GOVERNMENT CANNOT TAKE DRASTIC MEASURES TO STOP ANTI-SEMITIC STUDENT RIOTS

Stormy Session in Hungarian Parliament When Count Klebelsberg Makes This Statement; Opposition Charges Riots are Instigated by Authorities

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Budapest, Nov. 25.—The Hungarian government is in no position to take drastic measures against the students who are perpetrating the anti-Semitic riots but instead will attempt to pacify them by means of persuasion. Should these efforts fail, other measures will be taken.

This statement was made in parliament yesterday by Count Klebelsberg, Minister of Education, when the student riots were the subject of a heated debate.

Deputies Legemenyikis, Pakots and Bela Fabian introduced an interpellation charging the government with deliberate weakness in order to create abroad the impression that the modification of the numerus clausus is premature due to the state of mind in the country. Count Klebelsberg declined to offer a reply to this interpellation.

In the lobby the Minister of Education told newspapermen that it was extremely improbable that the numerus clausus bill will pass parliament before the March session of the Council of the League of Nations, although, as it was proven by statistics, the proposed amendment of the numerus clausus bill would increase the number of Jewish students by merely one half of one per cent.

While the debate was going on in parliament, leaders of the Democratic deputies conferred with Deputy Julius Goemboes who undertook the obligation of seeing to it that no further riots take place today or at least as long as parliament debates the question. No new riots occurred today.

The memorandum submitted by the Students Organization declares that the students feel compelled to stay away until the government and not Deputy Goemboes will guarantee their safety and peace.

Budapest, Nov. 25.—The charge that the Hungarian authorities instigated the anti-Semitic student riots was made today by Charles Rassa, Liberal member of parliament, writing in the Hungarian newspaper, "Pesti Naplo."

Their purpose was to show Geneva that public opinion in Hungary is against changing the numerus clausus, Rassa writes.

STEINBERG'S DRAMA RECORDS SUCCESS ON GERMAN STAGE

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Berlin, Nov. 25.—A drama of life in Russia during the Bolshevik revolution from the pen of a Jewish author is holding the attention of German theatregoers in various parts of the country.

The drama, "Der Dornenweg," scenes of the Russian revolution, by M. Lewadim was awarded a prize by the Goethe Bund and was produced first in Bremen, then in Hamburg and Berlin. Following the opening at Bremen, the Goethe Bund and the Bremer Schauspielhaus gave a banquet in honor of the author.

M. Lewadim is the nom de plume of Dr. J. N. Steinberg, well known Russian Jewish publicist, a nephew of the late Jewish critic, Baal Machshoveth (Dr. Eliaschew). Dr. Steinberg took a leading part in the Russian Revolutionary Party. After the Russian revolution he held the position of Minister of Justice.

In Berlin, where he now lives, he edits a journal "Freie Blaetter," devoted to a discussion of Jewish socialist problems.

The play is highly praised by the German Press.

RABBI NEWMAN CRITICIZES "SOFT PEDALING" POLICY ON FILMS OF ANTI-JEWISH BIAS

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Portland, Oregon, Nov. 25.—"We are about to have a showdown on 'The King of Kings.' It is high time," declares Rabbi Louis I. Newman of Temple Emanu-El, San Francisco, writing in "The Scribe," English Jewish weekly published here.

Dr. Newman, who has from the first showing of the picture taken a strong stand on the matter, severely criticizes the anti-Defamation Committee of the Independent Order B'nai B'rith on the Pacific coast for what he termed "soft peddling" the matter.

"In the meantime" Rabbi Newman continues, "the picture is being shown in the provinces, theatre owners, many of them Jews, having made contracts early last September and before. They profess not to have known of any Jewish opposition to the picture, and say that the harm was done in not acquainting the Jewish world and the general public concerning the situation while the picture was being filmed, and after it was first produced before they made commitments.

"There is no doubt that much of the responsibility must be laid at the door of those who knew at first hand of the matter and did not take the necessary steps to prevent the situation which has arisen. How dangerous the matter is can be seen from the words of Hollander, German Jewish communal leader, who says that the exhibition of De Mille's moving picture will be fatal for the safety of the Jewish population in Central and Eastern Europe.

"The B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation Committee on the Pacific Coast cannot be too severely criticized for their failure to take appropriate action. The Convention at Long Beach last summer allowed itself to be misguided, largely because of what seemed to be a controversy of personalities. But the issue is larger than any two or twenty Jewish leaders. The honor and safety of the Jewish people is at stake.

