Crisis in Hungarian Cabinet Likely from Klebelsberg's Ban on Numerus Clausus (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Budapest, Feb. 7.—The likelihood of a cabinet crisis in Hungary has arisen as a result of the Christian Economic Party's threat to withdraw its support from the government if the speech of Count Kuno Klebelsberg, minister of education, declaring that he would oppose numerus clausus, means a change in the government's political course. This threat appeared in a resolution unanimously adopted at a conference of the Christian Economic Party at which the party's leader, Dr. Joseph Vass, Minister of Social Welfare and Labor, urged that the conference postpone adoption of the resolution until Count Klebelsberg is given an opportunity to explain himself before a confidential meeting of the party.

In connection with the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of "Egyenloeszeg," the organ of Hungarian Jewry, Count Klebelsberg made a number of flattering remarks about the Jews of Hungary and definitely declined to permit numerus clausus in the universities and promised to do all in his power to reestablish a national united religious front in Hungary.

The coalition party, which is now the government party, disapproves of the resolution adopted by the Christian Economic party because of a feeling that his pro-Jewish attitude will be of value to Hungary at The Hague and will also aid in negotiations for a foreign loan. Hence the coalitionists

Soviet Furnishing Flour on Credit to Jewish Colonists (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Moscow, Feb. 7.—Hundreds of Jewish colonists in the Ukraine and Crimea, now without bread will not go hungry because the Soviet government has begun to provide them with flour on credit until a new crop is reported. The lack of bread was foreseen because during the grain collection last November the Jewish colonists submitted to the government more than they could, leaving for themselves limited reserves which are now exhausted.

Arabs Decline to Pay London Delegation Expenses (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, Feb. 7.—Most of the Arab population has refused to pay anything towards the expenses of the Arab delegation going to London. The opposition to contributing is particularly strong in Jaffa. It is argued that the members of the delegation should cover their expenses from their own funds.

Hinkis Writes to Parents About His Innocence (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, Feb. 7.—The Jewish constable Hinkis, who has been sentenced to death for being implicated in the murder of five Arabs, has sent a moving letter to his parents who live in Kovno, Poland, telling them of his innocence and declaring that he murdered no one but defended others at the risk of his life and that his innocence will be proved by the court of appeal. He asks his father to encourage his mother.

SAYS THERE ARE NO KULAKS AMONG JEWISH COLONISTS (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Moscow, Feb. 7.—The Jewish colonists have abandoned their resistance to entering the collective farms and are now joining them more willingly since the collectives receive better provision. At a meeting of the Ozet today reports were given that showed the collectivization of the Jewish colonies is going on more rapidly notwithstanding the resistance of the Jewish kulaks. The Soviet agronomist theoretician, A. Baturinsky, who is a member of the Ozet's praesidium, demanded that no fight be conducted against the Jewish kulaks because "there are no kulaks among the Jews. His demand, however, was termed by the meeting chicanism and right heresy and was rejected.

Charge Prejudice in Rejection of Jewish Sculptor's Model After Art Body Picked It (Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Milwaukee, Feb. 7.—Charges that the design for the Pulaski monument submitted by Enrico Glicenstein, Chicago sculptor, and selected by the Art Committee, had been rejected by the Board of Directors of the Pulaski Monument Association of Milwaukee because the sculptor is a Jew, are being denied by Casimir Gonski, a leader in the Association and a local politician.

Glicenstein, whose design had been awarded first place, has twice won the Prix de Rome. Second place was given to Joseph Kisielewski of Browerville, Minn., and the Board rejected Glicenstein's design in favor of Kisielewski's work. The statue to be placed in Pulaski Park in October is to be paid for by public subscription of $15,000.

Friends of Glicenstein here charged that his model was rejected because he is a Jew, although of Polish descent, and Kisielewski, a Pole, given the award because he would be more popular with the Polish element in the population who will be asked to subscribe. Gonski, however, insists that the design selected was chosen because the Board deemed it best, the requirements and nationalities and personalities of artists were not considered.

