

3¢

3¢

NEW YORK JEW DAILY

The Only Jewish Daily in English

All the News Concerning Jews

Vol. XI, No. 2760.

(CITY EDITION)

NEW YORK, N. Y., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1934.

Published at 220 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Price 3 Cents

NOW—

Editorial Notes
By
HERMAN BERNSTEIN

The Height of Germany

THE Nazis have "purged" the Psalms of David from Jewish taint." Their new hymn book contains seventy-five condensed and Germanized psalms instead of the original Hebrew Psalms.

A typical example of the high moral tone and religious honesty with which the Nazis have plagiarized the Hebrew Psalms is furnished by the changes made in the Eighty-Seventh Psalm of David.

The Original:

"His foundation is in the holy mountains. The Lord loveth the gates of Zion more than all the dwellings of Jacob."

The Germanized Version:

The author of the German revision of the Psalms asserts in his preface that Christ was of pure Aryan blood, spiritually foreign to Jews.

Alfred Rosenberg, the Nazi propagandist and "new philosophic dictator for the Third Reich," thus defined Germany's great aim: "One people, one Reich, one religion, one church. The one religion, of course, can be only a Nordic-Germanic one."

Nordic sagas are to be developed and doctrines that "incriminate Germans and make contrite" are to be eliminated. And Germany's God is to be represented with Aryan in his hand.

The "height of Germany" is called in the Hitlerized Psalms. These unmistakable symptoms of madness indicate that Germany is being destroyed by Naziphobia. From the "height of Germany" the present masters are hurling their blows to the lowest depths.

Dictators Disagree

THE Rome correspondent of the New York Times reports that the Italians have come to the conclusion that Hitlerism and Fascism have nothing in common beyond some purely external and accidental manifestations.

He writes that Hitler's "treatment of Jews, his bull-in-china-shop method of foreign policy and his religious policies were never popular in Italy," and that as far as Italy was concerned, Hitlerite Germany was not a liability but an asset. He adds that Hitler, imitator of Mussolini, came to power with Mussolini's aid. But the Duce never accepted Hitler's racial and religious bigotry. In fact, it is he who cautioned Hitler against going too far in his anti-Jewish persecutions. But when Mussolini most, and Hitler has discredited Hitler in the eyes of the Italian people. (Continued on Page 2)

Council to Aid Reich Refugees Plans Campaign

Exile Children Will Be Settled in the Holy Land Colonies

More than 1,500 delegates representing that number of communal, fraternal and religious organizations meeting yesterday at an emergency conference held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, pledged support to the drive to raise $200,000 in connection with the National Emergency Campaign for the Settlement of German Jewish Refugees in Palestine.

The conference which was held under the auspices of the Council of Jewish Organizations, voted to launch a special drive for $40,000. The money will be used to find homes in Palestine for 500 refugee children.

Speakers who included Nathan Straus Jr., chairman of the Greater New York Division of the Emergency Campaign for the Settlement of German Jews in Palestine; George Z. Medall, honorary president of the Council; Joseph J. Goldstein, president of the Jewish Club; Herman Bernstein, editor of the Jewish Daily Bulletin and other distinguished speakers. The speaker, after their heated protest against the German trouble, against the immigration restrictions in the Holy Land and sounded a plea for aid.

This aid, they insisted, must come both from Jews and non-Jews alike for all are concerned in the political situation in Nazi Germany which resulted in the expulsion of thousands.

A highlight of the conference was the adoption by acclamation of four resolutions in substance as follows:

(1) That the name of the organization be changed and called the Council of Jewish Organizations of the Greater New York Emergency Campaign for the Settlement of German Jews in Palestine.

(Continued on Page 3)

Eight Endek Students Jailed Following Riots

Anti-Semites Get Month in Jail for Taking Part in Attacks on Jews

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) WARSAW, Feb. 4.—Eight Endek students, members of the National Endek party, during the Endek government political party, were sentenced to be imprisoned for one month for having participated in attacks on the Jewish shops. The Endek demonstration against the new Polish constitution recently promulgated by the Pilsudski regime. Hundreds of Endek rioters, who whose activities have been hard hit by the new constitution, are showing their dissatisfaction by frequent riots against the Jews. Attacks on Jews are frequent and the group punishment of rioters by the Polish courts is apparently no deterrent.

Anti-Jewish Boycott Slogan Reported Revived in Silesia

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) BERLIN, Feb. 4.—The anti-Jewish boycott slogan, "Germans, Buy of German Only!" has been revived in Upper Silesia, the Voelkicher Beobachter reports.

Numerous so-called Brown Bazaars have been organized under the slogan in many Silesian cities. The bazaars, organized in connection with local commercial and artisan organizations, are intended "to illustrate before the eyes of the public that it is the duty of every German to patronize Germans only."

Jewish Czech Merchant Lured Across Frontier And Arrested by Nazis

PRAGUE, Feb. 4.—The luring of a Jewish merchant across the frontier into Germany, where he was immediately arrested by the German police, is being sensationally featured in the press here.

The merchant, Josef Kollinsky, where he talked with the Czech government would permit Kollinsky to cross the frontier without a passport.

Shortly thereafter, the German creditor arrived at the frontier, where he talked with Kollinsky, who absent-mindedly took several steps into the German territory. Plainclothes German policemen suddenly appeared on the scene and, surrounding Kollinsky, forced him, at the point of a revolver, to proceed further into German territory, where he was arrested.

Minneapolis Churches Condemn Race Hatred Among the Faithful

(Jewish Daily Bulletin) MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 4.—Voicing concern over the growth of anti-Semitism in contemporary Christendom, the Minnesota Federation of Churches has adopted a report urging all churches to repudiate doctrines "opposed to the basic democracy of our nation and to the precepts of Christianity."

The report, as submitted by the Federation's committee on world brotherhood, declared that "we note with shame and humiliation the growth of anti-Semitism in contemporary Christendom. When we protest such movements abroad we are not aware that a similar spirit is in evidence within our own borders."

German Jewry Presents Solid Front As Berlin Palestine Exhibition Opens

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) BERLIN, Feb. 4.—The entire Jewish population of Germany was represented at the opening of the Palestine exhibition today. The affair is regarded here as an important event in the history of the German Jews because even the Jewish community of Berlin and the all-German Jewish Representative body, usually opposed to Zionism, were represented at the opening.

Greetings to the exhibition were extended by Dr. Heinrich Stahl, di-

Senator King Urges U. S. To Aid European Jewry, Flays the Spirit of War

"Perish Judea" Blazes On Cross in Center Of Park in London

Police Search for Fascists Believed Responsible for Incident

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) LONDON, Feb. 4.—The first anti-Semitic incident of its kind in England occurred yesterday when a fifteen-foot iron cross inscribed "Perish Judea" was erected in the center of a London park. The cross, which surrounded it were removed the oil-soaked rags in which the cross was wrapped were set on fire, making the inscription visible through the district in which the park is located.

Fascists are suspected of being responsible for the incident, although the actual offenders are unknown.

Police and onlookers rushed to the scene and extinguished the fire. The cross and remnants of the rags which surrounded it were removed to police headquarters in the hope that they would yield some clue to those who placed them in the park. Witnesses volunteered the information that they had seen Fascists wearing uniforms decorated with swastikas bring the cross to the park in a motor truck. Simultaneous reports from Manchester and Leeds state that the anti-Semitic movement in those cities is assuming a bolder character. The Jewish population of Leeds numbers about 30,000.

Von Stephan is Forced To Quit Stahlheim Post

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Von Stephan, the Stahlheim leader who last week ordered that Jewish war veterans be accepted as members of the Stahlheim organization, has been forced to resign, an official announcement states.

The reason, given for the forced resignation of Von Stephan is the merger of the Stahlheim with the Storm Troops.

In a vigorous speech denouncing religious bigotry and race hate which he delivered before 2,000 persons assembled at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society held yesterday at the Hotel Statler, Senator William H. King of Utah said that he favors action by the United States government in behalf of persecuted Jews in Germany and other countries of Europe.

The Senator devoted a large part of his address to a scathing verbal attack on the public press and to the middle ages" in Germany and deplored the policies pursued by the Third Reich in connection with its Jewish population. He pleaded for liberty and tolerance, saying in no uncertain terms that in the United States there is reason to believe that "anyone who would attempt to spread the barbaric conditions which are cropping up everywhere and which are leading to conditions inimical to peace."

The speaker paid tribute to the HIAS organization, saying that he regretted the need for the existence of such a body. The very fact that your organization was created is a condemnation of our Christian society which called it forth," he said. "The clamps and chains on the liberty of modern people should have been wiped out in the march of progress."

Expressing his "amazement" at reports published in the public press regarding German and Rumanian atrocities, Senator King felt "profound regret" over the explosion of the unjust government of a people with the object of extirpating, degrading and despoiling them. He voiced his belief that it is the "duty of every citizen to raise its voice in protest" against the repressions practiced by the Hitler regime in Germany and said with feeling that "we are talking much more entirely too much."

