their differences lay the brotherhood of Israel.

We must recognize that this is more than an occasion of personal personality, great as that personality is. This, to my mind, is a celebration of the unity of Israel. With respect to that unity, I never had a doubt. It is well known that for a whole generation I opposed this movement. Please, don't think I am affected when I say that I opposed it with a bleeding heart. Because, nothing that deeply concerns Jews and Judaism could ever be so alien to me that, even if I had reasons to attack it, I could do so with joy. That I could never do. Though I differed with the Zionists in my point of view, at the same time I realized that idealism, that yearning for Israel's unity and unbroken spirit. That was something great. Therefore, it was nothing new to me to be able to cross the lines, to admire and revere the personalities who are standing on the other side.

"Now, then, at last, after thirty years, we were able at that historic meeting to create something which shall show the world that, despite our theoretic differences, there is such a thing, nevertheless, as the unity of Israel, when great opportunities confront Israel.

"What is this unity in Israel? This unity is something which transcends differences of the interpretation of our religion, differences even in the practice of our religion, differences in the philosophy of Jewish life."

Dr. Schulman was followed by Louis Marshall, President of the American Jewish Committee. It taxes the power of any teamster to present adequately that great Jew, whose life is an illustrious and unbroken record of service to his people and everything that concerns their welfare," was Mr. Rothenberg's introduction of him.

During his speech, Mr. Marshall made announcement of a fact that he had handed over to Dr. Weizmann an agreement which he believed would effectually settle all the differences that had arisen in the Zionist Council on the Survey Commission Report, and which differences had been embodied in a number of reservations that had been adopted.

"We have found a common platform, a common interest, a common hope," Mr. Marshall said, referring to the plan whereby Zionists and non-Zionists will unite for the upbuilding of Palestine, "and have formed a common resolution to do all that lies in human power to redeem the land and the people. Dr. Weizmann has performed the labors of Hercules, because he has had to overcome stupendous difficulties. He has had great trials and serious tribulations. He has always been inspired by a great ideal!"

Mr. Marshall expressed the hope that Dr. Weizmann would be as successful in his negotiations leading to the Jewish Agency in Europe as he had been in America. "It is the first step that counts," Mr. Marshall said. "And that has been taken. I am happy to say that this evening I delivered to Dr. Weizmann a document which I am quite sure will bring about a complete understanding between us and the Zionist Central Council. We have done everything that we have contracted to do in this country, except to name our delegates. But that is a simple thing. We do not have to persuade people to accept membership on the Jewish Agency. They will be entirely willing to accept it. I have sufficient confidence in the ability as an alchemist and as a chemist, of Dr. Weizmann, to feel that the metals which have yielded to his touch here are no different from those with which he is to be confronted abroad, and that he will be able, within a short time, to bring to us Jewry abroad so that we will be able, by next Fall, to have the first meeting of the Jewish Agency."

The final speaker was Dr. Chaim Weizmann, who expressed his appreciation of the occasion, and praised the American leaders who had taken an outstanding part in facilitating the consummation of the Jewish Agency. Turning to Mr. Marshall, he said: "You have been able to inscribe the most illustrious page in Jewish history, a record of great work for our people," and expressed the hope that Mr. Marshall would himself be able to visit Palestine to see the work that is being done there. Dr. Weizmann stated that "the execution of the Jewish Agency, a common working instrument, would begin in the course of the next summer."

"I think that the majority of the Zionists are agreed on this cooperation with non-Zionists. The Agency should be working in the course of the next summer. Because, I think that Palestine needs you very badly. The burden of upbuilding is becoming heavier with every day. The speed with which we are going is not sufficiently great. The reaching of the objective depends on us. Other things are happening in the world and in the movement which require a united front. I may say, to me, at any rate, that the moral values of the Agency are greater than the possible material values which may result from it. Not that I do not appreciate the necessity for material support, but I do think that if there are not these moral values we shall never get the material values. The weakness of our situation was that we were a sect in Jewry, that we were a minority.

