

Labor and Jewish Groups Join To Intensify Anti-Nazi Boycott

Editorial Notes

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN

A Staggering Blow

THE adoption of the Dickstein resolution calling for a thorough nation-wide investigation of Nazi propaganda activities in the United States is a triumph of American public opinion over the un-American and anti-American efforts of a foreign government to promote bigotry and stir up race hatred in this country. A special committee of seven Representatives will be appointed to undertake an inquiry into "the extent, character and object of Nazi propaganda in the United States under the direction within the United States of subversive propaganda that is instigated from foreign countries and attacks the principle of the form of government as guaranteed by our Constitution."

The debate on the resolution in the House of Representatives proved a demonstration of American sentiment against Nazism and Hitlerism. The only Congressman who expressed opposition to the resolution said that it would be a waste of public funds to make the investigation because there is no anti-Semitism in the United States.

Representative E. E. Cox, of Georgia, in presenting the Dickstein resolution, declared that the Nazi organization in this country "is penetrating every action of the country," disseminating Hitlerist propaganda, and he added: "What is happening in Germany ought to be a sufficient warning to us."

Representative Dickstein reviewed the activities of the Nazi agents in this country, charging them with efforts directed against the interests of the American Government and the people, and stating that evidence has been uncovered in the course of his unofficial investigation that German boats were smuggling anti-American propaganda and propagandist literature into this country.

Congressman Dickstein deserved much credit for his indefatigable work which has resulted in this splendid achievement. It is to be hoped that the investigation will be conducted with the most painstaking thoroughness. It will not be quite as easy a task as it would have been had the investigation been authorized months ago. During this time, especially since the disappearance of Heinz Spanknobel, the leader of the Nazi organization in America, the methods of the Nazi propagandists in the United States have undergone a change. The Nazis have been more cautious and secretive in their propaganda, though none the less energetic.

The Dickstein resolution, adopted by a majority of 169-137, is a staggering blow to Hitlerism.

The Easter Boycott

On March 13 the Jewish Daily Bulletin published the lengthy telegram from its Berlin correspondents on the Easter

A vigorous drive against the use of all German goods and services is to be launched at once, it became known yesterday after a joint meeting of the boycott committees of the Central Trades and Labor Council and the American Jewish Congress, at the council's headquarters, 265 West Fourteenth street. The campaign will thus present a united front of American labor, liberal and Jewish organizations against the Nazi persecution.

President Joseph P. Ryan of the Central Trades and Labor Council, and Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum, chairman of the national executive committee and of the boycott group of the American Jewish Congress, issued a statement after the meeting announcing the formation of the Joint Boycott Enforcement Council.

To Work Out Details

At a meeting Tuesday details will be worked out for an intensification of the anti-Nazi movement and for making the boycott as widespread and effective as possible. Activities of all groups and individuals sympathetic with the aims of the boycott will be coordinated.

Importers, distributors, wholesale and retail merchants will be approached with a view to obtaining their cooperation. The two col-

McDonald Will Speak at $3,000,000 JDC-APC Drive at Astor

The launching of a nation-wide campaign to raise a fund of $3,000,000 to assist Jewish refugees still remaining in Germany will take place tonight in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Donald, High Commissioner for German Refugees, will be among the speakers. The gathering was called by Paul Baerwald and Rabbi Jonah B. Wise, representing the Joint Distribution Committee, together with Louis Lipsky and Morris Rothenberg, representing the American Palestine Campaign. The campaign will consolidate the efforts of both organizations, and a large portion of the funds raised will be used to cooperate with High Commissioner McDonald in settling refugees from Germany in other countries.

A portion of the money raised will be allotted to the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee for the continuance of its work. This committee cooperates with the Central Jewish Committee for Relief and Reconstruction, a German organization, in offering economic aid to Jews still in Germany. The campaign will be used to educate "white-collar" people in the manual trades, to train Jewish youth for professional careers, and establish schools for Jewish children. In addition, the committee aids the destitute Jewish population of Eastern Europe.

Will Aid Refugee Children
The American Palestine Campaign, which will also benefit from the funds raised, will be enabled to continue its efforts to settle them. It will also enable to continue its aid to middle-class Jewish youth who are being embarked in industrial and commercial

Farmers Adopt Plan at Meeting in Moscow

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
MOSCOW, March 21.—The conference of collectivized Jewish farmers of White Russia met here today after adopting a slogan, "Not a single collectivized Jewish farmer must stay away from the Jewish during Pesach."

The conference also sent out a proclamation through the radio to all Jewish farmers: "White Russia declaring that the foreign campaign for Russian supplies for Russian Jews was directed by the 'Jewish bourgeoisie and saboteurs' living abroad, in order to stir up a counter-revolution."

The chairman of several of the Jewish collectivized farms assured the conference that, thanks to the methods adopted by the conference, even those Jewish farmers who received the day last year will be found in the fields working this Passover.

Untermyer Sees Luther Withdrawn

In Sea Message, Offers to Aid in Dickstein Investigation

Samuel Untermyer, president of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, yesterday radioed Ezekiel Rabinowitz in charge of the League's activities, announcing that he was willing to take part in the Dickstein investigation of American Untermyer also expressed the opinion that developments would demand the recall of German Ambassador Dr. Hans Luther.

