DEMAND CREATION OF SUPREME RELIGIOUS BODY FOR ORTHODOX JEWRY

Joint Session of Rabbinic Organizations Plans Measures for Increasing Observance
(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Mount Freedom, N. J., June 20.—The creation of a Beth Din Ha'Gadol, a supreme religious court for Orthodox Jews, to decide all matters pertaining to religious questions was demanded in a resolution adopted at a joint session of the two rabbinical organizations, Degel Ha'Rabanim and Keneseth Ha'Rabbanim, which concluded their convention here yesterday.

The court would be considered as the highest authority, empowered to decide all religious questions that arise, and would be composed of representatives of the several organizations of Orthodox Rabbis in the United States. The Union of Orthodox Rabbis, with which the groups in session are not affiliated, will be approached to participate in the formation of the new body. A committee to prepare a plan for organizing the religious court was chosen and the hope was expressed during the discussion that through such an agency a rapprochement of the various sections of Orthodox Jewry would be brought about.

A special committee was appointed to seek ways and means of bringing about peace and cooperation among the various organizations of Orthodox Rabbis.

A resolution endorsing the five-day industrial week, giving an opportunity to Orthodox Jews to observe the Sabbath, was unanimously adopted. Following a lengthy debate on the measures to be taken to increase Sabbath observance, a resolution was passed urging the congregations to see to it that only such persons as are strict Sabbath observers are elected as presidents of Orthodox congregations or as principals in the Talmud Torahs.

A large part of the discussion was devoted to the problem of Jewish religious education. The discussion was led by

JOINT COMMITTEE, TO SEEK PEACE IN THE ZIONIST CONTROVERSY, APPOINTED BY JUDGES

Opposition Charges Probed at Public Sessions; Lipsky's Endorsement of $2,000 Note for Hadassah Treasurer and Non-Organization Items Among Accusations

A joint committee of nine, representing the opposition, the Zionist administration and the Citizens Committee on Peace and Reconstruction, was the temporary result of the hearings conducted by a committee of five judges appointed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann before his departure for London to inquire into the charges of the opposition against the administration of the Zionist Organization of America.

The announcement of the appointment of the committee and its personnel was made by Judge Harry Fisher of Chicago. Tuesday after midnight following two public sessions held in the late afternoon and evening at the Unity Club, Brooklyn. The committee appointed for the purpose of reporting to the judges committee, pending the completion of an audit and the drafting of the judges' report, is, it was understood, charged with the task of bringing about an amicable solution of the controversy. The members representing the administration are Morris Rothenberg, Dr. J. Kalisky, and Herman G. Robbins; the opposition, Judge Julian W. Mack, Abraham Tulin and Mrs. Zip F. Szold; the Committee on Peace and Reconstruction, Dr. Mordecai M. Kaplan, Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris and Dr. David de Sola Pool.

Much speculation was current in the lobby of the Unity Club as to the possible platform for an amicable solution of the controversy. Rumor had it that an agreement on a suggested plan for an administration slate including the three parties to the controversy, some of the present administration, some of the opposition and some Hadassah representatives, would bring the controversy to an end, result in a peaceful convention in Pittsburgh and make the intervention of the judges committee unnecessary.

This situation came about following the two public sessions Tuesday, after the elimination of charges of dishonesty for private pecuniary gain had been agreed upon by the opposition spokesmen at the opening session on Sunday.

At the late afternoon session on Tuesday, Judge Edward Lazansky, presiding over the hearing, read the minutes of the

CONGRESSMAN LA GUARDIA PROTESTS IDENTIFICATION CARD SYSTEM FOR ALIENS

Expect Official Reply from Secretary of Labor Davis Tomorrow
(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., June 20.—A protest against the system of identification cards for newly arrived immigrants was addressed by Congressman La Guardia of New York to Secretary of Labor Davis.

An official reply by the Secretary is expected upon his return to Washington tomorrow. W. W. Husband, Assistant Secretary of Labor, in an interview with the representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency expressed surprise at the protest.

There is absolutely no justification for the charge of Congressmen La Guardia and Dickstein that the identification card system means the registration of aliens or a Czaristic passport system, the Assistant Secretary stated. The identification card system has been inaugurated only to help the alien by providing him with evidence of his legal admission.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Vienna, June 20.—Bruno Wolff, Viennese Jewish editor, was shot and instantly killed before a startled courtroom by Oscar Poessl, a Catholic, who had brought Wolff before the court on charges of libel against him.

The shooting was the climax of a long feud between the two, dating back to 1925 when they were both editors of the "Wiener Neues Journal." At that time the accusations of Wolff against Poessl of corrupt practices, led to Poessl's dismissal from his post as assistant to Wolff. Wolff later repeated his charges in public and Poessl brought the damage suit.

JOINT COMMITTEE TO SEEK PEACE IN CONTROVERSY OF ZIONISTS NAMED BY JUDGES

private session held by the judges committee on Sunday. The publication of these minutes was in accordance with the expressed desire of the administration representatives. In these minutes, it was disclosed that the opposition spokesmen charged that Louis Lipsky had, as president of the Zionist Organization of America, endorsed in December 1926, a note in the amount of $2,000 for Mrs. Dorothy E. Lefkowitz, treasurer of the Hadassah. This note was discounted with the Commodore Trading Corporation, a lending company, in favor of the Springdale Rubber Corporation of Springdale, Conn. of which Mrs. Lefkowitz was treasurer. The opposition charged that the endorsement of this note by Mr. Lipsky as president was an abuse of power, involving the credit of the Zionist Organization of America.

