Help Graduates to Jobs To Forestall Nazism, Hungarian Jews Advised

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BUDAPEST, Dec. 20—Minister of Education Balint Homan today appealed for the assistance of Hungarian Jews in finding employment for graduate Hungarian youths in order to make them less susceptible to Nazi propaganda. His appeal was made when a Jewish deputation composed of the president of the Jewish community, Dr. Stern, and the government deputy, M. Gezadesi, called on him. The minister assured his callers that the government is determined on the continuation of lectures in all the colleges next term and will guarantee a full measure of freedom to study for all Jewish students.

No Understanding with Nazis Possible, Declares Feuchtwanger in Speech

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Dec. 20—It is hopeless for the Jews to try to reach an understanding with the Nazi rulers of Germany because the Nazis would only consider such an attempt a confession of weakness, Lion Feuchtwanger, famous author and exile from the Third Reich, declared here today.

Addressing a luncheon rally of the women's campaign for the fund for German Jews, held at the Savoy Hotel this afternoon, the noted writer, who declared that he had documentary evidence of the death at the hands of the Nazis or by suicide as a result of maltreatment, of 377 German Jews, asserted that the request of the German Jews that Jews abroad maintain silence must be ignored.

Jews must not remain silent, Feuchtwanger declared, emphasizing that they must not hesitate to take any action possible even though this course should result in a temporary increase in the hardships inflicted on the Jews in Germany.

"The Jews who have remained in Germany," he declared, "unless they

Arab Defendant Causes Disorder at Rioting Trial

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JAFFA, Dec. 20—Shouting that he had been insulted, Auni Abdul Hadi Bey, member of the Arab Executive, interrupted the trial today of the eighteen Arabs accused of participation in the illegal Arab demonstration in Jaffa on October 27, which led to much bloodshed. The incident occurred when a British constable nudged Auni Bey and told him to stop talking with Jamal El Hussein, another of the accused, after Auni Bey had ignored repeated warnings from Magistrate Ralph Bodilly.

Auni Bey claimed that the policeman had hit him, but Magistrate Bodilly replied that it was the duty of the police to maintain respect for the court. After a brief recess, the session was resumed with a statement from the prosecutor that no insult had been intended and the

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BUCHAREST, Dec. 20—King Carol of Roumania today publicly expressed disapproval of racial and religious discriminations in the kingdom and declared that they would not be tolerated.

"Our desire for peace in our international relations," the Roumanian ruler declared in a press interview today, "necessitates the enforcement of peace also in my country where all citizens, regardless of their race or religion, are urged by me to work for the common good."

The king's remarks were taken as definite assurance that racial and religious discriminations would not be tolerated in Roumania and as tacit approval of the actions of the Duce government in banning the anti-Semitic, anti-government organizations.

Brother of Cuban Jew Hurt in Havana Riot, Hears Victim Is Alive

Isaac Kritscher, of 80 Tenth Street, Williamsburgh, received word through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency this week that his brother Moshe, a clothing merchant living in Havana, was attacked by a vandal mob there. The victim was reported seriously injured.

Mr. Kritscher requested the J. T. A. to make inquiries through its cable facilities regarding the condition of the Cuban Jew, who has been a resident of the island for about nine years. The following message was received at the offices of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency yesterday:

"The condition of Moshe Kritscher, reported wounded last Sunday in an attack on his shop, is improving and attending physicians declared that there was hope of saving his life."

When the message was delivered, Mr. Kritscher said:

"I am happy to hear this." He expressed gratitude to the J. T. A.

Kritscher had been reported fatally wounded when a squad of soldiers armed with machine-guns, invaded his store on Sunday. Two Havana Jews, Julio Kleindorf and Mottel Turishinski, who were in the store at the time, were slain by the mob.

Rothenberg Denies Reports Of German-Palestine Deal

Morris Rothenberg, president of the Zionist Organization of America and co-chairman of the Council of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, yesterday issued a statement denying that any responsible agency in Palestine had contracted an agreement with the German government whereby the latter would increase its orange import from Palestine in return for greater exports of German goods to that country.

