JEW OF CRACOW FEAR POGROM AS ANTI-SEMITES ATTACK JEWISH STUDENTS

Mob Invades Jewish Quarter; Beats Residents; Police Says Jews Attacked Poles Day Before
(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Cracow, Nov. 15—There were repeated anti-Semitic student demonstrations within the University yesterday. Students belonging to the National Democratic party as well as to the Polish Association, refused to permit Jewish medical students to attend lectures or other classes. Those Jewish students who had reached the lecture halls were expelled.

In the vicinity of the University, students gathered, and together with rowdies, mistreated Jewish students and Jewish passersby. During the afternoon a meeting of Polish students was held in the court of the University. Anti-Semitic speeches were made and the introduction of a numerous clause was demanded.

The Polish students not only attacked Jewish students in the neighborhood of the University, but also gathered a mob and invaded the Jewish quarter, where they beat Jewish residents. One, Jacob Schechter, was seriously hurt. Attacks were also made on the office of a Zionist weekly paper. All of the Jewish stores in the

By GERSHON AGRONSKY

(Staff Correspondent, Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, Nov. 15—The Zionist Revisionists had their day in court yesterday when Wolfgang Von Weisl, prominent Zionist Revisionist and newspaper correspondent, testified as to the events of the 16th of August at the Wailing Wall and of the 23rd on the Jaffa Road, before the Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry. His evidence, which was the first unofficial eye-witness account of what transpired, was dramatically enhanced by the fact that he was among the first persons attacked on the 23rd. He is still suffering from the nearly fatal wounds he received, which are expected to permanently impair his health. He came to the hearing before the Inquiry Commission attended by a nurse and his wife, a Palestinian, who occupied the seat usually reserved for Lady Beiterton.

The description of what Weisl saw and experienced occupied but a fraction of the time of nearly a whole day's session that was devoted to a searching examination and cross examination of the Revisionists' principles, which the witness strongly defended. He explained, stressing again and again that Revisionism represents the first Zionist principles and contains nothing that could justly excite a feeling of apprehension among the Arabs.

Weisl further testified that he had arrived in Palestine prior to an intended journey to the United States, where he had been appointed correspondent of the "Vossische Zeitung." He explained that he had gone to the Wailing Wall on August 16 to witness the Arab demonstrations. He saw Arabs removing petitions from crevices in the Wailing Wall and tearing and trampling papers. Weisl said that he found sheets of burnt prayer-books, including the Tish B'Av lamentations.

VAAD LEUMI DEMANDS SAFEGUARDS; CHARGES ANARCHY DUE TO GOVERNMENT LAXNESS

Protests Negotiations for Palestine Parliament, as "Reward for Recent Pogroms"

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, Nov. 15—At an extraordinary session of the Jewish National Council (Vaad Leumi) held today it was decided to inform High Commissioner Chancellors that the present state of anarchy in Palestine is due to the weakness of the government and to demand measures be taken to establish order.

The Vaad Leumi also protested against negotiations by the government or by private persons with the Arab leaders concerning the establishment of a Palestinian parliament, considering such an offer a concession for the recent pogroms. The Vaad Leumi called on the Palestine Jewish community for strong discipline and forbade separate political steps. Pincus Rutenberg was re-elected president.

Concerning reconstruction, the Vaad Leumi decided that a central financial institution should be created, the directors to be appointed by the Jewish Agency and by the Vaad Leumi.

The district commissioner yesterday invited the Grand Mufti and three other Arab notables to a conference after the wounding of a British soldier at Safed. The commissioner warned them that they will be held responsible for any repetition of the firing.

RELIGIOUS RITES AT PRESENTATION OF FIRST CORPSE TO JEWISH STUDENTS

Body of Beggar, Once Wealthy Jewish, Presented by Warsaw Kehillah
(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Warsaw, Nov. 15—An unusual Jewish ceremony, the first of its kind in Warsaw, was held here Wednesday when for the first time a Jewish corpse was formally submitted to the Protectorium of the Warsaw University. This was done in order that the Jewish medical students of the University might be able to do anatomical work on dead bodies, having been restricted from experimenting on Christian corpses.

The body turned over to the University was that of the late Nachome Lipschitz, a woman, who in her younger days, was very wealthy and had lived in Russia, but died recently in the Warsaw Jewish Hospital in poverty, having been a beggar in the streets of Warsaw before her death.

