EMIR ABDULLAH ANNOUNCES CANCELLATION OF LEASE FOR TRANSJORDAN LAND

Cancellation Follows Pressure Exerted by Palestine Committee, Grand Mufti
Returned to them played an important role. They support the League and demand that the British Government should have the right to lease the land to the Jews. The British Government has already announced its intention to lease the land to the Jews.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 25.—

Following the pressure of the Palestine Committee and Arab leaders, Emir Abdullah today announced the cancellation of the agreement to lease 20,000 square miles of the Jordan Valley to Great Britain, the reports of which have been spreading Jewish and Arab circles for the past fortnight.

The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Hajj Amin el-Husseini, is believed to have played an important role in bringing about the cancellation of the lease of the Jordan Valley. He is the leader of the Arab League and the Grand Mufti's aim is to see to it that Palestine remains Arab.

Accordingly Hajj Amin has declared that he does not intend to accept the lease of Palestine to the Jews.

Hajj Amin's cancellation of the lease is in line with the demands of Arab nationalists in Palestine, Syria and Iraq, who have threatened to withdraw from the British Arab League if the British Government continues to support the agreement.

with the Jews were cancelled. In connection with the cancellation of the lease, Abdullah is also cancelling the conditions offered by Great Britain, regarding the appointment of Jews, Arab and the construction of Jewish settlements authorized by them, to the Colonial Office as well as to Hajj Amin.

The official economic situation in Transjordan was the reason given for the Emir's change of mind.

Jewish Daily Bulletin, Inc.Emir Abdullah Announces
Cancellation of Lease
For Transjordan Land

Abdullah denied that he ever signed an agreement with the Jews for the lease of land, it is now reported here.

According to the reports, Emir Abdullah stated that he had only signed an option for the lease of the land but now is determined not to lease it to foreigners.

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Jan. 25—Emir Abdullah's announcement that he has decided not to lease any land to Jews does not mean the liquidation of all negotiations between Transjordan land owners and Jews is the view here.

The opinion was stressed that many Transjordan Arab chieftains are definitely interested in selling their land to Jews.

It is further pointed out that while Emir Abdullah has expressed a change in attitude, the option which he gave a Jewish company for the lease of his land is for a period of six months. Before that period expires the situation may change again, it is stated. Moreover, the economic situation in Transjordan is becoming progressively worse and for this reason it is believed that the present negotiations will eventually bear fruit.

Farm School to Accept Large Class This Spring

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 25—The Freshman class to be admitted to National Farm School this Spring will consist of 85 students, an increase of 25 students over classes admitted during the last few years, it was announced by Herbert D. Allman, president.

The decision was reached by the Board of the School at a meeting this week, when statistics were presented, showing the large number of boys out of school who can find no employment and are roaming the country without guidance. This is one of the first practical gestures offered, toward the alleviation of what promises to become a national problem of boy delinquency. The decision to accept this larger number was made, notwithstanding the fact, that the School, dependent upon public subscription for its support, has a difficult financial struggle to carry on its work.

A three-years' training of 36 consecutive months in practical and scientific agriculture is offered deserving boys. In addition to tuition, board, room, books, laboratory supplies and other perquisites, as well as moral and ethical guidance, are furnished practically free.

The record of the School indicates that a large percentage of its graduates are successfully following agriculture as their careers.

Any boy over 17 years of age, having completed all or part of a high school course, who evidences a desire to follow agriculture as a vocation, is eligible for admission. The Admissions Committee is now considering applicants for the new class, which enters the School, March 22.

Urges Relief of Hardships Inflicted on Sabbath Observers By Sunday Closing Laws

Plca Addressed to Members of the New York State Legislature by Jewish Sabbath Alliance

The Jewish Sabbath Alliance of America has sent a communication to all members of the New York State Legislature, signed by its president, Dr. Bernard Drachman, urging the enactment into law of a measure to relieve "the great harm and injury inflicted on a most worthy element of the citizenry of this State" who observe the seventh day as the Sabbath, by the present Sunday laws of the state.

The Jewish Sabbath Alliance has received a pledge of support in its work in this direction from the Rt. Rev. Francis J. McConnell, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The communication addressed to the Legislature declares:

"The undersigned is addressing you in this communication in order to put before you the description of a state of affairs by which great harm and injury are inflicted upon a most worthy element of the citizenry of this State. A condition which calls for relief. We desire to obtain your views in the matter and your suggestion as to how this urgently needed relief can be obtained.

"We refer to the effect of the Sunday Laws upon the seventh-day Sabbath-keeping population of the State, especially upon the small Jewish shopkeeper who desires to keep his place of business closed from Friday evening to Saturday night, in accordance with the precept of his religion, and is compelled by the Penal Code of the State to keep his establishment closed also on Sunday.

