MAJORITY OF DELEGATES FAVOR CONGRESS; STRIKE SNAG ON QUESTION OF INCLUDING ZIONISM IN SCOPE

Deep Rooted Differences Emerge Between Representatives of Various Groups on Zionism Inclusion; Motzkin Holds Question Has No Immediate Value Since It Is Not Known Whether World Zionist Movement Will Consent to Make Congress Its Mouthpiece; Would Set Time of Congress from One Year to Three Years; Goldmann, Gruenbaum and Zuckerman Call for Democratic Representation

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

GENEVA, Aug. 16—With the majority of the delegates to the world Jewish conference now in progress here agreed in favor of a constitution of a world Jewish congress, the conference struck its first snag yesterday on the question of whether or not Zionism is to be included within its scope.

Deep rooted differences emerged between the representatives of various organizations and parties represented at the conference on the question of whether or not the solution of Jewish problems in the Diaspora can be separated from Zionism.

Noah Priluzki, of Warsaw and the chief exponent of the Volkspartei argued the futility of uniting all parties in a single Jewish body, since, if the Zionist problem is not excluded from the agenda, it will render the co-operation of these groups impossible.

He expressed the viewpoint that many

Board of Governors of Hebrew U. Concludes Sessions; Says No Damaging Economies Introduced

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Aug. 16—The Board of Governors of the Hebrew University, of which Dr. Chaim Weizmann is the president, concluded its two day sessions here today with the announcement of a plan to establish a School for Agriculture.

The Agricultural School is to be connected with the Hebrew University and the Agricultural Experiment Station conducted by the Jewish Agency and is to be under the direction of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, former president of the World Zionist Organization and the Jewish Agency.

The Board accepted the offer of Sir Percival David of London to endow for a period of eight years a chair for art and archaeology in the Near East.

of the organizations not participating in the conference, have absented themselves because of their fear that this conference will be converted into a Zionist movement for championing the cause of Palestine.

This opinion was challenged by Joseph Sprinzak and Meyer Dizengoff of Palestine who asserted that it is unthinkable that a world Jewish congress

Seeks Removal of Difficulties For Jewish Students

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

PARIS, Aug. 16—The League to Combat Anti-Semitism is making representations to government and Parliamentary circles to ease the difficulties confronting Jewish students from Roumania who seek matriculation at French universities.

According to the present regulations, it is necessary for a Roumanian student seeking entry in a French University, to bring a recommendation from a professor in a Roumanian institution of higher education. Since the Roumanian students are Jews for the most part and the professors in Roumanian institutions anti-Semitic also for the most part, the Jewish students are hindered.

The League has the support of a number of deputies and the Minister of Education in its effort to have this difficulty removed.

Disturbances Recur At Hadar Colony

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Aug. 16—Disturbances recurred today in the Hadar colony over the matter of distribution of employment when the Poel Miz-rachi refused arbitration.

Ten Histadruth workers, including four girls, who claim the right to work in the colony, were arrested.

This is the second time in three days that disturbances, culminating in arrests, have occurred in the Hadar colony.

Agitation for Boycott Declared A Crime By German Court

Publisher of Magazine Gets Four Months in Prison for Calling for a Boycott Against "Traitors"

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Aug. 16—Agitation for a boycott against the Jews was declared to be a crime today by the court in Sterburg, East Prussia, which sentenced to four months imprisonment the publisher of "Das Kampfbunde Landvolk Ost Preussen," Herr Dopner. Herr Dopner was sentenced for an article which appeared in his publication calling for "a boycott of the traitors."

The court based its verdict on paragraph 110 of the code.

BERLIN, Aug. 16—Separate standards of justice to be applied to Nazis, Jews and Socialists, is urged today in the "Angriff" by Freiherr von Steinaecker, judge of the High Court.

This is the first time that a judge of a German court has taken the liberty of openly propagating such views.

Judge Steinaecker develops the theory that political affiliation must be

Stricter Law Against Papers Publishing Articles Endangering Public Peace

High Commissioner Empowered to Suspend Paper, While Court May Hold Suspension for 3 Years

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Aug. 16—The draft of an ordinance making more strict the responsibility of a publication for the use of any material which is likely to endanger the public peace was published here yesterday.