At the request of the Jewish medical students, who were handicapped in their anatomical experiments, the Warsaw Jewish Kehillah decided to give them the body of Nachome Lipschitz. This was formally done Wednesday with unusual religious formalities.

Exactly at midnight the representatives of the Chevra Kadisha Society came to the hospital, clad entirely in black and carrying black candles, carried away the coffin containing the corpse. Seven times around the Protectorium of the University they carried the coffin, at the same time chanting chapters from the Psalms. Later the "Shames" begged the corpse's forgiveness in the name of the Jewish Kehillah.

2 ARABS MURDERED IN PETACH TIKVAH

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, Nov. 15.—Two Arabs were murdered Wednesday night near Petach Tikvah. The first was a case of an Arab policeman who had slept in an Arab house at the village of Rente. About midnight somebody knocked at the door. When the policeman opened the door to answer he was fired on. A family quarrel is suspected.

The second case was of an Arab worker who slept in a Jewish orange grove. His death is thought to have been revenge because he had denounced another Arab as a keeper of bombs. The latter had been arrested and it was probable the bomb-keepers' relatives had revenged his betrayal.

The house of a Jewish watchman of one of the orange groves at Rehoboth was fired into last night by Arabs. The present state of the country is characterized by everybody here as disturbed and anarchic.

ACCUSES PERETZ CLUB OF INCONSISTENCY IN YIDDISH SCHOOL FIGHT PROTEST

"Hajnt" Says Bundists Justify Mufli's Pogromists

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Warsaw, Nov. 15.—Responding to protest voiced in New York against the campaign against the Yiddish schools here conducted by the "Hajnt," the paper asks why the Peretz Writers Club, initiators of the protest, is boycotting the staff of the "Freiheit" for greetings sent to the Arabs and is at the same time demanding tolerance for the Bundists who have justified the Mufli's pogromists. The "Hajnt" says "we are fighting Bundist hegemony over Jewish culture because we seek to strengthen Jewish cultural values by liberating it from caste control."

The J. L. Peretz Writers Club, at a general meeting in New York called to protest the fight against the Yiddish schools in Poland, had issued an appeal to the writers of the Warsaw paper the "Hajnt," asking them and "warning as colleagues" to stop their campaign against the Yiddish schools, emphasizing the great damage they were doing by destroying the cultural institutions. The appeal stated that the Jewish democracy of the world was behind these schools and that their destruction would result in great grief and sorrow to the Jewish democracy.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Washington, Nov. 15.—Assistant Superintendent of Police Millozi and Police Lieutenant Panova of the Bucharest police department have been suspended in connection with the maltreatment of Saul Solomon by the Bucharest police, according to information obtained yesterday at the Roumanian legation in Washington. Proper charges have been brought against both officers and they will be tried on November 18.

APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT IN JEWISH CENTER DISPUTE

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Cleveland, Nov. 15.—The committee representing the Orthodox minority in the Cleveland Jewish Center has filed a motion in the Supreme Court of Ohio for an order directing the Court of Appeals to certify its record in the celebrated Jewish Orthodox-Conservative Congregation case for review in the Supreme Court for cause of error in decision.

In September the Court of Appeals had dismissed the suit of the Orthodox minority on the ground that it was a strictly ecclesiastical matter. For more than a year American Jewry has been watching with interest the progress of the dispute between the Conservative faction represented by Rabbi Goldman and the Orthodox faction by Abraham A. Katz. The latter has led the fight to keep the majority from turning the Jewish Center into a Conservative congregation.

LORD ALLENBY WARNS AGAINST OPTIMISM LESSEN- ING PALESTINE SAFEGUARDS

Cannot Lightly Lay Down Responsibilities Assumed, He States

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

London, Nov. 15.—In the course of a speech yesterday in the House of Lords, Lord Allenby, conqueror of Palestine, said: "To an onlooker like myself, the recent events in Palestine show that there is danger of too much optimism leading to a lessening of the safeguards. We could and we should afford reasonable security. We have assumed a great responsibility by the assumption of several mandates, responsibilities which other nations declined to assume. We could not lightly lay them down. We are in honor bound to carry out our trusteeship. Our army force in former years was a great imperial police force which is now becoming a universal police force. We must keep it such if the state would uphold the mandates entrusted to it. Attack is the only effective form of defense."

It was Weiss who piloted from Lisbon in 1927 the American Jewish aviatrix, Ruth Elder, after her trans-Atlantic crossing.

