Vienna Police Given Ultimatum to Leave Nazi Party or Face Dismissal

Nazi Police Meeting Dissolved; Names of Those Present Noted; Calls for Protection Without Discrimination

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

VIENNA, Jan. 21—The president of the Vienna Police Department, Brandl, yesterday issued an ultimatum to Nazis who are members of the police department, to relinquish their party affiliations, or face dismissal from the force.

A mass meeting of Nazi members of the police force held last night was dissolved by order of the Police President and the names of all those present noted.

Policemen must not belong to any party which approves acts of violence against other citizens, the Police President asserted. Every policeman, he pointed out, must take an oath of office pledging him to carry out his duties without discrimination and in accordance with the laws of protection.

Contact Re-established Between Jews of Vilna and Kovno

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW.—Direct contact between the Jewish population of the Vilna district, whose inclusion in Poland has been contested by the Lithuanian Government with the result that the frontier between the two countries has been closed, has at last been re-established. A party of Polish Jews, mostly from the Vilna district, has gone to Kovno by special permission of the Polish and Lithuanian Governments in order to take part in the Conference of Orthodox Jews in Kovno.

At the same time, a party of Kovno Jews has arrived in Vilna. They have come across the Polish-Lithuanian frontier by special permission of the Lithuanian authorities, and armed with special permits issued by the Polish frontier guards.

The excursion has been arranged by the Vilna branch of the Hebrew Tarbut Organization in Poland, for the Jubilee of the Hebrew Teachers' Seminary of the Tarbut Organization in Vilna. The Tarbut workers from Lithuania will acquaint themselves with the Tarbut schools and the pedagogic and cultural work of the Tarbut Organization in Poland. They will stay about 19 days in Vilna.

Anti-Semitic Disturbances Continue; Cuzists Storm Home of Bukowina Minister

Demand Release of Their Comrades; Police Frustrate Attempt to Storm Prison: Three Jews Also Arrested

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

CZERNOWITZ, Jan. 21—The anti-Semitic disturbances which occurred here yesterday in connection with the trial of nine Jews charged with conducting Communist activities, continued today.

Five hundred Cuzists took part in a demonstration outside of the home of the Minister for Bukowina, Saucuk Szevanu, demanding the release of the Cuzists arrested in connection with yesterday's events.

An attempt made by the students to storm the prison where their comrades are held, was frustrated by the police.

The arrests were made by order of the public prosecutor of Czernowitz and include the president of the Cuzist Student League, Dobosh Boca, and two vice-presidents, Costache and Buscatzeanu.

Three Jewish youths, Sternberg, Chanes and Retter, were also taken into custody by the police.

Opponents of the present regime are suspected of having thrown the bomb with the purpose of provoking political disturbances.

The bomb was exploded in a drug store and caused considerable damage to neighboring Jewish property.

A lock factory, owned by the brothers Benjamin and Chaim Terner, and their dwelling which adjoined, suffered. No one was injured.

The barber shop of a Jew, Leib Arluks, the leather factory of the brothers Sheftel, and the warehouse of the brothers Berezdiwin also suffered.

Resumption of Cohn Lectures Unlikely; Urge Steps To Curb Nazi Terrorism

Insist Measures Be Taken to Insure Continuation of Lectures Else Nazis Will Destroy University Freedom

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BRESLAU, Jan. 21 — Despite the vote of the Senate of the University of Breslau favoring the resumption of the lectures of Professor Ernst Cohn, it seems unlikely that the lectures will be resumed on Tuesday as scheduled, owing to the difficulties in coming to an agreement with the Nazi students.

A committee composed of members of the faculty has been negotiating with the Nazi students since last week for some terms which will insure peace and order. Twice Professor Cohn's lectures have been postponed in the last week and it seems likely that a third postponement will follow next Tuesday, it is pointed out here.

Professor Cohn's "recantation" in the interests of peace, of his statement with regard to Leon Trotsky, the exiled Soviet leader, has failed to appease the Nazi students. He aroused the ire of the Nazis when, in response to a newspaper inquiry on the merit of granting asylum in Germany to Trotsky, he declared: all spiritual workers deserve asylum provided they do not engage in political controversies. Last week he informed the University Senate that he realizes he should not have made this statement to the press without previ-

New Donor to Continue

Rosenwald Hospital Research

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 21.—Expansion and endowment of facilities for scientific study of stomach disorders at Michael Reese hospital, financed for fifteen years by the late Julius Rosenwald, was announced by officials of the hospital. Louis L. Cohen was named as donor of the gift to continue the work, for which no provision was made in the Rosenwald will.