Mr. Rothenberg's statement was issued on the basis of an assurance forwarded to him by the Vaad Leumi, the Jewish National Council of Palestine.

His statement follows:

"Because of distorted information that appeared in the American press with regard to an alleged agreement between the Jewish orange-growers of Palestine and the German government, an inquiry was made of the Jewish National Council of Palestine, the highest authority representing the Jewish people in Palestine, which states that no exchange agreement exists.

"It had been reported that an important grower or group of growers had entered into an agreement with the German government regarding the export of oranges in exchange for German goods that would be imported in Palestine. The Jewish National Council states that a plan to that effect was worked out by an official of the German government, who obtained the aid of a minor Jewish merchant toward carrying out the scheme. But the plan was unanimously rejected by all responsible individuals and firms in Palestine as being inadvisable and contrary to the best Jewish interests."

New Decree Bars Jews From Trading in Timber

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Dec. 20—A law described by the German press as a blow to Jews trading in timber, was proclaimed by the government, rendering it impossible for Jews in the future to obtain concessions for trading in timber.

Rabbi A. S. Pfeffer officiated and the body was interred in Union Field Cemetery. Mrs. Horowitz died Tuesday at her home after an illness of several months. She was an active worker and supporter in many Jewish philanthropic institutions.

2,500 Attend Federation Rally at Waldorf-Astoria

More than 2,500 persons attended the largest rally ever held by the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria Tuesday night. The purpose of the meeting was to place on sale minutes, at $11 apiece, proceeds of which will augment the fund being raised for the support of ninety-one affiliates. The sum of eleven dollars represents the Federation operating cost for one minute.

Pledges to purchase 4,302 units, or minutes, were received by the Federation.

Speakers at the rally who included Otto H. Kahn, David Sarnoff, Magistrate Jonah J. Goldstein, former Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Proskauer, president of the Federation; Paul Adler and Benjamin Buttenwieser, told the gathering that they should come to the support of the campaign and discussed briefly the situation in Germany.

Announcement was made that on Jan. 24 a concert will be held at Madison Square Garden where the drive to raise $4,200,000 will be wound up.

Philanthropies Benefit From Blumenthal Estate

Hebrew philanthropic organizations received requests amounting to $14,000 from the will of Robert G. Blumenthal, who died on January 14 of this year, according to appraisal by the Transfer Tax Department made yesterday.

Mr. Blumenthal left a gross estate totaling $741,735 and a net estate of $633,456. The principal assets consisted of stocks and bonds amounting to $509,023.

Mr. Blumenthal bequeathed $5,000 to Mt. Sinai Hospital, requesting that this sum be added to the Anna M. and Gustav Blumenthal endowment created by the late Gustav Blumenthal, who died in 1919; $5,000 to Montefiore Hospital; $2,500 to the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies; $1,000 to the Employees Association of Commercial Factories and $500 to the Henry Street Settlement.

The balance of the fund went to Mrs. Dorothy S. Blumenfeld, his widow, who lives at 930 Park Avenue. Provision was made for relatives, friends and former employees.

Jewish Ex-Soldiers Form Federation in Germany; Aims to Preserve Rights

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The part which the Jews who as front-fighters during the War are exempt from the anti-Jewish discrimination in Germany are playing in the general struggle of German Jewry to retain their status of equality, was explained to a gathering of press representatives here by the leaders of the Federation of Jewish Ex-Soldiers.

Dr. Ernst Rosenthal, who is in charge of the War-Disabled Welfare Department, told the press men that the negotiations with the qualified authorities in this field of work justified the expectation that the treatment of the Jewish war wounded will not in future be in any way different from that of the non-Jewish war-wounded.

The work of dealing with the Jewish war-wounded has, in agreement with the National Socialist War-wounded Federation, been placed in the hands of the Federation of Jewish Ex-Soldiers, he said.