Chas. Greet Speaker The address, which was broadcast over radio station WHN, left a deep impression. The organization which adopted resolutions condemning Hitlerism and asking intervention by President Roosevelt, did not fail to evince its feeling about the Senator's words. He was cheered and at the termination of his address before he left the room all stood in a rising vote of confidence and gratitude. A few women who had adopted that German refusal to be admitted into the United States under quota and asking that nature.

(Continued on Page 3)

Last Rites Today For Montague Glass, Author, Humorist

Rabbi Stephen Wise to Conduct Service for Creator of Potash and Perlmutter

Funeral services for Montague Glass, creator of "Potash and Perlmutter" and other humorous Jewish stories, will be conducted by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise in the Free Synagogue, at two o'clock this afternoon. Burial will take place in Woodlawn Cemetery.

The author had been in poor health for several weeks. Late Saturday afternoon he died of a cerebral hemorrhage at his Westport Conn. home, after being confined to his bed for two days.

Montague Glass was born in Manchester, England, July 23, 1877, the son of James David and Amelia Marden Glass. In 1890, his father brought the family to New York.

After attending City College, young Glass studied law at New York University, where he also wrote for the school paper. The law firm with which he was associated had many Jewish business men. These clothing and real estate dealers were the source of the Potash and Perlmutter sketches that he wrote. Glass became world famous. Much of his material remained unsold for nearly ten years. It was not until 1910, however, that he was able to give up his law practice and devote all his time to writing. In two years, he created a sensation with his Jewish types. For a while he was censured by some people who felt that he was ridiculing the Jewish business man, but favorable comment soon overshadowed these matters of disapproval.

Potash and Perlmutter was dramatized in 1913, and they continued to be the central figures in six more plays during the next fifteen years. He was the author of over 600 stories and articles, fourteen plays and several motion pictures. For the past few years he has been writing for the radio and has worked until a few days ago on the continuity of the current radio series of "Potash and Perlmutter."

Mr. Glass married Caroline Patterson of Port Jervis, N. Y., in 1907. They had two children, James Montague, who died, and Elizabeth Montague.

Montague Glass is survived by two brothers and three sisters, as well as his widow and daughter.

To Tete Rabbi Simon

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—More than 2,500 men and women representing all creeds and walks of life are expected to attend a testimonial dinner in honor of Rabbi Abram Simon. The event is scheduled to be held at the Mayflower Hotel on Wednesday and will commemorate Rabbi Simon's thirtieth anniversary as spiritual leader of the Washington Hebrew Congregation.

JEWISH DAILY BULLETIN

Published every day in the week except Saturdays and Sundays.

By the
JEWISH DAILY BULLETIN, INC.,
211 Centre Street, New York, N. Y.
Telephone: Canal 6-200

ALICE LADAVY, President
HELEN BERNHEIMER, Editor

Member of Jewish Telegraphic Agency
New York Office: 211 Centre Street
London Office: Ludgate House, Fleet Street
Paris Office: 10, rue de Valenciennes
Berlin Office: W. 15, Kantstrasse 39
Warsaw Office: 10, Krakowski 30
Jerusalem Office: 10, Nassiriyeh Bldg.
Tel Aviv Office: 10, Ha'Aliyah Bldg.

U. S. C. and Foreign
DAILY AND WEEK-END EDITIONS

	Year	1933	1932
1 year	12.00	12.00	12.00
6 months	6.00	6.00	6.00
3 months	3.00	3.00	3.00
1 year	12.00	12.00	12.00
6 months	6.00	6.00	6.00
3 months	3.00	3.00	3.00
Week-End Edition, 1 year	1.25	1.25	1.25
Week-End Edition, 6 months	.75	.75	.75
Week-End Edition, 3 months	.40	.40	.40

Entered as second-class matter, Nov. 16, 1929, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y.,
under the Act of Oct. 3, 1917.

Copyright
Jewish Daily Bulletin, Inc.

SEEKS REFUGEE AID

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

Lord Marley, who is travelling tourist this on the ship, is vice chairman of the British House of Lords. On his arrival here, he will be met by a police escort and driven to City Hall, where he will be welcomed by Bernard S. Deutsch, president of the Board of Aldermen.

On Wednesday night a dinner of welcome will be given him at the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue. Among the speakers will be Prof. John Dewey, chairman of the Lord Marley Reception Committee, Dr. Henry Moskowitz and Dudley Field Malone.

German Boycott World Duty, Says Pat McGrady

Pat McGrady, newspaper correspondent who recently returned from Germany, Friday night admitted that if the anti-German boycott is to be successful it must be purged of its Jewish aspect.

Speaking before the William Clinton Stony Post No. 342 of the American Legion at Freeport, L. I., McGrady declared that the boycott of German goods in the United States has not been successful, according to the most recent statistics issued by the United States Department of Commerce.

"I believe that the reason for the failure of the boycott in this country may be attributed to the fact that it is being prosecuted primarily by Jews. It is widely recognized as a Jewish boycott of German goods," he said.

"In all other countries, Italy and a few South and Central American countries, being outside boycotts, German trade has suffered a precipitous drop. In these countries the boycott is used as an instrument of national policy and reflects the resentment of all religious sects to bar organizations, and social groups against Nazi oppression of all people in Germany," he concluded.

Mr. McGrady attributed the growth of anti-Semitic organizations in this country to such German Nazi groups operating from coast to coast, and said that Jewish leadership in the boycott is being used as an instrument with which to stir up popular anti-Semitism against the Jews.

He outlined the trend of anti-Semitism in other countries throughout the world and named the United States as the guiding force of the ascendant anti-Semitic forces in the world.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Woolworth Report Shows Affiliation With Reich Stores

Hofer Statement Belied By Financial Statement Published

Byington statements made to the Jewish Daily Bulletin on January 29 by Paul H. Jr., secretary of the F. W. Woolworth Company, the yearly financial report of the company, made public on January 30, indicates a substantial holding in the F. W. Woolworth Company in Germany and the United States.

Mr. Hofer January 29 told a reporter for the Jewish Daily Bulletin that German Woolworth stores were entirely independent of the American concern, that the two were virtually unrelated, each other doing nothing to do with each other, and that the Woolworth trade mark is used by virtue of a financial arrangement between the German and American officials of the respective companies.

The financial report issued by the Woolworth Company states in part, "Interest in the company's German subsidiary is carried at $7,919,562. It is likewise stated that the number of Woolworth stores in Germany, operating under the parent concern in the United States amounts to eighty-one. According to the report, the F. W. Woolworth Company of Germany falls into the same category as the American concern, the Woolworth Company Ltd., of England. The annual financial report for 1933 cited the income of the domestic and Canadian concerns at $2,660,000, exclusive of a non-recurring profit of $1,970,561 from sale of stock of F. W. Woolworth and Company, Ltd., of England.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Regarding the policy of Woolworth interests in the United States toward the boycott of German goods, Mr. Hofer was not prepared to speak. He said that the determination of the concern's policies in this respect lay entirely in the hands of the president of the company, B. D. Miller, and that all references to the situation must rest with him.

When these facts were called to the attention of Mr. Hofer Friday, he admitted that domestic Woolworth interests maintained many holdings in the German concern.

The American Woolworth concern, he said, was owned both by Christian and Jewish stockholders, the Christian interests predominating.

He said that during the one-day boycott of Jewish stores in Germany a number of Woolworth's establishments in that country were closed and the managers of other stores had considerable difficulty with stockpilers, who insisted that they came under the law of the day.

Nazi Influence Among German Groups in U.S. Dying, Dickstein Says

Congressman Receiving Many Letters From Societies Scoring Hitler

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4.—A revolt against Nazi influence among German societies in the United States which is bringing about the ultimate downfall of Nazi propaganda activities in this country, has made its appearance in many sections of the United States, was indicated today by Representative Samuel Dickstein, chairman of the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

Representative Dickstein told the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that for the last few weeks he has been receiving letters from German organizations throughout the country expressing disapproval of Hitlerism as now in effect in Germany. These letters point out that they are opposed to Nazi activities in the United States.

Accompanying some of these letters are resolutions adopted by individual German organizations disclaiming any affiliation with any anti-Semitic movement in this country.

The most recent letter received by Representative Dickstein is one from the Workmen Sick and Death Benefit Fund, Branch 125, a German organization in Cincinnati, Ohio. The letter reproduces a resolution recently adopted by the organization's members, which was signed by Fred Bender, president, Fred Schiller, vice-president, and three other officials of the organization.

The resolution follows: "At a general meeting of the Workmen Sick and Death Benefit Fund, Branch 125, Cincinnati, Ohio, held recently at their headquarters the following resolutions were passed: The impression has gone forth that the German Americans of Cincinnati are all supporting the Hitler Fascism and the anti-Semitic which at the present moment is raging and which has sent the great German Nation back to barbarism and terrorism."