The committee of artists that picked Glicenstein's model consisted of Char-

Independents Seek Separate Settlement with Union as 2,000 More Join Strike

As the Jewish Daily Bulletin goes to press, the conference called by Governor Roosevelt for Friday in Albany for the purpose of settling the New York dressmakers' strike is being held and the results of the conference are not yet known.

On Thursday sixty independent manufacturers sought from the union settlement committee an agreement according to which their employees would immediately return to the shops on the union's terms, Samuel Perlmutter, chairman of the committee, announced. Mr. Perlmutter said, however, that no settlement will be considered for the present, since the union is determined to make agreements for the entire trade.

Lieutenant-Governor Herbert H. Lehman, who was in New York Thursday, in answer to a question declared that he would be willing to serve as mediator in the strike if all parties concerned in the strike would want him to act in that capacity. The Lieutenant-Governor returned to Albany Friday afternoon to participate in the conference between the union and employers' organizations.

Two thousand additional dressmakers from non-union shops walked out on Thursday, which brought the total number of dressmakers on strike to 30,000, leaving the number remaining at work at 5,000. A clash between striking pickets and communists who are opposing the union and its strike call took place on Thursday but it was quickly brought to an end by the interference of the police.

At the conference in Albany the Union delegation is headed by President Schlesinger. The "inside shop" manufacturers, known as the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers, Inc., is repre-

Says Hinkis's Death Sentence Is Calamity for Palestine

"Where Shall We Get the Necessary Confidence?" is the caption of an editorial in Friday's "Day" which deals with the death sentence imposed by a British court in Palestine on the Jewish policeman, Hinkis, who was accused of leading a group of Jews which killed an Arab family. Declaring that the evidence against Hinkis was at most circumstantial, the editorial says: "And still the court issued a death sentence! Such sentences are a calamity for the population of a country, since they undermine confidence in that justice which rules over them. The famous Russian-Jewish lawyer, Gruzenberg, once said: 'The real Jewish pogroms took place not in the streets and in the home where the criminals did their pogrom work, but in the Russian courts, whose duty it was to sentence the criminals.'"

"Wherever courts have issued false verdicts, wherever they have freed the guilty and sentenced the innocent, there Jews have lost their last shred of confidence in the reigning power, their last ounce of belief in the existing justice. And then chaos began to reign among them.

"Does England want to bring the Jewish population in Palestine to such a terrible condition? We would wish that the Jewish population there should have the fullest confidence in the justice meted out by the British power in the country. But observing such sentences, where shall we get the necessary confidence?"

Miss Solis-Cohen Leaves Jewish Welfare Board

Announcement has been made at the National Offices of the Jewish Welfare Board of the resignation of Miss Emily Solis-Cohen, field secretary for women's work since 1923, to take effect at the end of February.

Prior to Miss Solis-Cohen's connection with the Board, she was well known as a communal worker and as an author; among her works are children's stories with Jewish themes. She is now leaving the Board in order to have more time for writing.

In her work with the Board, she was responsible for developing the program of women's work for community centers. In this connection she succeeded in enlisting the interest and aid of hundreds of representative women throughout the country. She also took a leading part in promoting and formulating the adult educational activities of the Board.

sented by a delegation headed by Louis L. Schwartz, president. The jobbers, members of the Wholesale Dress Manufacturers, and the contractors, the Association of Dress Manufacturers, are also represented.

Turkish Government to Aid Jewish Schools

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Constantinople, Feb. 7.—The Turkish government has decided to reorganize the school system of the minorities and will contribute to their budgets but has at the same time ruled that the elementary schools must be Turkish. Hitherto the minority schools have received no government support. This law as well as the one prohibiting foreign schools will greatly aid in the revival of the Jewish schools which have had a serious competitor in the French missionary schools which were mostly attended by the children of middle class Jews while the poorer Jewish children attended the Jewish schools. With the abolition of the missionary schools the middle class Jewish children will return to the Jewish schools and not the Turkish schools because they had gone to the missionary schools only to learn a foreign language.