Walter Beck, who is in charge of the Sports and Athletic Section, said that the participation of Jewish athletes for years past in the general clubs had contributed to a better understanding of the Jew, and the Jews therefore found a larger measure of understanding in athletic circles than elsewhere.

The Federation of Jewish Ex-Soldiers organized its own sports clubs not to foster segregation from non-Jews, he went on, but to provide a foothold for those Jews who were

Japs Supplant Germans In American Toy Trade, Says Berliner Tageblatt

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Dec. 20.—German exports of Christmas toys to the United States has been replaced this year by the import of Japanese toys as a result of the Jewish boycott of German goods, the Berliner Tageblatt declared today, disclosing that German toy sales in America are a half million dollars less than last year.

Germany, which formerly occupied first place in American toy imports, the Tageblatt stated, declined from fifty-one percent to thirty-four percent compared to last year. Japanese imports, however, rose from thirty-nine to sixty percent of the entire American import of toys.

Gov. Lehman Honor Guest At Festival Performance

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman will be guest of honor at the second performance of the Maccabean Festival scheduled to take place at Madison Square Garden this Saturday night. It will be his first public appearance since his recovery from a recent illness.

A letter received from the Governor by Morris Margulies, general chairman of the arrangements, read:

"I greatly appreciate your invitation to me to be the guest of honor at the Maccabean Festival. I need not tell you that nothing would give me greater pleasure than to be with you on this occasion, as I have so frequently been in the past. I am anxious to come to the Festival in the Garden and greet my many friends."

Mr. Margulies announced that the affair would be in the nature of a Jewish thanksgiving service for the Governor's recovery.

4,449 Jews Admitted to Palestine in October

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Dec. 20.—Government figures published today disclose that 4,572 persons settled in Palestine during the month of October.

The number includes 4,449 Jews, of whom 410 were immigrants entering in the capitalist classification which requires a cash fund of one thousand pounds and 32 were Jewish tourists who had their status legalized after arrival.

The number of tourists who were refused permission to remain permanently totaled 136.

The figures do not include Arabs who entered Palestine from Transjordan during the month, as there are no restrictions imposed on such immigration.

Gov't Immigration Policy Aggravates Labor Dearth In Growth of Holy Land

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JERUSALEM, Nov. 27.—M. Novomeysky, managing director of Palestine Potash, Ltd., the company working the Dead Sea minerals concession, recently published an article in the Palestine Post, warning the Palestine government against precipitating an economic crisis by its over-cautious immigration policy.

"At the end of last year," writes Mr. Novomeysky, "the country had apparently just sufficient labor to cover its requirements. There was no large surplus available for increased demand. By the second half of January, 1933, the situation had changed and skilled and even semi-skilled labor could be found only with difficulty. By the end of August, the position had become still worse, and in the report to the board of directors of Palestine Potash, Ltd., it was stated that one of the reasons for delay in fulfilling the approved extension program was the scarcity of labor in Palestine.

"At the end of September the situation was critical. Some of the workmen who had been employed for over three years began to leave, and about a quarter of them had left by the end of October, attracted by the considerably higher wages offered in the towns. There was actually a competitive race for labor between the various industrial enterprises, a rare event in present-day world economic conditions. These men appear to have filled freshly created economic positions,

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Jewish Children Ordered To Give Hitler Salute

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

Honor American Jew Who Founded Rome Institute

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

ROME, Dec. 20.—A tablet was unveiled here today at the International Agricultural Institute in honor of its founder, David Lubin, an American Jew, who established the Institute in 1904, after having been received in audience by King Victor Emanuel.

The president of the Institute, Prince Spada Potenziani, former Governor of Rome, paid a tribute to the services rendered by Lubin to science and agriculture by the establishment of a first rank school such as the Institute.

Mr. Lubin, who was born in Poland in 1849, went to the United States in 1855. After a successful career in business, he became interested in Palestine and agriculture as a livelihood for Jews. In 1904, following a trip to Palestine, he came to Rome, was received by the king, and founded the International Agricultural Institute. He died in Rome in 1919.

chope in connection with both questions.

