Wailing Wall Commission Arrives; First Session, Monday, to Be Private

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, June 19—The international Wailing Wall Commission that will investigate Moslem and Jewish claims to the Wailing Wall arrived here today. The Commission is composed of three members, Emil Loeffgren, former foreign minister of Sweden, Charles Barde, a Swiss jurist and G. van Kempen, a former Dutch colonial official. M. Sahlin, attached to the Swedish legation in Berne, is the secretary of the Commission.

The Commission was met by Col. Frederick Kisch on behalf of the Jewish Agency, Rabbi Uziel on behalf of the Rabbinate and David Yellin, Mordecai Elish and M. Blau, the three advocates to whom the presentation of the Jewish case has been entrusted. The Arab leaders were conspicuous by their absence at the station although some Arabs were on hand to welcome Auni Bey, representative of the Arab Executive at Geneva, who arrived on the same boat-train.

The Jews will present a united front in the Wailing Wall question. Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the American Jewish Committee, who had been named by the Jewish Agency to represent it at the Commission's hearings, found it physically impossible to reach Palestine in time for the hearings. Instead he drafted a thorough memorandum on the Wailing Wall which has been submitted.

Jews Seriously Hurt in Bielce Anti-Semitic Riot

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Bucharest, June 19—The trouble in Bielce, a Bessarabian town, where a number of Jews were seriously injured yesterday during an anti-Semitic outbreak, began with the arrival of three or four peasants, known as adherents of the anti-Semitic chieftain, Professor Alexander Cuza, M. Angelescu, vice-minister of the Interior, informed the Jewish Telegraphic Agency today.

These peasants coming to market attacked the Jews and one boy, Landau, was seriously hurt and is reported to be in a dying condition. Another Jew was taken to the hospital. While Bielce is in a state of the greatest excitement the police have instituted a probe of the incident. They have been instructed to furnish the ministry of the interior with a full report.

The name of one of the anti-Semitic peasants who started yesterday's riot in Bielce is Ivan Costuic. The Jews who clashed with Costuic were Welwel Silberstein and Hillel Neiderman. M. Angelescu, vice-minister of the interior, has telephoned the chief of the secret police and the gendarmerie in Bielce to take necessary measures and they were informed they would be held responsible if Jews were attacked.

Discharged Arab Policeman Arrested as Assailant

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jerusalem, June 19—A discharged Arab policeman has been arrested in Jaffa as a suspect in the attempted murder of Police Captain F. M. Scott of Tel Aviv who was stabbed yesterday in Jaffa during a scuffle with an Arab crowd following the execution of three Arabs at Acre. It is believed that the former policeman swore vengeance against Scott because the latter dismissed him and availing himself of yesterday's turmoil stabbed Scott.

Captain Scott's condition is reported as unchanged but not serious. The Moslem-Christian Society of Jaffa has written a letter to the police disassociating itself from the crime.

Count Bethlen, Hungarian Premier, Denies Numerous Clausus Law Is Aimed Directly at Jews

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

London, June 19—The numerous clausus laws affecting the Hungarian universities are not directed against the Jews but are general measures that will be abolished when economic conditions improve, declared Count Bethlen, Hungarian premier, in an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here today. Count Bethlen denied that there were restrictions against the Jews in Hungary regarding their exclusion from the Roll of Honor.

The governing authority of the Honor Roll is an autonomous body which makes its selections independently, Count Bethlen explained. Before it grants memberships it investigates the war records of applicants, their behavior during the Bela Kun Bolshevik period and since that time, the Hungarian premier said. He told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that he had complied with a request made in the Hungarian parliament that he intervene with the leader of the Honor Roll Body.

(During the recent debate on the budget in the Hungarian parliament, Deputy Paul Sandor had charged that not a single Jew had been included on the Hungarian Roll of Honor despite the fact that more than 10,000 Hungarian Jews had died on the field of battle and that hundreds of memorials all over the country carry the names of Jewish heroes. Deputy Sandor also called Premier Bethlen's attention to

Utilize Heimwehr Debate in Austrian Parliament for Anti-Semitic Attack

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Vienna, June 19—The debate in the Austrian parliament today over the expulsion of Major Waldemar Pabst, chief of staff of the Austrian Heimwehr, from the country as an undesirable alien was utilized for an anti-Semitic attack by Dr. Steidle, the Heimwehr's generalissimo, as a representative of the Tyrol Bundesrat.

