAND PRISONS

JEWISH REFORM COLLEGE STUDENTS IN CINCINNATI MOURN ACHAD HA'AM'S DEATH

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 17.—The student body of the Hebrew Union College, preparing to enter the Reform rabbinate, adopted a resolution on the death of Achad Ha'am, the late Hebrew philosopher and father of spiritual Zionism, who died recently in Tel Aviv.

The resolution read:

"We stand disconsolate at the parting of the ways to lament the death of the teacher of our generation, Achad Ha'am. Like gleaming torches his thoughts beamed through the beclouded issues of his day enlightening the confused and illuminating the paths of the perplexed. With a spirit too sharp for its clay scabbard he strove to lay the foundations of the culture which was to house the Jewish Soul and enthrone Hebraic ideals among the loyalties of all mankind.

"Urged by the divinity of his ideal he restored the light in the hearts of the distraught sons of his time, united the scattered and recalled those lost through doubt. He revived the dormant spirit of Jewish life in all the far-flung corners of the Diaspora. His transcendent intellect kindled the admiration even of those who follow other paths.

"As a faithful guardian he stood at his post three score years and ten. With the sword of spiritual truth he championed his cause against the hostility of assimilationist and nationalist and freed his people from the thrall of body and soul.

"And now we are his orphans but not bereft of inheritance. The children of his dreams and his visions are our lot. They have found sanctuary in the depths of our being. We the students of the Hebrew Union College are determined that his aspirations shall be woven into the texture of the better world for which we strive. May his memory consecrate our efforts with holiness and nobility."

Samuel Wohl is president of the student body.

RABBI'S APPEAL AGAINST MISSIONARY PLANS OF CHRISTIAN CONFERENCE

need teachers of power, passion, fervor and fascination in our religious schools. Send your strongest men, your greatest leaders, to the young; for youth wants example as well as precept," Dr. Krass declared.

"Judaism is essentially a great adventure in search of God and not a definition of God." Drawing a parallel between Judaism and Christianity, Rabbi Krass urged that missionaries be found not for the purpose of converting Christians to Judaism but to bring back the Jewish youth to Judaism.

"Judaism is not in conflict with science," he declared. "It has become a habit to blame the youth for all the troubles of a post war world." But, Youth says to its elders, "Who was responsible for the last war? And who fomented that worldwide catastrophe? If there is anything in the record of modern youth as immoral, as reprehensible, as unspeakable and as full of turpitude as that horror, I should like to see it!"

Rabbi Krass was applauded by hundreds in the audience, many of them young members of the Temple brotherhoods and sisterhoods.

Declaring that the present-day home "feels the tremor of quaking forces," Mrs. Simon mentioned radicalism, feminism, soul mates, trial marriages, infidelity, industrial equality, apartment houses, juvenile delinquency and the withdrawal of parents from educational control over their children as forces against which the Jewish home must fight.

Frau Paulo Ollendorf of Breslau, Germany, and Mrs. Gerson Levi of Chicago, vice-president of the Sisterhoods, addressed the session.

The general feeling prevailing among the delegates is that the Union of American Hebrew Congregations is facing a serious crisis. Many of the speakers referred to the unsatisfactory religious conditions prevailing in the home and in the synagogue, some admitting the beauty of the Orthodox tradition.

Mr. Meisner of St. Louis reported to the morning session on behalf of the Ways and Means Committee. A campaign for funds to meet the heavy deficit of the Union will be conducted during March, he announced.

A report was circulated in the convention hall that a resolution on Palestine would be presented by some of the delegates. It seems, however, that the initiators of this proposal have refrained from carrying it into effect.

Much talk is still going on among the delegates concerning the encounter between Rabbi William H. Fineshriber and Henry Morgenthau. The convention will hear reports of the committees on education and social justice at the Wednesday morning session.

DIGEST OF PUBLIC OPINION

that the organization of the Agency be carried through with all speed.

The "Jewish Daily News", analyzing the attitude of those who are not in favor of or are opposed to the Agency plan to include non-Zionists, lauds Weizmann's statesmanship in pushing his work ahead to a successful outcome despite all obstacles. The paper adds: "The entrance of such figures as Judge Rosalsky into the Zionist work is a great gain for Palestine. Judge Rosalsky and the others who have come in with him represent a good element in American Jewry. They represent on the one hand, the practical Jews and on the other hand the well-to-do element. Zionism can gain a great deal from such a partnership, provided this partnership is actually established and maintained. Even a greater gain will come to Palestine, not only through the money but also from the possible new direction that will be given to the colonization and other phases of the reconstruction work, a direction which will tend more toward the middle class point of view than to the radical which has prevailed hitherto in the Palestine activities. We greet heartily the peace which has been established in American Jewry and the termination of the controversy between the Zionists and the J.D.C. leaders."

Sidney Lansburgh was re-elected president of the Baltimore Associated Jewish Charities at the annual election.

Others elected were first vice-president, Emil Koehn; second vice-president, Walter Sondheim; treasurer, Jesse Benesch, and assistant treasurer, Adolph Ginsburg. Aaron Straus and Lester S. Levy were elected directors for four years and Morris A. Rome director for one year.