Memorial Services for Jewish Actors Feb. 16th

Warburg of New York, famous Jewish philanthropist, and Mrs. Warburg, and Herbert N. Straus of R. H. Macy & Co., and Mrs. Straus.

Sol Stroock Heads Jewish Theological Seminary Board

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, Solomon M. Stroock was elected chairman of the board, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Louis Marshall. Mr. Stroock, a well known member of the bar, has been a member of the board of the Seminary for 18 years, and has served in many other public capacities. He is president of the Metropolitan League of Jewish Communities Associations, and was president of the Y. M. H. A. of New York. He was also president of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, in the city of New York. Together with his brothers, he established at the Seminary, the Abraham Berliner Prize in Jewish Theology and the Abraham Berliner series of Seminary Publications, in memory of their uncle, the distinguished scholar, Abraham Berliner.

Louis Finkelstein, instructor in Talmud, and Solomon Schechter, lecturer in theology, were promoted to the rank of associate professor.

Dr. Cyrus Adler, president, reported that work on the new buildings of the Seminary is progressing rapidly. The exterior is now complete and it is expected that the three buildings will be ready by the beginning of the summer. The dedication exercises will probably be held in the autumn at the time of the opening of the new term.

The report of Dr. Adler showed that out of 67 who applied for admission to the Rabbinical Department this term, 18 were admitted, making a total registration, exclusive of the post graduate department, of 75. There are now enrolled 32 candidates for higher degrees.

In the Teachers Institute, 114 applied for admission to the Main Department. Of these, 82 were admitted, making a total of 197 students in this department. In the Post Graduate Department, 18 students are enrolled. In the Extension Department, there is an enrollment of 151 students. There is at present an enrollment in all departments of the Teachers Institute of 366 students.

Baltimore Jews, Christians in Good Will Gathering

Dr. Stephen Wise, Criticizing Zionist Organization of America, Says It Hasn't Separate Existence or Program of Its Own

The Zionist Organization of America has been nothing more than a sounding board for the voice of London, has had no separate existence, no program of its own and its motto, rightly or wrongly, has been "amen," declares Dr. Stephen S. Wise in replying to a question among others submitted to him by the "Hazman," a Hebrew paper in Tel Aviv, of whether the Zionist Organization of America is strong enough to make itself felt in the coming months.

Continuing, Dr. Wise says that the Zionist Organization of America "assented with a minimum of reservation to the Agency plans" and "it must now more or less gracefully accept the penalties of self-obliteration. There is still a deep and wide-spread Zionist feeling in America, but it has been woefully hurt in the last few years. Whether it can be made to live again will depend upon the firmness of the Zionist position. If the Agency becomes in Palestine the counterpart of the Joint Distribution Committee in Eastern Europe, the Zionist movement will speedily become a thing of memory."

Answering the "Hazman's" question as to his opinion of the present situation in Palestine and whether it is critical in Palestine and in America, Dr. Wise said that he does not believe "that the situation has for a moment been critical in Palestine" and "it was not critical even at its worst." Neither does he believe that it will become critical. As for America that "depends very largely upon the spirit that will be revealed by the Zionist Executive and the Jewish Agency. If the Agency is to follow the lead of Dr. Magnes and assent to the doctrine that the Yishuv can be pogromized into virtually unchallenging acquiescence in the fiat of the Mufti and his followers, not the Arabs, then indeed are we in a critical situation, and it may become true that the Yishuv will, as a result of the crisis in the Galuth, be undone."

Dr. Wise has hope that Dr. Weizmann "will rise to the height of the occasion" and "be firmer than he has been in the past in dealing with the British Colonial Office." He believes that "it is for Dr. Weizmann now, representing the World Zionist Organization, not to be driven into the non-Zionist group, which in America has shown woeful symptoms of a recrudescence of anti-Zionism at its worst, but to insist with redeeming firmness that the Balfour Declaration is not to be whittled down, that the Mandate has reference to the creation of a Jewish National Home without equivocation or attenuation of any kind."

