Ambassador Bingham

THE interview with Ambassador Bingham in yesterday's Jewish Daily Bulletin contains several illuminating statements.

Ambassador Bingham said in reference to the German situation that "the Jewish persecutions is not, in my belief, religious, but economic."

With regard to Palestine he said:

"Immigration into Palestine should be liberalized. In addition, on account of the situation particularly in Germany, there is more reason now than ever before for immigration into Palestine. It is natural and proper that Palestine should be the national homeland of the Jewish people, and every facility possible should be provided to enable them to go there."

In denouncing the Silver Shirts and other anti-Jewish groups in this country, Ambassador Bingham said:

"I do not believe that anti-Semitism will ever gain a foothold in America. The fury in the United States today, I believe is small and of relative insignificance. The general attitude of religious tolerance and respect for the Jewish people here is too great for anti-Semitism to assume any real proportions."

The statements from an American holding the foremost diplomatic post abroad are significant, especially in view of the fact that American diplomats and attaches are justified in believing they say for publication.

The Ambassador's remarks concerning the cause of the anti-Jewish persecutions in Germany, describing it as economic rather than religious, is only partly correct. The anti-Jewish persecutions and discriminations under the Hitler regime are justified by the Nazis chiefly on racial grounds. A false and absurd theory of "pure Aryanism" has been made the basis of the attacks on the Jews. In addition to this, the exploded myths employed by anti-Semites in the past in various lands have been revived by the Nazis. The Jews are blamed for the war and for the peace. The Jews are attacked as capitalists and as radicals. The Jews are blamed for the political and economic ills of the world. In other countries these pretexts have also been used in the past, but not all at the same time, as is now being done by the Nazi government.

Ambassador Bingham's statement concerning a more liberal policy with regard to Palestine is particularly interesting. It is quite clear that at this time the British Government, as the mandatory power in Palestine, is expected to adopt a policy of greater helpfulness in the matter of Jewish immigration into Palestine. It would be not only logical, but also a symbol of good will.

8 Entry Ban Bills Heard By Dickstein

Will Study New Alien Rule

(Special to the J.D.B.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Eight bills all of which are designed to restrict further immigration in the United States are scheduled to come up for hearing before the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, Representative Samuel Dickstein, committee chairman, announced today.

Representative Dickstein, a liberal on immigration laws, will preside at the hearings. The New York member of Congress has set aside March 6 for proponents of these bills to appear before the committee to testify. Opponents of the bills which seek to restrict immigration are asked to appear before the committee on March 7.

"In the interest of orderly procedure all interested to appear before the committee are requested to plan to testify on these days as indicated," he said.

"The clerk of the committee should be notified promptly and before the date of the hearings of the names and affiliations of all persons desiring to submit oral testimony at hearings. Should additional time be necessary to permit all testimony to be heard, announcement will be made in ample time giving all facts regarding when the committee will sit after dates stated."

The eight bills on which the public hearings are scheduled are:

H. R. 109, introduced by Representative Blanton of Texas, prohibiting immigration of all aliens for ten years.
H. R. 133, introduced by Representative Jenkins of Ohio, reducing immigration quotas of all countries now having a quota to one per cent of present figure, but permitting a minimum quota of one hundred; and establishing an immigration quota for all countries in the Western Hemisphere; suspending non-quota status to natives of those countries and permitting a minimum quota of one hundred; permitting the Secretary of Labor to select certain classes of aliens for non-quota status on occasional basis.

H. R. 1616, introduced by Representative Jeffers of Alabama, suspending immigration of all aliens except those permitted to come under this act, mainly admission of immigrants having non-quota status.

H. R. 2843, introduced by Representative Green of Florida, prohibiting immigration of all aliens after thirty days.

H. R. 2843, also introduced by Mr. Green, reducing immigration quota of all countries having a quota to one per cent of existing quota, allowing a minimum quota of one hundred; establishing an immigration quota for all countries in the Western Hemisphere and suspending non-quota status of those countries; permitting the Secretary of Labor to select certain classes of aliens for non-quota status.

