London, Feb. 11—The draft constitution for the extended Jewish Agency which was submitted by the Zionist Executive to the General Council session in Berlin last December is now in the hands of a special commission chosen by the General Council.

It was declared on behalf of the Zionist Executive that the draft which was considered by the General Council was not accepted and was referred back to a commission. The commission charged with re-drafting the proposal consists of Felix Rosenbluth, secretary of organization of the Zionist Executive, Dr. Leonard Stein, political secretary of the Executive, and Dr. George Halperin.

WARSAW ZIONIST ORGANIZATION SEEKS RECONCILIATION WITH DEPUTY GREENBAUM

Offers Peace Proposal; Gruenbaum
Hesitates to Accept

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Warsaw, Feb. 11—The Zionist Organization of Congress Poland in a statement issued today announced that it has taken steps to bring about a reconciliation with the oppositional organization, Al Hamishmar.

The offer of peace was made on the following three conditions: 1. That all polemics concerning the extension of the Jewish Agency, middle class colonization and budget problems be discontinued. 2. An agreement for the unification of the Zionist Organizations in Poland into a single federation. 3. That the Gruenbaum group agrees to the formation of a joint fifty-fifty list for the forthcoming national conference scheduled to take place on March 31.

When interviewed by newspapermen, Deputy Gruenbaum, the leader of the Al Hamishmar group, declared that this proposal was not acceptable, as it meets only a small part of the opposition demands. The group, he stated, will offer a counter proposal. The negotiations, at any rate, it was declared, will remove the danger of a split within the Polish Zionist Organization.

JEWISH WAR VETERANS OF GERMANY CELEBRATE TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Assure Anti-Semites No Jewish Group
Seeks "World Domination"

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Berlin, Feb. 11—The tenth anniversary of the existence of the Reichsbund der Juedischen Frontsoldaten, the organization of Jewish war veterans in the German army, was celebrated Saturday evening in the former Prussian House of Lords.

Representatives of the sixteen Jewish state federations in Germany were present together with the representatives of the various state governments. Former German generals and admirals were among those present.

Hauptmann Loewenstein, who presided, announced that the organization will soon issue a memorial volume in memory of the Jewish war dead. This book will show, he stated, that the 540,000 German Jews sent to the army 100,000 soldiers during the world war. Of this number 80,000 fought in the trenches. Twelve thousand Jewish soldiers in the German army fell at the front, outside of a large number of Jewish aviators.

Characteristic of the state of mind in certain German circles was the assurance given at the meeting, under an officer's word of honor, that "no Jewish group seeks world domination," but

AGITATION CONTINUES OVER LODZ SHOOTING

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Lodz, Feb. 11—This week's issue of the "Lodzianin," laborite weekly and organ of the Polish Socialist Party, was confiscated by the authorities in connection with the agitation among the workers over the deaths of Albert Kohn, director in his father's textile plant, and the death of Cierzynski, the worker who shot Kohn.

The P. P. S. organ published an article in which it declared that Albert Kohn murdered the Polish worker. The article asserted that Cierzynski shot Kohn in self-defense.

Witnesses declared that Albert Kohn was attacked by the worker and that he fired in self-defense.

MOSCOW ORGAN FORMULATES CHARGES OF ANTI-SEMITISM AGAINST COMMUNIST WORKERS

Communist Youth Organ Continues
Campaign Against Anti-Semitism

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Moscow, Feb. 11—Charges which startled some Moscow circles were formulated against Communist officials and leaders in the Petroleum Syndicate, by the "Comsomolyskaya Pravda." The Communist youth organ charged that the officials and leaders, Communists, are conducting an open anti-Semitic policy. The worker Berzina, a party member, told his co-workers that Jews use Christian blood for matzoth. When he was challenged for this libel at a meeting of the party collective, he said, "Perhaps not now, but they used blood two hundred and three hundred years ago." For this Berzina was merely reprimanded because his words were considered "Unethical." He appealed against the decision, complaining it was too severe.

Katchinov, a Red Army officer and Chief military guard of the Neft syndicate warehouses, delivered an anti-Semitic speech at a meeting of the Yatsheiko, Communist mother group. Aleshin, the secretary of the Neft syndicate Yatsheiko, who has been a party member since 1903, was silent during the anti-Semitic address. Katchinov was tried by the Yatsheiko for his speech but was merely reprimanded despite four previous offenses of hooliganism and anti-Semitism.

