Prof. Savini declares in his book that Etruscan was a Semitic language, identifying it with ancient Hebrew.

The publication of the book created a sensation because it was made on the eve of the International Etruscan Congress which was convoked for this month in Florence.

NO ACTION TAKEN BY LEAGUE COUNCIL ON QUESTION OF NUMERUS CLAUSUS IN HUNGARY

Joint Foreign Committee to Consider Advisability of Further Steps
(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

London, April 3—The Council of the League of Nations has taken no action in regard to the bill amending the numerus clausus passed by the Hungarian Parliament or the petitions of the Joint Foreign Committee and the Alliance Israélite, Lucien Wolf, secretary of the Joint Foreign Committee, stated in an interview with the representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

"It could not indeed do so," Mr. Wolf said, "since it is not in session. The last meeting of the Council ended on March 10, four days before the amending bill became law, and there will be no further meeting until June 4. Nor is it quite true to state that no action has been taken on the petitions of the Joint Foreign Committee and the Alliance Israélite. It was in consequence of such action that the Hungarian Government resolved to introduce its amending bill. The Joint Foreign Committee will further at its next meeting whether any further action before the Council of the League is necessary," Mr. Wolf declared.

PHYSICIAN SCOUTS IDEA MANCHESTER JEWS ARE AFFECTED WITH ERGOTISM

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
London, April 3—The British Medical Journal prints a letter from Dr. Bernard Hirsch, honorary physician to the home for aged and needy Jews in Manchester, dealing with the article on Ergot poisoning published recently in the British Medical Journal, which has aroused a good deal of interest among the Jewish community.

"Having been associated with a number of Jewish institutions for a considerable period," he writes, "and practicing in a thickly populated Jewish neighborhood, it seems strange that neither my colleagues, whom I have consulted on the subject, nor myself have ever come across cases such as those described.

"It is quite true that brown, or rye, bread is an important factor in some Jewish diets; still the figures given as to the amount of ergot it contains appear very much exaggerated, and do not approach the 22.85 grains stated to be consumed by the individual in one

The existing immigration act, in which quotas are based upon the number of aliens in this country when the 1890 census was taken, specified that the President revise the quotas by July this year, on a proportionate basis of the different national stocks in the country.

CLUB CHARGED WITH ANTI-JEWISH DISCRIMINATION.
 DROPS 'MASON' FROM NAME

Under charges of practicing discrimination against Jewish Masons who ap-plice for membership, the Metropolitan Masons Country Club of Schenectady,
 New York, decided to change its name at the Metropolitan Mason Country Club.

The decision to change the name
 was taken at a meeting of the club held last week. It was learned that three quarters of the members were present at the meeting when the motion for changing the name was made by one of the members, Louis Weiss. No response for the motion was given. Application was made to the Secretary of State for approval of the new name.

About a month ago, Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Thompson resigned from the club, declaring that discrimination against Jews was contrary to the principles of Masonry.

The discrimination became a matter of public record when the case of Henry F. Schreiber, a Jewish attorney, of New York, whose application for membership in the club was neither accepted nor refused for a year, became widely known. He was later told that the club counts among its members the fact that Jews are excluded. It was also stated that the Grand Master of Masonry in the State of New York, Harold C. Richardson, upon Frank J. Briggs, president of the club, to change the name so that the "Masonic grand lodge might avoid anti-Semitism."

PASSOVER WILL BE USHERED IN AT SUNDOWN TONIGHT

 Abraham Herman, president of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, announced that a special Seder service will be held for the 150 Jews
 now on Ellis Island. Benjamin A. Day, Commissioner of Immigration, will be a guest at the service. During the holiday, it was announced, no deportations will take place.

Jewish seamen and Jewish unemployed will be the guests of the Hias
 at special services at its headquarters, 428 Lafayette street.

The forty-five Jewish patients in the Kings County Hospital will be provided with Passover food by the Jewish Social Service Committee. On Thursday a Seder will be held at the hospital, at which Rabbi Morris Fried-lender, Jewish chaplain in the hospital,
 will preside.

