FELIX WARBURG CONFERS WITH SOVIET LEADERS ON J. D. C. WORK IN RUSSIA

Will Call with James Becker on President Kalinin
(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Moscow, May 11.—Felix M. Warburg and James H. Becker of Chicago conferred with Maxim Litvinoff, Assistant Minister of Foreign Affairs, on the general conditions in Russia and particularly on the progress of the Jewish settlements created with the aid of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee.

Litvinoff declared during the conference that the Soviet Government is interested to see as many Jews as possible adopt productive work, because there are no prospects for the unproductive elements in the Soviet system. This condition will be intensified with the further development of state industry and trade. The Soviet government has shown that with the granting of political rights, it wants to give the Jews equal economic possibilities.

Mr. Warburg and Mr. Becker also conferred with Peter Smidovitch, vice-president of the Soviet Union, and A. Merejin. Following an inspection of the colonies, Mr. Warburg will be received by President Kalinin.

TWENTY ON TRIAL FOR DISTURBANCES CAUSED BY RITUAL MURDER AGITATION

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Warsaw, May 11.—Wide interest was evoked by the opening of the trial of twenty Poles and six Jews yesterday in the town of Rypin.

The defendants are charged with responsibility for the riots which occurred in Dobrzyn following a ritual murder agitation there. The disturbance was caused by the fact that a gypsy child was found dead and the tale was spread that Jews were responsible for the murder.

JACOB LANDAU, J. T. A. DIRECTOR, ARRESTED ON ARRIVAL IN ROUMANIA

Authorities Ignore Visa, Taking Vengeance for Publication of Reports Concerning Anti-Jewish Excesses; American Consul and Samuel C. Lamport Bring About His Release

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Berlin, May 11.—Jacob Landau, managing director of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, on his way back from Palestine was held at the Roumanian port, Constanza, by the Roumanian authorities and was refused permission to enter the country in revenge for the Jewish Telegraphic Agency having circulated throughout the world press the reports concerning the continuous anti-Jewish excesses in Roumania.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Landau had his passport properly vised by the Roumanian authorities, he was refused permission to land and was taken back to the steamer Marie, where he was held practically under arrest, guarded by two soldiers during the entire day and through the night. His Roumanian friends were prohibited from boarding the steamer and permission to send telegrams was also denied him. Mr. Landau finally received permission to despatch a telegram to General Averescu, Prime Minister of Roumania, protesting against his arrest.

In the meantime he was taken to the steamer Asia which was about to sail for Constantinople.

At the last moment before sailing, he was suddenly informed that he might proceed to Bucharest.

Mr. Landau's release was brought about by the efforts of Samuel C. Lamport, prominent New York merchant and communal worker, who was his fellow traveller on the steamer from Palestine. Mr. Lamport intervened with the United States Ambassador in Roumania, William C. Culbertson, and with the American Consul in Bucharest, E. Palmer. The latter urged the police authorities of Constanza to release Mr. Landau, stating that otherwise the embassy would make representations to the Roumanian government.

S. HERBERT GOLDEN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF UNITED SYNAGOGUE

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Atlantic City, N. J., May 11.—S. Herbert Golden of New York City was elected president of the United Synagogue of America to succeed Dr. Herman Abramowitz, at the closing session of its fifteenth annual convention here yesterday. The new president was vice president of the United Synagogue of America for one year and recording secretary for two years.

The report of the Nominations Committee was presented to Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. Dr. Abramowitz, was given an ovation that lasted several minutes.

All other officers of the United Synagogue are elected by the National Council. Mrs. Charles I. Hoffman was elected acting president of the Women's League until such a time as a successor is chosen.

Among the decisions reached by the convention were that "the week of Chanukah be known as United Synagogue Week, to be utilized for the purpose of bringing home the message of traditional Judaism to the Jews of America."

CHALLENGE OF AMERICAN LIFE MADE JEWISH EDUCATION COMMUNITY PROBLEM

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Des Moines, Ia., May 11.—The challenge of American life has been a potent factor in compelling community responsibility and a long range community program in Jewish education. Dr. Alexander M. Dushkin, director of the Board of Jewish Education of Chicago, declared here last night at a dinner given by the local Jewish community to the members of the National Conference of Jewish Social Service, in session at the Hotel Fort.

