Coty Recants Error On Anti-Semitism in Telegram to Geneva [Text not provided]

GWEVA, Sept. 8—A sensational and totally unoganized recantation of his anti-Semitism by Francisco Coty, Paris painter and newspaper proprietor, was received here Monday by the Jewish community of Geneva. In a telegram to Geneva Coty asked that his message be read from the platform at the conference in session here preparatory to the World Jewish congress.

Coty, in his two Paris newspapers, Figaro and Ami du Peuple, has consistently attacked the Jews. He recently lost a libel suit in Paris brought against him by Franco-Jewish war veterans and was fined and ordered to publish the calumny in the case in a dozen newspapers.

He was a descendant of an old family of Jewish eminence in natural science, and was born in Berlin. After a career in the commercial field he entered the international banking and the insurance business and founded the Elektrizits Gesellschaft, one of the largest trusts in the world. He was then turned to statesmanship. His brillianse efforts to break the economic barriers around Germany were acclaimed by all thinking Germans. GENEVA CONFERENCE VOTES ANTI-GERMAN RESOLUTION, WORLD CONGRESS IS CALLED

World Conference Boycott Resolution

The resolution adopted by the World Jewish Conference at Geneva on the boycott of German goods follows:

The world Jewish conference notes with deepest satisfaction that from the beginning of the Hitler regime and its anti-Jewish laws and acts, the Jewish people instinctively and continuously resorted to the one immediately accessible weapon of self-defense, the moral and economic boycott.

In the spirit of individual and collective self-respect, the Jewish people, through the boycott, affirm that they cannot hold any economic relations or other contacts with the Third Reich and believe the boycott movement continues. The campaign of boycott against the non-Jews in all countries is to be held steadfast and sympathetic with the Jewish people’s abhorrence of Nazi anti-Semitic practices.

"When the German Jewish boycott is to be entirely definitely depends on the Jewish people but on the Nazi government. This instrumentality of moral and economic pressure is inspired by our incompelled reluctantly to adopt, utilize and not lay down until such time as has been the great wrong inflicted on the German Jews and the German Jews once again are placed in the position which was designated for them by the International and German governments. This conference solemnly calls on the Jewish people's economic in their legitimate, honorable and peaceable resistance against the war was waged by Hitlerism against the German Jews and all the Jewish people."

LEAGUE’S AID IS ASKED

Passports for Jewish Refugees Admitted to United States by New Migrations Requested

LEAGUE OF NATIONS ON THE GERMANY

The League of Nations on the German situation has demanded that the League take over responsibility for the regulation of the migration of Jews from Germany, as it did in the case of the repatriated Greeks; for Swiss passports to be given to refugees throughout the world who have been expelled from Germany without citizenship in any country; and for Great Britain to give up the mandatory power, do everything possible to open Palestine to the lands of German Jews anxious to make Palestine their home, and to coordinate the work of the various existing committees for relief.

In the interim, until the congress begins functioning, the entire task of defending Jewish rights was delegated by the conference to the Committee of Jewish Delegations, headed by Dr. Motkevich and Dr. Emil Einhorn of Philadelphia, who have nine executive members to be elected by the congress from representatives from six different countries. The committee will report to the congress before the sessions will be held at Paris and New York.

A tremendous impression was made by the conference with Rabbi Wise in a speech today referred to the presence of the American delegation as a section of a representative of the American people. Rabbi Wise said that the congress was a representation of Jews throughout the world. Most of the delegates have been unaware of this.

"Many of the American delegation were not at the "Nazi conference," Rabbi Wise declared. "It is only in this session that we have torn to pieces, but the repre-

LONDON, Sept. 8.—It ought to be placed indubitably on record wherever people can read that the most foolish business deal that was ever made is that to send the credit of a hundred of Jews. This inexplicable, unexplained, despicable and deplorable covenants to sell to Germany half of the million weight of Palestine oranges in exchange for a double value of unwanted German goods, is tantamount to a declaration by the nation of the inarticulate dignity that we are not going to stand up for our own rights and our own dignity.

 chaotic correspondence of the Jewish tele-

More disastrous than the shattering of non-German business, more cruel for human sympathy, more deadly for Nazi political enemies, more serious than any phase of the Socialist rule of Germany today is the absolute break of law and

In all parts of the Third Reich.