Dollfuss Cautioned By Mussolini About Jews

Eyes on Austria

Premier Watches Austrian Situation Closely; Vienna Institutes News Censorship—Constitutional Revisions Near

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy advised Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria not to curb the rights of the Jews, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned today from authoritative sources. Fulvio Suvich, Italian Under Secretary of State, who has visited Vienna twice in the last few weeks, delivered the advice to the Austrian Chancellor.

The Italian Premier is watching the Jewish situation in Austria very closely and instructed Under Secretary Suvich to inform Chancellor Dollfuss. It is learned, Dollfuss informed Suvich that the Austrian government contemplates no specific measures against the Jews, a declaration he has repeated frequently since the crushing of the Austrian Socialists. He has hoped that this could prevent the government from revising the Austrian constitution and admitted that the proposed revision may affect the Jews.

Officials of more than ninety trade and professional groups comprising the Trade and Membership Council, money-raising organization of the Federation, and Federation officials and leaders, attended the meeting. Council units accepted quotas last night and representatives proclaimed their intention of raising every cent called for in the allotments.

Supreme Court Justice Mitchell M. president of the Federation, said:

Arab Named Gov't Advocate For Palestine

Former Secretary of Wauchope Succeeds Layman F. Elliott

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
LONDON, Feb. 27.—Mussa Elalami, Palestinian Arab, former assistant government advocate and recently one of High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope's private secretaries, has been appointed government advocate for Palestine in place of the late Layman Farr Elliott. It was announced here today.

Elliott, who secured the conviction of three members of the Arab Executive in connection with the riots of last October, was run down and severely injured by an automobile on December 5. He died in a hospital later. The Moslem Negro driver was later convicted of manslaughter.

In reply to a question in the House of Commons from Colonel Josiah Wedgwood on this first appointment of a non-British to the post, Malcolm MacDonald, parliamentary secretary for Dominions, said that Elalami was appointed not because of his relationship to anyone, but because (Continued on Page Eight)

He has hoped that this could prevent the government from revising the Austrian constitution and admitted that the proposed revision may affect the Jews.

A censorship was clamped down on news from Vienna today, particularly on references to troop movements or to reports of a Hapsburg restoration in Austria. Reports emanating from Vienna suggest that the promulgation of a new constitution proclaiming Austria a Christian state will take place in the next two weeks. The proposed constitution has been under consideration by a small committee of the Austrian cabinet and will be submitted to the full cabinet within the next few days.

Won't Convoke Parliament
The Berliner Boersen Zeitung says that the Austrian parliament, dissolved by Dollfuss more than a year ago, will not be convoked for its formal approval of the new constitution. According to the Boersen Zeitung, Dollfuss himself will approve the document through the emergency decree under which his government is ruling.

An Austrian war flood today with rumors ranging from a restoration of the Hapsburgs in Austria, which the governments of Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugoslavia have announced will be regarded as a cause for war, to rumors of heavy troop movements on the border and even a rumor of a pact between the Dollfuss and German Nazi governments.

According to rumors current here the agreements between the Nazis and the Austrian government will be announced within the next twenty-four hours.

Negotiations Under Way
It is understood that the attempt to negotiate between the German and Austrian governments are under way and prospects of success in the negotiations are regarded as good. Observers are of the opinion that simultaneous communiques from Berlin and Vienna announcing the end of strife between the two governments may be expected at any moment.

One of the conditions of peace between the Austrian and German governments was the dismissal or transfer of Theodor Habicht, Nazi Inspector General.

Palestine Boom Not Temporary, Says Neumann

Prosperity in Holy Land There to Stay—Big Industry Is Citrus

Palestine's present prosperity is not an artificial boom likely to collapse at any moment, but rests upon the solid foundations of the sound development of Palestine agriculture, industry and commerce latterly augmented by German refugees with capital resources and industrial training and experience, it was stated at a meeting of the American Economic Committee for Palestine held last night at the Park Royal Hotel, by Emanuel Neumann, former member of the World Zionist Executive, who recently returned from Palestine.