"Persons not familiar with the inner conditions of the Jewish community can hardly realize the tremendous hardship which is inflicted upon the conscientious Sabbath-keeping Jewish storekeepers and the gravity of the struggle of conscience to which he is submitted. It is literally a contest between his faith and his sentiment of his religious and moral duty and the possibility of earning his livelihood—of obtaining the bread with which to support his family. This matter has always been a sore spot in the religious and social life of the Jewish people of this State. Even in the best and most prosperous of times it has always been

Jabotinsky Says World Union of Zionist Revisionists Not Affected by Congress Court's Decision

By Our Berlin Correspondent

BERLIN — The World Union of Zionist Revisionists is not affected by the decision of the Zionist Congress Court of honor which voted the suspension of the Revisionists as a separate Union, declared Vladimir Jabotinsky, president of the Revisionists, in an address delivered here at a conference of the German Revisionist Organization.

Mr. Jabotinsky described the decision of the Congress court as unjust and contrary to the statutes. The Congress Court voted the suspension of the Revisionist Union on the ground that it infringed upon the regulations binding it in conducting separate political activities and negotiations.

"Of course, the Union of Zionist Revisionists is not affected by the decision," he asserted. "The Union is a sovereign body. It includes, however, many members who are at the same time shekel-payers of the Zionist Organization, and to these the Congress Court has made a demand that they must withdraw from all participation in the independent political activity of the Union.

"This claim of the Revisionist Union to conduct independent political work has very little to do with the Calais resolutions. It was adopted by the First Revisionist World Congress held in 1925. The second and third Conferences confirmed the decision, and when the Zionist Organization, by the creation of the mixed Jewish Agency surrendered its sovereignty and officially declared this to be the case in a letter to us, our fourth World Conference held in Prague in 1930 removed the only limitation that had existed to our political freedom of action, the recognition of the "prerogative of the Zionist Executive".

"All these decisions were adopted unanimously by these various Conferences. I have, therefore, come here today to ask you — Can the Revisionist Union, after the decision of the Congress Court, count in its political actions, on the active assistance of all its members? That is the question which I put to the Conference.

"To the Party Council which will meet at the end of February, I shall put a further question — What is now, after the confirmation of the Calais decisions by the Vienna Conference, the nature and the task of our Union?"

"There are two conceptions — (1) that the main task of the Union is to exercise influence on the Zionist Organization, and that independent activity is only a subordinate task; and (2) the conception which I consider the correct

"Racketeering War" Leads to Arrest of Yeshiva Dean; Police Apologize; Dismiss Charges

Rabbi Levenberg Arrested in Connection with Bombing of Market
Owned by Jew

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

CLEVELAND, Jan. 25—The bombing of the Danches Poultry Market in a racketeering war against kosher butcher shops, last week, led to the arrest of Rabbi Yehuda H. Levenberg, Dean of the Cleveland Yeshiva.

Rabbi Levenberg was arrested at three A. M. and held in custody all day before he was released.

The arrest of the rabbi led to a mass meeting of protest attended by 2,500 people and resulted in an apology from the Director of Public Safety, Frank J. Merrick.

Director Merrick declared, "There has been evidence of racketeering among kosher meat dealers. The police are doing everything in their power to break it up. After the bombing of the Danches place we had to work fast on any tips we could get. The police did not mean to insult the rabbi and we are sorry to have caused any unpleasantness. If we seemed to have acted too hastily, it was because of the emergency."

The charges against Rabbi Levenberg were dismissed by the police. The Federation of Orthodox Congregations maintains that the incident arose during Rabbi Levenberg's exercise of his duties in the interests of Kashruth and had no connection with the racketeering that has been prevailing.

According to Nathan Schoenfeld, secretary of the Federation of Orthodox Congregations, the trouble started over the fact that various complaints were coming to the rabbis that meat was not being prepared in the kosher manner in many of the kosher shops.

In some shops, it was said, proprietors were charging the "Schochtim fee" after killing chickens themselves and in some instances hiring colored help for the killing.

In agreement with the Association of Shochtim, a committee of rabbis succeeded in righting the condition except in the case of the Danches poultry market, Schoenfeld said.

Police questioned the rabbi after Danches, proprietor of the shop, reported that the rabbi had called on him the week before demanding that the fowl be killed by a registered Shochet. The rabbi was later released by the police.

According to Edward Schweid, legal counsel for the rabbi, the recently organized Federation of Orthodox Congregations has requested jurisdiction of kosher meat shops by the city government. An ordinance has been drawn up by the federation which will soon be presented before the city council urging the issuing of "kosher shop licenses" and strict supervision under a commission of rabbis appointed by the mayor. The ordinance proposes enforcement of the tax, voluntarily recommended by the Shoachim organization of the city, of two cents on each chicken killed, merely to provide for the expenses of the supervisors. The ordinance, Mr. Schweid stated, will reinforce the state law prohibiting the selling of non-kosher meat as kosher which has never been enforced. It will follow the state law and will be made more workable in curbing the "Kosher meat racket."