The message, sent from the Grace Whaling under-cover address in the west coast of Central America proceeding to New York from Los Angeles, reads as follows: "Congratulations Representative Dickstein for me. There is abundant evidence available. It is a willing participation in the investigation. If through, it will startle the country, demonstrating that there are overwhelming under-cover sedition activities violating our neutrality and demanding the recall of the German ambassador. The situation now is similar to that which existed in 1917."

Nazis Inaugurate Work Campaign On 'Aryan Basis'

Life Reported Menaced

Hitler, Goebbels Open Drive With Radio Broadcast

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, March 21.—The Berlin headquarters of the Nazi party utilized the opening of the spring employment campaign, which began today, with a nation-wide broadcast by Chancellor Adolf Hitler telling of his plans for the drive to refute foreign reports connecting the employment campaign with ulterior motives.

The official statement issued by Nazi headquarters maintains that the only object of the campaign is to "promote commerce and industry. The object of all attempts to impute other motives to the employment campaign is self-evident," the Nazi statement concluded.

Die Deutsche Zeitung published a leading article on the spring campaign, which it asserts is waged for "work and race."

The irresponsible capitalist economy which preceded the present emergency has permeated with the foreign racial and destructive "Aryan mentality," the Deutsche Zeitung declared. "Many people worried about the sole object of accumulating money and the Jews set the example."

In the struggle the Germans were beaten because they were unable to compete with the destructive Jewish mentality. These facts must be remembered when considering the employment campaign, which must recreate the conception of work on an 'Aryan basis' embodying the Prussian racial ideal," the Deutsche Zeitung asserted.

The spring employment campaign opened today with a radio broadcast by both Chancellor Hitler and Minister of Propaganda Paul Goebbels.

At the Berlin broadcast, Hitler delivered near Munich, in Bavaria, where large groups of unemployed are concentrated for work on highway projects. Radios were installed throughout Germany to enable the hearing of speeches. School children listened in and pedestrians were directed to crowd around loudspeakers set up at strategic corners.

Hitler attacked previous regimes which he declared, had been heading Germany toward the abyss. He outlined a lengthy program to solve the unemployment problem.

Goebbels had declared that the Nazi regime in one year had given work to 2,700,000 unemployed and that Hitler's regime considered the solution of the unemployment problem its chief task.

Professor Wanderlich who left Berlin six months ago, outlined the economic aspects of German history which led to the present political situation. Professor Chamberlain, American delegate to the governing body of the High Commission for German Refugees, said that "the difficulty is not in helping Germans to leave Germany, but in fitting them into a new country." He suggested that those groups which were working for the settlement of German refugees consider first the importance of supplying jobs for which they would be suited.

Daiches Widow Back Yesterday From Palestine

Murder of Chicago Man Causes Cancellation of Trip Abroad

Mrs. Belle Daiches returned from Palestine on board the Italian liner Roma yesterday.

She was met at the pier on Fifty-seventh street by Richard Regan, assistant State Attorney in Chicago, who will question her in connection with the mysterious slaying of her husband, El Daiches, on March 3. Daiches, who was president of the Bowers Advertising Agency in Chicago, was killed by machine gun bullets in his automobile while driving along Lake Shore drive.

The killing has baffled Chicago police who are working on a clue provided in the insurance policy held by Daiches for $300,000. The Bowers Agency was the beneficiary.

Mrs. Daiches received word of her husband's death on March 5. She had sailed on the Conte de Savoia for the Near East in February, and yesterday before a large group of reporters and photographers told of the shock news of the slaying of her husband had been to her.

Appears Distressed

Mrs. Daiches wore black. Her face was drawn. She replied to questions of newspapermen in quick, nervous sentences. She appeared distressed at some of the questions but posed for photographers without hesitation.

As she alighted from the gangplank a few photographers succeeded in persuading her to pose again. Her brother, Jacob Turner was at the pier to meet her.

Mrs. Daiches told the Jewish Daily Bulletin about her visit in Palestine which she said lasted ten days. She said she had been in Palestine for a long time. She said she was enthusiastic about native Palestinian art which she said "is coming into its own." She spoke of the "quiet beauty of Palestine scenery."

She represents several Palestinian firms and is making an attempt to have Germans to leave Germany, but in fitting them into a new country." He suggested that those groups which were working for the settlement of German refugees consider first the importance of supplying jobs for which they would be suited.

Pre-War Dead Sea Concession Valid, M.P. Says

Attempt Seen to Upset Novomeyski's Privilege

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
LONDON, March 21.—Another attempt was made today in the House of Commons to use the privilege obtained by Moshe Novomeyski to work the Dead Sea mineral deposits, which he had reserved as a member of Parliament, referred to Turkish pre-war concessions, advancing the claim that they were still valid.

Secretary of State for Colonies Sir Philip Curzon later said in reply that an action on this matter was pending in the English courts and that it was therefore improper to make a statement while the matter was "sub judice."

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned today that Novomeyski was anxious to speed up the court action and is confident that he can remove the matter from the private domain. Novomeyski is managing director of Palestine Potash, Ltd., the company granted to work the Dead Sea mineral deposits.

Passover Food for Jews on Relief Lists Assured by Hodson

Jewish families on home relief lists will be able to purchase food stuffs made according to dietary laws for the Passover, it was pronounced yesterday by Welfare Commissioner William Hodson. Special arrangements have been made for them.