REVISIONISTS HAVE DAY IN COURT; WOLFGANG VON WEISL TELLS OF FIRST ATTACKS; EXPLAINS REVISIONIST STAND

The new gate was open and a dozen Arabs had used it before Acting-Governor Cust of Jerusalem arrived, said Weisl, who declared he saw between 40 and 50 Arabs.

Coming down to the tragic Friday which saw the beginning of the outbreaks, Weisl said that he first heard rumors of disturbances on the Jaffa road after one o'clock. He rushed to the Jaffa Gate where he saw British police with rifles and unarmed Arab police. A British officer and Cust were there when 150 or 200 Arabs came to the gate brandishing swords and sticks. The witness added that he saw a Jew running towards the police but he was hit before he reached them. He got up and was hit again. The police picked him up and placed him behind their lines.

Weisl told how Cust tried to calm the Arabs but five minutes later another Jew was knocked down and the mob rushed down the Bethlehem road, but were intercepted by the police. Weisl said he eventually proceeded down the Jaffa road where he heard the alarmed Jews shout that the Arabs were coming. The mob was shepherded by two mounted police in the front and a motorcar of four British police in the rear. The mob was moving more or less quietly, he continued, when suddenly a big Arab rushed at a Jew with a stick. Almost simultaneously Weisl was struck by two Arabs but he warded off the blows of his attackers with his sun helmet. Weisl said he grasped one assailant and shouted to the police to arrest him, but the police said they were too busy. As the Arab tried to disentangle himself from Weisl's grip, another Arab stabbed Weisl in the back.

The witness said he was certain that he saw the police push his attacker back into the procession. It was at that time that Raitan was mortally hit by another Arab and Itamar, Ben Avi, Hebrew publicist, exclaimed that he had been hurt.

After putting to Weisl a question regarding the time of the assault, William Henry Stoker, Arab counsel, launched into a cross examination of Weisl's views on Revisionism.

Weisl stated that he came to Palestine in 1922, immediately applying for citizenship which was granted to him in 1925. Explaining his views on Zionism, he declared that while it is true that he does not agree with Dr. Weizmann, it is untrue that the views of the Revisionists are more extreme than those of other Zionists. Dr. Weizmann's political and economic policy, he stated, is regarded by the Revisionists "as harmful to the development of Palestine and the Zionist organization in three ways, namely: 1. Weizmann has overemphasized the philanthropic side of Palestine upbuilding. We do not believe that gifts alone will build the country although we recognize their importance. Secondly, the money collections necessitate the creation of an optimistic atmosphere by the Zionist Organization, thus obliging the Zionists to tell the Jews that conditions are satisfactory, whereas we believe the contrary. Thirdly, the Revisionists oppose the unproductive manner in which the money is spent in Palestine," Von Weisl stated.

"The New Palestine," official organ of the Zionist Organization of America, figured prominently in the proceedings because of two articles by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of the Jewish Agency and the World Zionist Organization. In one of these articles, Dr. Weizmann wrote: "The key to the door of Palestine is not in the hands of the High Commissioner, but in the pockets of the Jews of America."

Asked by Stoker whether he agreed to this statement, Weisl said, that while he does not wish to interpret Weizmann's meaning, he understands the quotation to mean that the doors of Palestine would open wider, if the Jews would increase their financial contributions. The Revisionists, however, dissent from such a view. They believe the key to the door of Palestine is in the hands of the High Commissioner since the Jews would be prepared to give millions of dollars if favorable legislation for Jewish immigration were obtained.

Turning to an article by Von Weisl in "The New Palestine" of August 21st, two days before the witness was stabbed, entitled "By Order of the Grand Mufti," Stoker demanded to know whose views were represented there. Replying, Von Weisl said the article expressed his own views. He declared the source of his information regarding the removal of the screen from the Walling Wall, in 1928, on Yom Pippur, was the beadle. He asserted that he still believes that no harm would have been done the Arabs, if the screen had been removed a few hours later, and less harm would have been caused the Jews than by taking it away during the progress of the Holiday services. Keith Roach, District Commissioner of Jerusalem, by whose order the screen was removed, could have requested the Grand Mufti to agree that the screen remain until after the services, asserted Weisl.

Returning to the events which led up to the riots in August, Weisl declared that he was informed the day before Tisha B'Ab, the day of the Jewish demonstration, that the Arabs were preparing to attack the Jews early the next morning. The Jews, asserted the witness, go to the Walling Wall, not only for prayer, but for moral and nationalist reasons.