Janitors and watchmen of the Neft syndicate houses openly persecuted Jewish tenants, the paper declares. When the syndicate workers' paper decided to publish the facts the editor was threatened with expulsion from the party by Aleshin and other members of the propaganda committee, declaring, "We will not permit criticism of the policy of the committee." The matter was submitted to Sokolnikov, head of the Neft syndicate and a member of the Central Executive Committee. Subsequently the article appeared without the criticism.

AMERICAN JEWRY MUST FACE OWN PROBLEMS, WISE URGES

The Jewish Council of Greater New York held its annual meeting Sunday afternoon and evening at the Central Jewish Institute. The organization, which is the New York branch of the American Jewish Congress, discussed its participation in the forthcoming session of the Congress.

In a discussion which developed among the 130 delegates who attended, it was the consensus of opinion that greater attention must be paid to Jewish problems in America and that an effective organization to cope with the situation should be created.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, the principal speaker of the sessions, declared that the time has come for responsible leadership in the United States to turn its attention from minority problems in Europe to the grave problems in this country. "While we are not exactly a minority in the United States," he said, "there are very grave problems in Jewish life which must be confronted. We must cease as Jews to act for others leaving our own questions unanswered, our own problems unsolved. We face every untried problem in American Jewish life, play it, tinker with it, and in some degree solve it. But we shun, evade, run away from the great problems." What these problems were, he declared, would be recounted in detail in his message to the Jewish Congress.

Others who addressed the conference were: Dr. Louis I. Harris, Dr. Mordecai Soltes, Z. Tygel, Herman G. Robbins, and Julius S. Burke.

The Council went on record as opposing the bill now in Congress to register aliens, authorized an investigation of discrimination practiced against Jews in various professions;

FREDERICK BROWN GIVES $700,000 BUILDING TO THE NEW YORK UNIVERSITY
Gift Equivalent to Endowment Fund of $1,900,000

A gift to New York University of a building, equivalent to at least $1,900,000 in endowment, by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brown, was announced by Percy S. Straus, chairman of the University's Centennial Fund. Mr. Brown, one of New York's leading real estate operators, is widely known for his philanthropies, having contributed $1,000,000 to the New York Federation for the Support of Philanthropic Societies in 1925.

The building, known as the Greenwich Building, is at the northwest corner of Washington Place and Greene Street and becomes a part of the Washington Square center of the university. It has been tenanted by the university for about ten years at an annual rental of $92,000 and is equipped with chemistry laboratories.

This is the tenth building to be acquired in the district, where 27,000 students attended classes last year.

The Greenwich Building was owned by Mr. Brown prior to the war. About ten years ago a firm, of which Aaron Rabinowitz, of Spear & Co., was president, purchased the structure and leased it to the university. The equipping was made possible through an anonymous gift. The contracts for the resale of the building to Mr. and Mrs. Brown were signed yesterday. The purchase price was $700,000. The University will take title on February 28.

The building is 102 feet by 100 feet with a total floor area of 68,200 square feet. It has twelve stories and is connected on all floors with the eleven-story main university building, which faces Washington Square. Commenting on the gift, Mr. Straus said:

"Mr. and Mrs. Brown responded in the spirit of fine generosity to the picture of New York University's needs and opportunities. There is one of the notable donations in the history of the university. Speaking for the Centennial Fund, I may say that their gift has a noble purpose."

"It satisfies one of several projects on the building program and completes our plans as regards this particular block; and secondly, it has the same effect as if approximately $1,900,000 had been added to the university's free endowment. It is pleasant to know that the work of the institution has won their interest and support."

Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, chancellor of the university, expressed himself as delighted with the acquisition of this building. He said that the university has put into it a magnificent laboratory which is serving the purpose both of instruction and of research.

JACOB MARK DIES IN NEW YORK AT THE AGE OF SEVENTY-ONE
Representative Leaders of Jewish Attend Funeral Services

Representatives of Brooklyn and Manhattan Jewish organizations and groups paid last tribute to Jacob Mark, Orthodox Jewish communal leader and writer, who died Sunday following a paralytic stroke at the age of 71. Funeral services were held at Congregation Chovevei Torah, Eastern Parkway and Albany Avenue, Brooklyn. Interment was in Beth David Cemetery, Long Island.