Speaking of what should be the action of the Zionist Executive and what might be expected of the Jewish Agency, Dr. Wise declares that "the Agency must follow the lead of its Zionist membership" and "must do what Dr. Weizmann and the Zionist members of the Agency Council will insist that it shall do."

With reference to the union of the Joint Distribution Committee and the Jewish Agency campaigns Dr. Wise feels that while circumstances make it inevitable "none the less it is lamentable. The Agency signified the union of all forces for work in Palestine, after years and years of alleviation and amelioration in Eastern Europe, and now at the very creation of the Agency, its first great public act in America is bound up with the old effort of the Joint Distribution Committee, needful it is alas, but unhappily brought into seeming parity with the infinitely higher purpose of the Jewish Agency. But here again what the outcome is to be will depend largely upon the strength of Dr. Weizmann."

Answering the "Hazman's" last question as to whether he is hopeful for the immediate future Dr. Wise replied that he is "not certain that the Agency or the Zionist Executive can immediately save the present situation in Palestine, but I know that neither alone nor both together can permanently destroy the ground on which the Zionist hope rests. The answer to every Zionist question will ultimately come, not from London, New York or Warsaw, but from Eretz Israel, and from them who are its builders and re-makers."

Crisis in Hungarian Cabinet Likely from Klebelsberg's Ban on Numerus Clausus

are of the opinion that Klebelsberg's declaration is in the national interest. It is also indicated that the coalitionists hope by supporting Count Klebelsberg that they will reduce the popularity of the Christian Economic party.

The speech of Count Klebelsberg that has stirred up the situation likely to lead to a cabinet crisis follows:

"In being present as minister of education and public worship, I have merely done my duty towards a great religious community. I welcome the fact that the 'Egyenloeszeg,' in addition to topical news, devotes a column to religious ethics. A firm coalition is necessary between the state and religion. We must not stop at a national united front but we must create too a religious united front.

"It would be a mistake to believe that the Hungarian nation in its magnificent reconstruction work could dispense with the immense spiritual and moral energies which the Jewish religious community represents."

Referring to Dr. Geza Desi's speech the same evening, which had touched upon numerus clausus, Count Klebelsberg said he would not speak any further on that problem but he did say "you know that at the time I did not approve of the numerus clausus law but walked out into the corridors of Parliament emphasizing from the beginning that the numerus clausus law would become the source of many evils. By the new legislative act I formally removed from the numerus clausus law everything in it that was offensive to the Jews."

Count Klebelsberg recalled that during the Tisza government, he had worked together with Leopold Vadsoz and afterwards when he was "already a cabinet minister, I visited Vadsoz when he was seriously ill. He said to me 'as a Hungarian I have lost two-thirds of my fatherland. As a Jew I see my co-religionists oppressed.' I have never seen Vadsoz again, but I gave him then my assurance that as soon as political conditions permitted I would do everything possible to establish a united religious front. This conception has always carried weight, both in my private and in my political activities."

The "Pester Lloyd," one of the leading papers, in commenting on Count Klebelsberg's speech said it was not an ordinary ministerial address but a stepping stone in the restoration of sanity in public life. "Those looking back to the days of terror, pogroms and bomb outrages can measure the length of the road we have travelled and the ethical and political purification which our nation has gone through that a minister in office, without an anxious side glance at race protectors, should come out so definitely against anti-Semitism and unfurl the banner of national religious unity is certainly a promising sign of a return."

Referring to Count Klebelsberg's

Mizrachi Condemns Utterances of Brith Shalom and Magnes

The recent utterances of Dr. Magnes and the Brith Shalom group about the future course of Jews in Palestine were strongly condemned by Gedaliah Bublick, president of the American Orthodox Zionist organization, Mizrachi, at a banquet of the New York Mizrachi Thursday night in the Broadway Central Hotel. Prominent orthodox rabbis spoke at the banquet, which was presided over by Jacob H. Kahn.