"There is a certain amount of inflation and speculation in real estate," said Mr. Neumann, "which is induced by the abnormal demand arising from the large immigration, but at bottom Palestine's prosperity rests upon solid foundations, and that is the opinion of the most competent business men and economists in Palestine today."

"There has been much expansion in the orange industry, the increased shipments of oranges every spring bringing money into the country. The production of citrus fruits this year will come to about five and one-half million cases, and will increase during the next year or two to approximately a million cases per annum."

"Thereafter there is going to be a jump when the large number of orange groves planted in the last three or four years will bear fruit, so that between 1940 and 1942 the crop will probably exceed 20 million cases. 'Then Palestine is rapidly becoming one of the most important orange producing countries in the world. The growers as well as the government are alive to the problem of marketing the increasing crops, and this year for the first time a substantial export program has been made by the government for advertising the Jaffa orange in European markets."

"American oranges do not seriously conflict with the sale of the Palestine orange because they are sold at different seasons of the year. The only substantial competitor is the Spanish orange, but Spain cannot increase its output appreciably because all the soil suitable for citrus cultivation there is already being exploited. Careful calculations which have been made indicate that even if there should be a moderate drop in prices, the orange plantations will still pay."

Chaplain Lauds Heroism of Jewish Police Officers

Discusses Shomrim Organization in Interview

There is a bronze plaque in the lobby of Police Headquarters inscribed with the names of men who died in the performance of duty. The names include those of John Singer, Morris Borkin and Sergeant Sam Kantor. The circumstances of their death are part of the annals of the department.

In an interview yesterday the Jewish chaplain for the Police Department, Rabbi Isidore Frank, reminisced about the three heroes and his twelve years in the department, which he joined during Commissioner Enright's term. He told in simple manner how the three detectives met their death.

"Borkin and I came from a meeting of the Shomrim Society, made up of Jewish members on the force," said Dr. Frank. "We went in for coffee and a sandwich. We spoke of many things, most of them inconsequential."

"He had to get back on duty that evening, and was sent on a scouting tour of the neighborhood around Forsythe street. He was accompanied by Sergeant Kantor. I remember that Borkin used to tell me that if ever he got into a tight spot, he would get in a 'good shot'."

"The two men were shot in a restaurant holdup which they had anticipated bunking into that night. Borkin was shot first. The two were caught. One of them was killed by Borkin. I think it was the same man who put a bullet into my back."

Talks of Singer

Dr. Frank performed the wedding ceremony of John Singer, a detective on the force. Three years later Singer succeeded in capturing a Negro auto thief, which, whom he found in virtual starvation. Before taking the culprit to police headquarters, Singer bought him a meal. Then both proceeded to police headquarters.

"The colored man told Singer that he wanted to get up for a drink of water," said Dr. Frank. "As soon as the policeman's back was turned, the Negro tore out of his pocket and shot him in the back, killing him. Singer died instantly. The murderer was declared insane."

The task job of Isidore Frank is to direct the destiny of the Shomrim Society, which he founded nearly ten years ago with an initial membership of seventeen men. At that time there were hardly more than two score Jewish policemen on the force, and they didn't know each other very well. Fellowship, only possible in an organized group with well-defined activities, is non-existent.

750 Members

The society today boasts an enrollment of 750. It does its share for charity, Zionism, and takes a deep interest in Jewish affairs. A cemetery is maintained for deceased members at Springfield, L. I., and regular monthly meetings are held where there is general discussion and a carefully planned agenda. The highlight of its program is to promote a religious spirit among Jewish police officers.

Aided Palestine Project

One of the things of which the Shomrim Society is proud is its contribution to a fund for planting eucalyptus trees in Palestine as a George Washington memorial at the bi-centennial celebration in 1932.

William R. Wittenberg is president of the Shomrim, Jacob Levitt, recording secretary; Hyman Weinstein and Joseph Goldstein, vice-presidents; Samuel Florsien, financial secretary; Harry Schreiber, treasurer, and Albert Pollack, sergeant-at-arms.