Further investigation is being made of the alleged racketeer "Independent Meat Organization" that has been demanding tribute of many local butchers, and in some instances breaking windows, and throwing stench bombs to enforce their demand.

The bombing of the Danches market is believed to have been instigated by competitive poultry shops that have been resenting against the Danches cut rate price of 5 cents for the killing of chickens instead of 10 cents, the regulation fee.

one, that the Revisionist Union is the sole bearer of Jewish State Zionism, which engages in independent activity in all fields of State upbuilding, while exercising influence on other pro-Zionist bodies is no more than a means to be employed when and insofar as it appears useful and opportune.

"The sentimental attitude of looking to the 'conquering of the Congress' must stop," Mr. Jabotinsky declared. "It may seem very desirable, and the time may come when all of us, without exception, will join in it, but it is not the 'sacred duty,' nor any 'duty' at all of the Union.

"The real successor to the Zionist Organization created by Herzl is the Union of Zionist Revisionists, and its 'duty' is to work for the upbuilding of the Jewish State. However hard the task may be, however young and weak we may still be, I am convinced that in our root, our trunk and our branches we have the potential power to carry through this task.

"People remind us what happened to the Territorialists. That has nothing to do with us. Territorialism repudiated Palestine, and therefore was condemned to fail.

"Our idea is Palestine as a Jewish State, an idea which expresses the quintessence of the Jewish soul. The failure or success of an organization depends primarily on whether it pursues bad or good aims. It is not true that the Revisionist masses will not follow us. It is true that a large section of these masses regard it as a very important task to save and improve the Zionist Organization.

"If we had forbidden them to take the shekel, they would have found it very painful. We did not do that. I shall always be against any such prohibition from our side. But now the Zionist Organization is demanding in return for the shekel that we must give up all independent political action, which has been unanimously approved by our five World Congresses. I am convinced that our masses will reject this demand.

"When the Jewish Agency was formed in Zurich in 1929, many of us were afraid that our non-participation in what was at the time a very popular movement would deprive us of influence. The fact is, however, that since 1929 our movement has grown immensely, while the Agency, without our participation, has declined into a tedious, futile body, which is now regarded without sympathy in every quarter.

"I am in favor, however, of leaving the question of the nature and the mission of the Union to the Party Council. There is only one thing to decide. Can the Union in its independent political activity count on the active cooperation of all its members? Is our central office to be transferred to Geneva—a step which means something only if we are determined to negotiate with the world factors?

"Is the Executive Committee to ora task of intense difficulty to conduct a business on a paying basis if obliged to abstain from carrying on the same two days in the week while one's competitors were only obliged to remain closed one day. In the present period of depression it has become a virtual impossibility.

"The Penal Code of the State grants some relief to the Seventh-day Sabbath-keeping laborers, by making it a valid defense to prosecution under the Sunday Law for work and labor performed on Sunday. But even this slight measure of relief is denied to the humble Sabbath-keeping storekeeper. In the present time, their cry for relief has become most intense for their position is becoming unendurable.

"It seems to the undersigned that it cannot be the intention of an American Legislature to inflict such spiritual suffering; such actual religious persecution upon a worthy and sincerely religious element of the population. We believe that the Sunday Law should be amended to exempt seventh-day Sabbath observers from its provisions. We therefore desire to obtain the views of the members of the Legislature on this subject.

"We trust most sincerely that your genuine Americanism and sentiment of true liberality will make it a self-understood matter to bring about this much-needed relief which is nothing more or less than granting that religious liberty to a class of American citizens which is the constitutional right and prerogative of all. We appeal to you most sincerely, in the name of simple justice and of genuine American liberty, to give this matter your earnest consideration."

ganize the petition movement? The Berlin Congress Court has tried to prohibit all this to those Revisionists who take the Shekel. I am here in Berlin to demand a clear answer," Mr. Jabotinsky stated.

Richard Lichtheim, former Vice-President of the Revisionist World Union, spoke in opposition to Mr. Jabotinsky during the discussion in which many other delegates took part.

The Conference then adopted the following resolution: "This Conference of the German Revisionists, consisting of representatives of all shades of Revisionism, renews its declaration that it desires the Revisionist World Union to continue its independent activity in the political field, as well as in all other fields of Jewish State Zionism. It therefore calls for the transference of the Executive Committee of the World Union to Geneva, and for the petition movement to be carried through."

Dr. Bloch, Richard Lichtheim, Dr. Arnsperg, Dr. Goldwasser and Dr. Schloss were elected to the Party Council.