Under the new ordinance draft, the High Commissioner is authorized to suspend the paper for publication of such material. The courts further may prohibit the appearance of a newspaper for a period of three years as punishment for the publication of seditious or libelous articles.

All daily newspapers, including those already existent, must give bond in the amount of $150.

The editor of the paper is made directly responsible for what appears in the publication.

Hiding of Grain From Government Takes on Mass Character Says "Emess"

Also Deplores Growth of Religious Sentiment Among Colonists as Youth Depart for Cities

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

MOSCOW, Aug. 16.—The hiding of grain to prevent its submission to the government is assuming a mass character in Kalininidorf, the "Emess" reports today.

Jewish colonists have hidden their grain in Jewish collectives in order to keep it for their private use.

The Jewish collective of Zelenopolie has been dissolved for hiding as much as 2,500 pud grain, the paper says.

Jewish colonists stole 335 pud grain from the commune warehouse in the Jewish commune of Majak Iitcha, the "Emess" states further.

Similar instances are reported in the collectives, Roitfon and Yidisher Poyer.

The "Emess" depllores also the growth of religious sentiment among the Jewish colonists, particularly in view of the fact that the Jewish youth have deserted the colonies for industrial work in the cities.

Warburg Named on National Citizens Relief Committee

Felix M. Warburg, noted Jewish philanthropist, has been named a member of the National Citizens Committee for Welfare and Relief Mobilization of 1932.

The membership of this Committee will aid Newton D. Baker, in stressing the need for continued and increased private charity to cope with unemployment in the coming winter.

Lillian Wald, executive director of the Henry Street Settlement, is also a member of this committee which is composed of 55.

exclude such a driving force in Jewish life as the Palestine question.

Dr. Leo Motzkin of Paris, chairman of the General Council of the World Zionist Organization, maintained that this discussion has no immediate value since it is not known whether the Zionist movement will agree to make a world Jewish congress its mouthpiece.

At the same time Dr. Motzkin took occasion to express his opinion that German spokesmen at the conference have minimized the danger confronting the Jews of Germany. He pointed out that Russian Jewry never believed bloody pogroms against them were possible until they actually occurred.

The same opinion was reiterated by Rabbi Rubinstein of Vilna. At the same time, Rabbi Rubinstein challenged Hitler that should he attempt to carry out his program against the Jews he will find he will have to reckon with 15,000,000 Jews the world over and not with the comparatively small Jewish population in Germany.

Rabbi Rubinstein also pointed out that German anti-Semitism has resulted in the complete collapse of the assimilationist ideology.

A new note in the conference proceedings was struck by the Agudath Israel leader, Mazur, head of the Warsaw Jewish Community. While the majority of other speakers expressed themselves emphatically in favor of a world Jewish Congress, Mazur maintained that it is essential first to carefully weigh whether this proposed congress will help bring about a solution of Jewish hardship.

Opposition to this viewpoint was expressed by Baruch Zuckerman of New York, representing the Poale Zion, who contended that a world Jewish congress is not necessary for the primary purpose of solving the external problems of the Jews. It is vital, however, he stressed, in order to bring new life into the inner organism of the Jewish people and to unify potential Jewish forces.

To carry out this purpose, representatives to the congress must be elected on a democratic basis through general elections and not through elections by organizations, Mr. Zuckerman stated. This Jewish mass movement, he said, will result in an increase of Jewish consciousness.

The demand for democratic elections was voiced in even stronger form by Deputy Isaac Gruenbaum of Poland. In a formal declaration in behalf of Polish Zionists, Dr. Gruenbaum made democratic elections a primary condition of the participation of Polish Zionists in the congress.

He also demanded recognition of the principle that the solution of Jewish problems must be considered in the light of Zionist ideals.

Dr. Nahum Goldmann of Berlin, expressed the hope that it would be possible for a world Jewish congress to assemble within 18 months or two years. He stated that it ought not to convene next year as it would conflict with the Zionist Congress.

Dr. Goldmann stated that Geneva had been chosen as the meeting place for the present conference with the definite purpose of focusing as much attention as possible on the congress question, since its organizers do not believe silence or secrecy will help the Jewish cause. Under the present circumstances, the loudest outcry by Jews is justified, Dr. Goldmann stated.