A month ago, at a meeting of the Nazi Party, an elderly gentleman, a former officer of the German army, laid his left hand on the Bible, placed his right hand on his heart and swore to uphold the Constitution of the German people.

Seven months have passed,

and today Germany flounders in a state of lawlessness, absolutely with to guard the destiny of the country and the people.

From the abuse of privileges the problem of safety for their fellow men.

The Nazi Constitution, promulgated in 1934, reads: "All Germans are equal before the law, and women have fundamental

the same rights and duties. Public advantages or disadvantages of race or rank are to be suspended."

Lesson of Zobtenhau

A few days ago a man walked through the Sonnenberg Zobtenhau, a large political prison, which was filled with German citizens who have committed no criminal offense, of whom neither the Reichstag, and still less the peace, and who have been neither charged, tried, nor sentenced. Many of the prisoners did not know why they were there.

This man, briefly,

for their incarceration was that they are not National Socialist in political creed.

On the wall of the Communist leader Kapp's cell was pasted an erasure from the Weimar Constitution, "Every citizen has the right to emigrate to countries outside of Germany." Today, to leave

Germany it is necessary to obtain the consent of Nazi administrators of the state. Thousands of terrorized Jews, hungering to surrender their property to Germany for permission to leave, are too afraid to ask this simple license.

A group of

of sixty Jewish doctors in Berlin seeking to go abroad two months ago,

were apprehended when they sent queries to foreign cities asking information on the possibility of their assuming their profession abroad.

One of them told me that the number of them had been beaten and instructed while in the custody of their day detention, and before their arrest they had been forced to sign documents stating that they had not been harmed.

A number of doctors called to treat victims of brownshirts brutality have frequently told me that signing similar medical reports, actually stating that the patient had fallen downstairs, was compulsory and a promise of a death penalty given the true facts of the cases were ever divulged.

Inside Walls, Outside Law

Outside the walls of the prison,

police, guards of whatever law

still exists in Germany, stood;

inside law-suspending citizens were poorly fed, worked, treated as a population of stateless Jews,

without warrants who invade the sanctity of the home

S. A. Leader Obergretz (Nuremberg) told me that in arresting 160 Jews in July many were taken from their breakfast tables.

What the Law Says

Article 137 — "Secrecy of letters and of postal, telegraphic, and telephone service can not be violated." In their newspapers Nazis boast of the manner in which they uncover the mails for the expert money from Germany. A score of foreign correspondents in Berlin

have reported that their telegraphic dispatches have been held, disanted, or stopped entirely, while telephone communications abroad are infrequently interfered with.

Nazi secret police in Berlin admitted that seldom is a telephone call made without being overheard by one of their agents. This is a right granted to the party that has the governmental and constitutional power to issue and for all citizens to observe.

The Nazi Constitution provides for freedom of speech (I have seen a Jew arrested by Gestapo or police on a Kurfurtstrasse in a case in which the walls were as thick as Calvary. Property is safeguarded, but it has been taken away from most Jews living outside

Germany.

The human streets are not red with blood. They are not even a salve on the record of German crimes in Germany has really been a revolution, it has been a subterfuge in repressing and emptying the jars of blood. Considering, however, the terror, the uncertainty, the helplessness of the people of less Germany, the revolution has been as quietly as severe.

Largest Gathering of Jewish Youth Votes for Boycott of Reich; Double Membership

PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Opposition Quickly Overriden on Question of Scope of Boycott

By Irvin S. Tauben

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 8—Jewish leaders of Texas, expressing renewed interest in Jewish affairs as a direct result of the Hitler outrages in Germany and similar movements in other parts of the world, watched with keen interest this year's convention of the Texas Y.M.H.A., which opened here Friday.