Food tickets for matzoths, grogery items and traditional dishes for the holiday will be issued to needy Jewish families during the period of March 30-April 7. The commissioner's announcement was the result of a request for such action contained in a resolution introduced in the Board of Aldermen by Alderman Samuel Feingold.

Threatens Resignation If Center Fund Drive Is Not Successful

(Special to the J.D.B.)
YONKERS, N. Y., March 21.—Morris A. Bronson, president of the Jewish Federation and of the board of governors of the Jewish Community Center, will resign today if a $30,000 fund campaign of the center is not successfully concluded by April 13, he announced.

His threatened resignation is accompanied by a recommendation that unless the drive succeeds the center close its doors.

"The Save-the-Center drive still is in a state of disappointment," he said, "both in the number of contributors and in the amount of the contributions."

His has been advanced and prolonged to no avail. It is evident that Yonkers Jewry will not support the Jewish Community Center.

"I therefore recommend that the center close its doors and cease activities on Friday, April 13, in order to avoid the expense of meeting its accumulated deficit."

Latvia Moves to Oust Nazis From Gov't Jobs

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
RIGA, Latvia, March 21.—The Latvian parliament yesterday adopted a resolution to remove all adherents of the Latvian Nazi group from posts in the state and municipal governments.

The Latvian Nazis, who because of the close proximity of Latvia to Germany have grown rapidly, have aroused the fear of the Latvian nationalists, who fear that Germany plans to absorb the little Baltic countries.

Example of Nazi Censorship

This letter was mailed from Bremen to an address in New York City. Before reaching here, however, Nazi censors opened it in Bremen. The four stamps shown near the lower edge cover the slit made to reach the contents of the envelope. The envelope carried the full text of the message and the letter was entirely harmless. Many of these occurrences are being reported.

Germany Abusing Postal Rights; Seen as Threat Against Privacy

That Germany is abusing rights granted by the international postal agreement was the opinion expressed yesterday by members of the foreign mail department of the main post office.

Authorities regarding censorship practices in Hitler's Third Reich disclosed that the German postal system is straining the postal code as an effort to keep private correspondence. A letter, opened by German censors and re-sealed in Bremen, was turned over to the United States post office. It carried evidence of an undeclared mail censorship in Germany.

The letter, mailed from Bremen and addressed to New York City, was sent as first class mail. When the letter arrived in New York it had been slit lengthwise. Across the slit were pasted four stamps, stating that postal censorship was being applied by foreign exchange authorities for inspection.

International Law Violated

According to postal employees here, it is neither customary nor legal to open mail in transit. It is suspected of containing unmailable matter such as firearms, inflammable articles, indecent matter, dining pots, lottery tickets, endless chain correspondence or fraud matter, or merchandise which is taxable by the Customs House and is undeclared. The nature of the letter submitted to the post office yesterday precluded reasonable possibility of its falling into any of the above categories. It was a small letter easily able to pass with minimum postal charges for first class foreign mail.

It was addressed in ink, by a private party of no particular distinction, to an undisguised American. The note it bore was a friendly invitation aboard the Italian liner Roma yesterday, bringing with him the information that "everything he heard about the country in Italy. He was accompanied by his sister Queene."

"For years I had been hearing and reading about the young idealists who are working on the soil of Palestine colonies," said Freiman, a tall young man with an air of certainty. "I found that conditions come entirely up to expectations."

"The country of the Jews is green and fertile. You notice in contrast the wasteland of the Arabs, uncultivated stretches of sand."

Superstitions Vanish
"A striking commentary on the country is that ignorant superstitions have disappeared and its place are hope and life. The young people, especially the pioneers (chalutzim) are inspired with idealism. They love their work, that it might carry merchandise. The German practice of opening mail without having declared publicly the existence of a censorship is considered in many quarters not only an offense against international postal ethics and a violation of postal codes, but also a supreme Hitlerite threat against the liberties of private persons residing in Germany."

Admit Opening Mail

During the year Hitler has been in power Nazi authorities have admitted that they have opened mail to discover who among the German people were unfriendly toward the government. Arrests, the number of which can be reckoned only by the few officials who are in charge of Hitler's undeclared censorship, have been increasing at the same time without number as the result of governmental prying into private correspondence. It is believed that the Gestapo has been thrown into concentration camp after Nazi censors had detected critical statements against the government or regarding present conditions in Germany.

In July, 1933, approximately sixty Jewish doctors were detained for three days or longer in concentration camps. At the same time and in prisons, after Nazi censors had discovered them applying for admission to the country, some information regarding the position of Jewish doctors in England and other foreign countries. A number of them were beaten by their captors during their period of detention, and when they were released, they remained on probation for a long time.

Not only has mail been tampered with by Nazi censors, but communications, which include telephone conversations, telegraph and cable messages and the radio, are subjected to severe censorship in Germany. News correspondents in Berlin have reported that their dispatches had been tampered with.

They love Hebrew."
Young Freiman was met at the pier by his parents and friends.

In an interview on board the Roma Freiman said he was accompanied by Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, High Commissioner of Palestine. The High Commissioner is "deeply interested in the development of the Holy Land," said Freiman. "He visits every corner of the country, talking with working-class people and studying conditions."

Debt to Zionism

"Sir Arthur told me he believes that there is not enough diversification in the Jewish community. He believes it would be a good thing for the further development of small self-sufficient farms."

