

German-Jewish Vereins To Announce Stand on German Day Sunday

The Federation of German Jewish Societies, meeting at the Central Synagogue, Tuesday night decided to announce their stand on Sunday with regard to the German Jewish attitude toward the projected celebration of German Day on December 6 in Madison Square Garden.

The pronouncement, which, if unfavorable, is expected to presage a series of protests against the celebration, will be made by Robert Rosenbaum, president of the Federation of German Jewish Societies, in an address before the memorial celebration of the Deutsche Israelitische Landwehr Verein und Damenbund meeting in the McKinley Temple, Sunday afternoon.

"We are making no decision on the support the German Jewish vereins will lend to the German Day celebration until the Steuben Society, which is sponsoring the plans for German Day, announces definitely who will speak and what the decorations will be," Mr. Rosenbaum explained to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency. "We shall await further developments before taking a definite stand."

Inquiries among other members of the federation, however, indicated that the sentiment of the organization will definitely oppose the German Day celebration should the swastika banner be displayed at the affair. In accordance with a resolution adopted by the federation a few weeks ago, no member of the German Jewish vereins will take part in an affair at which the swastika constitutes part of the decorations.

Definite Plans for Fete

Definite plans for the celebration were to be made public by the Steuben Society last night. The body was to meet at Teutonia Hall with representatives of other German organizations, whose cooperation was asked to make the affair a success. It is understood that although some friction exists between the Steuben Society and other factions of the German-American Conference, few difficulties will be put in the way of that organization in its effort to muster a united German front for the celebration.

While President Roosevelt and high American Army and Navy officials have been invited to address the German Day celebrants, interest is concentrated upon the acceptance or rejection of the bid extended to Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States. It has been announced that in accordance with the custom of many decades, the ambassador would make mandatory the display of the swastika banner.

"According to Hitler's autobiography, the swastika is the symbol of anti-Semitism," one leader of German Jewish women's organizations said Tuesday night. "We Jews would not be welcome in Germany in places where the swastika is displayed. In America we should not care to celebrate under the swastika."

Practically every German Jewish Verein in New York was represented at the meeting, which was held behind closed doors. Reporters were not admitted.

Soft-Pedal Issues

In final discussions undertaken by various Brooklyn German-American vereins, according to the reports of attendants at the meetings, efforts have been made to keep political and religious issues out of plans for co-operation with the Steuben Society in making a success of the celebration at Madison Square Garden as well as to insure success for a similar demonstration to be held on Sunday in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum.

An appeal was made before a meeting of the United German Societies of Brooklyn by Theodor Schmidt, chairman of the meeting, for the soft pedaling of all political and religious issues incumbent on the celebration of German Day.

While most of the meeting was concerned with the Brooklyn festival the specter of the Madison Square Garden continually crept into discussions. It is understood that Brooklyn vereins are seeking the support of Manhattan groups for their celebration, with promise of reciprocal support having been made for the Madison Square Garden affair.

Rothenberg Makes Plea For Jews of Germany

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

SCHENECTADY, Nov. 22.—Two hundred thousand Jews are faced with the necessity of leaving Germany as an alternative to sheer starvation, Morris Rothenberg, president of the Zionist Organization of America, told 350 Jewish residents of Schenectady at a mass meeting here opening a week's intensive drive to raise funds for removing refugees to Palestine.

A large sum of money was donated during the session and Hyman J. Sacharoff, chairman of the drive, announced every Jewish home in the city would be visited.

"There is no prospect of any improvement in the situation of the German Jews taking place in the near future," Mr. Rothenberg said. "On the contrary, well informed opinion holds that the gravity of the situation is likely to be intensified."

Two Children Support Stavsky's Claim to Alibi; Achameir Reserves Defense

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JAFFA, Palestine, Nov. 22.—The fight which Abraham Stavsky is making for his life in defense of charges that he is one of the murderers of Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff, assassinated Zionist labor leader, made considerable headway at today's hearing.

