ATTACKS ON JEWS CONTINUE IN WARSAW, LUBLIN, POSEN; JEW DIES FROM INJURIES IN TRAIN ATTACK

Lwow and Warsaw Kehiloth Adopt Protest Resolutions; Lwow Kehilla Council Protests Against Negligence in Apprehending Party Responsible for Explosion in Midst of Funeral Throng Last Tuesday; Raid on Anti-Semitic Organization Discloses Documents Showing Disturbances Planned; Jew Dies; Curator of Wawelberg High School Threatens to Withdraw Support If Disturbances Continue

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LWOW, Dec. 5—A Jewish train passenger, Jeruchom Zigelheim, who was attacked by anti-Semitic students, succumbed to his injuries yesterday.

Attacks on trains continue to be prevalent in the vicinity of Lwow where serious anti-Semitic disturbances have been current for the past week since a Polish student, Jan Grotowski met his death following a drunken brawl.

Attacks were particularly current yesterday on the lines to Stanislowow. Three Jews were injured at Straij, a Jewish merchant, Rotbach, and a student, Bauer, sustaining grave hurts.

The tension in Czenstochowa reached its peak yesterday following a memorial service for Grotowski. Many Jews were severely injured by demonstrators and Jewish shops looted.

WARSAW, Dec. 5—Attacks upon Jews continued last night in Warsaw, centering in particular round the cafes Newiaksi and Adria, frequented by Jews.

Several Jews were beaten up at these cafes. A store owned by a Jew Rind, located in Rinkowa Street was attacked. One of the attackers was arrested. Late in the evening National Democrats surrounded the Jewish proprietor and ordered him to withdraw his charges against the accused, on threat of death.

Two Jews were also attacked on Orla Street last night.

The National Democratic press yesterday launched upon a new campaign of agitation against the Jews, declaring that Jewish window framers themselves broke the windows of stores and homes in the interests of improving their conditions.

The windows of the National Demo-

Vienna U. Heavily Guarded; Fear Attacks on Jews as Result of Nazi-Catholic Split

Catholic Students Secede from Union as Protest Against Hitlerite Domination

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

VIENNA, Dec. 5—Large police reinforcements stand guard today in the vicinity of the University of Vienna, to prevent any serious consequences should the clashes between the Nazis and the Catholics be renewed.

The possibility that the differences between the Catholics and the Nazis may be diverted to the Jews is feared.

The Catholic press today establishes that the national student law will be abandoned in view of the split between the members of the Austro-German student union, on the question of Hitlerite domination.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

VIENNA, Dec. 5—The Austro-German Student Union was disrupted yesterday following the secession of the Catholic students, as a gesture of a repudiation of Hitlerite domination of the Austrian Universities.

The secession was not permitted to transpire peaceably by the Nazis who immediately set about to beat up the Catholic students.

Zionists Win Majority in Vienna Kehillah Election

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

VIENNA, Dec. 5—Yesterday's Jewish Community elections in which 25,000 votes were cast, about 50% of the number entitled to vote, resulted in the election of a Zionist majority.

The Zionist parties together received twenty-one of the thirty-six mandates, while the Oesterreichisch Israelitische Union won fifteen places. The seats are divided as follows: General Zionists, 14 seats including three Revisionists with whom they formed a bloc; Poale Zion, 4; Mizrachi, one; Zionist impartial group, one; Radical Zionists, one.

Einstein Will Cancel U.S. Trip Unless Visa Granted in Twenty-four Hours, He Says

Objects to "Third Degree" to Which He Is Subjected by Consulate Acting Upon State Department Instructions

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Dec. 5—Unless a visa to the United States is granted him within twenty-four hours, Professor Einstein will cancel his trip to America, where he is scheduled to conclude his experiments at Mount Wilson Observatory preliminary to taking up his duties as the head of the Mathematical School of the newly formed Institue for Advanced Study.

Professor Einstein delivered this ultimatum today after he had been put through what he regards as a sort of third degree by American consular officials, who questioned him regarding his Communist affiliations as alleged by the Women's Patriot Corporation of the United States.

The Consulate acted upon instructions issued by the United States State Department in Washington after the latter had received a complaint

Report Roumanian Students Attack, Break Up Palestine Foundation Fund Meeting

Take Over Kehillah Building, Hold Anti-Semitic Meeting There as Police Look on

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

VIENNA, Dec. 5—Acts of terrorism against the Jews which began with an attack upon a meeting of the Palestine Foundation Fund occurred last night in Temesvar, Roumania, according to telephoned information received by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency here.