Sir Herbert Samuel, former High Commissioner of the Holy Land and leader of a Liberal faction in the House, also revealed before the Commons that the proposed new penal code for Palestine provides punishment by death for crimes other than murder, and flogging for minor offenses. Cunliffe-Lister replied that the High Commissioner is to be consulted on this question likewise. He assured the House that the code is based on the principles of British law and justice.

shut out from the general clubs on account of the new regulations. At the same time the effect of the old common activities of Jews and non-Jews in the same clubs was still evident today in the fact that they knew of many Christian sport clubs that would be willing to play matches against Jewish teams, if the opportunity were given them.

The sports section of the Federation of Jewish Ex-Soldiers now numbers, after six or seven months, seventy clubs with over 6,000 active members.

"We are not thinking of fighting the Zionist sports clubs," he continued. "For that reason we are refusing to admit Zionist clubs so that there should not be the slightest ground for suspicion that we are trying to put obstacles in the way of the development of the Maccabee movement.

"The excellent relations which exist between us and the Maccabees," he said, "are demonstrated by the fact that both our Federations worked in conjunction in the negotiations which have resulted in our official recognition by the Reich Sports leadership.

"It is regrettable," he said, "that we have not yet found any Maccabees for the new Jewish sport clubs, to anything like the same extent that they existed in the general clubs in the past. We must still do a great deal of work to bring this need home to the Jews concerned."

following on the rapid development of the country.

"Non-Jews have to be employed at the Dead Sea works because of the scarcity, and there was one group, consisting of a German, a Hungarian, a Dane and two Arabs, all non-Jews, which did some of the machine work.

"An undertaking like the Palestine Potash Works is faced with the alternative of either raising wages by at least 5 percent over last year's rates, or suspending parts of the work for the present."

The writer stresses the need of a labor reserve, arguing that it is the only solution for the present unhealthy labor situation in the country. "The various industrial and other undertakings established in Palestine with no little difficulty," he says, "must look with anxiety towards the future, if the existing unsatisfactory conditions of shortage of labor are to be left as they are.

"The question of extension of existing undertakings, already decided upon, must be revised in the light of the newly-created conditions," he says. "The establishment of new undertakings must be postponed until the authorities have realized the dangerous scarcity of labor and have changed their present policy.

"Many of the new immigrants now arriving in Palestine, particularly from Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia and the United States, are of the industrial type. Many of them want to transfer actual plants to Palestine. They have experience and capital, but the absence of labor is the obstacle that undoubtedly retards the natural development of the country."

Mr. Novomeysky believes that a population of over 50,000 working men and women in the Jewish community could stand a labor reserve of a few thousand.

"There is no other government in the world that would artificially retard a country's development for fear of a possible setback later on," Mr. Novomeysky insists. "Every country, before the general world condition set in, had its ups and downs—years of prosperity and years of depression, and while possible changes must be anticipated, it cannot be a reason for putting the brakes on a country's growth. Such a method of arresting development in order to prevent a possible crisis, may lead to precisely opposite results—to precipitate the very crisis which it was meant to avoid."

want to go mad, must close their eyes to what is happening around them and must persuade themselves that it is untrue that Jews are tortured, imprisoned and killed although they have seen it with their own eyes.

"The Jews of Germany today are not living in any sense of the word. At best, they are leading a wretched, apprehensive existence," Mr. Feuchtwanger told the three hundred women present.

Those present at the luncheon paid fifty dollars each for admission and contributed $40,000 to the relief fund.

incident resulted merely from an effort to maintain order in the court.

The Arab lawyers cross-examined police witnesses in an attempt to show that since District Commissioner Crosbie had promised to receive a deputation composed of demonstrators, the dispersal of the demonstration was unjustified.

The Jaffa Arab demonstration of October 27, part of a series of protests against Jewish immigration, organized by the Arab Executive turned out to be the most serious single incident of the campaign. Eleven were killed and one hundred wounded in the battle between the police and the Arabs.