Representative Dickstein said that the letter is similar to a number of letters he has received during the past few weeks. He said he intends to keep a complete file of these letters to be referred to by the committee which he headed in conducting an unofficial investigation of Nazi propaganda activities in the United States.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities in this country may officially be brought to light.

Representative Dickstein's resolution for an official investigation of Nazi activities in this country is expected to be acted upon by the House in a few weeks. The general opinion among members of Congress is that the resolution will pass in order that the facts of Nazi activities

200 Pickets Brave Cold to Hit Macy's Sale of Nazi Goods

Marchers Attract Crowds of Saturday Shoppers With Bold Placards

On one of the coldest days of the current winter approximately 200 young men and women paraded Saturday, for the most-part bare-headed, protesting the sale of Nazi goods in Macy's department store. Undaunted by the chilling winds that swept around the four corners of New York's largest department store, the marchers maintained their posts for almost four hours.

"Macy's handles Nazi goods! Boycott Nazi goods!" they chanted as they marched. Their boycott litany attracted the attention of thousands of Saturday shoppers, who stopped to stare at the young protesters drawn from the ranks of the Poale Zion-Zeire Zion, United Jewish Socialist Labor Party, Pioneer Women's Organization, the Jewish National Workers' Alliance and the Young Poale Zion Alliance.

Clutching large placards in hands numb with cold, the marchers passed cordons of police officially summoned. The bluecoats stared good-naturedly at the spectacle. One offered the advice that "if ye're not down with pneumonia."

Posters Rage Store

Posters borne by the marchers were quite as uncompromising to the management of Macy's as they were to Hitler. Leading the parade were Chaim Gressing, leader of the Poale Zion-Zeire Zion, secretary for the National Worker's Alliance, and David Wertheim, national secretary, for the Poale Zion-Zeire Zion. A similar poster in English demanded "Would Nathan Straus favor your present refusal to boycott Nazi goods?"

Besides placards announcing that "Macy's Sells Nazi Goods," and asking shopkeepers to "Boycott Nazi Goods," a large variety of slogans in red and black decorated other banners. To Boy Nazi Goods "Milk your own goat," read one sign; and another, "6% Discount on Jews," with the name R. H. Macy blazoned beneath. "Hit Hitler," blazoned one sign decorated with large A's skull and crossbones. The banners couched in pictures of terms urged readers to "Return to Buy German Goods Drench in Innocent Blood."

A young fellow, halless, blue-lipped, and shivering, and a young girl, a teen formed the rear of the parade. "Do you think the discomfort and possibilities of catching this cold worth your efforts here?" they were asked.

"Sure they are," the young man responded. "We Jews," said the girl, "feel as though we've been let down by the American people, and that it's up to other Jews. If the boycott is going to be successful, we'll have to have the cooperation of Macy's store. Then we'll get around to the rest of the department stores, which look to Macy's for leadership."

Similar demonstrations are planned for succeeding Saturdays. A spokesman for the group said that "Woolworth's is next on the list." Beyond this he was doubtful of the identity of stores slated as parade grounds. "The idea is, we're not to get out of the city streets, we should be in the front ranks of this fight against Hitler."

PICKETS SCORE MACY'S SALE OF NAZI GOODS

Crowds swarm around fifteen pickets seen above, a 200 ardent Jews protest Macy's German policy in the shopping rush hour Saturday afternoon.

Fight Against "T.B." Spurred at Denver Hospital Convention

Complete Control Must Be Gained Over Disease, Delegates Told

Warnings that the strides made in lowering death rates from tuberculosis should not be considered a triumph until continued efforts made it possible to "gain as much control over that disease as we now had over typhoid and diphtheria were sounded by medical experts and laymen at the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the National Jewish Hospital, held yesterday at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, sounded the keynote of the meet in a message read to 300 guests from New York and other parts of the country, assembled to review the work of the institution, which is the oldest free, national, nonsectarian sanatorium in the United States for the cure and treatment of the tubercular poor.

Among the speakers who presented reports and delivered talks were: Dr. William S. Friedman, of Denver, president of the institution; Dr. Jonah B. Wise, rabbi of Central Synagogue, New York; Felix Warburg, New York, treasurer; Justice Samuel D. Levy, of the Domestic Relations Court, chairman of the New York Committee; Genial Synagogue, New York; Dr. H. J. Corper, of Denver, director of research; Ludwig Vogelstein, of New York; Dr. William Roseman, of Baltimore; Berthold Flesher, of Denver, chairman of the national finance committee; Alfred Benesch, president of the Cleveland Board of Education; Samuel Schaefer, of Denver, national supervisor, and A. M. Krensky, chairman of the Chicago committee.

Reports were also submitted by Herman Wile, of Buffalo; Max Freschl, Milwaukee; Dr. B. S. Polak, Jersey City; Paul M. Rosenthal, New York; and Isidore Sobeloff, director of the New York office.

Special Messages

Special messages to the meeting were read from United States Senator Edward P. Costigan and Governor Edward C. Johnson, of Colorado, both of whom described the institution's work from personal observations. The final drive, through its international president, Alfred M. Cohen, of Cincinnati, and the Workmen's Circle, through J. Baskin, secretary of its national executive committee, also addressed messages to the meeting.

Dr. Jonah B. Wise, as the principal speaker at the luncheon meeting, declared that the incidence of disease, as of taxation, is always downward. "The rich," said Dr. Wise, "can defend themselves, and the strong can find immunity. It is the business of society to recognize as a principle that the poor are defenseless, both physically and mentally, from the ravages of disease."

Dr. Fishbein, in his message, declared: "I have watched with great interest the work of the National Jewish Hospital. Work that is being carried out in your hospital and particularly in the research department should be continued as representing one of the major sources in the battle against this widespread disease."

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, sounded the keynote of the meet in a message read to 300 guests from New York and other parts of the country, assembled to review the work of the institution, which is the oldest free, national, nonsectarian sanatorium in the United States for the cure and treatment of the tubercular poor.

Mr. Warburg declared that in the tremendous pressure that has been exerted on the public to contribute to municipal and semi-public agencies, through taxation, the public should not overlook the private agency, which must depend entirely on private, individual support.

At the morning session, Dr. Friedman, in his presidential address, reported that more than 1,200 individuals were treated by the institution last year in the sanatorium and through the out-patient department and clinics.

Dr. Corper reviewed the work of the research department and declared that tuberculosis is still the gravest and most serious of the communicable diseases prevalent in the world today.

Dr. Bronfin, in his report as medical director, declared that in spite of the fact that more than 67 percent of the adult patients admitted during the past year were far advanced, or "third stage" cases, 68 percent of all the patients were restored to health and economic independence, a proportion of successful returns far beyond a decade ago.

Mrs. Plisko, as national secretary, reported an operating deficit of $35,375 for the last fiscal year. The per capita cost for a day's care for a patient was $3.13. Total expenditures were $38,252.

A feature of the luncheon session was the citation accorded Ben Altheimer, eighty-three-year-old national treasurer of the institution.

A budget of $325,000 for the current year was set by the national executive committee at its meeting following the luncheon session. Paul Felix Warburg, New York treasurer, was elected as a national vice-president and Paul M. Rosenthal, of New York, was named assistant national treasurer and a member of

Jewish Student Union In Vienna Balks at "Yellow Passports"

System Marking Out Jews From Others Attacked As Unfair

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) VIENNA, Feb. 4.—"Yellow passports" have been introduced for Jewish students at Austrian universities and other social and cultural institutions.

The Jewish Student Union immediately filed with the proper authorities a protest against such an identification system, basing its objections upon the recent ruling by the Austrian government that effect that universities and similar institutions would be under the supervision of a special government commission to insure the administration of such institutions in the spirit of the government.

Three kinds of registration cards are now being issued to students of the type of Elnhorn and Aryans receive Class A certificates, foreigners are in Class B and Jews in Class C.

Officially, however, the last category is reserved for guests. Since according to the anti-Semitic theory Jews are neither Aryans nor foreigners, they are included among the guests. This classification excludes them from most university functions and prevents their benefiting from university facilities along with Jewish students, like the Aryans, are compelled to contribute regularly for university activities. These contributions are in addition to the regular university fees.

The national executive committee, Alfred A. Benesch, of Cleveland, also was elected as a vice-president and the following officers were re-elected: Louis D. Beaumont, honorably president; the Rev. Dr. William S. Friedman, president; Morton May, St. Louis; B. Flesher, Denver; Herman Wile, Buffalo; Harmon S. Augustus, New York; and Edwin J. Schanfarber, Columbus, vice-presidents; Ben Altheimer, New York, treasurer, and Mrs. S. Plisko, Denver, secretary.