The "Jewish Daily Bulletin" will not appear on Thursday and Friday, April 5 and 6, the first two days of the holiday.

 in 1925, Rabbi Stephen Wise was selected; in 1926 David A. Brown of

$11,000,000 IN CASH RECEIVED BY UNITED JEWISH CAMPAIGN ON $20,500,000 PLEDGES

Committee's Budget Calls for $500,000 Monthly; Payment of Pledges Urgent to Meet Requirements and Wipe Out $700,000 Indebtedness, David Brown States; No Big Campaign Planned After 1929; New $10,000,000 Fund is Only for Russian Colonization Work

The sum of $11,000,000 in cash has already been remitted by communities throughout the United States and Canada to the office of the United Jewish Campaign, according to a statement issued by David A. Brown, national chairman. The amount subscribed toward the $25,000,000 United Jewish Campaign has reached the total of $20,500,000. The local campaigns were conducted in various parts of the country at different times during the last two years, and the payments against these subscriptions to the campaigns fall due in installments covering a period of three years. The present collection of $11,000,000 in cash, therefore, represents a splendid response by American Jews toward the needs of the reconstructive work in behalf of Jewry abroad, Mr. Brown stated.

"The amount so far forwarded to the treasury," Mr. Brown added, "while highly gratifying, has not covered the actual expenditures which the program of the Joint Distribution Committee requires.

"When the plight of European Jewry became highly critical in 1925, the Joint Distribution Committee was forced to resume its life-saving relief and reconstructive work on a large scale immediately, and in advance of the actual beginnings of the local campaigns. Building its confidence on the readiness of American Jews to help, as they had done throughout the previous history of this organization, the Joint Distribution Committee took the drastic step of borrowing money from the banks on the endorsement of officers of the organization and national leaders, in full expectation that the sums thus borrowed would, in due course, be collected during the campaign. That confidence was amply justified. According to the schedule of the dates when payments fall due in each locality, with very few exceptions, the various states and communities have so far remitted to the national treasury the amounts counted upon. But as the program had to be started before the money collecting effort was under way, the Joint Distribution Committee at the present time has notes outstanding of over $700,000, which must be paid up from the present collections."

In addition to this debt, the requirements of the Joint Distribution Committee for its work in Russia, Palestine, Poland, and other countries of Eastern Europe, run to about five hundred thousand dollars a month.

"This budget includes all the reconstruction activities, beginning with the settlement of thousands of Jewish families on the land in Russia, providing tens of thousands of families in Poland and other European countries with credit facilities, includes the care of orphans, medical care, and provides aid for the cultural and religious needs of the younger generation. The life and future of our people depend on each of these activities, and a monthly budget of about $500,000 is the minimum requirement for this enormous task," Mr. Brown declared.

"If all the pledges due in the course of the next nine months are paid in regularly to the United Jewish Campaign, the Joint Distribution Committee will be in a position to meet its obligations this year. This is what we hope for. As we approach the summer months, we especially urge all of the leaders in the communities to exert their greatest effort in the collection of these subscriptions. What cannot be done during the hot summer months must be effectively gotten under way now. The work of the Joint Distribution Committee must continue in a regular, unhampered way and the Jewish communities in this country are in a position to furnish the support so urgently required by our people in Russia and throughout Eastern Europe."

In reply to inquiries that have come from many parts of the country as to whether another campaign was contemplated in the immediate future, to raise the $5,000,000 required for the $10,000,000 fund for Russian colonization started by Julius Rosenwald's $5,000,000 subscription, Mr. Brown stated that no campaign will be conducted, the funds being raised privately.

Mr. Brown stressed the point that there should be no confusion between the present $25,000,000 campaign and the $10,000,000 fund which is about to be raised.

The Joint Distribution Committee has already budgeted for Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Roumania, Palestine and other countries; the entire funds which will be made available through the pledges made to the United Jewish Campaign organization throughout the country. None of the funds of this special $10,000,000 effort will be available for any other purpose than the colonization of Russian Jews.

The Joint Distribution Committee clearly understands that all the other activities carried on in Russia, aside from the colonization work, will have to be cared for by the Joint Distribution Committee.