At the open session court procedure was followed in the examination of Israel Maltin, auditor of the Zionist Organization of America, and Mrs. Lefkowitz, as witnesses. A statement was also made by Louis Lipsky.

Mr. Maltin testified that Mrs. Lefkowitz had told him of her urgent need of money. Upon hearing this, believing that it was essential that she be helped out when in distress, Mr. Maltin persuaded Mr. Lipsky to endorse the note. Mr. Lipsky testified that he had known Mrs. Lefkowitz for twenty-five years, that he believed it to be for the good of the organization that the Hadassah treasurer be accommodated in her need. Mrs. Lefkowitz denied that she knew that the note was endorsed by Mr. Lipsky until she had received it when the full amount had been paid to the Commodore Trading Corporation by her. Mr. Maltin testified that the original check of the Commodore Trading Corporation was made out to the Zionist Organization of America, which Mrs. Lefkowitz refused to accept, asking that a new check be made out to the order of the Springdale Rubber Corporation.

Contradictory statements were made by the two witnesses with regard to Mrs. Lefkowitz's knowledge of the Lipsky endorsement. Mr. Maltin declared that he had spoken to Mrs. Lefkowitz about this endorsement, while Mrs. Lefkowitz said that Lipsky's name was not mentioned. She also testified that the original offer to secure a loan for her was made on Mr. Maltin's initiative.

It was brought out during the cross examination that Mrs. Lefkowitz is a sister-in-law of Jacob de Haas.

Considerable time was spent by the judges' committee on the charges of irregular procedure in the election of delegates to the forthcoming Pittsburgh convention. Mr. Tulin, in presenting the charges referred to the telegram to the Zionist districts, explained in a subsequent letter to the districts, asking that the lists of enrolled members who have not paid be submitted and that the districts will be charged for unpaid dues. Mr. Tulin also asserted that the election of delegates by Zionist district members and U.P.A. contributors, where joint drives were not held, beside constituting improper elections of delegates, is an unauthorized diversion of U.P.A. funds to the Z.O.A. treasury.

Mr. Rothenberg, representing the administration, contended that such diversion has not taken place, since the board of elections and the credentials committee have not recognized the delegates and that no membership dues were deducted from U.P.A. funds.

Upon the demands of the opposition spokesman, the administration presented its books for examination by an auditor employed by the opposition of the items classified in the 1926-7 report as "non-organization items." The report for that year showed the existence of liabilities of $31,000, non-organization items," with only $4,000 in cash on hand. The opposition spokesman declared that he intends to prove that these items were trust funds in the hands of the organization for specific, earmarked purposes in Palestine or monies sent in by private persons for transmission to private persons abroad, in Palestine and elsewhere. Mr. Tulin charged that this constituted commingling of funds, a practice which he asserted was current for several years under the present regime.

The administration spokesmen, Mr. Rothenberg and Mr. Maltin, contended that these items were not considered as trust funds, but as fluctuating liabilities, that the full amount of the $31,000 appearing in the 1926-7 report had been remitted and that since the Atlantic City convention, no such funds were received. The administration also contended that if an inquiry is to be made into this phase, it should not be limited to the period of the present regime, but extend also to the former Mack regime. when, it asserted, the Palestine Restoration Fund was used not merely for the work in Palestine, but also for all items in the Z.O.A. budget in America.

The judges committee, upon consent of the administration spokesmen, declared that an auditor will be employed to go over the books and ascertain when and to what extent such practice

Rabbi S. L. Horowitz of New York. Resolutions adopted on this subject call for the organization of elementary classes in the Talmud Torahs for children between the ages of six and eight, the creation in each congregation of a special committee on religious education, to organize rabbis who are active in educational institutions into a permanent body which should meet in monthly conferences in their districts, to set aside one Sabbath in the year to propagate the idea of a more intense religious education. The resolutions also urged the creation of a Jewish Mothers Alliance for furthering Jewish education. An auxiliary of rabbis' wives is also to be created.

A decision of considerable interest to the meat product industry in cities with a large Jewish population was taken by the convention following a report submitted to the convention by a special committee of Rabbis Margolies, Yudelwich, Barishansky, Boyshovick and Mendelson. This matter came up at the Monday evening session presided over by Rabbi Weizel Margolies of New York, and was the result of a recent ruling of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis that the products of a kosher department in a non-kosher meat products concern cannot be regarded as kosher although rabbinical supervision is in effect. Rabbi Jacob Eskolsky and other rabbis took exception to the ruling.

The special committee brought in a report that according to its interpretation of the religious law, the Union's ruling is incorrect. The convention agreed with the committee that "if strict regulations are observed to separate completely the kosher from the non-kosher departments, a qualified and recognized rabbi has a right to issue an 'Hechsher' (certificate of approval) for the products manufactured in the kosher department."

Rabbi Jacob Eskolsky also reported on the work of the Agunoth bureau, in assisting Jewish women who lost track of their husbands.