The two-day meeting was the biggest in the history of the organization, with more than 400 members, has ever held, and the largest gathering of Jewish youth that Texas has ever seen.

In addition to a vigorous discussion on the problems facing the Jews in Europe and in the United States, which ended with unanimouslyadopted resolutions denouncing the Hitler regime and urging partici-pation by all Jews in the war against anti-Semitism, a petition was presented against German-made goods, there were equally vigorous discussions regarding the problems of the war and a keen debate over international affairs.

The Association under Littmann Diamond was presented with a large sum of money during this past year more than double the yearly income that it had in the previous year, and the organization had the honor of welcoming Jewish clubs in two Texas cities and the organization of the Houston chapter.

An evidence of how keenly sensed the situation is that these young people are in a sense in the fast lane of the campaign for the life of the State of Israel. The latter resolution was over whether it ought to include an invitation to follow Abraham as it was not clear whether the boycott or whether it ought to address itself solely to Jewish cur-riculums. The opposition was quickly overcome.

Officers elected at the convention were: Nathan Brandt, president; Ray Florence Eagle, vice-president; Joseph Eizenman, secretary; Eori Mendel, president, vice-presiden-t correspondent; Cyril Morawetz, associate correspondent; M. Nathan P. Littmann, financial secretary; and M. Leggesser, treasurer.

Resentment Against Old Line

DETROIT, Sept. 8—By Fritz Haber, German vice-consul in Detroit, in defense of the Hitler regime and blaming East European Jewish leaders for the anti-Semitism of the Nazis, has aroused deep resentment among members of the Detroit Jewish community and brought a spirited reply from Dr. Fried donde, a noted physician and scholar, who frequent-ly appears in the past as a platform with Mr. Haber.

Oldest Jewish Burial Ground, Established In 1656, Is Now Shut Out By Buildings of Chatham Square; Once Outside New York City Limits

Low Hills, Swamps, Marshes Stood Where Site Centuries Ago

By Arthur Satell

In Chatham Square, a few minutes south of the Financial District, in the shadow of the Old Broadway elevated railway, lies one of the unhappiest burial grounds in the city. This old cemetery, which was rumored to be haunted by the ghosts of the men and women who composed its former inhabitants, is now shut by buildings of Chatham Square.

It is a place that seldom attracts visitors and never passersby, so content are its few tombstones by the altitude of tall buildings that it is easy to pass by it without noticing it. Yet the "New Jewish Burial Ground," its title-name established in 1837, is a history as long as the romantic in the neighborhood in which it is found.

Everything about the New Bowery Community, a group of Jews who for more than twenty years have spent their money in buying its old graves and its few remaining tombs, is not only unknown. But many of the old graves and tombs have been lost, or even "buried" by the newer burials.

The New Bowery Cemetery is unique in the world. There is nothing like it. It is a beautiful place, a place of beauty. Its beauty is due to the fact that it is a place where the dead are left alone.

No New Bowery Cemetery announces its identity on a black iron plaque which is attached to a small iron fence:

"New Bowery Cemetery—Cemetery of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, Shearith Israel, founded 1655, 1656-1833."

A brush-covered path intertwined in and out of the stones which seems to tell the history of visits to the graves and the stories which the stones tell. The path is narrow, and it is clear that the stones have been left alone.

There are no flowers, no trees, no birds. The path is broken by the open graves, and the stones stand alone. The only sound is the rustle of the leaves in the wind.

The stones are different. Some are plain, with only the name of the person buried there. Others are more elaborate, with inscriptions in Hebrew, Spanish, Portuguese, and English.

Perry Does His Best

Perry the watchman, who is Ira, explained that his job is to visit the cemetery and to keep it clean. He said that he has been there for many years.

"I have been here for many years," he said. "I have seen many changes in the cemetery. The stones have been removed and new ones have been put in."

