The Temptation of Father Coughlin

Father Coughlin, die priest who thundered for months against the money changers, has been caught in meshes of temptation. Father Coughlin denounced the gold standard with vehement bitterness, week in and week out, and now it is discovered that while he was thus seeking to save the American people from worshipping the Golden Calf, he permitted his Radio League of the Little Flower to speculate in silver on a narrow margin.

The temptation of Father Coughlin, which led him to the Cougnin, which led him to the evil ways he was denouncing, revealed the dangers as well as the weaknesses of demagogues who gain momentary notoriety who gain momentary notoriety and influence with a large num-ber of people. Matzoh Cases Are Sent Up to Higher Courts

Inspector Testifies She Was Short-Weighted In Store

Denying the defense counsel's motions for dismissal, Magistrate Raphael Murphy in the Third District Court, Second avenue and Second street, yesterday sent up to the Court of Special Sessions the the Court of Special Sessions the cases of the Department of Mar-kets against Meyer London, Inc., 494-498 Grand street, and Dr. Ko-pel London, the firm's president, charged with offering for sale short-weight matzohs. Parole was also continued.

At the same time Assistant District Attorney William Goldman moved for dismissal of the cases of two storekeepers, charged with selling matzons of less than the seiling matzons of less than the specified weight, on the ground that the manufacturing firm and not they was responsible. Magis-trate Murphy granted the motions. The storekeepers dismissed were Jacob Sultan of 25 Hester street and Sydney Alstock of 24 Ludlow

Taking the stand early in the hearing, Inspector Katherine Pow-ers of the Department of Mar-kets, Weights and Measures, testified that on March 29 she entered the defendant's premises and asked for thirty pounds of matzohs. She went on to relate that six packages were produced, and, revealing her identity, she weighed them to discover that the total weight of matzoh in the six packages amounted to twenty-six pounds and three

Anti-Semitism in House of Congress

Representative L. T. McFadden Outspoken in Condemning Jews

'Some of My Best Friends Are Jews' Is His Theme Song, but Streicher Sang the Same Tune to Jewish Daily Bulletin Investigator-Was Elected by German Voters

Nazi activities in this country have been brought to a head by the first open attack on the Jetes of America by the Friends of New Germany, Hiller organization in the United States, which has pro-claimed a beyocatt on the Jetes. The following is the eleventh of a series of articles detailing the rise and growth of the Nazi-inspired and growth of the Nazi-inspired anti-Semitic movement in this country in all its ramifications. The articles are based on an ex-haustive investigation of Nazi propaganda activities in this coun-try and in Germany for a period of over a year. By PAT McGRADY
(Copyright, 1934, Jewish Daily Bulletin and.)
Congressman Louis T. McFadden, Republican of Pennsylvania, is idol of the Silver Shirts and otherwise the champion of anti-Semitism in the great legislative chamber of the United States Government.

In his office in the House Office Building at Washington McFadden denied to this reporter that he is "personally anti-Semitic."

And now McFadden. McFadden is a Republican, although he received the support of a large Democratic bloc at the last elec-He hails from the eastern part of Pennsylvania, wherein many Germans live and exercise franchise. He was a successful banker before he came to Congress, having worked his way from office boy to the presidency of the First National Bank in Canton, Pennsylvania.

Connection A Mystery I do not know what, if any, official connection exists between McFadden and the Siver Shirts. If there should be any official connection it is maintained as a deep secret. McFadden himself denies that he is associated with the Silver Shirts, but on questioning he admitted that he knew Pelley, the clairaudient communicant with clairaudient communicant with supernatural powers and leader of the Silver Legion.

During a recent visit in Washington I met two active members of the Silver Legion. One was in charge of the Washington bureau of the Silver Shirts, out of which a Washington restaurant. His bitter anti-Jewish attacks interested me, and when I introduced my-self, he announced he was "Jones."

On my second and last visit to McFadden's office, I was in a hurry. The gentleman from Penn-sylvania invited me to interrupt a conference with a lean, thoroughly 'Aryan' looking fellow who questioned me quite closely on the Jewish aspects of the current political situation. The latter too, introduced himself as "Jones.