Dr. Steidle declared that the "Galicians are running about Austria freely," and that "Halsmann was justly sentenced while the German, Major Pabst, was administratively driven out without a trial." He also charged that Chancellor Schoeber, who had ordered the deportation of Major Pabst for conducting illegal political activities, was influenced by the large "Jewish liberal dailies."

Chancellor Schoeber did not reply to this charge except to say that Major Pabst had been expelled because he tried to draw the police and the military into the Heimwehr.

Cincinnati Board Definitely Denies Appeal for Mikvah in Exclusive Residential Area

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Cincinnati, June 19—The Zoning Board of Appeals yesterday passed a resolution in the celebrated Mikvah case in which it completely reverses its former stand of April 2 and refuses to permit the setting up of a Mikvah on Washington Avenue, between Rockdale and Forest Avenues, in an exclusive residential neighborhood inhabited by some of Cincinnati's wealthiest and most prominent Jews.

In its resolution the Board declares: "At the aforesaid rehearing facts, evidence and literature were introduced which were not presented at said previous hearing. This board finds, after thoroughly and carefully considering the aforesaid sections, the statements made and the facts and literature presented both at the previous hearing and the subsequent rehearing, that the code of Jewish laws, customs and regulations bearing upon personal Hebraic practice, require the use of a private or public bath, referred to as a Mikvah in said laws, and that a Mikvah is an institution devoted to observance of a religious rite, whereas a synagogue is a place of worship, the services of which do not require the use of a Mikvah, and that the use of the premises in residence districts for a quasi-public Mikvah is not necessary to conserve the public health, safety, convenience, comfort, prosperity and general welfare."

The Mikvah was to have been built by the "Beth Tevilah Association" on property owned by the B'nai Israel Congregation. Samuel Ach, former county treasurer, and Frank Wolpa secured a rehearing of the case. Bernard Pepinsky represented the "Beth Tevilah Mikvah Association", which fought for permission to build the Mikvah.

England to Make Announcement on the Dead Sea Concession

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

London, June 19—An official announcement in connection with the Dead Sea concession will be made in the House of Commons soon, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learns. It is likely that the British government will declare its readiness to agree to the suggestion of the French government that the rival claims to the concession be submitted for arbitration to the Permanent International Court at The Hague as was done with the Mavromatis concession for the electric power in Jerusalem.

The Dead Sea concession for the reclamation of potash is now held by a syndicate headed by Major Tulloch and Moses Novomejsky. This grant has frequently been the subject of debate in the House of Commons and has been subject to attack by Arab leaders in Palestine.

St. Louis Zionists Reject Brandeis Memo in Present Form; Urge Further Parleys

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

St. Louis, June 19—Commending the genuine efforts on the part of the Zionist Organization of America's administration to effect a return of the Brandeis-Mack group to active participation in the affairs of American Zionism, the St. Louis Zionist organization, after a four-hour debate on the Brandeis memorandum adopted a resolution urging modification of the memorandum and calling for further negotiations. An amendment to the resolution favoring the inclusion of a special reference that every effort be made to influence the Brandeis-Mack group to come into active participation in the Zionist ranks was defeated.

Resolution by Klausner

The resolution was introduced by Professor Gustave Klausner, president of the Southwestern Zionist Region, who pleaded for peace in Zionism, but declared that the memorandum was a utopia and needed radical modification. He urged upon the Brandeis-Mack group that it come in and work without reservation in a coalition of Zionist forces. Leon Lander, Rabbi Jacob Mazur, Max Baron and David Bernstein opposed the resolutions, while M. J. Slonim, president of the St. Louis Zionists; Harry Drovyn, Prof. Klausner and Mendel N. Fisher, supported the adopted resolution.