Dr. Goldmann insisted that Palestine cannot be excluded from the scope of the Congress but that other parties will get a fair hearing.

Others participating in the debate included Isaac Neiditch of Paris; Dr. David Joelhelman of London; Dr. Heinrich Rosmarin of Poland; Rabbi Mordecai Nurok of Latvia, as well as representatives of Jewish traders and Jewish artisans in Poland.

A variety of views on the time of the assembling of a world Jewish congress were voiced.

Speakers called for the convening of the congress within twelve months or within two or three years. Those who hold the view that the Congress should not aim to solve immediate Jewish difficulties prefer that a longer period elapse before the congress is convened so that the fullest democratic representation may be secured.

A praesidium of seventeen was named and includes the following: Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, New York; Bernard S. Deutsch, New York; Oscar Cohn, Germany; M. Dizengoff, Palestine; Isaac Gruenbaum, Warsaw; I. Jefroykin, Paris; E. Margulies, Czechoslovakia.

Foreman Will Leave Estate to Charities After Widow's Demise

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The bulk of the $500,000 estate of Henry G. Foreman, once president of the Cook County board, is left in trust for charity after the death of his widow, it was revealed when his will was filed with Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. Mr. Foreman died on July 25 at the age of 75.

The will provides that the estate shall remain as a life trust for the widow, Mrs. Lottie S. Foreman, with a specific bequest of $3,000 to Philip H. Grady, a friend. On Mrs. Foreman's death, eight-ninths of the income from the estate is bequeathed to charities. The other one-ninth is divided among seven nephews and ten nieces.

The charitable bequests are divided into two large groups. The first, to be known as the Gerhard and Hannah Foreman Trust Fund, in memory of

Cunliffe-Lister Says Growing Appreciation Between Jews And Arabs in Palestine

Lauds Sir William Grenfell Wauchope as High Commissioner; Called Second Plumer

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—Palestine is very fortunate in her High Commissioner and Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope has the complete confidence of both the Jews and the Arabs, having been described as a "second Lord Plumer," the highest tribute those who have lived long in Palestine could pay, declared Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, secretary for the colonies in the MacDonald government, during a conversation with A. J. Freiman, president of the Zionist Organization of Canada.

Sir Philip is a member of the British delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference now being held at Ottawa. Sir Philip had a long talk with Mr. Freiman about economic developments in Palestine. He drew attention to the remarkable stability which Palestine has been able to maintain at a time of grave industrial and agricultural depression throughout the world.

He also stated that he had learned with interest from Nahum Sokolov of a number of instances of men with adequate capital and practical experience settling in Palestine and establishing industries there. A movement of this kind was at once a tribute to the stability of conditions in Palestine and a source of strength to the country. He remarked with satisfaction on the growing appreciation in Palestine of the community of interest between Jews and Arabs, both of whom were equally interested in the economic development of the country.

In the successful and harmonious carrying out of policy so much must depend on the man on the spot, the minister added, referring in the above-mentioned terms to the present incumbent, Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope. Mr. Freiman told the minister that he had heard with pleasure the same appreciation of the High Commissioner.

Mr. Foreman's parents, is subdivided into four equal incomes for the Michael Reese Hospital, the Chicago Home for Jewish Orphans, the Home for Aged Jews and the Chicago Winfield Sanitarium. In the other group, to be known as the Henry G. and Lottie S. Foreman Trust estate, equal incomes are willed to other institutions.

The will reads in part: "In making this will, I have in mind the thought of protecting and caring for the sick, the old and the orphan."

Confidence in Palestine Economic Future Expressed By Pardess Head

Isaac Rokach, Here on Flying Visit, Says There Is No Basis for Fear Of Overproduction

Confidence in Palestine's economic future was expressed by Isaac Rokach, Managing Director of "Pardess," the largest orange growers co-operative in Eretz Israel, in an interview with a representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency just prior to his departure for Europe.

Mr. Rokach hailed the growing movement among American Jews to settle in Palestine and to invest their funds in that country. "Palestine needs American Jewish business men as well as their money," he said. "Those who go there with their families and means prepared to work in field or factory will live happily and will at the same time be a benediction to the country."