The young man pointed out that he himself believes that independent enterprise "has shot the work of the Zionist Union. It has been founded, but added that "private farm owners owe their success to Zionism."

'No Jewish Problem in Bethlehem' Paper States, Quoting Alfred M. Cohen

(Special to the J.D.B.)
BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 21.—"There is no Jewish problem in Bethlehem," declares an editorial in the Bethlehem Globe-Times, one of the leading daily newspapers of this city.

The editorial quotes an article written by Alfred M. Cohen, president of the B'nai B'rith, who yesterday was in Bethlehem here when the Bethlehem lodge of B'nai B'rith awarded a plaque to Dr. W. L. Estes as the person who has been most successful in clearing the past year's Mr. Cohen said that the article: "The respect which Jew has for Jew in Bethlehem is sufficient in the respect which the non-Jews have for Jews in Bethlehem. There is no Jewish problem in that little city."

755 Families Helped By United Jewish Aid

Seven hundred and fifty-five Jewish families received cash aid during the month of February from the United Jewish Aid Societies, according to the monthly report of Samuel Rabinovitch, executive director.

The amount of relief totaled $31,868 and the total service cases numbered 1,846. Rabinovitch revealed in his report which was made public yesterday. The United Jewish Aid Societies is the family welfare organization of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities.

Songs of All Nations

Folk music of many nations will be presented by the Yiddish Culture Society Chorus at City College. The chorus, which will meet at Lexington avenue, 33rd street and Lexington avenue, Saturday evening. Among the songs, many of which were specially written for the occasion, will be sung into Yiddish for the concert, will be examples from Russian, Czechoslovakian, Polish, Japanese, Ukrainian, Arabian and Negro folk art. Gail Susskind, cellist, will be the assisting artist and Bella Shumilacher will accompany at the piano. The program has been arranged by Lazar Weiner.

He spoke of the construction work going on in Haifa and Tel Aviv, where, he said, there is a great labor shortage.

Freiman said that "the most unusual thing we found in Palestinian Jewish communities was the almost overwhelming importance of the individual." He repeated that educational methods used in Palestine indicate "their superiority over educational methods in other countries where the individual is machine taught."

Freedom in Schools

"I admire the fact that the schools are conducted along lines of almost complete freedom," he continued. "They decide what they want to study, in many cases choose their own teachers and direct their own lives. I have seen one school where the students rewarded the deserving and attended to the punishment of their delinquent in machine taught."

Freiman said that pressing personal affairs made it necessary that he return to his home in Warsaw quickly, but said he will visit Palestine again and admit to a secret ambition to remain there permanently.

Post Advocates Dynamite for City Firetraps

Addresses Women's Federation; Bernstein

Also Speaks

Speaking on the "Federal Housing and Slum Clearance" before a meeting of the Municipal Federation of Jewish Women's Organizations yesterday morning, at which more than 150 groups were represented, Tenement House Commissioner Langdon Post said: "The only answer for more than forty per cent of the 87,000 tenement house fire traps in this city is dynamite."

Commissioner Post explained that many of the tenements were built during the period from 1880 to 1900 to replace cars of the horde pouring into the city from all parts of the world. They were built on low standards and have deteriorated much in this time, especially during the years of the depression.

"I come here to ask your help in sponsoring the new legislation which is to come up next week," said Mr. Post.

The other speaker was Herman Bernstein, editor of the Jewish Daily Bulletin, who emphasized the significance and importance of a Jewish daily newspaper in English.

"Jews in America ought to keep fully informed on what is going on in the Jewish world, especially in storm centers," Mr. Bernstein said.

Mrs. David E. Goldfarb, president of the Yiddish Culture Society, also presided. Mrs. Isaac Kibbe, chairman of the membership group, reported that 35 new organizations had joined the 225 which are members of the Federation. Mrs. Moses Hershman reported on Passover relief. Mrs. Edward M. Mayer, chairman of social service, and Mrs. A. J. Davidson, chairman of health work also reported.

(Special to the J.D.B.)
NEWARK, N. J., March 21.—Professor Albert Einstein will make a public address this Sunday in the Newark Armory where New Jerseys, headed by Governor Moore, will officially welcome him at a reception as a resident of the state. A fund is to be raised for the rehabilitation of his exiled colleagues and co-religionists in Palestine.

Newark police are completing traffic arrangements, setting parking spaces for many blocks around the armory, as a huge turnout for the concert, in which internationally-known stars will participate, is expected. Giovanni Martinelli, Metropolitan Opera Company singer, and Madame Ernestine Schumann-Hannke will be there. Rabbi Abba Eliezer of Cleveland will deliver an oration.

Practically every municipality of New Jersey will be fully represented as reservations are pouring in from Einstein admirers and music lovers. Thirty-two mayors have made reservations. Mayor Schachar of Atlantic City heads the active committee, while Mayor Ellenstein of Newark is treasurer. A great part of the cost of the huge affair has been eliminated through numerous volunteer efforts, insuring that the maximum of proceeds will go toward the Palestine settlement, which is so close to Dr. Einstein's heart.