The following were named to serve on the national executive committee: Ben Altheimer, New York; Harmon S. Augustus, New York; Louis D. Beaumont, New York; Alfred A. Benesch, Cleveland; Alfred M. Cohen, Cincinnati; N. L. Dauby, Cleveland; B. Flesher, Denver; Max Freschl, Milwaukee; the Rev. Dr. W. S. Friedman, Denver; Herman Wile, Indianapolis; Judah Samuel D. Levy, New York City; Morton May, St. Louis; Edwin J. Schanfarber, Columbus; Paul Felix Warburg, New York; Herman W. Zisels, and William B. Woolner, Peoria.

Dr. Franklin Preaches His 35th Anniversary Sermon in Detroit

Temple Beth El Congregants Hear Leader Point to Future Obligations

(Jewish Daily Bulletin) DETROIT, Feb. 12.—Reviewing the changes, accomplishments and trials for the past 35 years, and pointing to the obligations of the future, Dr. Leo M. Franklin preached his thirty-fifth anniversary sermon to Temple Beth-El.

Reminding his congregants that his pledge 35 years ago was to "give God the glory and the praise for which you and the sacred cause for which you stood the best energy that was in my mind and soul and spirit—this and nothing more," he pointed out that he stepped into a world that had been dignified by men like Lieberman Adler, Kaufman Kohler, Henry Zirndorf and Louis Grossman.

Describing the "vast and sweeping changes that have come upon the world during the period covered by our survey," Dr. Franklin paid a glowing tribute to the late Isaac M. Wise, founder of the Reform Jewish movement in this country and organizer of Hebrew Union College.

"I say to you now and here," he declared, "that had the Hebrew Union of the type of Einhorn and Geiger and Samuel Hirsch, intellectual liberals though they were, could have caught the imagination of American youth and set it aflame with that spiritual passion that we needed if the Torah was indeed to become a way of life, whose way was the way of peace."

First Comprehensive Exhibition in New York of the Paintings by BORIS DEUTSCH
Beginning Feb. 24 to 27th
at the Gallerie
JACQUES SELIGMAN & Co.
3 East 57th Street New York City

HERE IS . . .

Dos Teller Fun Himl

by ALEPH KATZ
Illustrations by Yoel Cutler

A fanciful treatment of an actual theme.

Old and young alike will like it. A poem to keep and remember.

FARLAC MATONES
133-20 Avenue, New York City

HAIFA, PALESTINE

SEVERAL IDEAL PLOTS — SUITABLE FOR HOTELS OR APARTMENT HOUSES. TO SELL AT SACRIFICE OR PARTNER TO BUILD.

Write Box 215, JEWISH DAILY BULLETIN, 221 Center Street, New York, N. Y.

B'nai Brith Votes $280,000 Budget For U.S. Activities

Judge Golden Elected First Vice-President at Meeting in Cincinnati

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
CINCINNATI, Feb. 4.—A budget of $280,000 for American Jewish activities was adopted at the annual meeting of the executive committee of B'nai Brith, the meeting to be used during 1934 to support the nine B'nai Brith Hillel Foundations, hundreds of Aleph Zadik Aleph chapters, good will anti-discrimination activities, and the B'nai Brith Magazine, among other projects.

Judge I. M. Golden of San Francisco was elected first vice-president of the order, succeeding Louis L. Solomon. Alfred M. Cohen, president of the order, in his annual report, declared that "the catastrophe which has befallen the Jews of Germany is the greatest since the expulsion from Spain in 1492." He reported efforts made by B'nai Brith during 1933 to meet the situation both here and abroad.

In his Secretary's report, Dr. I. M. Robinson indicated a significant increase in membership over last year.

More than 150 cases of anti-Jewish discrimination and defamation were reported by the order to the Anti-Defamation League, director of the Anti-Defamation League.

Those present at the meeting, in addition to President Cohen and Secretary Robinson, were Archibald A. Marx, Louis Fabricant, Sidney G. Kusnow, Joseph Cohen, Judge Leo C. G. Glass, Monroe Friedman, Henry A. Alexander, Dr. Leon E. Bynow, Henry Monsky, Joseph G. Grossman, Louis Cohen, Maurice D. Grossman, Sigmond Livingston, Dr. J. M. Guttmann, Louis J. Borinstein and Sam Beber.

New Orleans Group Challenges Hitlerism

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—A formal challenge to the "forces of darkness and oppression" has been issued here by the formation of the Central Council for Defense Against Hitlerism, a representative body comprising eighteen local Jewish organizations. The Council has declared a boycott against products of the German Reich and the new organization is Dr. J. V. Friend is chairman of the women's division.

Lansburgh Re-elected Head Of Charities in Baltimore

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
BALTIMORE, Feb. 4.—Sidney Lansburgh was re-elected president of the Associated Jewish Charities at a recent meeting. In addition to his term last year, Mr. Lansburgh served in the same post from 1925 to 1928.

Others chosen to serve this year were: Jacob Blustein, first vice-president; Max E. Gundersheimer, second vice-president; Irving E. Kohn, treasurer, and L. Mannel Hendler assistant treasurer, Harry Greenstein is executive director of the group.

Springfield Jewish Women Hold Annual Dinner Dance

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 4.—The Springfield Council of Jewish Women held its outstanding social affair of the season, the annual formal dinner dance, this week with a large attendance from this city and nearby communities. Proceeds will be used for the council's two major philanthropies, the free dental and baby clinics.

Mrs. Moses Asinof is in charge of the project this season. The baby clinic, under the direction of Mrs. Maud Golden, is conducted in cooperation with the Visiting Nurses' association.

A JEWISH BUTCHER SHOP

From the etching by Philip Reisman, young American artist

Ezra Pound, Red-Headed Poet, Issues Fire Call to Jewish Intellectuals for Jewish Clarity

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 4.—Writing "On The Division of Jewry," Ezra Pound, the American expatriate poet has a slashing attack on the Jewish race in the latest edition of the "Harkness Foot." Yale student magazine Pound, writing in his individualistic staccato manner, is at times almost incomprehensible. He writes:

"I wish the Jews did bury their own dead and clean their own stables. There is a division in Jewry, why it shd. be necessary for the Aryan critics to bury themselves with necessary intra-tribal operations, is beyond me. Sephardim exist and know it, they are not by themselves and of themselves confused with the schnorrers and loudwoms."

"Perhaps the Maimonides element is the dominant, perhaps the Conciliarism of Rabbi Jess. I.e., who he told 'em to attend first to their co-nations, was an ideal beyond their attainment. But, ANYHOW, as at least 80 per cent of modern Hebrews appear able to dissociate their ideas, to keep two and more concepts separate in their minds, for at least the duration of a critical essay I saw a few dozen of them would ACT for the final sepulture of Paul Rosenfeld and his twin spirit Waldo Frank and for all sundry other members of the 12 tribes, the two tribes, the lost tribes (of whom undoubtedly the English descendants are the most Wahlo-frankian) and than the unrollable stone be placed on the tombs of same and clamped down with indestructible concrete.

"When you consider the blessing that Jewish clarity has been, from at least the days of Spinoza, when you consider that it has been the 'salt' in muddling tententonic countries, you have a double reason for being irritated with French sentimentalism, which is nine times more squabish and idiotic than that of the worst of British wagers."

"With two whole colleges of Jewish cardinals in the two leading American Rabbinical schools, a fire call from the above signed ought emphatically not to be necessary."

Jewish Lad in Superior Is Hero in World Blaze

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
SUPERIOR, Wis., Feb. 4.—Hyman Arnovich, young Jewish lad of this city, was a hero in the fire that swept the World Superior caused during

Through smoke-filled corridors young Arnovich carried several goods to safety, saving them from possible death or injury in the flames which swept through the building.

Aronson Named President Of Progress Club, Jersey

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 4.—While en route to London, Louis V. Aronson, prominent local manufacturer and civic leader, was unanimously elected president of the Progress Club for a third consecutive term.

Others elected were: A. H. Puder, vice president; Sol Heller, secretary; Charles Mandel, treasurer; Nathaniel Elin, Gilbert Falk, Herbert J. Goldsmid and Edward Kohn, of the board of governors. The club recently observed its sixty-second anniversary.

Omaha Membership Drive

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 4.—Among the first to respond to the membership drive being conducted by Seattle B'nai Brith Lodge was a class of ten alumni members of Aleph Zadik Aleph of the B'nai Brith, who had received their training in Seattle B'nai Brith Lodge was a class of ten alumni members of Aleph Zadik Aleph (past presidents) of the A.Z.A.

Seastika Is Painted

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 4.—Who painted a large, red swastika on the City Hall? Municipal officers are asking each other what significance might be attached to the painting, which has been discovered on the Lexington Street side of the building.

Splashes of paint on the pavement indicated the job was done in a hurry, but the emblem was outlined clearly in strokes three or four inches wide. A check-up by the watchman indicated that the painting was done early in the morning.

Paul Zimmerman, superintendent of municipal buildings, ordered the sign washed off, but several hours scrubbing failed to remove the emblem entirely.