"The action of the two Schildkratts, Rudolph and Joseph, in portraying Caliph and Judas as against a blond Nordic Jesus, is beneath contempt. Hollander of Germany calls their action 'shameful'; it is nothing less. It is on a par with the acts of apostates who in every age have betrayed Judaism and the Jewish cause. No amount of extenuating circumstances will be able to mitigate their action. As long as moving pictures are shown, and unless this film is destroyed, their portrayals will be imbedded in the minds of all the world to see. As long as this film is shown in the churches, our adversaries will gladden over the fact that their 'Jesus' was not a real Jew, but that his murderers were Jews to the hilt.

"The B'nai B'rith apparently have

DE MILLE REPRESENTATIVE TO PRESENT RECOMMENDED CHANGES FOR 'KING OF KINGS'

John Flinn, Eastern representative of Cecil De Mille, the motion picture producer, left on Sunday for Hollywood, the "Jewish Daily Bulletin" learns, to bring to the attention of Mr. De Mille the objections to the film "King of Kings" raised in Jewish circles.

Mr. Flinn is the representative of Mr. De Mille on a committee of five which was formed as a result of a conference in the office of Will Hays, with Alfred M. Cohen, president of the Independent Order B'nai B'rith and Dr. Boris D. Bogen. The Bulletin learns that besides the representative of Will Hays, Alfred M. Cohen, Mr. Flinn, Dr. Boris Bogen, and a rabbi comprise the committee which has formulated a request for revisions in the "King of Kings." It is this report which Mr. Flinn is taking to Mr. De Mille for his consideration. The changes are intended to meet the objections voiced in Jewish circles that the showing of the "King of Kings" film in Eastern Europe would provoke violent outbreaks.

Mr. Flinn's trip has also to do with representations made against projected films on Jewish subjects, now in the making in the De Mille studios.

sought to follow a "hash-hash" policy. But by keeping silent they have played into the hands of De Mille and his publicity agents who have advertised the fact far and wide that Jews have endorsed the picture. On this basis even Jewish theatre owners have been misled into accepting the film. Instead of speaking forthrightly at Long Beach, or better still, instead of taking action when it was known the film was being produced, instead of making a demonstration of Jewish public opinion—perhaps the only thing to which De Mille would give ear—the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation leaders have sounded the soft-pedal, and have sought to crush any one who dared oppose this policy," Rabbi Newman concludes.

Charles H. Joseph in his "Random Thoughts" writes: "We mustn't expect too much of our Jewish movie producers. Like the old-time vaudeville Jew, they don't hesitate to make capital at the expense of their own people. In Germany, the protest is being loudly voiced against this commercial anti-Semitism and specific charges are brought against certain American films that have been made by Jewish capital and under Jewish direction. I have never expected very much from the gentlemen who control our movie business, but then it isn't very much to ask of them that they find some other source of revenue than by exploiting their own people."

Jewish Community of Portland, Oreg., Records Versatile Activities

(By our Portland Correspondent)

Portland, O., Nov. 20.—There is not a single Jew in the Oregon State Penitentiary. There are no Jewish girls in the State Industrial School. There is only one Jewish boy in the Industrial School. Cases of juvenile delinquency are very rare among the Jewish boys and girls in the city of Portland. We have no record of any Jewish pauper in any of the state institutions.

Plans are now being formed for the erection of a large Jewish community center to supplant the present B'nai Brith Center here. Joseph Shemanski is representing the B'nai Brith Center, George N. Black has been chosen by the B'nai Brith Lodge, and Mrs. Nathan Weinstein is chairman of the committee representing the B'nai Brith Women's Auxiliary on the B'nai Brith Center project. It is planned to erect a $250,000 structure.

Julius L. Meier, of Meier and Frank Co., one of the largest department stores in the West, who was the financial backer of the airplane "City of Portland," piloted by Tex Rankin in the air derby from New York to Spokane, Washington, has been chosen head of the aviation division of the Portland Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of developing air transportation.

Joseph Simon, the second of the three Jews elected to the United States Senate, although seventy-six years of age, is still active and practicing law in this city. He was elected to the senate during McKinley's administration. He was also mayor of Portland from 1909-1911.

Ben Selling continues to be the leading Jew in Oregon. He is seventy-four years of age but is still active in business, civic, and philanthropic affairs. He is reputed to give more in proportion to his means than any man in the United States. He was a member of the Oregon State Senate for eight years, during which time he was president of the Senate. He was a member of the State House of Representatives for two years and was also speaker of the House. He has been acting governor of the State of Oregon. He sold "extras" during the Civil War and during the World War he bought $400,000 Liberty Bonds, which he resold to workers so that everyone could have one. For $1.00 down and $1.00 a week—the only man in the United States to do this—Mr. Selling maintains a huge loan fund for students in colleges and contemplates the formation of the largest loan fund in the United States for college students to borrow money and complete

JEWISH SOCIALIST VERBAND HOLDS ANNUAL CONVENTION

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Newark, Nov. 25.—The fifth annual convention of the Jewish Socialist Federation was opened here yesterday at the Labor Lyceum, which was recently opened. B. C. Vladeck, manager of the "Jewish Daily Forward," was the principal speaker at the first session.