The stones are very old. Many of them are covered with moss and lichen. Some of them are so worn that they are almost unreadable.

The cemetery is not large, but it is beautiful. The path is wide enough for two people to walk side by side. The stones are evenly spaced, and the path is clear.

The oldest stone in the cemetery is the one that belongs to the founder of the cemetery, a man named David. The stone is very old, and it is covered with moss and lichen.

The cemetery is not only beautiful, but it is also a place of peace. The sound of the wind in the trees is the only noise that can be heard.

The New Bowery Cemetery is a place of beauty and peace. It is a place where the dead are left alone, and the living are left to remember them.
Rabbi Sonderling in Town Hall Services

Jewish New Year to be Ushered in With Service Devoted to Jews of Germany

A unique form of High Holiday sermons was conducted at Town Hall, 113 V. 42nd Street, by Rabbi Jacob Sonderling, well-known Rabbi of the Westminster Synagogue, minister, who is noted for his humorous style of lecturing in the Jewish service. The services will take place on the evening of September 24th, the second day of Rosh Hashanah, and also on September 29th. The evening sermons will be devoted to Germany, and the Jewish New Year will be devoted to a German Rabbi who was under the influence of the contributions of German Jews to their music, art, and letters. The audience will be exalted by the rendering of music composed by eminent German Jews. Rabbi Sonderling will also devote his sermon to the accomplishments of German Jewry.

The services of Town Hall for the High Holiday services by Rabbi Sonderling was motivated by the possibility of understanding a growing anti-Semitic movement synagogue thereby, to be known as the Mid-Town Community Synagogue. The services will be held in the congragation’s new home in the Times Square district. The special High Holiday services are expected to attract many Jews, as well as out-of-town guests. The sermon will be given at hotel rooms in the neighborhood who would otherwise be at home. After the event, a suitable community dinner is expected to serve for the High Holidays.

MORAL VICTORY SEEN

Decree Significant in View of Strict Immigration Laws Of the Country

J.T.A. Special Correspondent

MONTEVIDEO, Aug. 20 — Five hundred Jewish families which have been forced to flee from their homes on account of the Hitler terror will be admitted into Uruguay as the result of a special decree by Dr. Gabriel Terra, President of the Republic of Uruguay.

Dr. Terra's decree is significant in the light of the fact that Uruguay, like most of the other American nations, has, because of unemployment and the economic crisis, very strict anti-immigration laws, and doubly so as a moral victory for the American Jew. However, when the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society of Montevideo appealed to the government for permission to bring into the country a number of German Jewish families whom the society promised to establish, the government's answer took the form of the present decree.

A campaign to raise 300,000 Uruguayan pesos, the money to be used in mounting the emergency, has been begun. However, since the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society has no capital, it is expected that a large number of Uruguayan Jews will have to contribute the rest of the sum. Most of the work of resettlement will be carried on by the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society, which is financed by the JCA (Jewish Colonization Association).

But even before the first refugee has come, an anti-Semitism grudging against the decree admitting him is beginning to be heard. Those principled in politics believe that the Uruguayan government is inimical to the Zionist movement, which is essentially Jewish. La Tribuna Popular, one of the two influential newspapers, which is largely supported by foreign Jews and largely responsible for anti-Semitism in Jewish life in Uruguay, has been very outspoken in its criticism of the decree.

The campaign, which both newspapers are carrying on, is demagoguic to an extreme and is, of course, bound to affect the attitude of the people toward the Jews and their institutions. It is an attempt to convince the Jews of the absence of the anti-Semitic press.

The local protest against the persecution of Jews in Germany is coming to its climax with the formation of a group of Uruguayan Jews to work for the protection of the Jews in Germany. The Jewish Immigrant Aid Society, which has been working for the protection of Jews in Germany, is now also working for the protection of the Jews in Uruguay.