Roumanian students, according to the report, entered the meeting hall where two Vienna Zionists, Dr. Samuel Gelber and Rabbi Drechsler, were scheduled to speak, and ejected the audience.

Acts of terrorism were perpetrated in the streets. The structure of the Jewish Community itself was taken over by the students who held an anti-Semitic meeting there.

The police, according to the report, looked on passively as the disturbances took place. The reason given for the attack is that the meeting speakers did not use the Roumanian language.

Synagogue and Education Problems Discussed at Three Conferences Here

North East Religious Union; Conference of Religious Teachers Meet; Conference of United Synagogue

A frank admission of the present backward state of the synagogue in America and a plea to the Jewish youth of the country to come in and help make the synagogue over, was made before one thousand delegates and visitors gathered on Sunday, in the Community Hall of the Temple Emanu-El, for the second annual convention of the North East Religious Union.

Roger W. Straus, chairman of the Union, in making the keynote address of the convention, admitted that the Synagogue was going through a period of difficulty. " But," he said, "to me the problem of the Synagogue in a time of difficulty is the same as its problems at all other times; it should be a haven where men and women can refresh themselves spiritually and receive new inspiration to live the good life. And our problem is to make the Synagogue such a haven. In times of difficulty that problem is made more difficult because it requires more material sacrifice. And we should be prepared to give that."

The delegates present represented 157 Jewish religious congregations, sisterhoods and brotherhoods in the various New England States, New York and New Jersey.

The morning session was devoted to a discussion of "The Congregation in a Time of Difficulty," and was presided over by Charles P. Kramer, president of the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods. Judge Irving Lehman first greeted the delegates in the name of Temple Emanu-El, of which he is president, and of the Jews of New York City. Mr. Straus followed him and cratic organ "Gazeta Warszawska" were smashed yesterday by students.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LUBLIN, Dec. 5—Jews were attacked in Lublin yesterday by students of the Catholic University who demonstrated through the streets following a church memorial service for Grotowski.

Jews were attacked on the streets and the windows of Jewish stores smashed. The building of the Yiddish daily, "Lubliner Tageblatt" was attacked and three members of the staff injured, Hersh Kohn, Greenblatt and Glassman.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

POSEN, Dec. 5—Many Jewish stores in Posen remain closed as anti-Jewish boycott agitation continues in full force, accompanied by the breaking of windows.

Jewish merchants who assembled for the market day at Opelionow, near Posen, were attacked by hooligans. The Jews, fearing for their lives, fled, leaving their merchandise behind them. The hooligans thereupon broke into Jewish stores and looted the merchandise.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Dec. 5—Michael Wawelberg, curator of the Technical High School here, informed the supervisors of the institution that the endowment would be withdrawn if the anti-Jewish excesses are resumed and that the school would be closed.

The Wawelberg High School, which bears the name of its founder, was established through the gift of a Jewish patron and has been supported largely through funds supplied by Jews.

Last week the Jewish students were attacked by anti-Semites and evicted. The school was subsequently closed and then re-opened.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LWOW, Dec. 5—The Jewish Community Council of Lwow last night adopted a resolution protesting against what is termed the negligence of the authorities in failing to discover in time those really guilty for the explosion as the funeral procession was returning from services for Jan Grotowski, the Polish student killed following a drunken brawl.

On Saturday a Polish student, Zamorski, who had been wounded by an explosion, presumably the result of gun fire, in connection with which, three Jews were arrested, confessed that a hand grenade, carried by himself, had exploded prematurely, causing the explosion.

Indignation is high against the authorities far failing to discover the true facts sooner, inasmuch as the alleged responsibility of the Jews for the explosion had led to serious riots and the arrest of three Jews and the interrogation of former Deputy Jeger and his brother. Indeed Zamorski himself had previously identified the three arrested Jews as those responsible. Other witnesses, too, had attested to the guilt of the Jews who were kept chained in prison until Saturday when Zamorski confessed.

In view of Zamorski's confession, the police searched the premises of the witnesses and of National Democratic leaders, arresting eight, the majority of them students. The students escaped however to the University campus which enjoys immunity. The police are now seeking to prevail upon the rector to permit their arrest.

Among the arrested is the editor of the National Democratic organ "Kurier Lwowski."