Prof. Klausner, M. J. Slonim, Mendel Fisher, Samuel Kranzberg, Leon Lander, A. Goodman, Harry Dvorin and Barney Grosberg were elected delegates to the Zionist Convention. They were instructed to work for peace within the ranks and to carry out the spirit of the resolution as adopted.

The resolution read as follows:

Commends Administration

"We strongly commend the genuine efforts on the part of the national Zionist administration to effect the return of the members of the Brandeis-Mack group to active participation in the affairs of American Zionism. The character of the Zionist organization and its democratic form makes it impossible to accept the memorandum in its entirety as presented by Justice Brandeis and his associates.

"The Zionist Organization of St. Louis calls upon the present Zionist administration and the Brandeis-Mack group to meet again prior to the Cleveland convention with a view to modifying the said memorandum so as to create a united American Zionist front. Realizing that Zionism is experiencing grave difficulties at this time because of the recent unwarranted antagonism of the British government we urge the convention to create, if humanly possible, a union of forces in American Zionist affairs conceived in the spirit of mutual concession on the part of all elements concerned, consummated with a regard for genuine peace and democracy and compatible with the great aims and purposes that have always motivated Zionist thought and actions."

Baltimore Rejects Proposals

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Baltimore, June 19—The Brandeis proposal in its present form was rejected by the Baltimore Zionists after a long and heated debate at a general membership meeting. The Baltimore delegates to the Zionist convention were instructed to vote accordingly.

Plainfield Urges Further Efforts

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Plainfield, N. J., June 19—A continuation of the efforts now being made to strengthen American Zionism and the enlistment of the services of the Brandeis-Mack group is urged by the Plainfield Zionists in a resolution which says that the response of the Brandeis-Mack group to the overtures of the Zionist administration does not suggest a lucid or practicable plan for a rapprochement.

Minneapolis Approves in Theory

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Minneapolis, June 19—The Minneapolis Zionist district at a meeting of its executive board adopted a resolution approving the Brandeis-Mack memorandum in theory provided negotiations may be had and differences settled before the Cleveland convention.

Cleveland Elects Delegates to Zionist Convention

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Cleveland, June 19—Over two hundred ballots were cast by the members of the Cleveland Zionist District for delegates to the forthcoming national Zionist convention which is to open in Cleveland, Sunday, June 29. The following were elected. The names are listed according to the number of votes received: Ezra Z. Shapiro, Isaac Carmel, Barnett R. Brickner, Rabbi Harry Davidowitz, George J. Klein, A. H. Friedland and Harry Weinraub. The following five received the same number of votes: S. Rucker, Max Simon, Aaron Garber, Samuel Katz and Dr. Uriah Shapiro.

The general members' meeting of the Cleveland Zionist District will be held Monday evening, at Zion Hall, for the purpose of discussing the problems facing the forthcoming national Zionist convention and also to greet Ezra Z. Shapiro, president of the Cleveland Zionist district, upon his return from an extensive tour of Palestine and Europe. The district members will also discuss the proposals made by the so-called Brandeis-Mack group to the Administrative Committee of the Zionist Organization of America.

The Cleveland Zionist district announces the appointment of the following officers of convention committees: Ezra Z. Shapiro, chairman of the convention committee; Isaac Carmel, general secretary of convention committees; A. H. Friedland, chairman of press; Mrs. Arthur I. Fischer, chairman of the reception committee; Mrs. J. M. Lewis, chairman of arrangements and entertainment committee and D. I. Simon, chairman of finance committee.

Brandeis Group Ready to Assume Full Control If Memo's Conditions Fully Met

Resolutions that the principles embodied in the Brandeis memorandum are for the best interests of the Zionist cause in America and Palestine and urging American Zionists and the Administrative Committee of the Z.O.A. to bring about the acceptance of the memorandum at the Cleveland convention in order that the benefits of leadership by the Brandeis-Mack group might be achieved, were adopted at a meeting of the New York Zionists held at the Pennsylvania Hotel, Wednesday evening.