"One of the most encouraging signs of spiritual awakening in American Jewry," declared Dr. Dushkin, "has been the general recognition of one Jewish community after another that Jewish education is a community problem. So long as the teaching of the history, literature, ideas and practices of Judaism was considered an individual problem between parent and child, or between an individual congregation and its children, real educational progress was of necessity very slow."

The declaration at an earlier session of the conference by Raymond Clapp, director of the Cleveland Welfare Federation, that social harmony is impossible in a community unless the various denominations combined their fund raising in a community chest, brought forth a storm of objection from speakers who followed.

"Cannot people work together for the others' good without becoming financial partners?" Morris D. Waldman, secretary of the Jewish Welfare Federation of Detroit, asked. I. Irving Lipsitch, director of the Jewish Wel-

NEW YORK FEDERATION OF TEMPLE BROTHER-HOODS IS ORGANIZED

Plans for a Federation of Temple Brotherhoods in New York City were formulated at a dinner at the Hotel Astor, Tuesday night, attended by representatives of 22 Brotherhoods in New York, Brooklyn, and nearby New Jersey cities. The New York Federation of Temple Brotherhoods will co-operate with the New York Federation of Temple Sisterhoods and the recently organized Association of Reform Congregations.

Roger W. Straus, president of the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods, presided. Mr. Straus said that the Temple Brotherhoods aimed to make the young man a vital force in the spiritual life of the community, and to support by active participation in its work the efforts of the synagogue to bring Judaism to the Jew. Arthur L. Reinhart, executive secretary of the organization, told of the growth of the Brotherhoods and the increased interest in their work throughout the country. Mr. Reinhart has just completed a tour of southern and western States, where many new Temple Men's Clubs were organized.

DIGEST OF PUBLIC OPINION ON JEWISH MATTERS

[The purpose of the Digest is informative. Preference is given to papers not generally accessible to our readers. Quotation does not indicate approval.—Editor.]

"Times" Correspondent Depicts Background of Roumanian Anti-Semitism

A description of the conditions in Roumania today, wherein anti-Semitism and the anti-Jewish excesses in that country are depicted against a background of extreme chauvinism, political corruption and economic demoralization, is contained in the "New York Times Magazine" of May 8, in a correspondence from Bucharest by Anne O'Hare McCormick. Roumanian nationalism, or "Romanity", as Miss McCormick terms it, has reached such exaggerated proportions, she tells us, that some Roumanians hold the Queen's foreign birth against her, despite Marie's zealous efforts as a propagandist for the country which she rules. Further we read:

"The Calea (the main street of Bucharest) is subject to attacks of flag-waving as complacent as those of the Ku Klux Klan. It takes all kinds of familiar forms, from annoying foreigners and imprisoning them in red tape to baiting Jews and closing foreign missions.

"Anti-Semitism is one of the ugliest symptoms of the nationalistic fever. There are more than 1,000,000 Jews among the 17,000,000 inhabitants of Greater Roumania, a large proportion transferred from Hungary and Russia in the annexation of Transylvania and Bessarabia. In the one area they are supposed to be agitating with the rebellious Magyars and in the other with the agents of the Bolsheviks. When one asks what is the charge against them, one hears with tiresome reiteration: 'They are not good Roumanians.' They are accused of international solidarity, and on the Russian border all internationalism is suspect. Fundamentally, the obscure resentment that occasionally flares out in the 'incidents' reported in America is the jealousy of the majority against a minority that by sheer industry, business acumen and intelligence acquires a power disproportionate to its numbers."

Says Religious Growth of American Jews Compares Well with Other Faiths

Despite the pessimistic note sometimes sounded in the Jewish press and pulpit, the Jewish religious growth in this country when compared with the religious growth of other denominations, is highly encouraging, according to the "Jewish Ledger" of New Orleans, (May 6).

"Statistics recently published," the paper writes, "show that in 1926 church membership in the United States was increased by 489,556 names. The total number of communicants in the country is given as 47,550,902, of whom 16,808,171 are Roman Catholics, 9,968, 288 Methodists, 8,670,895 Baptists, 2,610,716 Presbyterians and 2,538,279 Lutherans.

