German-Jewish Press Criticizes Attacks on U. S. "Intervention"

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Berlin, May 3—Continuing the discussion regarding the representations made in the United States to the German ambassador, Baron von Prittwitz, by American Jews over the schechita ban in Bavaria and the desecration of Jewish cemeteries, the Jewish press here, particularly the "Frankfurter Israelite," remarks that "we are opposed to making opposition to German anti-Semitism an international world concern, because we trust the sound sense of the German nation."

"German Jewry is strong enough to protect their rights but after what has happened, we desire the American action to be effective."

The organ of the Central Association of German Citizens of the Jewish faith condemns the abuse in the anti-Semitic press because of American "intervention," saying that the National Socialists "created in Germany conditions which cause concern abroad but they are surprised when the reaction abroad becomes evident."

Ambassador Ratschkesky Honored by Czechoslovakian President

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Prague, May 3—A cavalry division escorted Abraham Ratschkesky, the new United States Minister at Prague, to an official reception at which he was the guest of President Masaryk. Members of the American Legation and of the Czechoslovakian Foreign Office were also present.

"The eyes of the world," the Minister said, "are on the Czechoslovakian Republic, the land of promise and already rich in achievement, in industry, finance, education and social welfare. I have been charged by President Hoover to convey his warm personal wishes for your welfare and the assurance of his deep interest in the continued prosperity and happiness of the Czechoslovakian Republic."

German Anti-Semite, Former Socialist Editor, Dead

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Berlin, May 3—Father Max Maurenbrechen, once a Radical Socialist, but recently a member of the Volkists, and during the war editor of the "Deutsche Zeitung," died today. As an anti-Semitic agitator, he zealously spread the legend of Jewish Bolshevism and the Protocols of the Elders of Zion. Lately he had lived in retirement as a priest in a Thuringian village.

Says Pope Demanded Conversion of Jews When Herzl Asked Aid of Vatican for Zionism

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Vienna, May 3—The Pope demanded the conversion of all the Jews when Theodor Herzl, founder of political Zionism and the first president of the World Zionist Organization, approached the Vatican to support Zionism. This was revealed yesterday by Heinrich Yorksteiner, Herzl's companion, on the occasion of the celebration here of the seventieth birthday of the founder of political Zionism.

Yorksteiner declared that Pius the Tenth told Herzl, during the audience, that "we must never favor Jewish settlement in Palestine, although it is impossible for us to prevent it. In any case, when the Jews come to Jerusalem we will furnish priests to convert all of them." He also said that other Vatican dignitaries told Herzl that the Holy Father saw an easy remedy for Jewish persecutions and Jewish need when all Jews were converted.

Arab Delegation in Interview With Colonial Minister

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

London, May 3—The Arab delegation now here for negotiations with the British government, had an interview with Lord Passfield, Colonial Minister, yesterday in the former Commons room. The delegation issued a statement in which it declared itself pleased with the results of the interview, which will be continued next week.

Report Cuzists Renewing Bessarabian Agitation

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Bucharest, May 3—The Cuzists have renewed their anti-Semitic propaganda in a number of Bessarabian villages where they are calling on the peasants at the weekly markets to destroy Jewish property and to exterminate the Jews whom the authorities tolerate, according to reports in the Roumanian newspaper "Dimineata."

The same source says that the gendarmery in the village of Soroca have of late refused to protect the Jews and stand passively by while Jews in the market place are beaten.

Problems of Small Communities, Need for Jewish Education, and Synposium Occupy Attention of United Synagogue Convention

Discussion of the activities of the United Synagogue of America by Nathan Levy, its president, and Mrs. Samuel Spiegel, president of the Women's League, and a symposium on the synagogue in Jewish life were the program for the first day of the eighteenth annual convention of the United Synagogue and the thirteenth annual convention of the Women's League held jointly at the Hotel Commodore.

In his address Mr. Levy reported an increase in the membership of the central organization from 244 congregations to 261, and from 274 sisterhoods to 286. The paramount need in the work of the organization, he asserted, is more branches to guide the small communities and an extension of educational aids.

Can Guide Jewish Work

"The small community," Mr. Levy declared, "often becomes a larger one. If we are with it at the start, we can guide its Jewish work through a healthy course of development."

"As for Jewish education we must realize that, like secular education, it is still in the process of growth. We must make provision for experimentation and for conferences of teachers and leaders."