When McFadden got off a par-ticularly vitriolic blast against Jews and the "International Jew-ish Bankers," Pelley would turn out extra copies of this section of the Congressional Record in his weekly Liberation and advertise their availability. McFadden is their availability. eulogized throughout the Silver Shirt press, and according to Jones in charge of the Silver Legion's Washington bureau is "the one congressman worth his salt." Franked Envelopes

McFadden's anti-Semitic speeches have been widely distrib-uted through the mails not only from his own office but from othe centers. distribution the United States government pays for the distribution of the speeches. Alexander Brin, publisher of a Jewish newspaper in Boston, recently asked that investigation of this practice be made to learn whether or not the congressman's franking privileges had been lated. The publisher charged that C. F. Fulliam, who is connected jointly with the Germanischer Bund (German Alliance) as local leader and with George W. Christian's Fascist Crusaders For Eco-nomic Liberty, had sent the speeches through the mails without postage.

McFadden told me that the above practice was quite in accordance with the law. He said that ance with the law. He said that it was customary for members of Congress to have their speeches distributed from centers other than Washington and said that he frequently receives requests for batches of his speeches. Copies of the speeches are sealed in regulation envelopes, and unless the seal is broken and other material placed in the envelope, they may still be re-mailed free of charge, according to McFadden.

When McFadden said that he personally is not anti-Semitic, he was asked why he had read into the Congressional Record excerpts from the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, a document purporting to be the minutes of the First Zionist Congress in which a plan was laid for the "capture" of the world by international Jewry The document, discredited and shown to be false so frequently during the last forty years that if has come to us as one of the most notorious forgeries of civilization, is used by Hitler in Germany, Pelley in America, and similar fan-atics elsewhere in leavening the popular mind for ensuing outrage against Jews.

A la Liberation

McFadden replied that, whether the Protocols be authentic or fraudulent, they are, nevertheless, prophetic. He viewed the document as an accurate picture oi of the Silver Smitz, on to winned mean as an accurace potents of the tangen so the Sewa confidential communications at-reaching the government are dis-perant to a select list of subsering bycomments are slipping into the perant to a select list of subsering bycomments are slipping into the necessity of checking up on the "Gomes." Incidentally, when Dr. Wirt arrived in Washington to lodge his "serious" charges against revolutionists within the administration. McFadden became his champion. The congressman from Pennsylvania declared that he would counsel Wirt to say nothing whatsoever unless he were given a chance to report at length this dastardly plot against civilization.

A leading Washington editor expressed the opinion that McFadden is a "crank," whose word counts for little. Another editor described the congressman as a lunatic. After two conversations with the man, I would entirely discount latter critic's assertion, but with regard to the former I can subscribe to the "crank" part but not entirely to the statement that his word counts for little. McFadis neither wild-eyed nor ratic in action. At times he can be one of the most effective spell-binders on the House floor. I don't know what incident in his life embittered him against the Jews, but I do know that he so cleverly combines his hatred with good rhetoric, that he is gaining some following.

In a speech delivered on May 29, 933, entitled "In the United 1933, States Today, the Gentiles Have Slips of Paper While the Jews Have the Gold and Lawful Money," McFadden read into the record an excerpt from the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion. cerpt was published in the Dear-born Independent some years ago, and was duly rescinded and apologized for at a later date—a fact which McFadden did not mention. After reading the various methods by which Gentiles will be left only bits of paper, McFadden quoted:

"Article XII (Protocols): We modern power-gold; in two days we could free it from our treasuries in any desired quantities.

"The Jews are economists esoteric and exoteric: They have one system to langle up the Gentile which they hope to install when 'Gentile' stupidity has bankrupted the world. . . . We will surround our Government with a whole world of economists. It is for that reason that the science of economics is the chief subject of instrucics is the chief subject of instruc-tion taught by the Jews."