Two children testified they had seen the 28-year-old Revisionist in a Jerusalem restaurant on the night of June 16. Rosa Bochorov, twelve years old, said she had seen Stavsky on that evening and had later identified him without having been shown photographs of the defendant.

Chaim Bochorov, sixteen years old, born in London and for the last nine-and-a-half years a resident of Palestine, testified that on the evening of June 16, he had noticed a stranger among the group of persons with whom he was familiar in the Jerusalem restaurant. Later he identified Stavsky as the stranger.

In company with his mother and sister, Chaim had brought this evidence to police some time ago, he declared. The police refused to consider the evidence, the court was informed.

Aba Achameir, extreme Revisionist, also one of the defendants, reserved defense. He denied complicity in the murder. He insisted that the political party of which he is a member, is in no way implicated. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

Jewish Lawyers Barred

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—Over six hundred Jewish lawyers lost their practice in Berlin by October 20, today's press reveals, indicating also that further expulsions of Jewish lawyers are imminent. The authorities are apparently determined to reduce the number of Jewish lawyers to the proportion of the Jews in the general population, namely less than one per cent.

The Warburg Library

In reference to Tuesday's despatch with regard to the Warburg Library it is learned on good authority that while it is true that an invitation from London for a three-year temporary period has been accepted, nothing definite as to the final location of the library has been decided or would be decided for some time to come. The library has never been interfered with by the German authorities.

campaign in Palestine in the interests of the Nazi party. He recently interviewed several Arabs living in France and Germany in connection with the best possible means of adapting the Nazi program to the Holy Land.

The arrested Arab leaders, Aouni Abdul Hadi, Jamal Al Husein and Izzat Darwaza, have been replaced on the Executive by el Bendak, Ishac Darwish, a nephew of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, and Omar Saleh el Barguthy, a Moslem attorney.

El Bendak is the editor of Sowt Es-Shaab and professes the Christian faith.

The Arab Executive has issued a proclamation complimenting the Palestinian Arabs on their bravery and for their resistance to the British government by declaring a general strike. A reply is being formulated to the statement issued by the Colonial Secretary in England demanding peace.

The moderate Arab leader, Boulos Effendi Shehadeh, editor of the reactionary "Meraat Al Sherk", has resigned from the Arab Executive because of the manner in which the "Arab Executive fled like cowards from the scene" of the rioting in the Holy City recently.

He deplored the fact that the Arabs have surrendered so readily to pressure of British government military forces.

a protest against the government's suppression of the anti-Semitic daily newspaper, Calendrul.

In Czernowitz, students caused a panic in the Jewish district, when they assembled there after their demonstration outside the office of the pro-government paper was broken up by police. They reassembled in the Jewish quarter and began to annoy Jews. Shops were hurriedly closed, while the anti-Semitic students and the police engaged in a battle which lasted for several hours. A few policemen were hurt in the fight, including the major of police, Monti.

Olympic Association meeting in convention here today.

Acting on the motion of Murray Hulbert, former president of the Amateur Athletic Union, which on Monday adopted the resolution voicing condemnation of Germany's anti-Jewish discriminations, the A. O. A. referred the matter to a committee including among its members Gustavus Town Kirby and Brigadier General Charles S. Sherrill.

Mr. Kirby is strongly in favor of a resolution which would boycott the German Olympiad Committee by refusing to participate in the games scheduled to be held in Berlin in 1936. He sponsored the motion at the Pittsburgh convention of the A. A. U.

General Sherrill at today's meeting of the A. O. A. sounded his belief that the resolution would do more harm than good, and that a protest would be preferable.

Charles L. Ornstein, representing the Jewish Welfare Board, demanded positive action on the matter of Germany's bar against Jewish athletes. He cited forty instances of Nazi anti-Jewish discrimination since the meeting of the German Olympic Committee in Vienna where a pledge was issued promising justice to Jewish athletes.

A second promise of this nature was received by the committee in a cablegram directed to the Amateur Athletic Union by the Reich body.