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Dec. 5—The University of Warsaw remains closed today by decision of the rector in view of the continuation of the riots.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Dec. 5—A strong protest against the anti-Semitic disturbances in Poland was adopted yesterday by the Warsaw Jewish Community.

The resolution makes reference to the belief of the Kehillah that the riots are not approved by the government. At the same time it records the dignified attitude the Jewish students have displayed throughout.

WARSAW, Dec. 5—The dissolution of the National Democratic Organization "Obwiepol," is planned by the authorities as a result of last night's police raid of the organization's premises, which disclosed "destructive conspiring activity aiming at the provocation of disturbances and excesses," the pro-government press declares.

Although the planned dissolution of the organization is not due directly to the anti-Jewish incitement which it conducted, the suppression will have the effect of greatly handicapping the continuation of this agitation.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

The Polish Telegraphic Agency, in a despatch from Warsaw, states that "Minister of Education Jendrzejewicza, in an interview granted to one of the foreign press correspondents in Warsaw, declared that the recent excesses, although serious, had no 'pogrom' character but resulted from emotional causes. The Polish authitorities as well as the police proceeded with utmost energy. The possibility of further excesses decreases hourly. The students themselves begin to react against the provokers of the excesses."

Hoover, Roosevelt, Lehman Send Messages Lauding Morris Rothenberg

A message from President Hoover lauding his services to "nation and race" was one of scores read Sunday night in honor of Morris Rothenberg, President of the Zionist Organization of America and Chairman of the American Administrative Committee of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, to whom a testimonial dinner was given at the Hotel Astor in recognition of service to Palestine, to other Jewish causes and to the labor movement, with which activities he has been actively identified for two decades.

A parchment scroll was presented to Mr. Rothenberg by Nathan Straus, Jr., Chairman, on behalf of the Testimonial Committee, "in recognition of selfless labor on behalf of his people and in appreciation of a career lived in terms of the highest Jewish ideals."

Other messages received included those from Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Acting Governor Herbert H. Lehman, Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Nahum Sokolow, President of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, and Hon. Herman Bernstein, United States Minister to Albania.

The greeting from President Herbert Hoover was addressed to Nathan Straus, Jr. and read as follows:

"I will be obliged if you will express my deep sense of the value of Mr. Morris Rothenberg's many services to nation and race through his long-time activities in civic and philanthropic enterprises, and convey to him my congratulations upon the deserved honor he is receiving. I add every good wish for his continued well-being and happiness."

Speakers at the dinner, part of the proceedings of which were broadcast over station WJZ, included Nathan Straus, Jr. the toastmaster; Felix M. Warburg, noted Jewish philanthropist and one of the leaders in the formation of the Jewish Agency, who was honorary chairman of the Dinner Committee; Dr. Cyrus Adler, President of the American Palestine Campaign; Rabbi Stephen S. Wise; James Marshall; Mrs. Rose Halprin, president of Hadassah and Julius Hochman, vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Saying that his "first knowledge of the character and attainments of Mr. Rothenberg was gained during the trying days out of which grew the Joint Distribution Committee", Felix M. Warburg, Honorary Chairman of the Testimonial Committee added that Mr. Rothenberg's "sensitive understanding of the plight of our brethren abroad, his wise counsel in regard to measures that would alleviate their suffering were enheartening and enlightening to his coworkers. But my appreciation of his place in the community ripened during our meetings in regard to Palestine. As a champion of the cause of the rebuilding of Palestine, he was tactful, persuasive and informative. The extension of the Jewish Agency owes much to the diplomacy and the broadmindedness of Morris Rothenberg.

"But the most eloquent tribute that I can pay to the guest of honor is to speak of the deep inner joys which I have won in the movement to which he has contributed so much. Through his influence, there are others in the American Jewish community who have realized for the first time the invigorating influence which is radiated by Palestine. There have been few factors in the past decade to compare with Palestine as an instrument for bringing Jews closer to their people. The courage of the pioneers and their self-sacrifice have aroused in Jews of other lands a spirit of noblesse oblige and an eagerness to share in the enterprise of rebuilding not only a land but a people.

"The example set in Palestine has been urgently needed. We in our day have great need of such a refreshing substance.

"Palestine should offer a general appeal to the Jewish people not only because of what they might achieve for the land but for the strength it can give them to carry on their communal tasks and for the new spirit it can provide to meet the difficulties and the doubts which beset them."