JEWS AND ARABS MUST WORK TOGETHER, MISS SZOLD TELLS HADASSAH

The Jew Must Not Imagine Every Arab a Monster, She States

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Atlantic City, Nov. 15.—"Jews and Arabs will have to get together and solve their common problem in Palestine. It is a mistake to look upon the Arabs as an inferior people. Nor are they all being led by propagandists. The Jew must not imagine that every Arab is a monster."

These were some of the thoughts expressed by Miss Henrietta Szold, honorary president of Hadassah, women's Zionist organization, before the evening session of the first day of Hadassah's fifteenth annual convention. The address was the first delivered by Miss Szold since her return to this country from Palestine, where she had remained for two years.

In bringing greetings on behalf of the Zionist Organization of America, Louis Lipsky, president, said that it is now being realized that Zionism is a dynamic force that must come in too tact with other dynamic forces. Too many, he said, viewed the Balfour Declaration and the Mandate as inanimate objects. "There was a lack of understanding among us," he added. "There is bound to be a struggle. It is in the struggle that the National Jewish Home is being built, and in this way the new Jewish nation will be born." The women of America, Mr. Lipsky added, will surely contribute their share.

A prolonged ovation was given to Mrs. Felix Warburg, who told how Miss Szold first interested her in Palestine and Hadassah at a time when she was more interested in similar work in China and South America. "Now I think of Eretz Israel every day." She made a prolonged plea for Jewish unity and harmony among the Jewish women of America, adding the hope that there will be no more factions in Israel so far as Palestine is concerned.

Nathan Straus, veteran philanthropist, called upon the Jews of America to reaffirm their confidence in Palestine as a Jewish homeland and pleads for "renewed zeal and support" in a message read.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, world Zionist leader, in a cable from London, declared his confidence in Great Britain as a mandatory Power and says that Jewish colonization in Palestine must be hastened.

TO SEND PHYSICIANS TO DR. TICHO BY PLANE

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Vienna, Nov. 15.—News about the Arab attack on Dr. Ticho in Jerusalem has caused great indignation among Austrian Jewry, since Ticho is a native of this country. His relatives here are preparing to send the best available physicians to his bedside in Jerusalem via aeroplane in order to save his life.

REVISIONISTS HAVE DAY IN COURT; WEISL APPEARS AT INQUIRY HEARING

Administration, displayed keener interest in von Weisl than in any other witness which has yet appeared before the Commission, asking a number of leading questions with clear intent to show the danger of the Revisionist policy.

Asked to explain the objects of Revisionism, Weisl asserted that its object is the gradual development of a Jewish majority in Palestine, reminding the Commissioners that this program was taken from the speech made by Sir Herbert Samuel, first High Commissioner of Palestine, in 1919. Gradual, he explained, means twenty-five or thirty years. It is the Revisionist hope that the Arabs, in becoming a minority, should have no less rights than the Revisionists ask today for a Jewish minority.

The views expressed by Vladimir Jabotinsky, head of the Zionist Revisionists, in an open letter to the London "Times" following the outbreak, which were the subject of much comment, were endorsed by the witness.

Explaining the opposition of the majority of the Chazulim to Revisionism, the witness asserted that the Chazulim, Palestine pioneers, oppose Revisionism, because they consider it more important to obtain help from rich American Jews than to obtain the maximum of assistance from the Government. The Revisionists, on the other hand, do not believe that the difficulties can be overcome with money alone. Government co-operation is necessary in order to attract money.

The troubles at the Wailing Wall could have been avoided, had the government taken a firmer stand, he averred.

"Don't you think another outbreak would occur if the Arabs feared that they were being swamped?" asked Preedy.

"No such fear is justifiable," replied Weisl. "The experience of the last ten years shows that the Arab population has increased faster than the Jews, despite Jewish immigration. Palestine and Transjordan together are capable of supporting five million people, whereas the highest Jewish population figures one might expect would be three million. The Revisionist idea is to make Palestine a place where the Jews outnumber the Arabs otherwise our coming here is not worthwhile," he declared.

Continuing, he said: "An immigration of twenty-five thousand Jews annually is possible if Palestine could be made to attract middle class Jews, leaving the initiative to them, and if the Zionist Organization would not interfere too much, merely creating suitable conditions."

"Wouldn't the Arabs become nervous over an increased immigration?" queried Preedy. Weisl's reply was: "Thirty-five thousand Jews entered Palestine in 1925 and Arab-Jewish relations were never happier." Immigration slackened in the years 1926-1927, he pointed out, due to economic depression caused by outside factors, and the government was obliged to provide unemployment relief. He stated between forty and fifty percent of the taxation is paid by the Jews.