The late Mr. Mark was one of the most interesting personalities who came to the United States in the wave of post war immigration.

Born in Polangen, Courland, formerly a part of Russia, on November 22, 1852, Mr. Mark was educated in Talmudical schools. He was the first man in Imperial Russia to teach commercial science and bookkeeping by correspondence, starting the system in 1885. Many of his students emigrated to the United States and became prosperous business men. In Liban, Riga, St. Petersburg and other Russian cities he took a leading part in Jewish cultural and religious activities. He was a director of the immigrant welfare committee established by the Jewish Colonization Association at the close of the last century, when there was a great immigration from Russia to the United States. He was of assistance to thousands of these immigrants. Owing to his efforts, a direct steamship line from Liban to New York was established.

Mr. Mark came to this country in 1919 to establish closer commercial communication between the newly created Republic of Latvia and the United States. Since then he had become active in many Jewish educational institutions in Brooklyn and a frequent contributor to this City's Jewish journals.

A volume in Yiddish entitled "Celebrities of a Passing Generation" and containing his memoirs and the biographies of the outstanding rabbis and leaders of the Jews in pre-war Russia was published a year ago and found wide distribution. He was the founder and secretary of Chavrutza, a club of Jewish intellectuals, of which Peter Wernik, author of "The History of the Jews in America" and editor of The Jewish Morning Journal, is president.

The purpose of his trip is said to be to start negotiations in connection with petroleum supply.

Rabbi Witt declared: "Always in the clash with a new world, the throes of seeming dissolution turned out to be the birth pangs of a greater resurrected Judaism. Pleasing for greater Jewish consciousness," Rabbi Witt said. The strategy will fail us if we build not out on a permanent anti-defamation."

Move to Build Jewish Hospital in Detroit

By J. D. B. Correspondent
Detroit, Feb. 10.—The efforts of representatives of a Jewish hospital in Detroit have in the past three months, shown signs of fruition. From a handful who began to urge the need of a Jewish hospital, almost a quarter of a century ago, the ranks of supporters of the movement is swelling.

What is perhaps the greatest gain for the Jewish hospital movement here, however, is the statement given by the correspondent of the "Jewish Daily Bulletin," by Dr. W. L. Babcock, director of Grace Hospital, who temporarily on questions placed to him summarized the reasons for a Jewish hospital.

Speaking as a non-Jew, and as one who knows the Detroit hospital problem, Dr. Babcock stresses a Jewish hospital which would help solve a problem for the Jewish patient, as well as the Jewish physician.

Asked whether he believes there is need for a Jewish hospital from the point of view of the community at large, Dr. Babcock stated: "I have been convinced for several years, and have repeated this assertion many times, that Detroit is in need of a Jewish hospital from the viewpoint of the Jewish race and the community at large."

In his direct manner, Dr. Babcock answered "Yes" to the question whether there is "need for a Jewish hospital from the point of view of the Jewish patient who seeks a Jewish environment."

Dr. Babcock also believes that the Jewish physician will be helped by the establishment of a Jewish hospital. Asked whether the Jewish doctor would be helped professionally by the establishment of a Jewish hospital in Detroit, he said:

"Decidedly. I believe that the Jewish doctor for years past and at the present time has inadequate hospital facilities at his command."

To the question as to whether there is prejudice against Jewish physicians in Detroit hospitals and whether, in his opinion, such prejudice would be eliminated or decreased by the establishment of a Jewish hospital here, Dr. Babcock made the following answer:

"Unquestionably professional prejudices exist in many Detroit hospitals on the part of certain staff physicians against certain Jewish physicians. In the majority of instances this is an individual equation, but undoubtedly in the mass, influences the official appointment of Jewish physicians to hospital staffs. This Hospital (Grace) Harper Hospital and some of the other hospitals have Jewish physicians on their staff. Speaking for this hospital, they are able and highly acceptable colleagues. The development of a Jewish hospital will certainly not accentuate the personal prejudices

ANGED JEWISH COMMISSIONERS ON EXTENSION OF THE JEWISH AGENCY (MAY)

Board of Jewish Deputies to Take Up Subject Next Monday (Jewish Telegraph Agency)

London, Feb. 11.—The appointment of a new board of Jewish Agency commissioners will be taken up at the next meeting of the Board of Jewish Deputies, which will be held next Monday (February 17).