Mr. Rokach spent five days in New York after attending the British Imperial Trade Conference in Ottawa before sailing for London. He expects to spend the next two months visiting the principal commercial centers in Europe before returning to Palestine. Mr. Rokach anticipates that Palestine will export 4,000,000 boxes of oranges next season. Approximately one-fourth of this quantity is to be produced by the members of "Pardess."

When questioned as to the future prospects of the Palestine orange trade, Mr. Rokach expressed enthusiasm. "There is absolutely no basis for fear of overproduction or loss of present markets," he said. "We now supply 18 percent of England's total requirements. I am certain we can sell England a much larger share of its needs in view of the fact that the Jaffa orange is considered by many the best in the world as well as in view of the excellent shipping facilities available between England and Palestine. Our oranges are shipped to markets when the product of practically all other sources of supply is already out of season. Only one type of California orange, the Valencia, is shipped into England and Englishmen prefer the Jaffa orange."

Mr. Rokach pointed out, however, that "in view of the rapidly increasing crop in Palestine, — it is expected that over 7,000,000 boxes will be available for export in 1936 — it is essential that we improve our methods of cultivation and the quality of the orange. Much has been done in the past ten years but much more can still be done. We need better methods for grading and packing the fruit: We need improved transportation facilities. Our advertising should be more extensive."

"In the course of time we shall see many new industries developing in Palestine around the orange industry. At present, for example, there is a con-

First American Legionnaire Sails to Settle in Legionnaire Colony

Philadelphia Departs Friday to Settle in Wadi Hawareth Area Where Settlement Planned for 100 Families

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—Samuel Vildavsky of this city who will leave for Palestine next Friday on the S.S. Majestic, will be the first American member of the Jewish Legion to settle with his family in the newly established Legionnaire colony at Wadi Hawareth, in Palestine.

To a representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, Vildavsky expressed his gratitude to the Jewish National Fund for making it possible for him and for his colleagues in the Jewish Legion to settle on the soil for which they willingly went to battle during the world war.

Viewing himself as an advance guard, Vildavsky plans to pave the way for the others who are to follow. It is his intention to inform them as soon as possible of the possibilities for permanent settlement and what will be required of them once they arrive in the Holy Land. To Vildavsky this is a dream of many years come true, and he and his colleagues are particularly thankful to the Zionist Organization of Canada, who purchased the Wadi Hawareth area, thus making it possible for the Jewish National Fund to assign land capable of supporting 100 families to members of the Jewish Legion.

Vildavsky was born in Taganrog, in the Don Cossack region of Russia in 1893. He attended college in Kiev and with a group of young students sailed for Palestine in 1913. Finding himself improperly equipped to do agricultural work in Palestine, he proceeded to the University of Toulouse in France, where he studied agriculture and returned to Palestine in 1914. Following the outbreak of the war he was forced to leave Palestine by the Turks and

Says Immigration Should Have Been Halted in 1900

Byron H. Uhl, Assistant Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, who is marking forty years of service at the Island, expressed the viewpoint on Monday that immigration should have been halted in 1900 instead of in 1924.

Mr. Uhl stated that had this been done lawlessness might have been checked.

"Most of this lawlessness can be traced in the majority of individual cases to aliens or the first generation of their descendants," Mr. Uhl holds. "Now we are gradually ridding the country of undesirables but it is a long and tedious job and we would have been spared the trouble if the immigration rush had been terminated sooner."

which is to be named for Sir Saseon David, his father. A suitable candidate for the chair has already been selected, it was stated.

A Committee has been named to select a site for a hospital to be connected with the University, and early building operations are awaited, it was reported.

Ways and means of securing an income for the University outside of the United States which has carried practically the whole burden of the budget, were discussed.

Despite the economic crisis no damaging economies have been effected at the University, it was stated.

The budget of £37,700 adopted is designed to maintain the existing services. This hopeful policy and also the plan for an agricultural school connected with the University as well as the University Hospital projected have been made possible largely through the services of Dr. Nathan Ratnoff of New York, Chairman of the American Jewish Physicians' Committee, who is also a member of the board, the sessions were informed.

proceeded to Egypt, where he met Colonel Paterson and Mr. Jabotinsky who were then recruiting men for the Zion Mule Corps, which won undying glory in the British campaign in the Dardanelles. Vildavsky went through the entire campaign with the Zionists and when the Corps was disbanded after the withdrawal of the British forces from Gallipoli, he came to the United States where he returned to the study of agriculture at Davies College in Berkeley, Cal.