"To appreciate fully the comparative value of these figures, it should be borne in mind that, unlike our Christian friends, we discourage contemplating converts to Judaism. Yet our strength, measured, not by synagogue attendance, but by the consistent addition of institutions and their steadily increasing activities, is growing in large proportions. Judged by synagogue attendance, this growth may not be apparent. But synagogue attendance cannot be taken as an absolute criterion of strength in a religious growth and vitality in a faith like Judaism, which has hardly any dogmas, which has few purely theological doctrines and is essentially a religion of life and conduct. The real criterion of growth and vitality in Judaism is, therefore, to be found in the institutions that are established and maintained, in the number and kind of institutions and in their activities.

"And this standard of measurement does indeed reveal a strong and healthy condition. While our pulpit shows comparatively little strength and our pews exhibit a lamentable amount of indifference, while our pulpit has in many instances degenerated into a platform for the discussion of the latest spicy novel or of ephemeral literature of dubious worth and character and our pews have become habituated to seek merely amusement and entertainment, yet a constantly increasing number of religious schools are being established throughout the land, religious centers and clubs and associations are everywhere being formed, and institutions for higher learning are multiplying. Up to a few years ago, there were in the whole United States only two rabbinical colleges, one Jewish teachers' college and one school for advanced Jewish learning. Today we have half-a-dozen rabbinical seminaries, located in Cincinnati, New York, Chicago, Boston and Baltimore, and as many teachers' colleges, in addition to schools and courses for advanced Jewish studies. Our other religious organizations, too, are a product of only the past few years. Our Synagogue Centers, our Temple Sisterhoods and Brotherhoods, our Men's Clubs and Women's Clubs and Young People's organizations, the United Synagogue Associations and auxiliaries of men and women, the University Chautauqua, courses, the College Menorah Societies, the Judean Circles, and the Hillel Foundation—all these are of recent date, and they show conclusively the vitality and virility of our religious growth in this country."

The message read: "Please convey my warmest thanks to the loyal New York workers and generous contributors of the United Palestine Appeal. The General Council of the World Zionist Organization, now meeting in London is grappling with serious problems, but with confidence in the complete success of the Jewish National Home unshaken. American Jewry with New York in the lead, continues our mainstay in all new projects."

fare Federation of Los Angeles, complained that the chest was more financial than spiritual in practice, and predicted that Jewish communities would have to be given assurance that the general group will not check expansion of Jewish social work.

Dr. I. M. Rubinow of Philadelphia, expressed the opinion that separate Jewish federations stimulate the general community to raise its standards.

Samuel A. Goldsmith, director of the Bureau of Jewish Social Research of New York and secretary of the Conference, presented a paper at the Wednesday morning session, on child care. Speaking of recent child care surveys made by the Bureau stressed the value of critical appraisal of this work both from the inside and by outsiders in order to insure the very best type of care for the particular children. He also made the point that should such surveys determine that such organizations have outlived their usefulness or that they should be converted to more modern or more effective means of caring for children, then the community should organize itself on that basis. Regardless of the need for disbanding or revising there always lurks the need for but one children's society with ramifications that would care for all the children that need communal care.

JEWISH COMMUNAL ACTIVITIES

The United Palestine Appeal in Jersey City will be opened Sunday night with a banquet in the Bergen Hebrew Institute. The quota has been set at $30,000.

The principal speakers will be Maurice Samuel and Mrs. Archibald Silvermann, of Providence, R. I.

Harry Goldowsky is honorary chairman and A. J. Goldstein, active chairman of the campaign.

The laying of the cornerstone of the synagogue of the Congregation Hagro Anshei Vilna, Chicago, took place last Sunday.

The synagogue, when completed, will represent an expenditure of $150,000. It will provide accommodations for a community center and a Hebrew School. The congregation was organized thirty-three years ago with a membership of ten. It now numbers several hundred.

Addresses were made by Mayor William Hale Thompson, State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, Rabbi Haim Epstein, Rabbi Baruch Rabinowitz, Hyman Berkson, J. Berkson, Dr. George K. Rosenzweig, Max Shulman, Meyer Abrams, Judge Samuel Heller and Samuel Ginsburg. Hyman Berkson is president of the congregation.