A Litvack in his report to the convention described the difficulties under which the Federation has to carry on its work. The organization is continually between two fires, he stated, and must fight on two fronts—on one hand Communism, a marsh over which misleading lights lure, and on the other hand a large mass of the indifferent and disappointed who do not wish to know of Communism or of Socialism. The worst in this camp are not those who have become sober, but those who have never been intoxicated with an ideal. It was due to the cynics' influence that the pupils of Moscow were in a position to temporarily mislead the masses and to disorganize the unions, Mr. Litvack declared.

The relationship of the Federated Jewish Societies to the Portland Community Chest is different in Portland from that of any other city in the United States, where the Jewish organizations are under the Chest control. The Chest officials permit the Federated Jewish Societies to make the allocations to their constituent societies. In other cities, the allocations are made directly by the Chest officials. This freedom of action is due to the great confidence which the Chest officials have in Ben Selling and Nathan Strauss, who are directors of the Chest and the Federated Jewish Societies.

The Portland Hebrew School is under the Portland Community Chest.

The Jewish Community of Portland has started a Chest for non-local institutions. The drive is now on. It is directed by Ben Selling, Julius Meier, Nathan Strauss, Roscoe Nelson, Alex Weinstein, and Mrs. Isaac Sweet. Pledges are being taken for a five-year period. Funds are also being gathered for the Hillel Foundation, the two drives being conducted as one.

The three leading synagogues: Temple Beth Israel, Cong. Ahavai Sholem, and Cong. Naveh Zedek, still have not procured permanent rabbis. The name of Rabbi Henry Berkowitz, of Kansas City, Missouri, will be presented to the Board of Trustees to occupy the pulpit of Temple Beth Israel, vacated by Rabbi Max J. Merritt. This is the same pulpit which was held by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and Rabbi Jonah P. Wise.

Through the efforts of Dr. Leo M. Franklin of Temple Beth El, Detroit, a Reform Congregation has been organized at Flint, Michigan with thirty-five heads of families enrolled as charter members.

There has been in existence for a short while a Sisterhood among the women of Flint whose co-operation has been invaluable. It is proposed to hold regular Sabbath Eve services throughout the season under the supervision of Dr. Franklin, other Rabbis in the state assisting with the services. It is planned that the Congregation will elect a permanent Rabbi. Officers of the new Congregation were elected as follows: President, M. Rosenblum; Vice-President, Charles Rosenblatt; Secretary, Dr. Arthur Dabols; and Treasurer, Harry Weingarten.

Five hundred friends and members of Congregation Shomayr Zedek, Detroit, attended a banquet at the Cadillac Hotel in celebration of the completion of 20 years of service with the congregation by Rabbi A. M. Hershman.

Aaron Klein, who presided; Robert Maxwell, president of the congregation; Mrs. Maurice Zuckerman, president of the ladies' auxiliary; William Friedman, and David W. Fifty thousand dollars worth of bonds in the $100,000 Camp Land issue of the institute were taken up as a result of an appeal by Jonah J. Goldstein.

AUTONOMY DEMANDED BY GALICIAN COMMUNITIES (U. T. A. Mail Service)

Warsaw, Nov. 7. — The representatives of eighty Jewish communities in Galicia have held a meeting in Lemberg and after considering the situation created by the recent decree of the President with regard to the regulation of the Jewish communities in Galicia, adopted the following resolution:

"The assembled members of the organization committee for the formation of a Federation of Jewish Communities in Galicia and representatives of eighty Jewish communities declare themselves opposed to the Decree of the President of the State dated October 14th, with regard to the new method of regulation of the Jewish communities, on the ground that the provisions of the Decree are in conflict with the Constitution."

A delegation is being sent to Warsaw to place the views of the Jewish communities in the matter before the Government.

When Galicia was under the Austrian rule, the Jewish communities enjoyed a certain amount of religious-cultural autonomy. At the time when Marshal Pilsudski, the present Prime Minister, was President of Poland, he issued a decree assuring religious-cultural autonomy and democratic elections for the Jewish communities. In the new decree issued by President Moscicki, the Jewish communities are regarded as purely religious institutions, the existence is permitted of more than one Jewish community in one place and the community budget is subject to approval by the Mayor, who may order reductions or increases in the amounts included in the budget.