Dr. Weizmann characterized the source of his strength for Zionist work as his "indestructible faith in the destiny of a people which is, by its very nature, indestructible." In concluding, Dr. Weizmann said: "It is possible that Palestine can spread out. Peace with the world, unity among the Jews, and Jewish energies will spread beyond the present political borders of Palestine. . . I see the inadequacy of our own means. I see the difference between our desires and the possibilities. When things become very difficult, I have one remedy. I go to Jerusalem, climb up Mt. Scopus and $57,500, thus enabling the drive to meet its quota.

This makes the first time that the Newark chest has raised its full quota in its six years of existence. It was said later that a concerted effort will be made to get in additional subscriptions.

The Conference of Jewish Charities is one of the constituents of the local Chest and its quota for the ensuing year is $312,965.90. In general the larger individual Jewish charities this year were increased over last year. Some of the larger subscriptions were: $12,000, Michael Albert and Benjamin Hollander; $10,000, Eisele & King; $5,000, Louis V. Aronson; $3,500, M. Augenblick & Bros.; $3,500, William E. Lehman; $3,000, Frank I. Liveright, Charles Stopper; $2,500, Louis Kamm, Inc., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stern.

Charles M. Meyers, Newark, N. J. lawyer, has been appointed Corporation Counsel of that city by the City Commission.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 20—A gift of $25,000 has been made by Mrs. Sophie G. Cohen to the Children's Outing Society for the purchase of a new site for a fresh air camp. This is one of the largest Jewish financial gifts in the history of Milwaukee.

The new camp will be known as Sidney M. Cohen camp in memory of the husband of Mrs. Cohen, who died last spring. Mrs. Cohen is president of the Outing Society and has been one of its most active workers.

The gift of Mrs. Cohen will now enable to society to enlarge and a new site of 11 acres on Lake Nemahbin will be taken over.

Arrangements have been completed for the two-day Youth's Conference which will open here December 1. Henry Hurwitz, editor of the "Menorah Journal," will make the opening address. Judge Charles Aronson and Attorneys Benjamin J. Miller and Benjamin Foss will serve as chairmen at the different meetings. The sessions will be held in Temple Emanuel El-Bne Jeshurun.

look at all the beauty of the Jordan, the power of Jerusalem and the hard rocks in which is written the history of our people. Out of the rocky ancient cemetery, where the Seers, Sages and Rabbis lay a vision, sometimes tell us that we belong to a generation of pygmies who are attempting to do the work of giants. Carrying on the tradition of seers and prophets, one must know that we are doing something which is not for a day, but for all eternity, and which will redound to the credit of the Jews of all the world."

NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS OF KU KLUX KLAN IN WASHINGTON VACANT

Decision on Anti-Klan Law to Have Little Effect—Secrecy Already Abolished

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 21.—The suite of offices formerly occupied by the national headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan was found vacant when Washington correspondents attempted to obtain the opinion of the Ku Klux Klan in regard to the decision of the United States Supreme Court upholding the New York State law against the secrecy of the Klan.

It was stated here, however, that the decision will have little effect on the Klan because the organization last July formally announced it had ended its secret character. Hiram Wesley Evans, Klan leader, who announced the end of secrecy of the order, could not be found here.

The decision upholding the Walker law requiring secret organizations to file membership lists with Secretary of State is, however, considered important because of the precedent which will guide law makers in the future.

The "Pravda" reports in connection with this case that anti-Semitism is rampant in many factors in White Russia.

The sixtieth anniversary celebration of Congregation Ahavai Shalom of Portland, Oregon, will take place December 1, 1928. Ahavai Shalom is a Conservative Synagogue. Rabbi Herbert Paron is its spiritual leader. Rabbi Henry J. Berkman of Temple Beth Israel and Rabbi Meyer Rubin of Congregation Neveh Zedek, Portland, will take part in the exercises.