He also touched upon the publication of Prayer Books embodying a uniform ritual and new editions of text books; the Students' House and Boy Scout work conducted by branches; and the drive for a synagogue in Palestine, and the successful first year of the National Federation of Men's Clubs.

"The United Synagogue of America is more than an organization," he continued. "It is a movement. It is the physical embodiment of the divine urge of the Jewish people to maintain and to further the religious ideals and practices to which we and our ancestors have been dedicated. It is the means by which the life of Judaism, rooted in the nourishment of the past, will flower and bear fruit in the present and future. The deepest aspirations of

Zeta Beta Tau Scholarship for Hebrew University Student

Justice William S. Evans of the City Court announced that the Supreme Council of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity, of which he is president, has awarded a scholarship amounting to $100 to a student at the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, for the coming year. The award was made as a result of a meeting of representatives from various fraternities and Jewish youth organizations held in the office of Harold Riegelman, past president of Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity, to discuss the question of scholarships for needy students at the University.

In addition to the Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity, representatives of Phi Epsilon Pi, Sigma Alpha Mu, Alpha Epsilon Pi, Phi Alpha, Alpha Eta Phi, Kappa Nu, Alpha Eta Phi, and Iota Theta Law Fraternity were present at the meeting. Mr. Riegelman, who was formerly president of the Inter-Fraternity Council of America also issued invitations to Young Israel, Young Judea, and the Menorah and Avukah Organizations who sent delegates to the meeting.

Rabbi Grafman Resigns as

Leader of Tampa Congregation

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Tampa, Fla., May 3.—Rabbi L. Elliott Grafman has resigned as spiritual leader of Congregation Shaarai Zedek of this city, which he has served for the past six years. Rabbi Grafman tendered his resignation several months ago, at which time his congregation urged him to reconsider it and to remain. He announced recently, however, that he had decided to seek a larger field of ministry. For several years he published and edited the only Anglo-Jewish monthly in the state, "The Southern Advocate."

Banking Organization Being Set Up for Jewish Communities in Eastern Europe Resembles Federal Reserve System Here

American Jewry is setting up for devastated Jewish communities in Eastern Europe a banking system which resembles in many respects the United States Federal Reserve, according to David M. Bressler, one of the national chairmen of the Allied Jewish Campaign, and who is also a member of the Joint Distribution Executive. It supports a network of financial institutions functioning in ten countries under the direction of the American Reconstruction Foundation, which was established in Europe in conjunction with the Jewish Colonization Association.

One and one-half million Jews in Eastern Europe are dependent for their livelihoods upon occupations established with the aid of outstanding loans of credit cooperatives in the Foundation system. Mr. Bressler said in describing the scope of the philanthropically supported banking business. The outstanding loans at present amount to $13,400,000, he said, and in the course of a year the credit-cooperatives have a turnover of more than $60,000,000. The present number of borrowers is 308,748, and the average size of a loan, $60.

Allied Campaign to Aid

One of the purposes of the present $6,000,000 campaign from which $3,500,000 is destined for the continuation of Joint Distribution Committee work in Eastern Europe and $2,500,000 for the Jewish Agency for Palestine, will be the extension of the existing banking system, Mr. Bressler said.

The credit machinery, he explained, has at the apex the Council of the American Reconstruction Foundation, composed of twelve delegates from the Joint Distribution Committee and the Jewish Colonization Association, the two organizations which created the Foundation in 1924, and eight representative leaders of Eastern European Jewry. Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York State, as chairman of the Reconstruction Committee of the Joint Distribution Committee until the Foundation was organized, directed the revival of the Jewish credit cooperative movement in Europe.

Council Rules Entire System

Like the Federal Reserve Board, the Council lays down general rules governing the entire system, decides for what uses funds may be loaned and regulates interest rates. It receives and votes on recommendations of the Foundation managers, Dr. Bernhard Kahn and Louis Oungré. Foundation funds are advanced at low rates of interest to central banks and federations of cooperative credit societies. The central institutions in turn transmit this credit to their member-cooperatives, who possess share capital in the central banks and thus stand in the same relationship to them as member banks stand to the district banks in the Federal Reserve System, Mr. Bressler explained.

Credit Cooperatives Smallest Units

The credit cooperatives are the smallest units in the system and are owned by the individuals who borrow from them or hold deposit accounts with them. They exist today to the number of 712 in Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Roumania, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Estonia, and Turkey. While the present investments of the Foundation amount to $2,992,583.35 the local populations have now invested in share capital, and deposits, over $11,000,000.