All-Hebraic Concert Planned in Syracuse

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
SYRACUSE, Feb. 4.—An All-Hebraic violin concert will be presented here early this month. It will include the latest Hebraic melodies by the outstanding Jewish composers. The music will be rendered by Harris Pine of the Syracuse Civic College. Among the numbers in his repertoire will be the famous Nigun, improvisation by Ernest Bloch, "The Birdling Songs" by George Perlman and various melodies of modern Palestine improvised by the violinist himself.

The concert will be given under the joint auspices of the Syracuse League of Young Poale-Zion, the Alliance and local chapter of Avukah, with the purpose to raise funds for Palestine.

Catholic Bishop to Talk Before Seattle Jewish

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
SEATTLE, Feb. 4.—The first time in local history Seattle Jewry will be addressed by a Catholic bishop when the Most. Rev. Gerald M. Sheen, recently installed as bishop of the Catholic diocese here, will speak at an open meeting of the B'nai Brith, February 7, at Temple Center. Bishop Sheen is spiritual leader of 1,000,000 Catholics in Washington.

"Good-Will Between Catholic and Jew" will be his subject.

Rothenberg Will Address Buffalo Zionists Feb. 8

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
BUFFALO, Feb. 4.—Morris Rothenberg, president of the Zionist Organization of America, will be the guest speaker at the Zionist Forum, sponsored by the local Zionist groups, on February 8, at the Hotel Statler. Mr. Rothenberg's topic will be "What Is Being Done for German Jewry?"

"For many years I have been a subscriber to the Jewish Daily Bulletin and have found the service extremely valuable."

HERBERT H. LEHMAN.

JEWISH DAILY BULLETIN

Combines the best qualities of a newspaper and a magazine. It presents — in the making — the History of World Jewry. ENTER YOUR SUBSCRIPTION TODAY

USE THIS COUPON

JEWISH DAILY BULLETIN
21 Centre Street, New York, N. Y.

- Date _____
- [] Here is $10 for one year's subscription.
 - [] Here is $6 for six months' subscription.
 - [] Here is $3 for three months' subscription.
 - [] Here is $2 for Week-End Edition for one year.
 - [] Here is $1.50 for Week-End Edition for six months.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____

Goldberg Pleads for Peace With Moslem

Zionist Leader Opposes the Cantonization of Palestine
Terrain

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Abraham Goldberg, well known Zionist leader, addressed a large meeting at the Albany Globe Club last Thursday night at the Ohar Shalom Synagogue on "The Destiny of the Jew." Goldberg predicted the ultimate success of the Jews fight against Hitler would be realized in Palestine, the most important place of refuge for persecute German Jews.

Speaking on the Arab question Goldberg said "there are now many Arab leaders in a peaceful frame of mind, ready to discuss conditions: a round table. It is partly of fault for not coming to grips with the Arab question and being satisfied with mere pronouncements of peace."

This is not sufficient, the speaker said, declaring that he was not in favor of the proposed cantonization of Palestine. However, the proposition made by the Arabs show some opportunity to enter into discussions and possible agreements so that the two peoples might live in peace together.

"We should lose no time in meeting the Arab leaders with the consent of the British," Goldberg declared, "thrust out the entire question and make counter proposals, which Transjordan should be included in the plan. The forces by looking for new places like Angola and Peru, where successful Jewish settlement is doubtful. Transjordan would then offer the best place of refuge for many thousands escaping their cruel fate in East Europe and Germany, the speaker said."

He added that it was the duty of the Jewish leaders against the British and High Commissioner of Refugees, James G. McDonald, enter into discussions with the Arab leaders and find a modus vivendi which will satisfy the Jewish need and at the same time ally Arab forces. This is an opportune moment and we have no right to neglect it, the speaker concluded.

Norman Meyers Appointed Duluth Attorney

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 4.—Norm Meyers, twenty-seven year old Jewish attorney and former resident of Duluth, has been appointed to the legal staff of Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes.

Keep "regular" with EX-LAX The Chocolate Luxative

Jewish Life Reviewed in Latest Cables and Letters

Polish Jews Resent Sixty-Pound Deposit At Palestine's Gates

Ruling Made for Tourists As Evidence of Financial Stability

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
WARSAW, Feb. 4.—The Palestine office here has received word from the British consulate that a deposit of sixty pounds must be made by each tourist who anticipates making a visit to the Holy Land. The regulation states that the guarantee of financial sufficiency, hitherto regarded as satisfactory, will no longer be so considered.

When restrictions were announced recently, delimiting the admission of tourists in Palestine, the Palestine office here arranged with the British consulate to establish a guarantee in lieu of a cash deposit.

As a result of the new regulation many tourists will be unable to make the trip on account of their inability to meet with the demand for a sixty pound outlay.

Insistence by the British consulate that the ruling be enforced is looked upon as a blow to Polish Jewry, many of whom had been looking forward to a visit to the Holy Land during the forthcoming Levant Fair in Tel Aviv. The Fair will get under way on the eve of the Purim holiday.

The Palestine office has cabled a request for intervention to the Zionist Executive.

The strict observance of the Jewish boycott against German-made products here has made serious inroads on Polish German trade, and there is an influx of German agents in the country bent on dispelling the belief that Nazi anti-Jewish repressions are continuing as heretofore. A number of the agents are Jewish representatives of German firms. They are circulating reports that the situation in Germany has improved and attempting to dissuade merchants from prosecuting the boycott.

Boycott forces did not yield, however, and have proclaimed their intention of persisting in the boycott.

Workers Injured At Petach Tikvah Rioting

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
PETACH TIKVAH, Palestine, Feb. 4.—Several Jewish workers were injured and a number of them arrested in a series of clashes which occurred here last week between work groups and the police. The struggle originated in a labor dispute between the Revisionists, right wing Zionists, and the Histadruth, central Jewish workers organization.

The night shift of the local factory is made up of Revisionists only, while the day shift is composed of Laborites and one member of the Bruckstein group, Revisionist youth organization.

Haaretz, Hebrew daily of Tel Aviv, reports that twenty arrests were made last night. A number of people were injured Tuesday night when the Histadruth members assembled outside the factory demanding that the Revisionists cease work. Police intervened in the fracas.

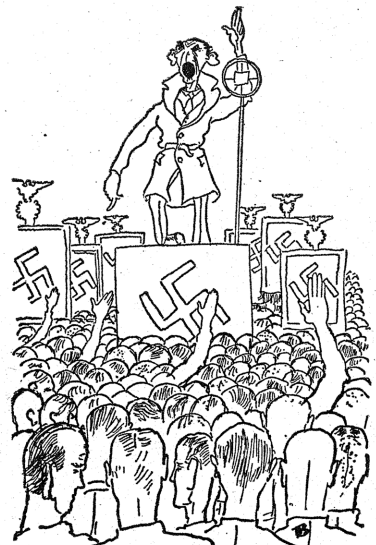

Among those injured in the conflict were two that the Revisionists arrested a number of the combatants. Work in the factory is proceeding with the workers heavily guarded.

Among those injured in the conflict were two that the Revisionists arrested a number of the combatants. Work in the factory is proceeding with the workers heavily guarded.

Among those injured in the conflict were two that the Revisionists arrested a number of the combatants. Work in the factory is proceeding with the workers heavily guarded.

Among those injured in the conflict were two that the Revisionists arrested a number of the combatants. Work in the factory is proceeding with the workers heavily guarded.

"CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED"

—Nathan Aspinwall, Prague.
"The government has decided upon a new labor law. Hell Hitler! What it consists of is none of your business. Hell Hitler! And now you may go home. Hell Hitler!"

Central Europe Pawn In Propaganda Game

Czechoslovakia Has Assumed Role of Protector of Jews

BY A. ABRAHAMSON
GY. Special Correspondent
PRAGUE, Jan. 22.—The whole of central and southeastern Europe has been subject to a well-organized campaign of Nazi propaganda ever since Hitler's victory in Germany one year ago. Czechoslovakia was no exception. Nazi agitators swarmed over the frontier from Germany until it began to look as though Czechoslovakia, too, would soon fall prey to Hitlerism. But luckily, the government realized soon enough that Hitlerism constituted a menace not only to the Jewish inhabitants of the country, but to the State itself, and took vigorous measures to put an end to this propaganda, which was particularly dangerous in view of the large German population of the country. These measures, thanks to the energy with which the government acted, were successful, and Czechoslovakia, as far as the Jews are concerned, is now practically the only peaceful island in the turbulent seas of Central Europe.

It may be asked whether this is not due rather to anti-Hitlerism than to pro-Jewishness. But this is not the only sphere in which Czechoslovakia has proved her friendship to the Jews. Apart from taking a very large number of German refugees, Czechoslovakia has stood on herself the role of defender of Jewish rights in international matters. In the famed interview Prof. Masaryk, President of the Republic, gave Jacob Landau of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, he denied the Nazi assertion that what Germany did with her Jews was an internal German matter that concerned no other state. The anti-Jewish persecution in Germany, President Masaryk declared, is a matter of general

Morocco Jews Celebrate Rebuilding of Ghetto

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
RABAT, Morocco, Feb. 4.—The festival and reception held here by the Jewish community to celebrate the beginning of the work of rebuilding the Jewish ghetto marked an important step in the direction of unity between Jews and Moslems.