Shaffer, Former Immigrant, Aids New Arrivals

(Special to the J.D.B.)
SEATTLE, March 21.—Behind the brief announcement from New York that Julius Shaffer of this city was named a vice-president of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society (HIAS) is the story of a twenty-two-year-old immigrant from Russia, who with his brother came to seek his fortune in the land of the free forty-four years ago. He found it, and has for years been utilizing it in assisting other newcomers to these shores.

Now sixty-six years old, Mr. Shaffer holds daily consultations with persons seeking to trace lost relatives. When in 1917 a HIAS branch was established in Seattle to care for thousands of Russian Jewish emigres, Julius Shaffer met every boat, and as head of the branch helped many families to make a start in the country of their adoption.

For years he has been active in local Jewish affairs, and is also favorably known in civic and financial circles.

Jews Blameless for Bolshevism, Says Bible Head

Morgan, Institute Chief, Addresses Buffalo Church Group

(J.D.B. Special Correspondence)
BUFFALO, N. Y., March 15.—"The originators of Bolshevism were not Jewish non-Jews," said the Bible Institute of America, which says that the Jews are responsible for Bolshevism is a deliberate falsehood," declared Dr. Harold P. Morgan, president of the Buffalo Bible Institute, in an address in the Cavalry Presbyterian Church, on the subject, "Have the Jews Formed a Worldwide Conspiracy to Destroy the Government and Set Up an International Dictatorship?"

"It is true that there were Jews among the Bolsheviks," declared the Bible Institute, "but they represented a small fraction of the Jews and the followers of Bolshevism," he said. "Lenin, who belonged to the Russian aristocracy had not a drop of Jewish blood in his veins, was the creator as he was the motive power of the Soviet Republic."

Few Jews in Bolshevik Cabinet. "The Bolshevik cabinet, or the people's commissars, consisted of twenty members, of whom Trotsky and Sverdlov were the only Jews, and they were merely Jews by birth. Of the general committee of the Communist party there were four Jews out of thirteen."

"The extraordinary conclusion, the purpose of which was to suppress opposition to the Bolshevik regime from within, was directed by a triumvirate consisting of a Pole and two Letts, none of whom was of Jewish origin. Although Trotsky was the head of the war department, his general staff was composed exclusively of non-Jews."

Menshevik Had Many Jews. "On the other hand, the leaders of the Menshevik, the sworn foes of Bolshevism, were to a large extent Jews. Among the members of the Constitutional Democratic party of Russia, an organization from its inception strongly opposed to the Soviets, was composed of prominent Jews."

"The leading anti-Bolshevik newspapers, which of necessity are published outside of Russia, have Jews upon their editorial staffs. An overwhelming majority of Russian Jews have been ruined by the coercive measures of the Soviets. They have submitted to the confiscation of their property and are undergoing unspeakable hardships," he concluded.

LONDON, March 21. — Barnet Janner, Jewish member of Parliament for Whitechapel, today asked in the House of Commons whether the British steel and iron industry was exhibiting at the Levant Fair, and pointed out that British steel exports to Palestine in February, 1934, were many times greater than that of February, 1933.

Colonel David J. Colville, Parliamentary Secretary for Overseas Trade, answered on behalf of the government that the Federation of British Industries had informed the government that more than one-third of the available space at the Levant Fair was taken by British steel and engineering manufacturers, and that therefore no further action was necessary.

Weizmann Discloses Palestine
Plans; Will Come Here in May

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JERUSALEM, March 6. — Dr. Chaim Weizmann, chemist, veteran Zionist, former president of the World Zionist Organization and present head of the movement to colonize German Jewish refugees, recently disclosed some of his immediate plans.

Dr. Weizmann, who is now in Palestine on his fifteenth visit, is here primarily in connection with the chemical institute which is being set up at Rehoboth. The institute will be part of the Jewish scientific experimental station headed by Dr. I. Wilkanski. The preparations have been directed by a number of outstanding chemists and research workers, some of them German, and by Dr. Weizmann's first assistant, Dr. Davis, who came here from London several months ago.

Research at the chemical institute will include problems in biological chemistry, physical chemistry, pharmacology and industry, in connection with which the institute will study oranges, tobacco and silk.

Asked whether he would carry on any of the research himself, Dr.

"All-Austrian" Scouts

In a dispatch from Vienna in which the Austrian Minister of Justice, Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, was described as advocating discrimination against naturalized Jews, which was published in the Jewish Daily Bulletin last Monday, a typographical error appeared, referring to the "All-American Scout Association." It should have read "All-Austrian."

Weizmann replied that he had come, this time, for but five weeks, after which he was going to the United States, expecting to be in New York by the first week in May. However, he expects to go back to Rehoboth next winter to head the institute and to work on a number of problems, several of them in the field of albumin research.

May Settle Permanently

Dr. Weizmann intends to build a house near the institute and hopes to spend the winters there working at the laboratory. He may even, he said, settle permanently in Palestine.

Discussing the work of settling German Jews, Dr. Weizmann declared that he still believed ways and means could be found of settling 10,000 refugees a year in Palestine. Asked to comment on the work of James G. McDonald, High Commissioner for the Relief of German Refugees, Dr. Weizmann said in effect that Mr. McDonald has only just begun. His plans have not yet been crystallized. He is still groping. But he is undoubtedly taking a great deal of trouble, and it cannot be doubted that he will eventually be convinced, as more and more Jews the world over are becoming convinced, that the only actual solution thus far possible for German Jewry is Palestine.