Dr. Frank is the assistant rabbi at Mount Nebo Congregation, 130 West Seventy-ninth street. He was born in Poland and was the son of Rabbi Eleazar Frank. He came to the United States at the age of thirteen and studied for the rabbinate under private tutelage. In addition to his routine work in the Police Department, he is chaplain at Randall's Island and worked for the interest of immigrants with the Hebrew Immigration Aid Society.

Emma, F. D., Moscow, All Work in Harmony—Pelley

Emma Goldman, Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, President Roosevelt, John Haynes Holmes, Bishop George Shagheymis, Mayor LaGuardia, and their revolutionary brothers—they're all working in harmony. That is the only conclusion William Dudley Pelley can arrive at after reading a single issue of the Jewish Daily Bulletin. It got him so excited that he devoted a full page to the Bulletin in the latest issue of Liberation. In fact, all the news in the Bulletin got him excited.

Thus the gods of the Silver Shirt heaven laughed loudly when they read of Jews changing their names in the papers, in order to have real Hebrew patronymics. This is the cause of "considerable humor" to Silver Shirts across the nation,

Senator Barbour Aids Tydings Bill

Says in Letter to Newark Zionist He Will Back Measure in House

(Special to the J.D.B.)

I shall do all I can, therefore, to have this resolution acted upon as promptly as possible."

United States Senator Hamilton F. Keon wrote to Mr. Kraemer: "I have your interesting letter in regard to the Tydings' Resolution. When this bill comes before the Senate for discussion, I shall be glad to bear in mind this expression of opinion."

New Jersey Jews Tell of History

200th Anniversary Is the Subject of Reminiscence at Dinner

(Special to the J.D.B.)
MONTCLAIR, N. J., Feb. 27.—Jewish citizens here recently held a dinner to commemorate the 200th year of the settlement in New Jersey of Jewish people.

Jacques Rieur, a member of the community, in relating the historical significance of the occasion told how Isaac Mosse of Passaic, whose parents settled in that section of New Jersey in 1734, was the donor of $15,000 to Washington's Army and wrote a draft, which was endorsed by John Hancock and Samuel Adams for the relief of besieged citizens of Boston.

Laudatory references to the part played by Jews in the life of the state during the past two centuries were made by State Senator Wolber, Mayor Carlson, Town Commissioners Adams and Picken, Mrs. Leon H. Franklin, prominent advocate of world peace and disarmament; Rabbi Solomon Foster, of Newark; Rabbi Max Rabin, of Jersey; and Harry Mada and Nathan Whitfield, both of Montclair.

Synagogue Case To Be Aired by Supreme Court

Justice Miller Will Hear Argument by Officials Over Books

Supreme Court Justice Julius Miller yesterday denied an application for a peremptory mandamus asked by Lieber Grill, president of the Clinton Street Synagogue, to force Samuel Selkowitz, secretary, to surrender the account books of the congregation. Justice Miller issued an alternative writ which will subject the officials of the synagogue to litigation in open court on an unspecified date.

The dispute in progress between Selkowitz and Grill was provoked at the December 1933 election of the synagogue at which the secretary refused to surrender the books on the ground that Grill and other officers are indebted to the treasury for a sum totaling $3,450, and thereby are no longer empowered to act as officers. Grill promptly declared the secretary office vacant and appointed another secretary.

In an affidavit submitted to Justice Miller, Selkowitz said he is secretary of the synagogue, which also bears the name Congregation Czenstochauer Chasam Solomon. He claimed he was the "sole and chief officer of the congregation" and announced his intention of transacting the business and calling meetings in accordance with the instructions of the court. Selkowitz says in the affidavit that Milton Solomon, elected secretary at a special meeting of the board of directors, is holding office illegally and that the whole slate, headed by Grill, is acting as officers.

The officers named as defendants with Grill included Solomon, Selkowitz, Sam Goldberg and Harry Wilchinsky.

Countercharges were brought against Selkowitz by the board headed by Grill. Selkowitz claims in the Essex Street Court alleging he withheld the private account books of the congregation.

The charges were dismissed. A second summons was served and is on the calendar for April 6.