The agenda of the meeting, including the consideration of a communication from the World Zionist Organization in which final action on the Agency question is urged.

The Board of Jewish Deputies is expected to take the initiative on this matter, since it has been connected with the early stage of the Jewish Agency plan. The Zionist Organization now requires for its communication to the Board, which would take up the matter, the consent of a representative Anglo-Jewish conference on the question of the Jewish Agency, in order to demonstrate the desire of the entire community for participation in the work and in order to select representatives on the governing body of the extended Agency.

CONVERSIONISTS SET UP CENTER IN BIALYSTOK

(Jewish Telegraph Agency)

Warsaw, Feb. 11.—Bialystok is becoming a centre of conversionist activity, it is reported here. The first missionaries have established themselves in a building the walls of which are plastered with Hebrew texts from the Bible. It contains a reading room where newspapers, periodicals and missionary publications are provided. There is also a school and a free kitchen where food is given free of charge to people who thus come under the influence of the missionaries. The conversionists are particularly active among the children. Large numbers of poor Jews send their children to the Mission House for the sake of the food, and the children fall in this way under the influence of the conversionist propaganda.

Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit are rivals for the next convention, it was evident in the lobby during the discussion by the delegates. The decision will be made on Friday with the election of directors and officers.

The business sessions were opened Monday at ten o'clock with an address of welcome by Samuel Dinkelspiel, chairman of the San Francisco convention committee. COMPLAIN TOO MANY DOCTORS IN PALESTINE

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, Feb. 11—The physicians of Haifa have submitted a memorandum to the Government, states the Haifa paper "El Carmel," demanding restrictions on the immigration of physicians to Palestine, on the ground that there are too many doctors already in the country.

There were 405 Jewish doctors, including 127 women, in Palestine at the beginning of this year, according to a statement published by the Jewish Medical Society. Seven of them were on Government service, 66 work at the Hadassah and 24 in the Workmen's Sick Fund; 17 do not engage in their profession.

Jerusalem has 98 Jewish physicians, Jaffa and Tel Aviv 134, and Haifa 56.

which are usually engendered through the individual contacts in existing hospitals. It is believed that prejudices would decrease.

There are a number of Jews who believe in the establishment of a Jewish hospital will spell clannishness, and some even believe that such a hospital might further impair the standing of the Jewish physicians. Dr. Babcock does not subscribe to such a view. He says:

"I see no reason why the creation of a Jewish hospital would impair the standing of Jewish physicians. In this connection, however, a Board of Trustees of a new Jewish hospital, which should be composed wholly of laymen, should be warned that inter-staff prejudices and quarrels can only be avoided by strong control, and the allotment of senior positions on the staff to Jewish physicians, who from their professional standing, integrity, and ability are above petty professional jealousies. The statement of impairment of standing made by certain Jewish physicians, must have been made by physicians already holding staff positions."

It is generally believed that the almost unanimous communal demand for immediate effort for a Jewish hospital will bring early results. Laymen as well as physicians, and leaders in the community, have expressed themselves in favor of a hospital.

The members of the Reichsbund who are engaging in various sports are determined to repulse any attack on the part of the anti-Semites, it was declared. The organization will also further their land settlement of the war veterans, feeling that the Jews of Germany have "earned their right to German soil."

Kammergerichtsrat Wolf, president of the Prussian Federation of Jewish Communities, welcomed the meeting in behalf of his organization, urging the front soldiers to become the champions of peace. The meeting was concluded with the singing of "Deutschland."

A Jewish Literary and Historical Society was inaugurated in Montreal. The aims of this new society as outlined by Hyman Edelstein, are the promotion of interest in the creative work of Jewish, Yiddish and English, authors; the distribution of literature informing Canadian Jews periodically of noted works of Jewish interest; and the holding of three annual literary evenings with lectures by prominent Yiddish, English, Jewish and Hebrew writers.

The hospital closed its last fiscal year with a deficit of $52,000, according to the report of Berthold Flesher, chairman of the national finance committee, who urged that efforts be redoubled this year to make up this amount.

Among the reports was that of Ernest Morris, chairman of the vocational and rehabilitation committee, who described the work of the hospital school for children and adults. The children's school is recognized by the Denver Board of Education.

A budget of $500,000 was approved for the coming year for the hospital.