$55,000 SPENT BY J.D.C. FOR JEWISH RELIEF WORK IN BESSARABIA

Does Not Include Large Subventions to Credit Societies

Relief granted to Jewish colonies suffering from bad crops, as well as relief to various Jewish institutions in Bessarabia, amounted to nearly $55,000 during the last three years, according to a report from Dr. Bernhard Kahn, European Director of the Joint Distribution Committee, made public by David A. Brown, National Chairman of the United Jewish Campaign.

This does not include the large subventions given during the same period by the Joint-Ica Foundation to credit societies in Bessarabia, as well as loans for reconstruction work. The Foundation has recently voted a new fund of $90,000 for further credits to the Jewish Cooperative Loan societies in Bessarabia; $25,000 has been extended as credits for furnishings tools, machinery and raw materials to artisans; and another $20,000 has been granted in the form of credits to the new Jewish colonies to help them make payments to the Government for land allotted to them.

The largest single amount from the special relief fund, $17,800, had been spent in 1926 for the purpose of helping the colonies which were suffering from bad crops. The Passover relief of the same year also amounted to $2,500.

Among relief measures undertaken and institutions subsidized were: Reconstruction of houses injured by flood in Lublin and Ramanowka, $7,500; Repair and equipment of the Girls' Orphanage in Chisinau, $3,000; Shoes and clothing for children, $2,000; Re-equipment of Boys' Orphanage in Chisinau, $2,300; Hospital in Chisinau, $3,000; Summer colonies throughout Bessarabia, $2,500; Soimech-Noifim Society $1,500; Professional schools in Chisinau, $1,000.

In addition, subventions were allocated to Jewish hospitals in Balti, Orhei, Soroka, Britschany, Kalarsch, Ackerman, as well as to homes for the aged, Talmud Torahs, Schools and other institutions in various towns, the report stated.

JESUIT UNIVERSITY ADOPTS JEWISH BOYS' SONG

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 21.—A Jesuit university has accepted as its official song one composed by two Jewish boys. The song was written by Benjamin G. Slater and Herman J. Scholl, who are both juniors at Marquette University Law School.

The song won first place in an all-university competition in which 26 manuscripts were submitted. The words will be printed in the new edition of the Marquette University song book and will be orchestrated and arranged for band to be used by the Marquette University band.

Both young men are members of Alpha Epsilon I and Kappa Mu Rho fraternities.

ROUMANIAN GOVERNMENT PARTY CONCLUDES AGREE- MENT WITH ZIONIST GROUPS

Six Zionists Virtually Assured of Election
as Result of Alliance

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Bucharest, Nov. 21.—Six Zionist candidates are almost sure of election to the new Roumanian parliament as the result of an agreement concluded between the National Peasant Party, now the government party of Roumania, with the Zionist groups of Transylvania and Bukovina.

An announcement concerning the conclusion of the election pact was made today.

DR. DAVID YELLIN HERE FROM JERUSALEM

Industry in Palestine is improving, declared Dr. David Yellin, former vice-mayor of Jerusalem and president of the Hebrew Teachers' college there on his arrival in New York on the Olympic Wednesday morning.

"There is no unemployment problem in Palestine at the present time," Dr. Yellin stated. "On the contrary, the Zionist Organization is trying to obtain from the government new certificates of admission because there is a shortage of labor."

"The Arab-agitation on the Walling Wall issue," Dr. Yellin said, "is an artificial one and is conducted mainly by a group of anti-Zionist Arab leaders. However, this group does not represent the feeling of the Moslem masses with regard to the Jewish question in Palestine."

Dr. Yellin came to the United States for the purpose of raising funds for the completion of the building of the Hebrew Teachers College in Jerusalem.

On the Olympic was also Rabbi Judah Leib Tversky, Chassidic rabbi of Hornostapol, who was met at the pier by a number of Orthodox rabbis.

A luncheon will be tendered to Doctor and Mrs. Cyrus Adler at the Hotel Astor, New York, on Tuesday, December 18, by the League of the Women's Branch of the United Synagogue. A committee, headed by Mrs. Joseph Horowitz, President of the Women's Club of Brooklyn Jewish Centre, is in charge of arrangements. About 100 guests are expected. Mrs. Joseph Horowitz will be chairman.