Samuel Lovett, counsel for Selkowitz, with offices at 645 Fifth avenue, had asked the Supreme Court under section twenty-five of the General Corporations law to decide who is legally the secretary of the synagogue. Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lyon again ordered asking Grill to show cause why he should not consider himself ex officio because of his indebtedness to the treasury.

Jewish Six-Day Bike Team

Cohen, Silver, Jewish Bikers, Whirl Around in Garden

Wearing the colors of Israel, Louis Cohen of Brooklyn and Bob Silver, partners in the six-day bike race now at the Madison Square Garden, last night were riding for the honor and the glory.

Cohen, 22, and Silver, 24, both went into bike racing after the wishes of their parents, and tonight they knock on wood as they continue their 146-hour grind. Usually, they manage to knock on one of the wooden seats directly under the blue and white flag which waves with the banners of other nations at the garden.

Between fifty-four of sleep, which never total more than three hours during twenty-four, Silver says he worries about his father's fish business. "I find that a little worry helps to keep me awake," he explains, "but about the final sprinters are announced I forget all about the fish business, because you can't think of herring and steal a lap at the same time. I stand that out."

Cohen and Silver have different methods of training. "I just loaf for about ten days before every race," Cohen related last night. "Then by the time the rats start I'm fed up with loafing and I get down to work."

"And I train by hopping on my bicycle to deliver herring and salmon all over Brooklyn," Silver said.

During a breathing spell last night they explained in turn that they ate food served in the Garden "like horses," that they are friendly terms with the German team of Wissel and Schon, that they are glad no swastika flies over the track, and, when asked how they were doing, they said in chorus, "We're doing all right."

Mrs. Dora Shapiro Will Attend Ceremonies in Palestine

Mrs. Dora Shapiro of New York who left for Palestine on February 15, will dedicate the building given by herself and the late Solomon Shapiro, the Einstein Institute of Physics at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Tuesday, March 6.

This is the first attempt of the kind to raise the level of building construction in the Near East.

The first research undertaken by the Einstein Institute of Physics will be in spectroscopy. Part of the instruments for this purpose have been donated to the Hebrew University from a grant given by the National Thompson Science Fund in Boston.

Dr. Sambarush is in charge of the research in physics at the Hebrew University. Plans for the construction of the building of the Physics Institute were made by Professor L. E. Ornstein.

Mrs. Kohut Pays Tribute to Mrs. Schiff's Memory

Glowing tribute to the memory of Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, who died a year ago, was paid yesterday by Mrs. Rebekah Kohut. She told the Jewish Daily Bulletin that the wife of the late philanthropist always showed "real sympathy for everyone, especially the young people. She seemed to understand their problems and their needs."

Mrs. Kohut, who was a friend of Mrs. Schiff for more than twenty-five years, attended the memorial services held last Monday at the Jacob H. Schiff Center, 2510 Valentine avenue, the Bronx, in which several hundred children took part. At the ceremony, in which Rabbi Alexander Basel officiated and Cantor Theodore Doppel sang a prayer of mourning, Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, daughter of Mrs. Schiff, spoke to the children about her mother.

"All the news concerning Mrs. Schiff is faithfully and promptly reported in the Jewish Daily Bulletin—the only Jewish daily newspaper printed in English."

'Nordic' Theory Peace Menace, Says Dr. Rugg

Asserts Trend Is Base of Injustice at Cleveland
Convention

(Special to the J.D.B.)
CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—Speaking before the annual convention of the Department of Superintendents of the National Education Association, Dr. Harold Rugg, Professor of Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, declared that the theory of Nordic racial superiority endangers the peace of the world.

"Since the World War this trend has suspiciously sharpened," Dr. Rugg said, "and today lies at the base of serious injustice, limitation of opportunity and vast nationalistic conflicts." Citing the rising tide of dictatorships as precipitating serious challenges of democracy, Dr. Rugg declared that "since narrow nationalism—economic imperialism and racial ascendancy—is an increasing menace to the peace of the world, education must develop in schools" along lines leading to international understanding and cooperation.