Dr. Cyrus Adler, President of the American Jewish Committee and Chairman of the American Section of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said, in part:

"Of course we here tonight all have in mind his efforts for Palestine. I think it can be said without hesitation that he was the most valuable intermediary in the formation of the enlarged Jewish Agency, the usefulness of which there are some who are inclined to deprecate but which only a few are willing absolutely to deny."

Louis Lipsky, National Chairman of the American Palestine Campaign, characterized Mr. Rothenberg's recent acceptance of the post of President of the Zionist Organization as "an act of great courage and evidence of a keen sense of responsibility. For, to assume the Presidency of the Organization at this time, really requires not only courage but unusual heroism. Organizations in Jewish life are now regarded as the last line of defense, and the last line of defense is always neglected by Jews.

"It becomes a matter of the greatest difficulty to persuade the average Jewish citizen of his obligation to maintain the carrier of the ideal, the inspirer of the action, the reservoir of spiritual power which is represented by the Zionist Organization as a continuing force and factor in the renaissance of the Jewish people."

In the course of his own remarks, Morris Rothenberg said:

"I count myself fortunate indeed that despite my professional pre-occupa-gave the keynote of the convention. Jacob L. Newman, of Newark, Rabbi Joseph Fink of Buffalo, and Mrs. David E. Goldfarb of New York read papers. Max L. Schallek, chairman of the Greater New York Committee of the Union, led the discussion from the floor. Mr. Newman aroused great enthusiasm when he declared that "what we need at the head of our congregations are real leaders. Leaders who have the courage and sincerity of purpose to go forward in the great work. Leadership in the social, religious and political world is one of the crying needs of the day."

Following luncheon, the afternoon session was opened by Ludwig Vogelstein, chairman of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, who gave the greetings of the parent organization. Mr. Vogelstein made a plea for closer cooperation and more tolerance between the Reform group and other Jewish denominations in America. It was just as important, he said, to promote Judaism in general as to promote one's own particular brand of Judaism.

A business session followed in which reports were made on the activities and accomplishments of the North East Religious Union during the past year. Though most of the first year's work was taken up with matters of organization and consolidation, the Union can already point to specific and concrete accomplishments along the road that it set for itself at the time of its inception.

The afternoon session concluded with a symposium on "Youth and the Synagogue" presided over by Mrs. Albert J. May, president of the New York State Federation of Temple Sisterhoods. J. Jacques Stone, 23-year-old attorney of New York, told what youth demanded of the Synagogue. "The young Jew," he said, "must discover or create a sanction, a meaning, a beauty for his life as a Jew in this modern world, or else die of spiritual starvation. He asks, 'How shall his Jewishness come to have a definite meaning in his life, how can it give him significance and beauty?' To these ends the youth of today looks to the Synagogue. . . . The Synagogue should offer the youth a vital contact with Jewish life; something to which the youth can attach his Jewish consciousness."

Dr. Leon Mones, dean of the New Jersey Normal School for Jewish Teachers and Social Workers, warned the delegates of the evil consequences that would result from the loss of the Jewish youth to the Synagogue.

Discussion of the two papers was led by Mrs. Nathaniel Levy, chairman of the New York State Federation of Young Folks' Temple Leagues.

Roger W. Straus was re-elected chairman.

Conference of Religious School Teachers, the liberal group headed by Rabbi William F. Rosenblum of Temple Israel of the City of New York, met Sunday afternoon in the Community House of Temple Emanu-El. The theme of the Conference, "Educating for Worship in the Religious School," was discussed in several departmental meetings and epitomized in the general session which concluded the Conference.

Papers were read by Toby Kurzband, Tremont Temple; Harry Gutman, Temple Israel of New York; Miss Nellie Reichert, West End Synagogue; Mrs. Edward J. Levine, Temple Israel of New Rochelle and Rabbi Max Schenk of Temple Israel Religious School. Rabbis L. Eliot Grafman, B. A. Tintner, Benjamin Schultz and Nathan Stern presided over the respective Primary, Intermediate, High School and Youth divisions.

Rabbi Rosenblum stressed the importance of greater teacher participation in the formulation of school curriculi. "The men and women who teach our children," he said, "should have a hand in the shaping of the courses they are asked to present. They are in the classrooms. They are better equipped to know what children will and what they will not learn. It is useless to teach any other information, either in a religious or secular school."

Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron of Baltimore, Md., the principal speaker, in his address on "How Shall We Teach Worship in Our Religious Schools?" stressed the need for prayerfulness and a sense of worship as an aim of and part of the technique of the religious school. Rabbi Lazaron instanced some of the practices in his own school and synagogue. "Reform Judaism has thrown out too much that was fine of the old traditions and ceremonies. We are reintroducing them," he said.

Conference Stresses Continuing Jewish Education

Cooperation between Jewish religious schools for the purpose of continuing and strengthening Jewish Education in the Metropolitan district was the keynote of the Educational Conference held at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America yesterday under the auspices of the United Synagogue of America. The principal speakers were Professor Mordecai M. Kaplan of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, Dr. Israel S. Chipkin, and Rabbi Alter F. Landesman, chairman of the Education Committee of the United Synagogue.

A critical situation in Jewish education was pictured by Professor Kaplan who declared that "the chaos which exists at the present time in our Jewish educational work is almost heartbreaking." Discussing the causes of the present apathy towards Jewish Education Professor Kaplan denounced the psychology of Jews who believe that it is possible to get along in this world without a knowledge of things Jewish.

"There is no demand on the part of parents that their children should receive a Jewish education," Professor Kaplan declared. "The problem is fundamentally how to overcome this lack of demand, the absence of the demand for Jewish education and what to do to create a demand for Jewish education where no such demand exists in Jewish life today. It is important for our congregations to come together and coordinate our efforts in order to develop the kind of Jewish educational system which will augment the demand for Jewish education."

In his introductory remarks Rabbi Alter F. Landesman, Chairman of the Conference, drew attention to the importance of Jewish education for American Jewry and declared that "We need a re-acceptance of the proper importance of Jewish education."

Speaking on the subject of Budgeting the Congregational School, Mr. Chipkin urged practical budgetting in Jewish religious schools, and condemned the practice of cutting the salaries of teachers.

The subject of cooperation among Jewish schools was treated by Israel L. Eisenberg, principal of the East Midwood Jewish Center of Brooklyn.

Other speakers at the conference were Louis J. Moss, President of the United Synagogue of America, Samuel Rothstein, of the East Midwood Jewish Center, and Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen, Executive Director of the United Synagogue of America.

The conference adopted resolutions uring cooperation among congregational schools, urging schools to accept only licensed teachers, requesting congregational schools to continue every effort on behalf of Jewish education, and urging schools to support "Jewish Current Events," an organ of Jewish current events for the Jewish youth.

BERLIN, Dec. 5—Adolph Hitler's leading organ, the "Voelkischer Beobachter," takes up the cry of the Women's Patriot Corporation of America against Professor Albert Einstein as a Communist and therefore ineligible for admission to the United States.

"We congratulate the American patriotic women for demanding Einstein's exclusion," declares the paper. "We hope they succeed, though we do not want to keep the Jewish Bolshevist, Einstein, in Germany."

tions, I was afforded the opportunity to contribute my labors in the efforts which have been made by American Jewry to alleviate the suffering and to remove the disabilities and inequalities of their brethren in East European lands, a state of affairs that is a blot on civilization. I count it a rare privilege that I have been able to take part in that epoch-making enterprise of establishing a national home for the Jewish People in Palestine. I am firmly convinced that what is being achieved there will not only be of great material and spiritual value to the Jews who may dwell there but of great spiritual significance to the Jews the world over living in lands of their adoption. What has already been accomplished in Palestine constitutes a great epic. I am happy to know that it may be thought that I have had a share, however small, in its making. Whatever I have attained is in the largest measure due to the wonderful co-operation I have received from the distinguished leaders in American and world Jewry and to the devotion of my co-workers everywhere."

Mrs. Halprin said, "I certainly am in no position to minimize what fund-raising means to Palestine. A task which I think is just as important as fund raising and even more important—and I talk of the task right here in this country—of the young people who need Zionism. Youth has a way of feeling that it can do and will do things, and youth is willing and can and will create things, and I speak for Jewish youth and particularly for American Jewish youth. There are only two places in the world where such forms can be created—in Russia and Palestine. If they go the way of Russia, there is revolution, and they are driven away from Jewish life. If they go to Palestine, they tie up with the Jewish task and create those social forms which they feel they can and will do. This is the most important thing that has happened in 2,000 years, and when we face that problem it is more than a question of membership, of a dollar or two to the Zionist Organization. We must teach the youth their own place in Jewish life and the continuous chain in Jewish history of which they are a part."