Thousands of volunteers will take part in the Fifteenth Annual Maccabean Day which has been set for Sunday, December 9, according to an announcement issued by Isaac H. Rubin, Secretary of the Jewish National Fund.

The day is known as Maccabean Day because it occurs during the festival of Chanukah.

During the past fourteen years, Maccabean Day has constituted a source of income for the Jewish National Fund. The slogan for the December 9 occasion is, "How Can There be a Jewish Homeland without Land?"

The quota for New Jersey Jewry in the $500,000 drive of the United Synagogue of America will be $50,000. This was set by the New Jersey State to attend the United Synagogue, held in Newark.

The committee is headed by Jacob Fabian, Patterson, New Jersey, honorary chairman; Rabbi Charles I. Hoffman, Newark, chairman.

Personal expenditures by Attorney General Albert Ottinger in his campaign on the Republican ticket for Governor amounted to $10,000, he told the Secretary of State at Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.

the Hebrew prayer, in which God is asked to return the Jewish people to Palestine in dignity. Dr. Kaplan declared that Dr. Weizmann was the answer to that prayer. In winning all elements of American Jewry to the cause of Palestine, the dignity of the rebuilding work is assured.

In introducing Mr. Felix Warburg as the next speaker, Mr. Rothenberg referred to "the quickness with which he has entered into the affections of the Zionists throughout the country, and how quick they were to sense the genuine warmth of his feeling toward Palestine, and the generosity of his feelings towards the problems in Palestine."

Wishing Dr. and Mrs. Weizmann godspeed, and praising Mrs. Weizmann for the inspiration she had given her husband, Mr. Warburg expressed his appreciation of Dr. Weizmann's friendship and said, "the meetings which we have held lately have been so pleasant that it is a real joy to have anything to do with the movement." Mr. Warburg praised Dr. Weizmann's leadership, and concluded with the hope that "the famous Jewish Agency will be an agent in the coming Spring and active."

Dr. Lee K. Frankel, one of the members of the Joint Palestine Survey Commission, who was spoken of by Mr. Rothenberg as having approached his task on the Commission with remarkable objectivity, must be our first step in our first undertaking." Dr. Frankel also spoke of the indispensability of Dr. Weizmann to the Zionist cause.

Mr. Rothenberg read a message from Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, who had been unable to attend the banquet because of a previous speaking engagement for the Federation. In this message, Judge Rosalsky announced his acceptance of the Chairmanship of the United Palestine Appeal for Greater New York, saying:

"I have had the honor and privilege of serving for the past two years as chairman of the United Palestine Appeal for Greater New York, and have given to the noble cause of Palestine the best service it was possible for me to render. It was my intention to retire from active leadership this year, but I have been urged to accept the office of chairman once more in view of the importance of the impending campaign not only for Palestine and the Zionist cause, but also because of its importance for the creation of unity and harmony in American Jewry."

overcome by the feeling that I can do something to promote that unity in American Israel which was so auspiciously inaugurated at the recent Non-Partisan Conference held in New York under the chairmanship of Mr. Louis Marshall. The extension of the Jewish Agency provides an opportunity to break down the barriers between the various elements in the American Jewish community. The power and the spiritual value of a Jewish Palestine will bring about a consolidation of Jewish forces that will build up not only a Jewish National Home and will be helpful in strengthening Jewish tradition everywhere, but will give force and influence to the development of a Jewish civilization that will redound to the benefit of humanity in general. Every right-thinking Jew should be found backing the new unity that has been created and to give it support at this time when hearty general cooperation is essential for its development.

"I have therefore accepted the invitation to continue as Chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, and call upon all who are concerned for the future of Israel and in the redemption of Zion, to be generous in their support of the Appeal during the coming year. It is a heavy responsibility, but I know that the Jews of Greater New York will respond to the call of duty."