The local newspapers are carrying on an anti-Semitic campaign against the Jews, and the Uruguayan government has been slow in giving them the support they need. The Jewish Immigrant Aid Society is working with the government to try to get the Jews the protection they need.

Application of "Aryan" Laws Is Widened by Order Of Ministry

In the midst of the war, which left only a very small number of Jews in positions of leadership, it was evident that the Jewish community was being systematically denied access to high-ranking positions in the German army. The Nazi regime was implementing measures to ensure that Jews were excluded from certain roles, with the justification that they were not "Aryan" enough. This policy was intended to prevent Jews from participating in the war effort in a significant way.

Brazilian Official's Motion To Send Hitler Telegram Of Congratulation Quashed (J.T.A. Special Correspondent)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 1—The Hitler regime in Brazil is putting forth every effort to influence the conditions in the German political circles in favor of Hitler and his anti-Jewish policies.

Proof of this is to be found in the incident which occurred at a meeting of the municipal council of Rio de Janeiro. Dr. Lopes de Almeida, one of the deputies, made a motion that a resolution be adopted to express the congratulations of the city council to Chancellor Hitler congratulating him upon his success in destroying Jewish influence in Germany. The motion was defeated by a heart-felt debate and was finally voted down by a majority vote.

was named king by a great majority. Feisal's attitude toward Zionism as it affected his dream of a Pan-Arab kingdom extended to include Palestinian, Syrian, the Hejaz and Transjordanian, was always a matter of considerable question.

In 1928, in an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, King Feisal said: "I have come to General Faisal this time solely in the interests of my own country," referring to the admission of Iran to the League of Nations in 1922. Several questions including the Persian question were discussed.

In an official statement issued at the close of the interview, the Arab ruler declared: "During the Persian conference, I represented my father (excusing Hussein, the Hejaz) and owing to this position, I came into contact with delegates of all nations, meeting also several of the Zionists leaders.

"I had several interviews with Dr. Weismann, and exchanged with him letters which were of a purely personal nature.

"At that time, I wanted to find a means of arriving at a rapprochement, but came to nothing as a result of the attempts made.

"Since then, I understand that the Zionist policy underwent a change which was linked with the Peace Conference.'"

Asked about his letter to Professor Felix Frankfurter, which prominently figured in the proceedings of the Shaw Inquiry into the 1929Palestine murder case, Dr. Feisal said, "I exchanged letters with many people, but I cannot recall such a letter."

In the Frankfurter letter, Feisal expressed deepest sympathy with the Zionist movement and declared it was necessary for the success of the Arab nation and claimed he was the only person who had written to thelayout and design of the print is setup a priori. Americans' Listlessness

Assailed by Ackerman

The feeble attitude on the part of Americans toward German anti-Jewish atrocities was criticized by Simon Ackerman, metropolitan clothing manufacturer, who returned to New York city today from his tour of the S.S. Berengaria Friday. Europe, according to Mr. Ackerman, is mitigating with indignation at the Hitler program and the general boycott of German products is widespread and systematic.

"I wish that the American Jews would follow the example of their European brethren," said Mr. Ackerman, "and take a more active part in the boycott movement against Germany. This is the only weapon Jews have to protect themselves. It is the only measure that can bring the Germans to reason.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of the Jewish Daily Bulletin:

With regard to the recent review of "Triumph—Or Class War?" in your columns, it would appear that your reviewer did not fully assimilate the contents or message of the book.

My own impression from reading the book is that it ever was a prophet able to see clearly and to follow the anti-Jewish drive which is now evident in the world. And whether the Jews of the world accept for themselves the implications of Rabi Wise's strategy of realizing non-Jewish goals is a question that the book does not answer. The book, however, does present arguments and analyses with an original philosophy of human values and cultural and industrial relations, is to say the least, provocative.

Most readers, I believe, are looking for a way to understand the current situation and to find a basis for action. The book by Robert Segal, in this regard, offers a unique perspective and a framework for understanding the complex issues involved.

Sincerely,