Mr. Bressler said that the most completely organized network exists in Poland where the Foundation investments are the largest, amounting to $1,204,222.73. Here 444 credit cooperatives with a total membership of 177,932, have a total share capital and reserves of $1,000,000. The cooperatives have 165,929 loans outstanding. Fifty-four merchant banks in the system serve the upper classes of Jewish merchants and manufacturers, and consumers' and producers' cooperatives help the working classes.

Has Central Bank

The Bank dla Spoldzielni is the central bank and is owned by the federation of cooperatives. Besides being the clearing house and the central financial institution for the cooperatives, the bank does a commercial business with private firms and individuals. Another central bank in Poland is the Central Jewish Volksbank in Vilna. Cooperatives in Galicia have already subscribed a large part of the share capital necessary for the establishment of a separate central bank in their district. The Foundation's second largest investment is in Roumania, Mr. Bressler said, and amounts to $534,959.81.

French Jewess Breaks Endurance Flying Record

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Paris, May 3.—Mlle. Lena Bernstein, an aviatrix of French-Jewish parentage, has achieved a new endurance mark of 35 hours, 46 minutes, 55 seconds, which breaks the world record for airplanes of all kinds, having only one pilot, male or female. She surpassed the women's endurance record by almost ten hours held by Mlle. Maryse, and was forced to come down only when her fuel gave out.

Miss Elinor Smith, whose record for endurance flying in America is 26 hours, 21 minutes, 32 seconds, has wired her congratulations to the French aviatrix and has announced that she will attempt to break Mlle. Bernstein's record in June.

New York's Big Drive Rapidly Organizing and Many Others Under Way for Allied Campaign

With New York's preparations for its $2,500,000 drive making steady progress, a number of other important drives for the $6,000,000 Allied Jewish Campaign have been scheduled for the current month, according to an announcement from national headquarters.

A trip through the middle West by Chairman Baerwald and Bressler, and through several Eastern States by Chairman Lewis, with Chairman Rothenberg, and Honorary Secretary Hyman at the helm at national headquarters, in New York City, has further accelerated the tempo of the campaign.

New York's drive was given additional assurance of success by the acceptance by Mrs. Felix Warburg of the chairmanship of the Women's Division, with an advisory committee. Her forces have been further augmented by Mrs. Judith Epstein, national secretary of Hadassah, who has volunteered her services as secretary of the New York Women's Division, and by the acceptance of Mrs. Abram I. Elkus, wife of the former Ambassador to Turkey, as chairman of the West Side Women's Division. Mrs. Elkus was chairman of the Women's Division of the famous $6,000,000 drive of the United Jewish Campaign in New York City in 1926.

Arkansas will hold a state conference on May 18. Mississippi is also organizing a state conference, to be held simultaneously with the opening of a drive in Jackson on May 11. North Dakota will hold a state conference on June 8.

Drives held last week include San Antonio, Texas, and New Haven, Conn.

Drives outside of New York City, definitely scheduled to be held before the end of June include Poughkeepsie, N.Y., May 4; Portsmouth, N.H., May 5; Detroit, Mich., May 11; Minneapolis, (Continued on Page 4)

the Jewish soul will find expression through the United Synagogue."

Tribute to Founder

Mrs. Samuel Spiegel, the president of the Women's League, paid tribute to Mrs. Solomon Schechter as founder of the league, and dealt with services performed by her organization such as supervised conferences and radio programs, for which a speakers' bureau is maintained, and monthly bulletins, which attempt to advance solutions to the modern Jew's organizational and individual problems.

She announced the publication of "Meditations and Prayers for Women" by Mrs. Alexander Marx, for the Fall and told of the sale of especially prepared phonograph records of familiar Passover melodies last month.

"The Women's League," Mrs. Spiegel concluded, "is affiliated with every type of national and international organization for the betterment of Jewish men and women, be they white or dark skinned."

The feature of the afternoon session was a symposium entitled "Jewish Life; Order or Chaos?" begun by Rabbi Max Arzi of Scranton, Pa., after an introduction by Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary. Rabbi Arzi, whose topic was "Building the Structure," discussed problems of regional organizations which seek the "adoption" of small and disorganized communities by larger groups. A Committee on District Organization was appointed to act upon his recommendations in mustering the far west and south.