A resolution urging Justice Brandeis to accept the leadership of the movement at the earliest possible moment after the acceptance of the memorandum by the Cleveland convention was also adopted. The chairman of the meeting, Dr. Norman Salit, was empowered and instructed to select a committee of seven to inform the Administrative Committee of the Zionist Organization and Justice Brandeis, of the meeting's stand, and to work towards the adoption of the memorandum by the convention. Those appointed were Dr. Salit, David Tennenbaum, Morris Dlugasch, M. Zeldin, James W. Wise, Johan J. Smertenko and K. Israeli.

A letter from Judge Julian Mack, clarifying some of the debated points in the memorandum, was read to the meeting. In this letter Judge Mack declared it had been unanimously agreed by Justice Brandeis, his associates and the Administrative Committee, to publish the memorandum. His second point was that the memorandum, so far as details are concerned, is not an ultimatum but is amenable to change. In his third point he said: "I do not understand the doubts that you say have been raised. Justice Brandeis and his associates in signing it, thought that they were stating very clearly the definite responsibility that they assume and of course if the conditions should be fully met, the greater responsibilities therein specified will fall upon them."

The conference, which was attended by almost one hundred and fifty Zionists "of every view," according to the resolutions, was called by an independent committee of New York Zionists and confined itself to a heated discussion on the memorandum. Debate on the wording of the resolutions was particularly acrimonious. Following speeches by Dr. Salit, David Tennenbaum and James W. Wise, who discussed the meaning and significance of the memorandum, the meeting was thrown open for a general discussion. While the sentiment displayed was practically unanimous for the acceptance of the memorandum, there was sharp dispute as to how this was to be done and what action the meeting should take.

The meeting was called by a committee consisting of Dr. Salit, Mr. Tennenbaum, Mr. Wise, M. Zeldin, Dr. I. H. Levinthal, M. Dlugasch, B. Fain, H. Zirn and I. Hassan.

to London, Jerusalem and Geneva. The memorandum was submitted in his capacity as chairman of the Jewish Agency's Wailing Wall commission.

Rabbinical groups throughout the world have approved the memorandum. The European Rabbinical Union, rabbinical councils in the United States, including the Central Conference of American Rabbis and the Rabbinical Assembly of the Jewish Theological Seminary have all approved it.

Dr. Judah L. Magnes, chancellor of the Hebrew University, has indicated that his aid will also be forthcoming if necessary.

The Commission announced that the press will be admitted to all public sessions but no decision has been made as to the number of public sessions to be held. Press arrangements will be the same as those at the Inquiry Commission's hearings, namely one representative each of the Arab, Jewish, foreign and British press.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency was informed today by the secretary of the Commission that its first session will be held privately Monday with Arab and Jewish representatives present.

Ex-Judge Goldsmith Named to New State Parole Commission

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Albany, June 19—Former Supreme Court Judge Irving I. Goldsmith of Saratoga Springs has been named one of the three appointees to the new State Parole Commission by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt. In making the nomination Governor Roosevelt said of Mr. Goldsmith that "his interest in penology and social work and his experience on the bench give him a breath of view and depth of knowledge few others possess."

Judge Goldsmith was named to the Supreme Court bench in 1927. In 1924 he represented New York State before the United States Supreme Court in a test case to determine the right of a state to prohibit night employment of women. He was once a member of the state Child Welfare Commission.

Has Plan for B'nai B'rith to Sponsor Jewish Education

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Los Angeles, June 19—A plan whereby the national B'nai B'rith might finance and encourage Jewish education in the United States has been drafted by Dr. George J. Saylin, president of the Boris Bogen lodge here. His plan is part of his undertaking to persuade the B'nai B'rith that it should assume the responsibility of educating the Jewish youth of the country. The plan will be presented to the District No. 4 convention at San Diego, June 28.

In the meantime the Boris Bogen lodge is arranging a banquet the proceeds of which will go to help pay the back salaries of Hebrew teachers.