Shortly before he came to Palestine, Dr. Weizmann met Count Theodor, President of the League of Nations Mandate Commission, in London, and immediately thereafter went to Rome, where he was received by Premier Mussolini. The problems of the German Jews and the

By HERB KRUCKMAN

We read recently where the expert of the German Third Reich, Dr. Gross (Europe somehow doesn't believe in publishing names) told the world that the Hitlerites were misunderstood the race issue. He said that it was not a matter of "whether or not Aryans constitute a better or worse race than the German. Rather, he said, it is merely a matter of surrendering Germany to the "Aryans."

Jews, if we remember our history correctly, came to Germany in great numbers more than two centuries ago, at a time when Central Europe was in its formative state. They came there with Slavs and Romans and people from the East, and from this motley collection of Humanity Germany emerged.

We can only suggest this: That Hitler's surrender to the "non-Aryans" a part of Germany's profane to their development of the country from the time of the settling of the "original" inhabitants, i.e. the Seventh Century. What Dr. Gross really means not, as he says, that the current issue is whether "non-Aryans" are better or worse than "Aryans" but whether "non-Aryans" are to be treated better or worse than the "Aryans." Hitler has solved the problem quite clearly.

Speaking of first names in Europe, Boris Smoliar, head of the European bureau of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, tells an amusing story. "It so happens that many years ago a Doctor Chaimkoff died in old St. Petersburg. He was not particularly well known, but, it being a day, the correspondent for a large news service sent over the line "Dr. Chaimkoff, celebrated physician and surgeon, died here today."

The New York editors of the service sent back a query, "Send Chaimkoff's first name," to which the correspondent after cursory checking wired back, "Can't learn Chaimkoff's first name stop first."

the way toward marketing the Silver Shirt ideals for common profit—rather than for the personal enrichment of "Pope" Foley.

he wrote two plays, both of which he sold just about at graduation time. Cohen and Harris produced one of them, "Standards," out of town, and Oliver Morosco presented the other in California. Lawson reluctantly recalls the title as "Servant, Master, Lover."

Started Slowly
Both of these were intended as good shows of the Broadway variety, but their own father confesses today that they were not very good of their kind. His next effort, "Roger Bloomer," was more indicative of his future work, a poetic play on the theme of adolescence. It was produced on Broadway by the Actors' Theatre, with Henry Hull in the cast, but not until after Lawson had driven an ambulance during the war on the French and Italian fronts, made friends with John Dos Passos and E. E. Cummings who were fellow ambulance drivers, and spent a year or so in Rome and Paris, writing.

"Processional," Lawson's most talked-of-play to date, was produced by the Theatre Guild in

In 1928 Lawson went to Hollywood, one of the first playwrights to take up with the talkies. He has worked there steadily since, for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and RKO, and he is the president and one of the organizers of the Screen Writers' Guild, a militant organization, frankly a trade union, which has won notable victories over the producers, especially in tussles in Washington over the NRA code.

In 1932 the Group Theatre put on his "Success Story," the drama of a young radical who achieves business success and finds it dust and ashes. It ran eighteen weeks, making a record for a Lawson play. Like "Gentlewoman" it was a conventional three-act play in form, but Lawson believes the experimental playwright must also know his conventions.

The Reader's Forum

Editor, The Jewish Daily Bulletin:

As a Jewish student at Connecticut State College I have been impressed with the significance of a course in Jewish history which is being offered for the first time in any Connecticut collegiate institution.

Rabbi Morris Silverman of the Emanuel Synagogue of Hartford, Conn., has been conducting the course since February. There are twenty-five students enrolled at the present time, including four who are not Jewish.

I have been impressed with the marked interest in the course shown on the campus by both Jewish and non-Jewish students. According to present indications, there will be a marked increase in course registration next semester. Of course, the important fact to be noted is that the success of this course in Connecticut State will undoubtedly influence other colleges and universities as to the advisability of including a similar course in their curricula.

The course has been endorsed by the Connecticut Federation of Churches and the United Synagogue of America.

The Human Touch

By HARRY SALTPEUR

I Hear Yehudi Menuhin

LAST Sunday evening, for the first time in my life, I heard Yehudi Menuhin play the fiddle. I had been promising myself this treat for a long time, if only to be able to let extraneous ecstasy with so little effort, so little mannerism, in so almost casual and matter-of-fact way. If you could have heard Master Menuhin play, Heifetz and Seid and a half a dozen other fiddlers, I can tell you the 'cello.

But to return to the young master: I have never heard a violinist play with such ecstasy with so little effort, so little mannerism, in so almost casual and matter-of-fact way. If you could have heard Master Menuhin play, Heifetz and Seid and a half a dozen other fiddlers, I can tell you the 'cello.

But when we contrast, in the playing of Menuhin, the exquisite-ness of the performance, of the role playing of the physical effort producing it, I, for one, cannot help but conclude that Master Menuhin must draw upon some good angel, some power outside of himself which showers him with understanding and with capacity to express and to interpret, without his having to do so, the music as though the source. The only trouble with that explanation is that it converts Master Menuhin into an instrument, rather than a man, away from him the glories of his achievement.