Synagogue Must Adhere to Purpose

Once organized, the synagogue can thrive only through a steadfast adherence to a purpose, Rabbi Alter F. Landesman declared in his paper, "The Goal of Synagogue Life." This purpose, he said, "has always been to make the knowledge of the Torah accessible to all. As a minority people who are compelled to be always on the defensive, we cannot afford to be ignorant. Education is the only means at our disposal for survival." He asserted that modern congregational schools are on the increase, there being 910 in the United States now whereas the number of independent Talmud Torahs is declining. He emphasized the need of education through Jewish high schools and congregational adjuncts, warning that the growing ranks of the ignorant will dilute Jewish life more and more and make it ultimately colorless. "We cannot afford to wait forty or fifty years to develop an educated laity," he declared. "It is just as important, perhaps more so, to build from the top down, as from the bottom up." He repeated Dr. Solomon Schechter's advice, "With the disappearance of the Torah, the synagogue itself can become a danger to itself and a playground for all the forces of destruction. It may become a house where multitudes enjoy only 'intellectual treats,' even at the very expense of Judaism. Only knowledge can ward off this danger."

Following discussion a Convention Committee on Education was selected.

Rabbi A. A. Neuman of Philadelphia, the final contributor to the symposium, carried the subject beyond the walls of the synagogue and discussed its relation to Jewish life as a whole, to non-congregational institutions and movements, such as Zionism, Federation, and other welfare agencies. The part to be played by women in this building process was described by Miss Sarah Kussy of Newark, N. J.

Hadassah to Mark Mothers' Day by Palestine Tree Planting

Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, has launched a movement to celebrate Mothers' Day on May 11 by planting trees in Palestine in the names of mothers.

Miss Edude Elkind, chairman of the Jewish National Fund Council of senior Hadassah, and Miss Naomi Flax, chairman of the council for junior Hadassah, have issued a joint appeal to the 50,000 members throughout the country, urging the purchase of trees for planting in Palestine as appropriate gifts on Mothers' Day. Miss Elkind said that 400 orders have already come to the national Hadassah headquarters here for trees to be planted in the new Hadassah Grove in Palestine, which is located in Kiryath-Anavim, near Jerusalem. The grove will be near the Einstein Forest, which was established a few years ago in honor of Prof. Albert Einstein. For the sum of $1.50 the Jewish National Fund in Palestine plants a tree in a grove, wood or forest, tends it, and if it is damaged, plants another in its place. The Jewish National Fund Council of Hadassah sends an illustrated tree certificate to every purchaser of a tree.

Sues to Bar Bible Teaching, Hymn Singing in Schools

A petition has been filed in the Supreme Court by Joseph Lewis, president of the Freethinkers of America, requesting that the Board of Education be restrained from allowing the reading of the Bible and the singing of hymns in public schools. Arthur Garfield Hays, Joseph Wheelock and Stephen B. Vreeland are representing Mr. Lewis, and Clarence Darrow has also been retained as counsel.

Mr. Louis, who brought his action as a taxpayer, bases his complaint on the fact that the Bible is the King James' version and therefore "distinctly Protestant" and as a consequence distasteful to Jewish and Catholic children.

chant. He studied for the engineering profession and was also graduated from the school of Arts. When the revolution came, Eisenstein joined the Engineering Corps of the Red Army. After the revolution he joined the first Workers' Theatre, where he made his first important success. He then became associated with the famous Russian stage director Meyerhold, and after differing with him on matters of principle, returned to the Workers' Theatre to assume complete charge. His sensational work with this group placed him in the front rank of Russian directors, and he was called upon to help in the organization of the Soviet Film industry.

To his successes "Potemkin" and "Days That Shook the World," which have won international acclaim, his latest picture "New and Old," which is now being presented for the first time in this country at the Cameo Theatre in New York, has been added. This new picture was enthusiastically received at a private showing which was given for the critics several days ago. As an instance of the great praise that has been given to the picture "New and Old" by the New York critics, the motion picture reviewer of the "New York Post" concludes his criticism by saying that "Hollywood should lay down and let Mr. Eisenstein walk over it."

While the first two pictures that Mr. Eisenstein directed deal with war and revolution, the newest one, "Old and New," takes up the problems of the Russian peasants. This picture conveys a clearer understanding of the much-discussed collectivization question in Russia and enlightens us also about the struggles of the Kulaks and the poor peasantry.