Dr. Henry Spitzer, a gynecologist attached to the staff of Polytechnic Hospital, died Sunday night.

Born in Hungary in 1862, he came to America three years later. He obtained his A. B. degree at City College at the age of nineteen, and was graduated in medicine from New York University. He served in the Spanish-American War, was a member of the New York County and Harlem Medical Societies, and belonged to the Progressive Club and the Manhattan Chess Club.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CHILDREN MAY BE DISMISSED TO GET RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

Court of Appeals Rules Against Free
Thinkers' Contention

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Albany, N. Y., May 11.—School children in New York State may be dismissed early one day each week to receive religious instruction outside public school buildings.

The Free Thinkers' Society yesterday lost its two-year fight against this practice when the Court of Appeals upheld the decision of the lower courts that it is within the power of the State Commissioner of Education to sanction it.

With minor variations, this arrangement has spread to some 130 cities and villages throughout the State, and sponsors of week-day religious education in both Catholic and Protestant churches have made it known that they were only awaiting a favorable decision from the Court of Appeals before seeking to establish the custom in New York.

The opinion, written by Judge Pound, dismisses the contention of the Free Thinkers that the White Plains plan, selected for the test, in reality violates the constitutional prohibition against denominational religious instruction in public schools. It dismisses also the view that the plan contravenes the provision of the Education Law requiring regular, full attendance of school children.

"The City of White Plains does not use public money to aid the church schools, although the cooperation between the public schools and the church schools requires a slight use of the time of the school teacher in registering and checking up excuses," the opinion reads.

"A child otherwise in attendance may be excused for a portion of the entire time during which the schools are in session to the extent at least of half an hour in each week to take outside instruction in music or dancing without violating the provisions of the Compulsory Education Law, either in letter or in spirit. Practical instructions of the public schools call for some elasticity in this regard and vests some discretion in the school authorities. Neither the Constitution nor the law discriminates against religion. Denominational religion is merely put in its proper place outside of public aid or support. As a matter of educational policy, the Commissioner, doubtless, may make proper regulations to restrict the local authorities when the administration of the plan of week day instruction in religion or any plan of outside instruction in lay subjects in his judgment interferes unduly with the regular work of the school.

"The separation of the public school system from religious denominational instruction is thus complete. Jealous secretaries may view with alarm the introduction in the schools of religious teaching which to the unobservant eye is but feebly tinted with denominationalism. Eternal vigilance is the price of constitutional rights, but it is impossible to say, as matter of law, that

An intensive campaign for Jewish education among adults is to be launched as soon as proper plans are formulated.

To make possible an intensive membership enrollment the entire country is to be divided into districts, concentrating first on New England.

The convention was considered by its leaders the most animated in the history of the organization. A change in the by-laws to provide biennial instead of annual conventions was postponed for another year. The change was recommended by N. I. S. Goldman of Philadelphia, chairman of the Committee on Constitution. Dr. Cyrus Adler spoke in favor of the change. Rabbi Samuel Friedman of Philadelphia opposed it. After a lengthy discussion, Rabbi Charles L. Hoffman of Newark recommended postponement for another year. This recommendation was adopted.

A resolution adopted provided that an understanding be reached between the United Synagogue of America and the Hillel Foundation, whereby adequate provision be made for religious services for the conservative element of the Jewish student body.

the slightest infringement of constitutional right or abuse of statutory requirement has been shown in this case."

The Court of Appeals had had the case under consideration one week. Chief Judge Cardozo gave warning that the Court might decide that the case was not legally before it. Attorneys for the Free Thinkers admitted that they had not obtained permission from the Appellate Division, which ruled unanimously against them, but argued that, as a constitutional question was at stake, they had the right to a hearing before the highest court. Their view was accepted by the Court, which made its decision upon the merits of the case.

The White Plains case disposed of, there still remains an injunction against the Mount Vernon Board of Education, issued by Supreme Court Justice Seeger in 1925 at the behest of the Free Thinkers. The plan there was generally similar to that in White Plains, but there were differences, which Joseph Lewis indicated might offer the opportunity for an other line of attack by the Free Thinkers. It was only a possibility, he said, which could not be weighed until his attorneys had considered carefully the Court of Appeals decision.