Comparison with educational systems in countries such as Nazi Germany shows how much better are American public schools, declared Dean William F. Russell of Teachers College, who also spoke at the convention. "There is a remote future time might be elected to high office in the United States," Dean Russell said, "but he would have a difficult job, for he would win control of our schools and colleges."

Jew as External Spectator

(Special to the J.D.B.)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 27. The Jew as an external spectator, now viewing with alarm the unfavorable changes transpiring in the field of human relationship, was described by Rabbi Samuel Price of Beth El temple in an address at a joint meeting of the Rotary and Exchange clubs. "The brutal passions of man have not been abated by the progress of the times," he said. "The situation in Germany indicates that mankind is wantonly destroying the instruments it has devised for its own safety."

Democracy Only Can Save Country Says Fineshruber

(Special to the J.D.B.)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—"Unhappy Austria was the unconscious agent that precipitated World War, and Austria may again be the innocent cause of a great conflagration into which the whole world may be drawn," warned Dr. William H. Fineshruber, preaching in Keneseth Israel Temple.

In 1914 no one thought we would be involved in the World War," he said, "but it drifted unknowingly into it. It is not improbable we may be drawn into another one. The world is not divided into airtight compartments." Attacking bolsism and the neglect by citizens of their duty, Dr. Fineshruber declared, "democracy is the only thing that's going to save England, Germany, France, America. Let's begin here," he admonished. "Assume a sense of responsibility. Know something about your own town."

"Our churches and our synagogues should join together and as a religious duty instruct people on their responsibilities as citizens."

"We need genuine democracy. It is the answer to Fascism, war, anarchy and greed. God grant that we grow conscious of our responsibility and awaken to our task."

(Special to the J.D.B.)
FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 26.—In a pastoral letter written by Bishop James E. Cassidy of the Fall River Diocese, read in all the Catholic churches this week, his reverence calls for a moral crusade to clean up what he calls the "filth and immorality" of the moving pictures.
The Bishop's letter declares that the blame for the situation lies partly with the Jews who he says are the producers and writers in their employ. The writers are "pagans," according to his reverence.
The letter concludes with an admonition to producers to "clean up or shut up."

Revisionists Hit Zionist Executive

Demands Certificates and Recognition of Pioneer Training Camps

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
PARIS, Feb. 27.—Declaring that the recent decision of the World Zionist Executive not to grant certificates to Zionist Revisionists was illegal, the Revisionist Executive yesterday announced its intention of taking the issue before a Zionist court.

The Revisionists at the same time declared a boycott of the Jewish National Funds, Keren Hayesod, in retaliation of the refusal of the Zionist Executive to recognize the Revisionist Hachshara, pioneer training camps.

The Zionist Executive, it is declared, made its decision on the ground that a confidential bulletin of the Trumpeldorists, a Revisionist group, suggested that Trumpeldorists not accept Zionist certificates.

Fifty Jewish CCC Youths Get 'Pesach' Seder Leave

(Special to the J.D.B.)

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, Feb. 27.—Fifty Jewish Boys enrolled in the Civilian Conservation Corps of Southern Ohio, will spend Passover seder services with members of Kahlil Kadush Bene Abraham Congregation.

Captain Charles I. Conrad, C. C. chaplain, who arranged for the religious services of these youth, said "these are all my boys and I think as much of having them hold fast to the faith of their fathers as I do of their Protestant and Catholic comrades."

"Probably because Jewish people help one another more," the chaplain added, "or because their youth were better able to weather the depression, we haven't so many of them as other faiths. Most of them are from the larger cities. We took them off the streets of cities where many of them might have learned the ways of gangsters and racketeers, and put them close to nature."

Captain Conrad was introduced to the members of the congregation after services last Friday by Rabbi Pastor.

Originally the government had proposed to issue timed non-kosher meat to all unemployed, including Jews. According to reports from Amsterdam at the time, the Chief Rabbi had stated that in view of the emergency Jews might be permitted to use the non-kosher meat. Later he denied emphatically through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that he had issued such a dispensation.