Mr. Bublick in his talk declared that there are none among the Mizrachi who share the Brith Shalom attitude. The Mizrachi, he said, does not despair and will refuse to barter Jewish rights and demands in Palestine for the sake of a cultural center. Orthodox Jewry, declared Mr. Bublick, has always desired that Palestine should be a place of real Jewish culture, since it says in its prayers that "from Zion goes forth the law," but it has also desired that Palestine should be a center for the people of Israel. "The new culturists who are satisfied with a university in Palestine instead of a homeland can find no sympathy in the Mizrachi," he stated.

Other speakers were: Rabbi Israel Rosenberg, honorary president of the Agudath Ha'Rabonim; Rabbi Zev Gold, vice-president of the Mizrachi; Rabbi Eliazar Silver, president of the Agudath Ha'Rabonim; Rabbi Aaron Teitelbaum, member of the Mizrachi World Executive; Rabbi Elijah Inzelbuch; Mrs. A. Goldstein, president of the Mizrachi Women's Organization; Zevi Karp, president of Mizrachi Ha'Zair; and Edward M. Silver, president of the Council of Young Israel.

Lt.-Gov. Lehman's Niece on Board of Child Welfare

Mrs. Helen Buttenweiser, a niece of Lieutenant-Governor Lehman, was sworn in Thursday as a member of the Board of Child Welfare, at City Hall, by Mayor Walker. Mrs. Buttenweiser is experienced in welfare work, having been connected with various settlements in this city. Her term of office expires in 1937. The post carries no salary.

declaration regarding numerus clausus, "Pester Lloyd" regrets that numerus clausus itself still remains. "We assure Count Klebelsberg that the entire abolition of numerus clausus will not encounter any opposition worth mentioning either in public opinion or in both houses of Parliament."

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Budapest, Feb. 7.—The government coalition party issued a communique today restating on its earlier opinion regarding Count Klebelsberg. It now declares that he had not issued a political declaration but had merely addressed a Jewish festive meeting and had recalled some reminiscences of the early days of numerus clausus.

Charge Prejudice in Rejection of Jewish Sculptor's Model After Art Body Picked It

lotta R. Partridge, directress of the Layton Art Gallery; Alexander Eschweiler and Leon Gurba. They met January 18 and selected two models with the recommendation that Glicenstein's be accepted. Miss Partridge declared that the committee was unanimously for Glicenstein's work and she indicated that "Kisielewski's statue might have been that of any general." She also said that she was "surprised to learn that the Board had rejected our selection. In my experience it is the first time that I have been asked to be on a committee to make an artistic selection and then have the choice rejected."

Mr. Gonski, defending the action of the Board, declared that "such selection and report by the artists committee was purely of an advisory nature. The ultimate choice rested with the directors of the Pulaski Memorial Association which at a meeting on January 27 rejected the Glicenstein model and accepted Kisielewski's model."

A prominent Milwaukee rabbi, who preferred to remain anonymous, told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that "it was particularly painful to me to realize the sordid mediaeval motive which prompted the action and to think that we shall henceforth have in Milwaukee a monument to the stupidity and bigotry of man." Alexander Eschweiler, a member of the artists' committee, found it necessary to demand that Mr. Gonski issue a statement to the press that the Directors and not the committee had turned down the Glicenstein model. The original statement from the directors inferred that they had merely seconded the artists' recommendation.

Among the speakers at the luncheon will be Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the Institute, who was instrumental in bringing Dr. Baron to America in 1922. Dr. Baron, who is 35 years of age, will assume the chair of Jewish literature, history and institutions at Columbia immediately.

Rabbi Silver to Speak at Hadassah Luncheon

Mrs. David de Sola Pool, chairman of the luncheon committee, announces. Great progress is reported at the Hadassah headquarters.