That Mixed Up Feeling

And no one would want to do that. He is not the kind of a person to whom you would grudge anything. With all his mastery achievement, he looks so genuinely boyish, and almost helpless one might say, that he engenders among the older people in the audience a diffused desire to protect him. He has only one mother and father, but the sight of his sturdy figure awakens something like a sense of maternal protectiveness in men and women who are perhaps old enough merely to look at him and wonder how he knows that, in the upper box which I sat, Yehudi's playing elicited in the old woman to my right and the young girl to my left an "motherly" feeling, something which I know got tangled up in the applause which greeted the closing of every number on the program. So that even had Yehudi played less well than he did, the applause would have been only slightly diminished that evening. There is no escaping the fact that you listen with different ears to the playing of a bald-headed veteran than to that of a blonde-headed lad at the door of manhood.

In a lower right box so that from his position Yehudi could see them within the flutter of an eyelid sat Mrs. Menuhin, the mother of the boy wonder, and the girls, Yehudi's sisters, Yaltah and Hepzibah, and a cousin, a young woman. The three girls, occupying the first row of the box, made a pleasant, but none the less definite, blotch of pink. That first row of that box at least made only a polite show of applause, except for the very end, even when the galleries thundered their approbation.

Clumps of Standses

Every seat in the great hall was occupied and there were clumps of clumps of clumps in the family and dress circle, orchestra and second tier boxes. One wondered, looking at that vast crowd, where anyone was listening to any other concert in New York that evening. The stage itself was crowded with sitters who could stand the price. In fact there were so many sitters that they almost surrounded the piano on three sides. And at the end of the program, there was a rush of feet down the aisles of the musicians, who were in applause as they had been patient on their feet. These demanded encores and wouldn't take no for an answer. Yehudi played three encores and the evening was over.

Not that I enjoyed Menuhin as soloist less, but I would have enjoyed him more with an orchestra background. I am very much afraid that even a genius of the violin as he is cannot make that instrument less than it is otherwise. I rather like him as he is, like myself, neither violinist nor critic, two solid hours of violin music, no matter how much the violinist may do with his instrument, is a trial. The man next to the woman at my left was frank enough to snatch a snooze, and there were difficult moments when I was about to do the same. I had better not say any more, for fear of bringing down a clamor of abuse from the Menuhinists.

No, I Did Not

I have been informed and this in dead seriousness, that I addressed a birth control meeting the other evening. Now I ought to know something about what I do where I go and what I say and where I go, and I give you my solemn word that I not only did not address a birth control meeting, but I did not attend any meeting. For all you know, I may not even believe in a birth control, whatever my practices may be.

I cannot imagine that anyone would be so absurd as to take the trouble of posing as Harry Saltpeur, I rather like him as he is, to whom you would grudge anything. Either you are Harry Saltpeur, as I am, or you are not, and that's that. This is being said in the afternoon of Tuesday, March 20. Tonight, if all goes well (meaning Tuesday) I attend the Musical Quartet performance at the Met. I rather like him as he is, to whom you would grudge anything. Utermeyer Demands Prompt Enforcement Of Treasury Ruling

Samuel Utermeyer, in a letter to Stephen B. Gibbons, assistant secretary of the Treasury, which was made available yesterday, demanded that a recent Treasury amendment ruling that Germany and other foreign countries must label all exports to this country with the name of the country of origin, be enforced promptly.

According to the amendment, enforcement will be begun three months after publication of the law, or on May 8, 1934. Utermeyer demanded that this period of grace be shortened. Hereofore, he said, it has been the custom to label exports to designate origin of goods by labeling with the name of the city, state, or territory of their origin rather than the name of the country.

The head of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League threatened to take legal action if the time limit were not shortened.

Follow Moses' Teachings, Rabbi's Message to Group

(J.P.A. Special Correspondence)

NEWARK, N. J., March 22.—That the Jews should follow the teachings of Moses, emulate Mosaic and be exemplary citizens, was the keynote of the Passover message delivered by Rabbi Joseph L. Weiss, president of Temple B'nai Zion, before the congregation. He attributed to the rejection of faith the cause of conditions in Germany.

"When the Hitler axe of persecution fell upon the Jew, those who forsake their religion to escape suffered even greater misfortunes than those who were steadfast in their faith," he said.

Rabbis Praise Stephen Wise in Talks on Radio

Newman Declares He Has Given New Meaning to 'Rabbi'

In a special anniversary broadcast last night on Station WBYD, two of the great Rabbis of America, Stephen Wise and Louis Newman, eloquently addressed his nation in religious and civic life. The speakers were Rabbi Louis Newman, president of the B'nai B'rith, and Rabbi Sidney E. Goldstein, associate rabbi of the Free Synagogue.

Declaring that Dr. Wise has given a new grandeur to the title of rabbi, Dr. Newman declared: "He has demonstrated the scope of influence within the command of the Jewish minister. He is statesman and arbiter of his people, ever mindful by a process of unceasing intuition of the deepest wishes and welfare of the Jew-world, and Dr. Wise has been a prophet in more than one sense. He has been a fore-seer and a fore-teller, predicting the victory of ideas and movements long before the general public had come to appreciate their importance."

Spirit of the Fight

In his address of Dr. Goldstein surveyed his years of association with Dr. Newman and declared: "He has shown me most," he declared, "is not the sound and excitement of the battle which he has waged, but the spirit of his fight. He has defeated many enemies and he has defeated many foes; his course is as clear as the sun, and he has won at other times illustrated by triumphant victory. The thing, however, that is most important to me is the spirit of his fight. He has been a planner of power, prestige and glory, but the inward glow of genuine conviction."