Although the exact amount of the gift was withheld, the sum was stated to be one of the largest made for research in Chicago in many months. It will enable an increased staff of 25 to carry on indefinitely the experiments for which the late philanthropist contributed $10,000 annually. Dr. Heinrich Necheles, formerly of the University of Hamburg, has joined the group as full time physiologist. Prof. H. A. Carlson of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Alfred A. Strauss are other specialists included.

By combining the knowledge and efforts of physiologists, X-ray men, research workers and practicing medical men on the 1,000 cases handled yearly, vast progress has been made in the department, which is unique in this country.

Important Concession to Jewish Settlers Made by Argentine Government

Accedes to Hias Request; Permits Export of Capital, Prohibited by Law

The government of the Republic of Argentina has made a striking concession to Jewish settlers in that country, notably those coming from Eastern Europe, according to an announcement by the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society.

The government of Argentina had promulgated an order prohibiting the export of capital from that country with the result that settlers in that country were unable to send money to their relatives in Eastern Europe and particularly to those living in Soviet Russia. This worked tremendous hardship and the Buenos Aires office of Hias was asked to intervene.

Negotiations were conducted between the Society and the Commission for Exchange Control resulting in permission being given to the former to accept money remittances on behalf of persons living in Eastern Europe. It was stipulated, however, that these remittances cannot exceed fifty pesos for each remittance and that the total amount to be remitted each month through the Society shall not exceed ten thousand pesos or about $2,500. Thanks to this concession the relatives in Europe will now receive, as heretofore, the monetary support upon which they depended.

The Hias office, gratified at the success of its negotiations with the Commissioner for Exchange Control, is now seeking permission to forward funds also for emigration purposes to Argentina. There is every likelihood that this request will, too, be granted.

2,000 Jews Migrated From Salonica in 1932

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

SALONICA, Jan. 21.—Two thousand Jews emigrated from Salonica in 1932 owing to the present economic crisis and Salonica's inability to support her population, according to figures published in an article by the former Governor General of Salonica, Senator Achille Caelebras.

The majority of the Jews settled in Palestine. Senator Caelebras predicts that the emigration in 1933 will be even larger.

Eight thousand Armenians left Greece in 1932, 2,500 of them coming from Salonica.

The situation in Salonica is ascribed in part to the world crisis and in part to the large influx of Greek refugees from Asia Minor.

Plans have been drawn and the foundations completed for the erection of a grade school for the Hebrew Free School Association at Springfield, Mass.

Valuable Map Collection Gift to Jewish National and University Library by Mrs. Lindheim

By Our Special Jerusalem Correspondent

JERUSALEM—Sixty beautifully illustrated and decorated maps, some of which show the quaint conceptions of the world that existed in the later Middle Ages, have recently been acquired by the Jewish National and University Library in Jerusalem as a gift from Mrs. Norvin Lindheim, of Norwalk, Connecticut, U.S.A. They show in striking form what the ancient cartographers knew of the terrestrial globe in those times.

The romantic nature of life in the Middle Ages is vividly depicted in colors that are still fresh, although three or four hundred years have passed since they were first produced. Many of them were drawn and designed by John Speed in the early seventeenth century, as part of the old Speed Theatre (Collection) in London. These cartographs of "Ye Theatre of John Speed in Empire of Great Britaine" are embellished with colored reproductions at the sides of ancient peoples in mediaeval garb.

One of the striking items in the collection is "A New Mapped of the Roman Empire, newly described by John Speed . . . and are to be sold by Roger Rea the Elder and Younger at the Golden Crosse in Cornhill against the Exchange." It is dated 1610, and there is a description of the Roman Empire at the foot, in the ancient script in which "he's" were "ye's" and "s" was "f." One of the illustrations is a view of steeples and spires that is called simply "Tervsalem," and there are gallantly-clothed figures of "Spainyards," "Italians," "Chincans," and "Molvicans" around the borders. Speed has also a 1626 map in the collection.

A later cartograph, dating 1685-88, is of "The Empire of the Great Turke in Europe, Asia and Africa, divided into all its Berglerbeglicz or Governments in which are also distinguished the States that are tributary to him," and is "humbly dedicated and presented by your Majesties loyall subject and servant, William Berry," to King James the Second.