Mr. Abraham Goldberg, member of the Administrative Committee of the Zionist Organization of America, was then called upon by Mr. Rothenberg as "one who has been active in the cause of Zionism for the past twenty-five years or more, and who has always been a staunch supporter of the Jewish Agency." Mr. Goldberg, speaking Yiddish, lauded Dr. Weizmann's achievement, and playing upon a reference made by Dr. Frankel to Dr. Weizmann as a chemist, and as having a mystic belief in the Zionist cause, Mr. Goldberg called the latter an alchemist, who succeeds in uniting various elements and to obtain "gold," enlisting their joint cooperation.

Dr. Samuel Schulman, rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, who was for thirty years an opponent of political Zionism, in remarks referred to this opposition declaring:

"It was a joy to be here and to show by my presence that I too have learned to honor and love Dr. Weizmann. I know quite well where I stand. I am quite happy to be here. This is, first and foremost, of course, an occasion for felicitations to the distinguished man and friend whom we delighted to have here. It is nothing new in Israel. It is as old as the history of our people, because, while our leaders in the past, with that frankness, with that intellectual honesty, which enabled them to carry on controversies, and then to look each other in the face and speak their opinions as they believe them, at the same time loved each other and

Prayers for Herbert Hoover

By Our Eastern Correspondent

Easton, Pa., Nov. 21.—Jewish residents of Easton read with great interest the account in the "Jewish Daily Bulletin," on November 20, of the fast and prayer in Prague for the election of Herbert Hoover as president, after the Chasside Rabbi received a request of one of his followers, Henry Shoenberg, for such a prayer, and $150 for charitable purposes. Mr. Shoenberg is from this city and not Boston, Mass., as was erroneously stated in the dispatch from Prague.

Mr. Shoenberg, who is a well known real estate man here, was an active Hoover supporter and believed that he could best help Mr. Hoover with prayer. He visited many rabbis and after making donations to their congregations, asked that they pray for the election of Hoover. He visited Rabbis in Scranton, Wilkes Barre, Easton and other cities. He also sent three cablegrams together with contributions, to Rabbis in Europe, with a request that they pray for Hoover's election. When he received word from the rabbis that such prayers are being said, he wired Mr. Hoover congratulations in advance of the election, feeling confident that the prayers will assure the election of the Republican nominee.

Mr. Shoenberg has received a letter of thanks from Mr. Hoover for the aid he rendered him during the campaign. He also visited Mr. Akeron, Mr. Hoover's secretary in Washington, and told him what he had done in the campaign.

Mr. Shoenberg, who has been in this country about 30 years and has handled many large real estate transactions, has always believed in prayer. When it appeared as though he was to suffer a reverse, he always sent a cablegram to his rabbi, known as the Rebbe of Zydaczow, asking the latter to pray for him. Mr. Shoenberg stated today that the prayers seldom failed to help. He has also been contributing to the support of the rabbi.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 21.—The annual drive for the Community Chest in this city reached its dramatic climax at the closing dinner Monday night when it was announced that through the underwriting of a shortage of $115,000 by Mr. and Mrs. Felix Fuld and Mr. and Mrs. Uzal H. McCarter the campaign had successfully achieved its goal of $1,152,363.28.

The announcement which was made by Mr. McCarter, who is one of the city's leading bankers, came after a hurried conference with Mr. Fuld at the speakers table, unobserved by the workers who were busy with reports. Mr. and Mrs. Fuld, who at the start of the drive last week had pledged $30,000, guaranteed $57,500 additional of the amount short, and Mr. and Mrs. McCarter, who previously had

"We must recognize that this is more than an occasion of tribute to a personality, great as that personality is. This, to my mind, is a celebration of the unity of Israel. With respect to that unity, I never had a doubt. It is well known that for a whole generation I opposed this movement. Please, don't think I am affected when I say that I opposed it with a bleeding heart. Because, nothing that deeply concerns Jews and Judaism could ever be so alien to me that, even if I had reasons to attack it, I could do so with joy. That I could never do. Though I differed with the Zionists in my point of view, at the same time I realized that idealism, that yearning for Israel's unity and unbroken spirit. That was something great. Dr. Schulman was followed by Louis Marshall, President of the American Jewish Committee. "It taxes the power of any toastmaster to present adequately that great Jew, whose life is an illustrious and unbroken record of service to his people and everything that concerns their welfare," was Mr. Rothenberg's introduction of him.