Mr. Brown states that he hopes another great campaign such as the one being conducted at present will never again be necessary. But he believes that for some years to come a modest amount of relief may be necessary in many countries in

South African Leaders Pay Tribute to Jewish Farmer

(By our Johannesburg correspondent)

Johannesburg, Mar. 1.—A correlative of nature accomplished by the energy and common sense of one man is the transformation of the two farms Cologne and Bombardie, a little to the south of Oogies, in the Eastern Transvaal, writes the Johannesburg "Star." Somewhat over a dozen years ago these were ordinary farms with land of not more than average quality. Mealie crops raised on them ran about eight or nine bags to the morgen. Nowadays the yield averages over fifty bags, and in some parts forty to fifty bags are produced.

The man who has brought this about is E. Lazarus. He has done it by cultivating and fertilizing the soil in the most thorough manner, and on the most scientific principles. Nor did he stand with special advantages. His capital was small, but his powers of application and perseverance were unbounded. Mr. Lazarus has shown what can be done on the land, and his achievement is an example which should encourage all farmers when they are inclined to lose heart, and an inspiration to those of the youth of South Africa who are looking forward to farming careers. The story of Mr. Lazarus's work is an epic of the soil, and it should be made widely known.

There was a distinguished gathering at a luncheon under canvas close to the Bombardie homestead recently, at which tributes were paid to Mr. Lazarus and his work. This was after a two hours' tour of the wonderful maize and potato lands on the Cologne and Bombardie Estates, as the farm is now styled. The administrator, Mr. Hofmeyr, observed that it could be said that Mr. Lazarus had prepared for himself a very large place in paradise.

Dr. William Macdonald, the apostle of dry farming, said the great work which Mr. Lazarus was doing in this country was in regard to tillage. This was the most important work that any farmer could do in South Africa, because wherever one went, from the Cape to the Zambesi, one found the thing that had been lacking in the past had been proper cultivation of the soil. The great lesson which Mr. Lazarus was teaching was to concentrate on the question of tillage.

which we are at present working. It is his hope that some method may be devised whereby a modest sum of approximately one million dollars per year can be raised, if necessary, for the five years beginning with 1929, without the strenuous and aggressive efforts of campaigning that have been so necessary in raising the much larger sums during the past 14 years.

Brussels, Mar. 17.—The Legal Commission of the International Union of League of Nations Societies, during its session here adopted a resolution by Prof. Ruyssen, secretary of the union, that the International League of Nations Union should in future admit not only territorial organizations whose sole aim is to work for the League of Nations, but should also admit international and inter-territorial organizations engaged in pacifist activity and which support the work of the League of Nations. day. "I append the following report of my bread submitted for analysis: 'I beg to report I have examined the loaf of rye' bread received from you yesterday for the possible presence of ergot. I have submitted the bread to a careful chemical and microscopical analysis and I find it perfectly free from this poison. I have also examined the rye and wheat flours from which this bread is made, and I find they contain no trace of ergot or any other poisonous ingredient.'"

If the tillage were correct, then other matters such as fertilization would be successful.

Lord Knollys, a visitor to South Africa, in mentioning some of the points about Mr. Lazarus's work which had specially impressed him, particularly alluded to the fact that even in bad years Mr. Lazarus's crops more nearly approximated the average than crops elsewhere.

Mr. Lazarus also owns the farm Langsooth, near Kinross, some miles to the south-east of the estates. Here there are some 1,800 morgen under cultivation, of which nearly 1,500 are devoted to maize.

The number of white employees on the farms is about forty, and the number is trebled when their families are counted. Native laborers number from 600 to 750. Over 2,000 oxen are used for ploughing, transport and other work.

Mr. Lazarus arrived in South Africa as a young man, quite penniless, and became an assistant in a store, working his way until at last he owned a small store. While carrying on the business of store-keeping he came to the conclusion that maize growing could be made more profitable than maize selling, and he therefore turned his attention to producing rather than to distributing. The result is an object lesson to South Africa.