General Sherrill retorted to Ornstein's address with the declaration that he is not a defender of Nazi policies. The matter should not be made an issue in this country, he said, adding that American athletes would be deprived of the opportunity of playing in the 1936 games.

One bloc of delegates, motivated apparently by the adoption of the emphatic stand against Germany by the A. A. U. on Monday, is reported to be circulating a round robin which demands that a rider be appended moving to hold the games in another country.

He received his Ph.D. from Columbia in 1921, an LL.D. five years ago and held a chair in the School of Jurisprudence at the U. of Southern California. BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 22—The Hungarian Minister of Education, Balint Homan, today denied that there is an excessive number of Jewish students in Hungarian Universities. He pointed out that less than nine percent of the students enrolled in the University of Budapest were Jewish, and the percentage of Jews in all the universities did not exceed nine and one-half percent.

Minister Homan therefore urged the universities to keep the students within the bounds of the law, for otherwise the authorities would be compelled to proceed against anti-Semitic students creating disturbances.

Jewish Plight in World Not Factor in Palestine Immigration Regulations

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Nov. 22—The suffering and hardships of the Jews throughout the world is not a consideration that can affect the immigration policy of the government of Palestine, declared High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope in answer to a Jewish deputation that visited him yesterday to submit a memorandum, protesting the curtailment of Jewish immigration.

The Jewish deputation was composed of five members of the Vaad Leumi, the Jewish National Council, six representatives of Palestinian Jewry, including the ultra-orthodox Agudath Israel.

Isaac Ben Zvi, Palestinian labor leader and member of the executive of the Vaad Leumi, pointed out there was a shortage of labor in Palestine, and said that the immigration schedule does not suffice to fill the shortage. He declared that deportation of immigrants who overstayed their visas was a severe punishment and asked instead, that the position of these immigrants in Palestine be regularized. He also (Continued on Page 2)

Nazis Reveal Contacts With Arab Riot Leaders; Goebbels Gets Reports (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Nov. 22—A direct contact between the German Nazis and the Palestinian Arabs is revealed today in the Reichswarte, organ of the all-European Nazi organization, which is edited by the reactionary leader, Count Ernest von Reventlow.

An emissary from Palestine has reached Berlin, it was learned today, and reported to the Minister for Propaganda, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, and other Nazi governmental authorities on the recent disturbances in Palestine.

The Munich edition of the Voelkischer Beobachter, which is not sold abroad, carries an article today glorifying the German settlers in Palestine, particularly those who settled in Sarona. The Beobachter claims that the British and the Jews do not know how to handle the Arabs. Only the German settlers understand how to establish the most amicable relations with the Arabs, the Beobachter declares.

dwelt on the illegal immigration into Palestine of Arabs from countries other than Transjordan.

I. Rokach, deputy mayor of Tel Aviv, emphasized the great demand for labor in Tel Aviv where a million pounds worth of building is pending because of the shortage. He stated that he saw no evidence of the congestion that the Arab deputation had pointed out to the High Commissioner. Mr. Rokach suggested that a Jewish committee be appointed to report on the extent of the economic absorption of the illegal immigrants.

Rabbi Blau, representative of the Agudath Israel, declared that the life of the country would be dislocated through a wholesale deportation of tourists who had remained in Palestine and will also completely ruin the deportees.

S. Zhukhowsky, leader of the Jewish farmers, instanced the Jewish development of the plain of Sharon, which had enriched the Arabs who were neighbors of the Jews.

M. G. Levin, chairman of the committee of the Haifa Jewish community, said that he came to Palestine as a tourist forty years ago and remained there ever since.

The High Commissioner once more declared that the immigration policy of the Palestine government was based on the absorptive capacity of the country. He stated that he was aware of the sufferings of the Jews all over the world. Sir Arthur also said that the Palestine government was deporting all Arabs, from countries other than Transjordan, who had entered the country illegally. He expressed the hope that the deputation and the Jewish Agency would cooperate in preventing illegal immigration into Palestine in the future.