A procession through the ghetto was headed by the Pasha of Rabat, Siab Derachman, to edify French authorities here and by Isaac Abbon, president of the Jewish community.

Reinhardt Hailed For Goldoni Performance

Amsterdam is Overwhelmed With Artistry of the Exiled Jew

(G.T.A. Special Correspondence)

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 19.—"That was more than applause, that was a demonstration for Max Reinhardt." This was the opinion unanimously expressed by all who attended the performance of Goldoni's "Servant of Two Masters" under the direction of Max Reinhardt in the Stadschouwburg in Amsterdam when, while the curtain was falling, the audience rose and cheered the great artist. When two high wreaths of laurel were handed to Reinhardt it was regarded not only a token of gratefulness to the artist but as sympathy for a Jew who is no longer able to direct any play in Germany.

The newspapers printed columns of enthusiastic criticism. Space was devoted to the interviews Reinhardt gave to the press at two special receptions.

When the question arose whether Reinhardt believed in the theory of one race being supreme to another as far as the theatre is concerned, Reinhardt, smilingly shrugged his shoulders and said: "I don't care about races. It is the artistic temperament and performance that matters. Under my direction I have had an opportunity to judge actors of several nationalities and races. I cannot say that I found that any race as such is 'premier à tout'."

Reinhardt said he found a good reception everywhere for his artistic work.

"How sympathetically the American public reacts," Reinhardt said. "Here you have the mutual understanding between public and actors which is so essential for the actor's real perfection. The Jew is in the audience—and so I found it an artist himself." Reinhardt defended himself against anyone who held that the Jew is much better than his reputation.

Never before has an artist found such a reception in Holland as Max Reinhardt. Goldoni's comedy is played in Germany, a work which did no harm to its financial success. The theatres were sold out wherever he came in Holland although his performances in Amsterdam were included in the performance of Bruck Frank's comedy "Nina" through the troupe of the famous German stage manager, Professor Staudenmann. A work which did no harm to its financial success.

The Jewish Culture Council will have an assembly of members of the Jewish community in Amsterdam.

High School Assembly
The Jewish Culture Council will have an assembly of members of the Jewish community in Amsterdam. The assembly will be held in the oldest clubs of the public high schools at the Leventritt Hall of the Temple Emanuel, 1 East 66th Street, New York City. It is an extensive program of Jewish educational activity among high school students.

Non-Nazi Reich Press Mourns Prof. Haber

Famous Chemist's Death At Basle Stirs Newspapers To Eulogies

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—The entire German press, with the exception of the regular Nazi papers, is mourning the death of Professor Fritz Haber, noted German scientist, whose death in Basle was announced. Professor Haber was a converted Jew, having been baptized some years ago.

"Germany and the entire world has lost in Haber the leading chemist of our generation," the B. Z. am Mittag, leading Berlin morning paper, declared editorially.

Professor Haber, who was born in Breslau, was educated in the universities of Berlin, Heidelberg and Charlottenburg. He was a distinguished scientist against Jewish professors and those descended from Jews. Professor Haber was exempted by the Nazis, in view of his distinguished service to Germany during the World War and because of his notable contributions to the prestige of German science. But Professor Haber fought the Nazis' attempt to oust his two Jewish assistants and resigned when they were dismissed.

Dr. Haber was the man who discovered the process for the fixation of nitrogen, which enabled the Germans to fight on even after Germany's supply of nitrogen, essential for the manufacture of high explosives, was shut off by the British blockade. He was also the chief adviser on gas to the German General staff and always in the front line of his service. He followed in 1915, and gas was used on a different scale, the war would have been over in 1915.

When he resigned last year, Professor Haber was Professor at the University of Berlin and Director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Inorganic Chemistry.

Holzman Elected Head Of Omaha Jewish Center

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)
OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 4.—William L. Holzman, outstanding communal leader, was unanimously re-elected president of the Omaha Jewish Community Center and Welfare Federation at the annual election of officers last week.

Classified Advertising

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

No advertisement will be inserted unless accompanied by remittance. Replies will be mailed to you as received.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

Read the Minimum charge 60¢ for 20 words. Count five words to a line. Count box number as one line.

THE BULLETIN'S DAY BOOK

While the Jews of Austria retain their faith in the nose too friendly Dolfuss government, considering it the lesser of two evils, a new figure stalks into the spotlight on a true blood score. He is the "iron man" who stands at the right hand of the valiant little ruler of a valiant little state. Major Emil Fey, vice-chancellor of Austria, war hero and bitter foe of Nazi fascism, has been given blanket authority to stamp out Austrian Hitlerism in high places and low.

Thus another name comes to the fore to be written into the history of these chaotic days; Major Fey, outspoken, ruthless, strong, may be called the Goering of Austria. But Fey the world war Queen Maria Theresa, something of a sportsman, offered a medal to that one among her generals who would disobey a superior officer and get away with it. The medal's alternative, of course, was death. Like the bold prince, in some child's story, who goes out to kill the dragon which has already done away with a number of other brave young men who went before, Major Fey disobeyed his commander, won his battle, captured court martial and got the queen's medal.

Anti-Nazis in Austria are still relating the tale of the Heintzenberg parade which two husky Nazis, Major Fey was passing at the head of his troops, "Phoozy!" they cried or something to that effect. Major Fey did not bat an eye or miss a step; but he gave the command to attack. Then, while his men stood at attention, quite grudgingly and efficiently, Major Fey strode over to the two confidently jeering Nazis, knocked down one and then the other, turned the story in New York on Wednesday and said the Austrian equivalent of "Forward!"

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, president of the American Friends of the Hebrew University, was reported by the Bulletin as having addressed a large meeting of Hadassah at the Hotel Astor in New York on Wednesday. While the gist of his talk dealt with the need for enlarged facilities which has been made even more imperative by the influx of German refugee scientists at Mount Scopus, still it is good to hear from Dr. Rosenbach in these turbulent days.

For Dr. Rosenbach is a man whom turbulence sweeps by without effect upon his unflinching and gentle mien. He is distinctly an aesthete, a connoisseur. As the world's greatest and most sensibly extravagant buyer of rare books and valuable manuscripts, Dr. Rosenbach, bibliophile in the grand manner, has spent over twenty-five million dollars in ten years. To show for this vast sum, he has what at first glance would appear to be simply an extraordinarily large collection of plain and frequently old-looking volumes, plus a neat pile of yellowed papers.

But among these papers, most costly of them all in fact, is his original certified copy of the Declaration of Independence and of the Articles of Confederation. The dailies devoted a great deal of space some years ago to Dr. Rosenbach's purchase of the manuscript of Alice in Wonderland for $75,000. Some went off into editorials on the folly of an individual's spending such a tidy fortune on what, after all, was primarily a museum piece. But Dr. Rosenbach resold "Alice" for $150,000.

When Dr. Rosenbach travels to Europe it is not unlike the repeated sackings of Rome in ancient times. The wary guardians of old world treasures must puff their choicest items, and cup their hands to ward off the raid. But Dr. Rosenbach is a shrewd collector. In his home are four Shakespearean plays and forty-one of the Elizabethan's original quartos which are valued at $985,000, the result of a particularly successful foray.

Though he originally intended to become a professor at the University of Pennsylvania in the city of Philadelphia where he was born, he went one day to the book shop owned by his uncle, Moses Polak. A bibliophile was created then and there in that bulging red-brick structure on Commerce Street. At the age of eleven he took ten dollars to a book auction at Stan V. Henkle's and bid twenty-four dollars on a copy of "Reynard the Fox." When the book was knocked down to him he confessed to being fourteen dollars short. "But I am the nephew of Dr. Rosenbach," he said. "Good enough," declared Henkle, "Here's your book on easy payments. Gentlemen, behold the baby bibliophile!"

Well, the baby bibliophile has matured into America's foremost book collector and if you go to his home you will find a thousand treasures all accumulated and cared for by this very unusual Jewish book-pirate.

High Commissioner McDonald knows his job in dealing with the problem of German refugees. Few Americans, or, for that matter, citizens of any nation, have had wider opportunities for first hand study of international developments in every part of the globe. He has gone abroad on some major political mission every year since the war. Better than any man living, he qualifies for the title of "The Wandering Gentle." He differs from the traditional peregrinator of the highways-of-eternity in that he is welcomed everywhere, respected and heeded.

At Geneva and in the capitals of Europe and the Orient he has met the outstanding political personalities of our time. Lavie, Herriot, Mussolini, Gandhi, Manryk, Venetia, Chang Kai Shek and his namesake Ramsay MacDonald are some of the pivotal figures of contemporary history that he has worked with on some diplomatic problem or another.

High Commissioner McDonald was born in Ohio, studied at Indiana University where he later served as professor of history and political science, on which subjects he also lectured at Harvard and Radcliffe. In 1919 he became chairman of the Foreign Policy Association, a national organization of more than 10,000 members.