The Bulletin's Day Book

Iaidore Scharfman, one of this country's leading dress manufacturers, is quickly and unanimously coming to the fore in New York Jewish life. Born in Yassi, Rumania, forty-nine years ago, Mr. Scharfman arrived in America in the year of seven. He has experienced all the tribulations that befall a Western Union messenger boy and a newsworthy. He attended public school in the Bronx, but had to complete his high school education in the evening session at Morris High School.

Mr. Scharfman is proud of the fact that when he married twenty-five years ago he had but fifteen cents in his pocket. Today he hands the third largest dress establishment in New York, and his fortune is estimated at more than $500,000.

He is an ardent Zionist and a generous contributor to many and varied Jewish causes. It would be hard to find a Jewish community in New York which has not liberally contributed at one time or another.

Last year, one month after Franklin D. Roosevelt had been inaugurated, Mr. Scharfman delved into politics. He submitted to the President a prosperity plan in which he advised Roosevelt to use the insignia of a sign of faith. "The Blue Eagle," he proudly admits, "is a part of my program."

King Alexander of Yugoslavia was celebrating his birthday. The capital city of Zagreb was brilliantly illuminated for the occasion. But the incident marked the festivities—an anti-Jewish demonstration which had to be quelled by the police.

At the evening the citizens of Zagreb came out to cheer their king. Standing near the king was a stranger who looked dejectedly Jewish. Wanting to atone in some way for the disturbances which had taken place that day, the king turned to this man and said, "I have great sympathy with your fellow Jews. I would like to present 10,000 dinar to your synagogue in Zagreb." The stranger turned red and could say only stultor: "Your Majesty, you are making an error. I-I-I happen to represent the German Embassy."

Much "Aryan" blood has been poured into the veins of Viscount Rothemann since Hitler came to power. "Aryan" blood did not course through the Viscount's veins when the original text of "Mein Kampf" first appeared.

In this unabridged edition Hitler spoke of the "Rothemanns of Jewish blood, and a servant of Judah who conducted anti-German propaganda."

But since Viscount Rothemann's pro-Nazi campaign in the London Daily Mail, the Nazis hail him as a pure "Aryan" brother.

"Hurrah for the Black Shirts" (the insignia of the British Fascist Union which Rothemann is so enthusiastic about) was the headline for the "bombed" article that purified the Viscount's blood one hundred percent.

"Mein Kampf" bewailed some years ago that the Kaiser lost the war to the Jew Northcliffe. Today Hitlerian rejoices and is proud to own so "great and powerful" as the firm of Northcliffe.

"What, Fisher, you too wear a brown shirt?"

"Well, what can one do? Who can make enough nowadays to afford white shirts?"

"How so?"

"Hitler just made another stirring appeal for peace." B. Z.

Wexley's Interest in Drama Began in His Boyhood Days

Ever since he was a youngster in knee pants, John Wexley was interested in the drama. Whether his uncle, Maurice Schwartz, had any influence upon his ambition to become either an actor or a playwright is a matter which is not known, however, that when his chums used to hide their Nick Carter behind those large photographs, Wexley would bury his nose in the plays of Shakespeare.

In high school, when his classmates would secretly admire the poetry of Keats and Shelley, he would spend his hours reading and studying anything from the miscellany to Moliere. While at New York University he participated in the activities of the Dramatic Club. After leaving school he joined a stock company, wrote scenarios for the movies, knocked about Europe. In short, he was prepared for the role of playwright.

And four years ago when the Theatre Guild presented his first play, "The Last Mile," he was actually a more or less successor to the Ibsen tradition.

Last week the dramatic world once again expressed its enthusiasm when "They Shall Not Die" made its appearance at the Theatre. He is recognized as a master playwright.

"When a person uses the word, 'propaganda,' Wexley said, smiling, 'it doesn't matter who the writer says.' Wexley is firmly convinced that a literary work is not worth its ink if it does not speak to the people of the new play, as you know, presents my attitude on the Scottboro case. In it I also express, indirectly, the Jewish problem. For I believe that racial prejudice, whether it prevails in the south against the

Writes With Purpose

Negro, or in Germany against the Jew, is fundamentally the same. Economic survival is at the root of all prejudice.