When the decision to form a Jewish Battalion for service in Palestine was announced in 1917, Vildavsky rejoined and proceeded to Palestine where he participated in General Allenby's victorious drive against the Turks. After the armistice he settled as a Chalutz in the colony of Shechunath Borochov.

Mrs. Vildavsky, who preceded her husband to Palestine, has visited the site of the colony and reports that it is on the shores of the Mediterranean Sea, and that the soil is adapted for orange plantations; that the well is already being dug to supply water to the groves. The colony is being parceled out among the 100 families it is expected to support, and the first shelters are being built.

siderable increase in the manufacture of boxes for oranges, the bulk of which are now imported from Roumania and other countries. This will result in some saving to the growers in Palestine and will supply labor to many people, thus making possible increased immigration to the country.

"Considerable attention is now being devoted to the development of the by-products of the orange industry. Experiments have already been made on a commercial scale with satisfactory results. Orange oil is pressed out of the orange peel. A paste has been prepared out of the peel which is in demand among bakers and confectioners," he said. "Pectin, used in jelly and jam manufacturing, is being produced. Orange juice and concentrated orange juice made from the Jaffa orange have already been sold successfully in England, India and other countries. A co-operative was recently organized for propagating the by-products industry among the Jewish growers".

Asked of the possibilities of the growth of other industries, unrelated to the citrus crops, Mr. Rokach said: "In agriculture we have to compete with Arab methods and Arab labor costs but in other industries the field is clear for Jewish enterprise. For example, the Nesher Cement Plant is working day and night and has absolutely eliminated all importation of cement into Palestine. The Salt Works at Athlit, which extract common table salt from the Mediterranean, produced 7,000 tons last year. The Shemen Oil Works are very successful in the production of olive oil, castile soap and related products. Considerable progress is being made in the weaving and knitting of textiles. The Lodzia Works employ two full shifts in order to meet the demand for hosiery, underwear, etc.

"Palestine has been particularly successful in producing modern furniture which is being sold not only in the local and nearby markets but in European countries as well," he stated. "It is especially interesting that the Palestine artisans are using the wood of the eucalyptus trees in the making of this furniture. These trees were originally planted some fifty years ago to check the spread of malaria among the early settlers.

"The Dead Sea is about to be developed as a winter resort and this development will constitute an additional source of revenue for the country over and above the tremendous chemical resources of that body of water which has been declared to be almost worth its weight in gold," he revealed. "With the development of the concession for the hot springs at Tiberias, renowned for their healing qualities, a plan will be established for the extract of its salts to be sold in America and elsewhere. Other industries are developing as well," Mr. Rokach said.

In response to the query "How can American Jews help Palestine's growth most effectively?" Mr. Rokach said: "It is, of course, absolutely essential that American Jews continue to support the Zionist Organization and to contribute as generously as possible to the public funds, the Keren Hayesod and the Jewish National Fund. In addition, however, there is great need for the innate enterprise of American Jews. We need American Jewish business men, as well as their money. They could greatly help the growth of the country. In my opinion, American Jews with sons and daughters willing to work in the fields or houses or factories and possessing a capital of $5,000 or more can live very happily in Palestine and at the same time be a benediction to the country.

"It is of utmost importance, however, that prospective settlers receive honest, accurate, disinterested and unbiased information and advice both at the point of departure, as well as upon arrival in Palestine. It is with the greatest of pleasure that I learned of the formation for this purpose of the American Economic Committee for Palestine, under the leadership of Israel B. Brodie, Robert Szold and others. The New York office, which I visited, has already accumulated a wealth of data on Palestine. Moreover, I congratulate the Committee on its selection of such an able man as Raha-baiah Lewin-Epstein to take charge of its Bureau in Tel-Aviv.

"Mr. Lewin-Epstein, coming as he does from a family which is held in great esteem in Palestine, will be able to avail himself of the counsel and assistance of the best elements in the country. I feel that if similar committees are formed in other countries and if they cooperate effectively through a central bureau in Eretz Israel, the growth of Palestine will be greatly facilitated and its capacity for absorbing increased immigration greatly enhanced."