The Revisionist view, he maintained, is not that Palestine should become as Jewish as England is English. "It will be sufficient if the Jews form more than one-half of the population. If the Jews form a majority, they would no more oppress the Arabs than they wish to be oppressed by the Arab majority now. We want a Jewish majority, because we fear that the Arabs will do to the Jews what they say they fear the Jews will do to them."

The Revisionists object to self-government in Palestine, because it is dangerous and pernicious to the Jewish settlement, he said. It is very unreasonable for the Arabs to object to a Jewish majority since Emir Feisal of Iraq, who was the representative of the Arabs at the Peace Conference, wrote a letter to Dr. Weizmann in which he expressed agreement with the Jewish nationalist aspirations.

Von Weisl's contentions concerning an increased Jewish immigration were supported by Sir Boyd Merriam, counsel for the Jewish Agency, who pointed out that the Arabs were absolutely bound to share from the developments in industry, agriculture, and in other ways as a result of a larger Jewish immigration.

Von Weisl was followed on the witness stand by district officer of Nablus, Miller. Miller described the Arab demonstration on August 17th in celebration of the birthday of the Prophet, which followed on the heels of the Tisha B'Ab demonstration of the Jews, and which led up to the bloody outbreak on August 23rd.

Miller stated that the rowdy elements among the Moslems proceeded to Jerusalem on August 17th, a most unusual occurrence, since normally only the better class of Moslems go. He declared that the Young Men's Moslem Association has changed from a religious body, organized to oppose the Young Men's Christian Association, to a political body. He declared the Moslem Youth wished to hold a demonstration against the alleged demonstration of the Tel Aviv youth, at the Wailing Wall, which he refused to permit.

On August 20th, he said, the Arab shops in Nablus were closed owing to reports that the Jews had killed Moslems in Jerusalem. The crowd, he asserted, pretended not to believe that the rumor was false, shouting: "We believe only the Grand Mufti." When the Grand Mufti telephoned that he did not require the help of the Moslem youth of Nablus, the leading Moslem notables assured him that they were all awaiting his orders.

The Moslems, he asserted, who were previously disorganized, became united after August 16th, due to the Wailing Wall issue.

He stated he saw two German hand grenades used by Arabs of Nablus.

JEWES OF CRACOW FEAR POGROM AS ANTI-SEMITES ATTACK JEWISH STUDENTS

Jewish quarter have closed down, their owners fearing a pogrom.

The Jewish students' houses, the Hebrew gymnasium and the office of the Jewish daily newspaper in Cracow, "Nowy Dziennik," were guarded by special police detachments. A statement issued yesterday by the police declared that the day previous, Jews had attacked Polish students sitting in front of the University, one of whom was badly beaten. The Polish students yesterday took revenge for that attack by beating up one Jewish student whom they recognized as being one of those responsible for the previous affair.

The Polish Minister of Education telephoned the Rector of the University, warning him that unless the anti-Semitic outbreaks ceased, the University would be closed for six months. An appeal to the Polish students, asking them for order, has been published by the Rector.

The Polish Students Organization has appealed to the Central Committee of Polish Academic Organizations to adopt its decision favoring numerus clausus for Jewish students at all Polish universities. The Jewish Academic Organization has decided to institute an energetic fight against a numerus clausus.

$15,000 ADDITIONAL FOR PALESTINE FUND

The receipt of additional contributions totaling over $15,000 brings the Palestine Emergency Fund to a grand total of $2,052,077, said David A. Brown, chairman of the Fund, yesterday.

Asked by Silley, junior Arab counsel: "Do you think the Moslem excitement was the natural outcome of the Jewish demonstrations?" Miller replied: "I don't think any procession or demonstration any place in Palestine would cause trouble without the work of agitators. The people of this country follow a few agitators."

"Who generally leave the country when trouble comes?" inquired Silley. "Sometimes," replied Miller. "Like the Zionist officials?" interrogated the Arab counsel. "Yes, and I might say like the government officials," asserted Miller.

Acting Governor of Jerusalem Cust was recalled to the witness stand yesterday. Cust described the exciting effect produced on the Jews by articles in the Hebrew press, following the permission given by the government to the Arabs to build at the Wailing Wall. He said also that the proceedings in Zurich affected the Arabs.