N.R.T.

PAUL MUNI

Playing in "Hi, Nellie" at the Strand Theatre

THE CINEMA

By Frederick V. Seane

Cinema entertainment this week ranges from France in the latter part of the nineteenth century to a modern version of what goes on behind the telephone switchboard.

At the Music Hall, Samuel Goldwyn, via United Artists, presents "Nana" which apologetically purports to have been suggested by that vibrant realistic novel of Emil Zola's of the same name. When the great French novelist set out to write his repudiation of French life he picked "Nana" to represent the sensuality of Paris. His character was a woman whose touch was fatal. She brought nothing but ruin to the men she knew and she was obviously the symbol of lust. In this picture, in which the Russian star,

Anna Sten, plays the leading role, Nana is made into nothing more than a typical movie "bad woman" who, when she is confronted with the low two brothers, conveniently shoots herself, after which she makes a speech uniting these two lovelorn sons and then dies. It is a sloppy, sentimental piece, markedly directed, and well acted.

It catches the spirit of Paris realistically. The dialogue, what little there is of it, is particularly flat and uninspired. Anna Sten, however, charming as herself but to anyone who has read "Nana," must come the realization that she never should have been cast for this part. The original Nana was a robust, sexy, Julesque type of woman. Miss Sten is slight, delicate and at times almost spiritless.

Before we get to that telephone switchboard drama mentioned above, I must report that Paul Muni's new picture "Hi Nellie" now at the Strand, is a rather, entertaining comedy of newspaper life with Muni playing the part of the harassed but fearless "advice to the love-lorn" editor. In substance, the picture takes somewhat the same form as Lee Tracy's "Advice to the Lovelorn" but Muni's fine acting, spirit and competence in the more intense moments saves the somewhat feeble story from mediocrity. It is quite melodramatic, with gangsters, fires, murders all working into the general plot. Mervyn Le Roy is responsible for the directing which is another way of saying that it is a well-made picture, but I do wish a story could be found for Muni in which his great talents as an actor might find freer play.

At the Capitol, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer offer "You Can't Have Everything." May Robson, a veteran with fifty years of stage and screen experience behind her, is given the lead. She plays the part of a parsimonious old woman who although enormously wealthy, is so stingy that she even makes her son's clothes. What plot there is concerns this young man's love for the daughter of one of his mother's girlhood sweethearts. She, of course, is outraged by her son's attempt at independence but in the end she loosens up and the spirit of good will prevails. It is not a really bad picture. The acting, especially by Miss Robson, is above par but the story is after all nothing more than a variation of the old Hitty Green theme.

"I've Got Your Number", which Warner Brothers produced and which is the feature at the Roxy is the screen version of what goes on in the technical department of a telephone company. It is a good idea, and well done. Through the eyes of two repair men you are shown a sort of bicyclic view of life in a great city. These fellows go about breaking into all sorts of private places to fix telephones. Pat O'Brien, as one of these "fixers", is responsible for the comedy and his fast and lively acting keeps the audience's interest. There are a great many complications in the story including the sight of one of the telephone operators (Joan Blondell) who is accused of stealing bonds and how she is vindicated is reasonably well worked out.

Theatre and Cinema Notes

"The Ghoul", starring Boris Karloff, has been held over for another week at the Rialto. This is the "horror" story of what happened to an old Egyptologist when he found himself in possession of what is supposed to be a magic jewel.

Although they have threatened to close a number of times, it is now officially announced that this will be the last week (positively) of the New York of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. The season's Russian ballet has been unusually successful and the only reason Mr. Harok is closing the run is because the ballet is scheduled to make a tour of the country and must be back in Europe by April.

The stage show at the Music Hall is one of the best that has appeared in that little house for some time but why the audience is not informed who the performers are is a little hard to explain.

Benny Ross, the mimic, heads the entertainment on the stage at the Roxy this week. Other performers on the bill are Barney Grant, the closing run of Hippo Minor and Edward Root, dancers and the St. Regis Trroupe.

Hebrew Music Discussed

"Ancient Hebrew Music", by Dr. Benno Grunbaum, director of the Temple of the Covenant, tracing the origin, religious development and traditions of Hebrew music, constitutes one of the leading articles in the February issue of Tempo.

Artists to Honor Loblov

Bela Loblov, popular Hungarian Jewish violinist, will be guest of honor at the Hungarian Artists Ball, to be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, on February 10. Loblov will appear with his "Reunion in Vienna" ensemble.

THE "BUNDLING" HIT — "THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS"

Story, by ALICE KAPLAN. Screenplay by ALICE KAPLAN and GEORGE KATZ. Directed by ALICE KAPLAN. Cast: AVON TAYLOR, GEORGE KATZ, ALICE KAPLAN. Run: 100. Price: $1 to $2.50. Mat. $75c to $2.50. E. S. & S. 3-20-32

THE ART OF MUSICAL RUSSIA, Inc.
Announcing
OPERA IN RUSSIAN IN
"Boris Godunov"
TONIGHT at 8:30
Tomorrow Eve. "LE COQ D'OR"
Wed. Eve. "ANTHONY AND JOE"
COMPANY OF 196
PRICES: 50c to $2. EXCEPT
Every Evening includes EXCEPT
CASINO THEATRE, 7th Ave. & 59th St.
Tel. 4-5487
Stetson Palace

MARY PICKFORD VISITS BROOKLYN

Mary Pickford and Boris Morros, managing director of New York and Brooklyn Paramount Theatres. This picture was taken in connection with Miss Pickford's appearance at the Brooklyn Paramount this week. This is Miss Pickford's last appearance in the East.

Ministering Functions Of Religion Is Subject Of Goldenson Sermon

New Emanuel Spiritual Head
Discusses Three Sides
Of Ideal Creed

Discussing the "Ministering Functions of Religion," Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson delivered an inspiring sermon at Temple Emanuel, El Fifth Avenue and 65th Street, Saturday morning.

Dr. Goldenson was welcomed by the president of the congregation Judge Irving Lehman, who revealed that Dr. Goldenson had asked that there should be no formal ceremony marking his induction. "I am happy indeed to be welcomed to the leadership of this congregation," Dr. Goldenson said. "I am happy because it marks for me a greater responsibility. I hope you will want to see the services most earnestly. I believe in the communion of hearts, of life, and of soul. I shall stand here in your pulpit and what you say will be determined by your wants, your response and your sympathy."

Turning to the discussion of the three aspects of religion, Dr. Goldenson said that the first aspect was the cosmological one. "We must speak of God in relation to the universe, the Creator, the Architect of the universe." The second point, he said, was that of soul and spirit, and the third point of view and social program.

"And there is a third quality of religion," he added, "which is perhaps the most important and most significant for human life. This quality, he pointed out, was the personal aspect, "religion as a personal experience, as it appeals to the individual and changes him to a personality." The third quality, he declared, were addressed not to the group, but to the individual.

Dr. Goldenson took the question of character. "What is character?" he asked. "Character is belief or the possessor character. Let me look into the word character, break it into its ingredient parts, and see whether we are really men and women of character."

"There is something distinctive and noteworthy about an individual who is described as a character. The amount of power he has a certain amount of power. He is one who lifts himself above the rest and becomes a character. He possesses power and power only, independence and independence only, freedom and freedom only."

"Another requisite of character," Rabbi Goldenson said, is dependence. "We are dependent on what we use only when we can predict it. There is no position small enough not to require controlled power. Power is controlled power. We are stable members of our community."

Virtue Consecrates Power
The third requisite, according to Dr. Goldenson, is that the controlled power must be directed to worthy "Virtue," he said, "is only the consecration of power."

There are two tests, Rabbi Goldenson asserted, by which we can discover whether or not we have virtue. The first is whether we are the other external. The first we make by asking ourselves "upon what occasion we men and women come to me—only in insignificant, lighter social occasions, or do we are impressed upon them our sincerity and goodness of heart."

"The external test is that of asking ourselves whether we are living up to his professions. He said, for example, we profess as Americans to love liberty. But do we love America enough to love liberty for someone else? Do we have the courage to eye with us on questions of the structure of society or the economic order?"

"We are Jews, and as Jews we have a great profession, a great

Use to Emanuel-El

Caplan, Conn. Jewish Leader, Dead at 52

State Senator Laid Papers on Yale Campus; Later Law
School Graduate

(Jewish Daily Bulletin)

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 4.—Senator Jacob Caplan, one of Connecticut's outstanding Jews, died here at the home yesterday after a year's illness. Senator Caplan, who was 52 years old, was elected to the State Senate in 1931 and reelected in 1933. In the present Legislature he was a member of many important committees.

Born in Russia Senator Caplan came to America at the age of four. At a boy he held papers on the Yale campus where he was later to graduate from law school. Founder of the Jewish Home for Children in New Haven, Senator Caplan was a leading figure here in Jewish philanthropy.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at the Jewish Home for Children with burial in B'nai Jacob Cemetery, Westville. Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Fannie Kornish Caplan, two sons, a brother and two sisters.