There are maps and diagrams of Mercator, Janszen, Ortelius, de Witt and Blaeu, and other celebrated cartographers of the Middle Ages. But probably the most fascinating is that of the 1513 edition of Ptolmey, being the fourth map of Asia (including the Holy Land) and lithographed on parchment of those times. Given in the old Latin that was Ptolmey's tongue, the letterpress constitutes a remarkable tribute to that ancient mapper of the world. Its history is that it was commenced "by the Saint-Die geographer, Martin Waltzmüller

Vassar President Scores Immigration Curb; Says More Entries Would Benefit Country

Calls for Enlargement of Quotas; Scores Restrictions on Alien Students

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

EAST ORANGE, Jan. 21.—The immigration laws of the United States were criticized by Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar College, in a talk at an international relations luncheon of the Oranges here.

"I believe personally, speaking as an idealist and not an economist, that our present immigration quotas could be greatly enlarged with great benefits resulting in this country," Dr. MacCracken said. "The first and not the last consideration of the government in any measures dealing with immigration quotas should be to do they promote or obstruct human intercourse."

In answer to a question as to how jobs could be provided for an increased immigrant population when the people already here cannot find them, Dr. MacCracken said he believed there must be some economic reason for the fact that when immigration was less restricted we never had as complete an economic crisis as now.

"Recent restrictions upon alien students in the United States which make it almost impossible for us to encourage them to enter is a great mistake and I hope one of the first acts of President-elect Roosevelt will be to see that these restrictions are lifted," he said.

Dr. MacCracken said the policy of our government toward recognition of foreign states is most unjust today. It is based not upon what has happened in the past but upon fear of the future, he said. Because of it American citizens in Russia today are unprotected, he said.

Mrs. Mamie N. Klein, Pioneer Welfare Worker, Dies

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 21.—The Los Angeles Jewish community is mourning the passing of Mrs. Mamie N. Klein, aged 62, known in this city as the founder of the Young Men's Hebrew Association and for her war work. She died in her sleep from a heart attack, physicians say. April 1, her husband, Henry Klein, founder of the Klein, Norton Co., wholesalers in dry goods passed away.

Mrs. Klein was born in Newark, N. J., and came to this city about fifty five years ago. She was president of the Council of Jewish women, director of the Jewish Orphan's Home, a member of the Friday Morning Club and the Temple B'nai B'rith sisterhood. In 1914 she organized the Young Men's Hebrew Association. She is survived by her son Dr. Arthur L. Klein, professor of aeronautics at the California Institute of Technology, and four brothers.

Seek to Void Will Which Provides Daughters Must Marry in Jewish Faith

The N. Y. Law Journal of the 13th inst. reports a decision rendered the day before by Surrogate Foley, in connection with the "Estate of Charles Freeman," in which an effort was made to have a provision of a will adjudged void, as against public policy, in which testator left legacies to two daughters, provided they married a person of the Jewish faith, but directing payment of the legacy to them on attaining the age of 30, if then unmarried.

The Surrogate declined to pass on the legality of the provision, because academic, as marriage to a non-Jew might never occur. No reference was made in the opinion to general authorities sustaining such conditions, nor to an earlier decision of the N. Y. Appellate Division in Davis v. Davis 86 App. Div. 401, rendered in 1901, where testator's will had provided that if any of his grandchildren should renounce the Hebrew faith, they should be disinherited. While reversing the lower court, which had adjudged the clause illegal, the Appellate Division did not content itself with basing its decision on the ground that the question was academic, but all five judges concurred in the opinion of Justice Jenks, who said:

"If the question were necessarily before the court for construction, I am not prepared to say that the clause is illegal. I think that it has never been directly adjudicated in this state. But in England, Hodgson v. Halford, L. R. 11 Ch. Div. 959, and Ex Parte Mary Dickson, 1 Sim. N. S. 37, are authorities which go far to sustain its validity. The latter authority is mentioned in Hogan v. Curtin, 88 N. Y. 162, 170, 42 Am. Rep. 244, in the learned discussion upon conditions and their validity, by Andrews, C. J."

Under the name of Young Women's League of Hias there has been organized in Brooklyn an Auxiliary of Young Women of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society (HIAS). The organizers of the League are: Mrs. Irving H. Lurie and Mrs. Arthur L. Schur, the daughters of the late Leon Kamkay who for many years was a Vice-President of Hias and the Chairman of the first Hias commission to Europe, and of Mrs. Leon Kamkay, who is the President of the Rose N. Lesser Auxiliary and a director of Hias as well. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Irving H. Lurie, Chairman; Mrs. W. E. Friedman, Vice-Chairman; Mrs. Nathan Brooks, Treasurer; Mrs. Morris Schur, Financial Secretary, and Mrs. Philip Elkind, Corresponding Secretary.