"Let us not misunderstand the meaning of Dr. Wise's leadership," he concluded, "it is a deeply interested in political life, but it is a leader in politics. He is greatly concerned over the evils of our economic order, and he is a leader in economics. He is gravely exercised because of the failures and failures of our economic order, but he is not a leader in the law. His leadership outruns all these enterprises, for he is not a leader in codes and not economies and not political science, but the ideals of ethics and morality, the spirit of our social life. Dr. Wise has chosen to be the priest and protector of the old order that is filled with weakness and wickedness, and he is the prophet and protagonist of a new order that is to be 'air and just and strong.'" enterprises by establishing mortgage banks and other credit facilities for them. Part of the funds will be used to help German Jews and children to Palestine in order to prepare them for self-supporting careers.

In a statement yesterday, High Commissioner MacDonald described the new fund-raising effort as the fulfillment of a long-standing policy which has been maintained since the first meeting of the High Commission at London in 1920.

"The plight of the Jewish men, women and children, who through no fault of their own are homeless and desperately uncertain of the future, is one of the gravest problems facing the world today. It is a problem as broad as humanity itself," Mr. MacDonald said.

The problems created by the situation in Germany are of such a nature that their solution involves aiding the Jews still in Germany to maintain their homes and racial institutions, and their associations of relief and rehabilitation, the absorption of the Jews who are refugees, and the settlement of thousands of German Jews in Palestine and other parts of the world. The High Commission is endeavoring to open to them.

Dr. MacDonald will be one of the principal speakers at tonight's gathering. His address will be broadcast on the National Broadcasting Company. Other speakers will be Morris Rothenberg, president of the B'nai B'rith, and Dr. Wise. Federal Judge Julian W. Mack will preside.

At the same time the Consul granted visas for 150 Christian tourists. About 800 Jews were turned left Poland for Palestine.

At the same meeting, a women's auxiliary organization was formed under the leadership of Mrs. M. 486 Sackman street, Brooklyn.

spontaneous to the effect that a new more intense anti-Nazi boycott was being prepared in Germany for the Easter holidays. The details of the scope and intensity of the new boycott were outlined by Dr. Wise, who was disseminated by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency to the newspapers using its news service in various parts of the world. The general press and the large American news agencies for some reason overlooked at first the news of the newly projected boycott. Even the Jewish newspapers, with few exceptions, failed to publish this important news story. Now, after a lapse of more than a week, comes detailed confirmation of the magnitude of the new anti-Jewish boycott planned in Nazi Germany.

The effect, produced by the publication of the report in various lands has apparently forced the Nazis to proceed with greater caution. The Bavarian Minister of the Interior, Dr. Goebbels, in dressing the Industrial Chamber of Nuremberg, now warns the Nazis against arbitrary interference. Even the Jewish newspapers, which might mean the end of Germany's economic life.

"The Nazis may be foolhardy and obstinate enough to go through with their project, even though the wiser and saner men in Germany realize that this would hasten the economic self-destruction of Germany."

Hitlerism will be isolated and defeated by its own criminal blunders. The press of the world can crush Hitlerism by vigorous and with their project, even though the wiser and saner men in Germany realize that this would hasten the economic self-destruction of Germany."

laboring bodies will call the cooperation of other groups with similar aims.

The Council Members

The Joint Council on Boycott Enforcement is comprised of the following from cooperating bodies: David Dubinsky, chairman of the subcommittee on boycott of the Central Trades and Labor Council; Nathan Perlmutter, chairman of the United Hebrew Trades; William B. Mahoney, James C. Quinn, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Council; William Kohn, former Congressman; Nathan D. Perlman, vice-president of the American Jewish Congress; Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum, chairman of the Jewish Labor Committee of the American Jewish Congress and of its boycott committee; Jacob Chaitkin, Abraham Gold and Emanuel H. Gold, members of the boycott committee of the American Jewish Congress.

In a statement he issued yesterday, Mr. Ryan said: "As the Nazi regime in Germany, after coming to its first year of unprecedented persecution against the trade union movement and the Jewish people, is not only continuing its repression, but is intensifying its relentless warfare against the most precious ideals and achievements of humanity, as is evident from the very nature of the measures now being taken to strengthen the boycott against German Jews, the realization is growing universal that the only effective weapon left to labor and to the representatives of civilized opinion is general non-cooperation."

Boycott Must Go On

"The boycott movement, spontaneous in its origin, but made articulate by the American Federation of Labor in its last annual convention, Professor William L. Nunn, of New York University, is treasurer of the committee of the working people of

"It am happy to know that the Congress of the United States had faith in me and supported and sustained my measure of propaganda and subversive activities aimed at our government."

"I am very much elated over the overwhelming majority by which the resolution for investigation of Nazi propaganda activities was adopted."

"This is a great American day for the American people. The House of Representatives, the Representatives, and in turn of the people represented by its members, is clear cut."

"It is the purpose of the investigation to reveal the activities of all propaganda activities instigated by the enemies of our government. The investigation will not be confined to any one section of the country."

"This investigation of subversive propaganda activities is now assumed by the United States—the greatest democratic government in the world—and it is the duty of the greatest democratic government of the world and not permit local agencies of foreign governments to undermine it."