The young playwright said that if he hadn't started on the Scottboro play, he might have written a tragedy around Nazi oppression.

The Theatre Guild will present a play called Races which concerns itself with the German Jewish problem by another playwright," he said.

He smiled a bit cynically when he referred to the "liberalism" of certain men of letters. "Gerhart Hauptmann was a liberal until Hitler came to power. Then he about-faced and joined the camp of the Nazis. Today Hauptmann is ostracized by all right-thinking anti-race-respecting people," he added.

The authors of "Raged Army" use an interesting method to point out that if America is to be saved it will be through the spirit of the proletariats and not by the descendants of our original Revolutionary heroes who are pictured as a bunch of selfish reactionaries.

It seems that the descendants of General Timothy Page are about to put on a pageant to celebrate that old warrior's victory at the Battle of Dunbury. All the sons and daughters of the Spirit of '76 are on the stage. The plot is a course leading the procession but all is not serene around the family man. In the background, the discontented workers of today act discontentedly and to make matters worse one of the Page girls is in love with a young and brilliant rival. Suddenly the drama is darkened, spotlights flash on and off, noise rolls from the wings and in pops the ghost of General Page, who proceeds to give the family a piece of his army.

In addition a ragged army of workers dressed to represent the Revolutionary soldiers file on the stage and make remarks about conditions in America. The men state in no uncertain terms that they had not fought for the present-day Pages, that the common people should be given a better break and that unless things changed America is doomed.

The idea is not a bad one but the authors have been unable to give any life to the line. Some of the speeches spoken by the actors are so juvenile that it is difficult to believe one is in a Broadway playhouse. The acting, considering the parts imposed on the cast, is good. Lee Baker, Thomas Chalmers and Emily Lowry are especially apt in making the most out of a difficult task.

"Raged Army" would do very nicely for a week-end performance by the amateur group down at the New Workers School but for your critical and entertainment seeking playgoer it is just too unbelievable.

pathy for the victims of race hatred and bigotry and it would also be an unmistakable proof of Great Britain's intentions to fulfill its international obligations and the mandatory power in Palestine.

In minimizing the importance and influence of the "Silver Shirts" and other anti-Jewish propaganda in this country, Ambassador Bingham speaks an authority. As a public-spirited American, Mr. Bingham distinguished himself years ago for his fearless and successful fight against the Ku Klux Klan. He knows that these organizations cannot influence American public opinion when the real motives behind their propaganda are exposed. Most of the "leaders" of these organizations, wrapping themselves in the American flag and posing as American patriots, are engaging in vicious, un-American activities solely for mercenary purposes. The deluded dupes who join these organizations hasten to forsake them as soon as the truth is made known about their fundraising "leaders."

Silver Shirts and other un-American anti-Jewish trouble-making groups are nothing but race racketeers for revenue only. American public opinion cannot be misled by their obnoxious methods and purposes.

Nazi Student Scores Blank at City College In Hilerium Spurge

Snout on the Sahara Desert and Nazis at the City College of New York, with an 85 per cent student body.

Friedrich Karl Scheibe, Hitlerite disciple and student at C. C. N. Y. has ceased his Nazi propaganda activities.

At a recent conference with Frederick B. Robinson, president of the college, Scheibe's Nazi propaganda leaflets have disappeared from the City College campus like the lately reported snowfall on the Sahara.

Scheibe, flouting his rugged individualism with an uninterrupted defense of Hitler policies, had been one of the most ardent champions of National Socialism until a few days ago, when he was advised to cease firing swastika-adorned brochures at his unresponsive class-mates. Scheibe's Nazi propaganda leaflets have disappeared from the City College campus like the lately reported snowfall on the Sahara.

"You are irritating the students and aggravating a most unpleasant situation," he was told in effect.

Scheibe recently spoke before an Open House conference symposium on war in the aftermath of Munich. He announced that a fellow classmate had threatened him with "assassination" for his activities. Mrs. Max Fuchs went through with the argument.

His daring speech neither cost him his life nor perceptibly converted C. C. N. Y. to the credo of National Socialism.