Says Boston Jews Apathetic to Plight of Jewish Federation

The present critical stage in which the Associated Jewish Philanthropies of Boston find themselves is reviewed in an article in the current issue of the "Menorah Journal" by Zalmen Yoffeh. After reviewing the history of the huge fund-raising activities undertaken by Boston Jews during the past few years, especially in connection with their new buildings for a Jewish hospital and for several religious congregations, which has brought on the present deficit of half a million dollars, Mr. Yoffeh says: "What is to be done? For a week I went about Boston asking questions and sounding the opinion of every Jew I met. The leaders in philanthropic work and a number of paid executives expressed optimism.

"Elsewhere I found a wider variety of opinion, and a great deal of apathy. Here was a situation that affected the welfare of the entire community. Yet an astonishing number that I met had never given the matter any thought.

Tendency to Apportion Blame

"And the tendency among those interested was to apportion blame for the calamity rather than to offer a solution. The poorer and middle class members of the community blame it all on the rich. 'They don't give enough,' is the cry.

"It is interesting to note here that one of the richer men in the community, a leading and generous spirit, readily admits that he could afford to give more to the Associated Jewish Philanthropies. But he refuses because he believes that the Associated should be a communal enterprise and as such supported by every Jew in the community. 'I don't want Boston Jewry to depend entirely upon me and upon a few others. What if something should happen to me?' he asks. That he is amply justified in his foresight has recently been proven by the experience of another Jewish community, Philadelphia, where the death of a large contributor has left a hole in the annual Federation budget of that city, which the campaign, at least this year, was not able to fill.

Blame Others for Difficulties

"So almost everybody one spoke to in Boston blamed everybody else for the difficulties. The synagogue people blame it on the non-religious group. 'We give more than does anybody else,' they say. 'We are the ones most easily reached and our rabbis again and again call on us from the pulpit to support the Associated.' The non-religious element hotly contest this claim. 'It's these schul people that are to blame,' they say. 'Many of them are not giving and they're using the community's money to put up their useless buildings.' 'My father,' one man assured me, 'had much more real religion than any of them. And he never prayed in a million-dollar temple.' The anti-Zionists bewail the fact that the Zionists are taking money out of the community. 'Charity begins at home,' one inspired individual told me. 'Fools!' the Zionists answer, 'can't they realize the many Jewish officers and soldiers who had received government decorations. Count Bethlen replied that no religious considerations carried weight in the choice of names but in view of the fact that the Roll of Honor was already closed further candidates could not be considered.)

Asked why Jewish students were not accepted in the Hungarian students' homes abroad, Count Bethlen said that the acceptance of Jews depends not on the decision of the government but on a committee consisting of professors and scientists. This committee, he pointed out, is independent and grants scholarships on the basis of merit without regard to religion.

Young Judaea's 22d Annual Convention Opens, Long Branch

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Long Branch, June 19—An educational policy which will make Young Judaea a more effective factor in the Jewish communal life of this country will be the keynote of the twenty-second annual convention of Young Judaea which opened here tonight with over 250 delegates from all parts of the country in attendance. The convention was opened by Dr. Israel Goldstein, Young Judaea's president.

Following brief greetings from local Jewish leaders, the executive director, Samuel Borowsky, presented the annual report and various committees were appointed. The convention will last four days.

"Tomorrow's session will be divided into several sections, each of which will discuss a distinct phase of Young Judaea's educational program. Leadership, planning a program for the year, the Palestine aspect of Young Judaea and the business of a club, are some of the problems to be discussed. A symposium on "Palestine and Diaspora Judaism" will be held Friday evening.

that all this is just a makeshift and solves no real problems? These idiots are endangering the Jewish homeland in Palestine."

Outcome in Doubt

"What will be the eventual outcome? As I have pointed out, nobody in Boston really knows. Will the Jews of Boston pull themselves out of their difficulties by their own bootstraps, or will we have the unhappy spectacle of an entire community going bankrupt? The rest of the country should watch and observe carefully. Let no Jewish community look on in a detached way and think, 'This does not affect us.' The germ of the disease that is afflicting Boston is present in every community in the country. To be sure, in no other community has the disease reached such a virulent stage. If Boston recovers the country should rejoice, for it will show that the disease is not necessarily fatal. If Boston fails—but that's unthinkable! Who ever heard of a Jewish Federation going bankrupt?"