During his speech, Mr. Marshall made announcement of the fact that he had handed over to Dr. Weizmann an agreement which he believed would effectually settle all the differences that had arisen in the Zionist Council on the Survey Commission Report, and which differences had been embodied in a number of reservations that had been adopted.

"We have found a common platform, a common interest, a common hope," Mr. Marshall said, referring to the plan whereby Zionists and non-Zionists will unite for the upbuilding of Palestine, "and have formed a common resolution to do all that lies in human power to redeem the land and the people. Dr. Weizmann has performed the labors of Hercules, because he has had to overcome stupendous difficulties. He has had great trials and serious tribulations. He has always been inspired by a great ideal."

Mr. Marshall expressed the hope that Dr. Weizmann would be as successful in his negotiations leading to the Jewish Agency in Europe as he had been in America. "It is the first step that counts," Mr. Marshall said. "And that has been taken. I am happy to say that this evening I delivered to Dr. Weizmann a document which I am quite sure will bring about a complete understanding between us and the Zionist General Council. We have done everything that we have contracted to do in this country, except to name our delegates. But that is a simple thing. We do not have to persuade people to accept membership on the Jewish Agency. They will be entirely willing to serve. I have sufficient confidence in the ability as an alchemist and as a chemist, of Dr. Weizmann, to feel that the metals which have yielded to his touch here are no different from those with which he is to be confronted abroad, and that he will be able, within a very short time, to unite Jews abroad so that we will be able, by next Fall, to have the first meeting of the Jewish Agency."

The final speaker was Dr. Chaim Weizmann, who expressed his appreciation of the occasion, and praised the American leaders who had taken an outstanding part in facilitating the consummation of the Jewish Agency. Turning to Mr. Marshall, he said: "You have been able to inscribe the most illustrious page in Jewish history, a record of great work for our people," and expressed the hope that Mr. Marshall would himself be able to visit Palestine to see the work that is being done there. Dr. Weizmann stated that "the execution of the Jewish Agency, a common working instrument, would begin in the course of the next summer."

"I think that the majority of the Zionists are agreed on this co-operation with non-Zionists. The Agency should be working in the course of the next summer. Because, I think that Palestine needs you very badly. The burden of upbuilding is becoming heavier with every day. The speed with which we are going is not sufficiently great. The reaching of the objective depends on us. Other things are happening in the world and in the movement which require a united front. I may say, to me, at any rate, that the moral values of the Agency are greater than the possible material values which may result from it. Not that I do not appreciate the necessity for material support, but I do think that if there are not these moral values we shall never get the material values. The weakness of our situation was that we were a sect in Jewry, that we were a minority."

Dr. Weizmann characterized the source of his strength for Zionist work as his "indestructible faith in the destiny of a people which is, by its very nature, indestructible."

In concluding, Dr. Weizmann said: "It is possible that Palestine can spread out. Peace with the world, unity among the Jews, and Jewish energies will spread beyond the present political borders of Palestine. . . . I see the advantage of our own means. I see the difference between our desires and the possibilities. When things become very difficult, I have one remedy: I go to Jerusalem, climb up Mt. Scopus and look at all the beauty of the Jordan, the power of Jerusalem and the hard rocks in which is written the history of our people. Out of the rocky ancient cemetery, where the Seers, Saints and Sages of Israel lay a voice sometimes tell us that we belong to a generation of pygmies who are attempting to do the work of giants. Carrying on the tradition of seers and prophets, one must know that we are doing something which is not for a day, but for all eternity, and which will redound to the credit of the Jews of all the world."