Ping Pong Tourney at "Y"

Entrants tonight in the first annual New York State men's table tennis championship at the State YM-HA, include Marcus Schussheim, former national champion; Sidney Heitner, present national title holder; Sol Schiff, Manhattan champion, and Arthur Starn, runner-up to Heitner in the last national tourney. The contest ends tomorrow night.

RABBI SAMUEL H. GOLDENSON

Funeral Services Held For Dr. Sachs, Educator

Dr. Julius Sachs, who died Friday at his home, 225 West 80th Street, was buried yesterday in Solem Fields Cemetery. He was founder of the Sachs School for Girls and the Sachs School for Boys. Among his students have been Governor Herbert H. Lehman, Judge Irving Lehman, Walter Lippman, and Dr. Hans Zinsner of Harvard University. Dr. Sachs leaves the widow, a son, Dr. Ernst Sachs, and a daughter, Mrs. Dora S. Somers.

PREACHED IN CITY PULPITS

"One of the problems that is frequently discussed in religion is whether God has created man or the converse—namely, man has created God in his image," declared Rabbi Joseph Zeitlin to the congregation of Temple Anshe Chesed, West End Avenue and 100th Street. "This seemingly innocent speculation has come to a most serious conclusion, only recently when a Herr Chancellor in Germany ventured to foist his new conception of the Godhead upon his people. There is a great danger that a manufactured deity will be the cause of the evils of race-hatred, bigotry, depression and moral degeneracy. It is well for us to fortify ourselves in our religious beliefs and traditions if we would that civilization be not placed in the precarious position of being overturned. Would that we taste of and appreciate the blessings that religion offers us."

Contrasts Hitler and Roosevelt
Discussing "A Roosevelt Anniversary and a Hitler Anniversary," Dr. Israel Goldstein told the congregation of B'nai Tzedek, 80th Street and Broadway, the two anniversaries "have provided an opportunity to estimate not only two contrasted personalities but two conflicting currents of optimism and pessimism touching humanity's progress. These two times, he declared, are pressing spiritually even more than materially, one consolation we may offer ourselves is that there are still great countries to which the spirit of Hitler's Germany alien. Roosevelt's America is today one of the two bright spots in the world picture. The other bright spot is the United States. The first time in fifteen years there is definite signs that its new economic order can hold its own in comparison with other countries. As such social phenomena as are taking place today in these two countries, counterbalance the impressions made by Hitler's hatred-ridden Germany, and inspire hope and faith in human progress."

"I have chosen this as the opening subject in my ministry in this congregation," he said, "that the ultimate solution of the problem of life lies here. We live in a ready-made world, and we are always looking for an instrumentality that would solve our problems for us."

King Urges U. S. to Aid European Jewry

(Continued From Page 1)

alization laws be loosened so that immigrants be permitted to enter this country under bond. A communication was read from Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, reading in part as follows: "Of course for many years I have known of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society and of its work in the field of immigration. But I have had increasing contacts with your society and have an even keener appreciation of the effective way in which it performs its function."

"You have done a notable service in aiding newcomers to this land, in saving them from exploitation and in helping them to make adjustment to a new environment. In doing such a splendid piece of work you have rendered a singular benefit not only to Jews but to all people of this country. It is our common concern that qualified newcomers shall quickly become an integral part of American life. I congratulate you and your organization and look forward to another year of fruitful cooperation between the HIAS and the Department of Labor."

Other speakers included Abraham Herman, president of HIAS; Max J. Kohler, representing B'nai Brith; Samuel A. Teley, director of HIAS; Dr. H. H. Weizmann, John I. Bernstein; Charles E. Wyznanski, Jr., solicitor of the Department of Labor; Sol Polokoff, chairman of HIAS council of organizations; Jacob Fishman, managing editor of the Jewish Morning Journal, and Jacob Massell.

Cases Immigration Improvements
Mr. Wyznanski said that the inscription of the Roosevelt administration "new life has been infused into our political and economic structure" and in many fields the "new Deal" has brought about fundamental revision of old laws."

In his annual message Mr. Herman spoke of the work of the HIAS organizations in twenty-two countries. He said in refugee relief work HIAS has been extended not only to Jewish expatriates but to members of other faiths, including Catholics and Protestants. He said that HIAS worked hand in hand with the Ica and Emigridirect organizations, technical contractors for the Jewish Council of America and the Jewish Emigration Committee respectively, in the interest of aliens everywhere. The bodies have been cooperating with High Commissioner James H. Doolittle, of the League of Nations, in seeking to find haven for the victims of the Nazi repressions.

Direct service was rendered to 80,000 refugees in 1933. In 1934, he said, more than $300,000 was expended in the work.

BULLETIN CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Monday, February 5th
Women's League, 24 West 46th St., 7:30 p.m., bridge, mah jong and pack-a-mama.
Hotel Plaza, 5th Ave. and 59th St., 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday, February 6th
Brooklyn Jewish Center, 627 East 11th St., 8:00 p.m., speaker, Samuel D. Schmalzstein.
Congregation Shearar Torah, 223 Bedford Ave., Brooklyn, joint meeting of men's and women's groups, Irving Davidson, "Jewish Humor."

Wednesday, February 7th
Palestine Light House benefit performance, 100 West 24th St., 8:00 p.m., "Passe Drenas Fairlight," evening.

Thursday, February 8th
"The Reaction to Immigration—Race, Nationality and Religion," by Dr. David M. Reiss, 138 East 109th St., 8:00 p.m., evening.

Regular meeting of board of trustees, Temple Sinai, Arlington Ave. and Bedford St., Brooklyn, evening.

Station WBNK, address by Professor Edwin W. Carey, St. Lawrence University, 945-10th St., 8:00 p.m., "The Jewish Question," 9:45-10:30 p.m., auspices Young People's Union of America.

Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association of Washington Heights, 170th St. and Mott St., 8:00 p.m., beginning course in conversational Hebrew, evening.

Council Plans Drive To Aid Refugees

(Continued From Page 1)

men Jews in Palestine and for the Karen Hayes.

(3) That the Council of Jewish Organizations in Palestine, be given "wholehearted support and our sincerest cooperation in their efforts in becoming visit to the United States."

(4) That the organization devote one day each year on its calendar to "Palestine Day" and that it disseminate information on the industrial development of Palestine and that a per capita tax be levied on the membership for building up Palestine.

In his address Mr. Straus spoke of the "wholesale persecution of the Jews of Germany" as having created a crisis in the Jewish world. He met, he insisted, by "concerted action on all fronts."

Mr. Medalle discussed the plight of the Jewish children in Germany, said that plans for their rescue are being formulated and that once established in the Holy Land their training will be educational and receive a "new happier life for them."

Mr. Medalle referred to Palestine as "the burning relief in Jewish life." The small country on the shores of the Mediterranean, "has become a most vital factor in world Jewish problems," and he assailed the "ironic fate" of German Jews who made up the "wealth of the nation. He deplored the fact that they are called inferior by "a virtually insensible people."

Mr. Bernstein devoted his address to a plea he directed at the British government which he petitioned to "open the doors of Palestine to the Jews of the Mediterranean."

Mr. Bernstein declared that Britain's delay in fulfilling the Balfour Declaration "has unfortunately become a source of Jewish antagonism." He said that "the Jewish Agency" and "super-Chauvinistic agitators and firebrands among the Arabs who have led the masses to believe that England had promised to the Jewish people."

Jacob Fishman, editor of the Jewish Morning Journal, and president of the Council of Jewish Organizations on Palestine, who acted as chairman of the conference, declared that the Jews of the United States must respond to the need for assistance in the same measure that it has done in the past when Jews in Europe were made the victims of oppression.

The situation of the Jews in Germany under the Hitler regime was described in detail by Dr. S. Margoshes, editor of The Day, who reviewed the situation of the Jews in Europe after making an extensive survey of the Jewish problem.

Among the other speakers were Judge Benjamin E. Greenspan, president of the Council of Jewish Organizations in New York; Max Silverstein, Grand Master of the Independent Order B'nai Abraham; and Simon Goldsmith, Grand Master of the B'nai B'rith of Israel.

Judge Benjamin E. Greenspan was elected president of the Council of Jewish Organizations on Palestine to succeed Mr. Fishman. Mr. Medalle was elected vice-president and Magistrate Goldstein was chosen honorary vice-chairman.

Dr. Grayzel to Lecture

Dr. Solomon Grayzel, instructor of Jewish History at the Gratz College in Philadelphia, will deliver four lectures on "Judaism and Christianity" at the Gratz College of Israel, Brooklyn Jewish Center, 627 East 11th Ave., Brooklyn.

Star Hebrew Book Co.

195-200 Canal St., New York
Call for our publications on 2-6888
We have a large stock of books, call on us.
Telephone: WORTK 2-6888