('Hylacomylus') about the year 1505, partly at the expense of Duke Rene of Lorraine, who also contributed the celebrated 'Hydrographia', or Admiral's map. The modern maps were prepared by Waltzemuller and most of the copies—perhaps all—engraved as early as 1507. But delays supervened, and it was not until 1513 that the rare print finally saw the light of publication.

The Palestine Maps

Few of the beautiful maps and designs of the Holy Land are of scientific or even historical significance, because they were not the product of actual cartography but of imagination and reconstruction gleaned from ancient literary sources such as the Scriptures, Josephus, Eusebius, and other writings, says Professor Samuel Klein, occupant of the Sol Rosenbloom Chair of Palestine Research at the Hebrew University. It is only in the later maps, such as one of 1835, that one finds evidence of accurate geographical and topographical knowledge, declares the professor.

Christian maps produced in Holland, Germany, England and France, and representing the perspective of those old cartographers sitting in their workrooms distant from the Holy Land, undoubtedly have had an influence upon Hebrew mapmakers; and a Hebrew map dating from 1694 in the Jewish National and Hebrew University Library archives shows how these conceptions were treated.

The twenty-four maps present a bewildering variety of cartographical ideas that were current about the Holy Land, under the dominion of "Ye Greate Turke." Tabula itineraria Patriarcharum . . . Amstelodami, apud Joannem Janssonium, is the result of such distant observation. Maps showing the tribal distribution of the Holy Land, Tribuum Ephraim, Benjamin, et dimidie Manasse, pars maxima tribus Juda versus orientem, and Tribus Ruben et Gad, are three such specimens.

An "exact description by Georgius Hornius" was made at The Hague in 1741. Janssonius publishes in his "Theatrum terrae sanctae 1590" the Situs terrae promissionis, while Senor Robert in 1743 produces a "Carte de la Terre des Hebreux ou Israelites . . . dressée . . . sur les cartes et manuscrits des Srs Sanson" from Paris. Dom Auguste Calmet in 1730 has a similar map.

Of particular interest are the maps of Abraham Ortelius, Theatrum 1584, 1595, and 1601, which is represented by "Terra Sancta, a Petro Laicstian perstrata, et . . . a Christiano Schrot in tabulam redacta." An accurate description of Palestine was produced in 1725 by M. Seutter, "Palaeestina accurata descriptio." He lived from 1678-1756. The same cartographer had designed five years previously Jerusalem and its suburbs, "prou tempore Christi floruit."

Valuable specimens are those of ously sounding his colleagues on the matter.

The Nazi Student Ring now asserts that Professor Cohn's statement merely proves that he is unsuited as a University teacher for the promotion of Nationalist ideals.

"We demand a national college," they insist, and will continue their fight. In this the Nazis are joined by the Nationalist students.

Democratic circles, however, call on the government and the University Senate to employ every means to enable Cohn lectures to be conducted anew next Tuesday. Unless this is done, they assert, the Nazi terrorization will completely destroy university freedom.

Exhibition of Paintings Of Soviet Jewish Colonies

The Educational Department of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, Lexington Avenue at 92nd Street, announces an exhibition of oils and water colors by Frank Horowitz, done in the Jewish colonies of the Soviet Union two years ago.

Mr. Horowitz is a graduate of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and was commissioned by the Joint Distribution Committee to do a series of portraits of various types of Jews who were settled by the Soviet Government in new Russian colonies.

Paintings of Frank Horowitz are in the permanent collection of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Brooklyn Museum of Arts and Sciences, the Roerich Museum, the San Francisco Palace of the Legion of Honor, and the Tate Galleries of London.

Joseph Nicholas de l'Isle, dated 1763, and "Judeaea seu Palaestina . . . in duodecim tribus divisa . . . collecta ex tabulis Guilielmi Sansony a Joh. Bap. Homanno," probably dated 1717, and J. J. da Rubens' edition of Sanson's and Vincelens' "Terra Sancta" made at Venice in 1783. Another tribal division of Palestine is a 1750 map (in Latin and French counterparts) of Jean-Christophe Harenburg. The most recent item in the collection, and probably the most accurate, is H. Berghaus' "Karte von Syrien," published by Gotha in 1835.

Mrs. Lindheim's valuable collection will be an important nucleus that will serve in the Jewish National Library at Jerusalem as material for comparative purposes in outlining olden knowledge of the Holy Land in Christian states of Europe, and also in tracing the development of geographical ideas and cartographical skill during the past four centuries.