From this point McFadden went into a great dissertation on the force Americans to pay tribute to mails at public expense and carforeign rulers and potentates. Take back this country or perish in the attempt. Let this be our country again. Let us rebuild it for our own. Let us keep the Stars and Stripes floating over the roof of the capitol. Let us cling to the Constitution of the United States This is the way to freedom and prosperity. The way of repudia-tion is madness. Remember, Mr. Chairman, that the Ship of State has women and children aboard. Do not, therefore, guide it into un-charted waters. Do not allow the great Democratic Party to steer it onto the rocks while the world waits for it to founder and go down so that the international salvage crews may set to work on the wreck of it." There was ap-

I quote the speech at length, because it was an eloquent speech.
I believe that such sentiments so adequately expressed would inspire many patriots to rally around Mc-Fadden's banner. I believe it requires more than average intelligence to precipitate the vicious es-sence of intolerance from the holgence to precuprate the visious es: Janons in celestration of Jewise sence of indicerance from the hol-Book Week. It is far more dangerous than the anonymous chain-letters now being sent through the mails, which in their composition damn themselves as the product of evil, unwholesome persons.

If the American Nazi revolution should ever come, bearing with it restriction of the personal liberties of all and death, humiliation, and physical and mental torture of the Jews, McFadden may well petition for a place high among those being rewarded for leading the revo

side has with art is as a sprawing picturesque model to be painted and drawn and etched and lithographed again and again by Jewish artists who cannot, or will not, cut the umbilical cord Even George Luks, who Pennsylvania and had not a drop of Jewish blood in his veins found the East Side too rich and too picturesque to resist it and one of the prize pictures he turned out bears the title of East Houston street. Later in life, when he had the means, he had an East Side pushcart whose color combin-ations he liked carried up to the top floor of his East Twenty-second street studio and painted it there, with the pedlar standing by, there, with the pediar standing by, in a double sense. At the First Municipal Art Exhibition, as I have twice before noted in this column, about the only plece of work that looked distinctively Jewish was an etching entitled Orchard street, by a man called McNuity. To move to another realm of art, the written word, Theodore Dreiser used at times to spend a Saturday night pawing among the neckties and the socks on East Side pushcarts, at least once under the guidance of Burton Rascoe. Pushcarts, at least for those who don't have to make their livings from them, have an artistic justification above and beyond their economic and I am cer-tain that when, and if, any seri-ous movement is made to abandon the pushcart-system of making a living, artists will be found en masse on the side of the pediars.

But I wasn't planning to write about pushcarts, except to point out that pushcarts do not constiout that pushearts do not consti-tute the only contribution of the East Side to art. There is also the Educational Alliance and, more specifically, the art school of the Alliance under the head of Abbo Ostrowsky, painter and etcher, under whose direction the school was founded twenty were seen. was founded twenty years ago, in was founded twenty years ago, in 1914. Mr. Ostrowsky seems too 'ung a man today to have founded by the fact remains that he did.

Modest, Mild, Efficient

By the time he had arrived in the United States, in 1908, he had already studied art at Odessa and between the date of his arrival and the founding of the art school at the Alliance, he studied at the National Academy here. He seems to be a modest, mild and efficient sort of person and, like most good artists, more fluent of expression with the tools of his art and craft than with the tongue or pen. There is much at the Educational Alliance to which he can point with pride, but he consistently refrains from doing so.

The Alliance art school, he tells vas founded at the height of Jewish immigration into the United States. For many young immi-grants who came to it, the art school helped to cushion the clash between the old background and the new environment, between the old spiritual and religious values and the new urgencies of getting along under fundamentally changed conditions. The school helped in the processes of adaptation; it replenished with new material the spiritual and intellectual vessel, so to speak, which the Talmud, for example, and Talmudic values had helped fill on the other side of the Atlantic. To be sure, not every young immigrant found his mediyoung immigrant round his mean; many imm of expression in art; many found it in the labor movement, in Dally Bulletin—the only Jewish dally newspaper grinted in English

The chief connection the East

Those who sought emotional expression through art, there was the Side has with art is as a snrawlpression through art, there was the art school, a bulwark whose func-tion, in Mr. Ostrowsky's words, was, and is "to give equipment to those who may have something to contribute."

One Bundred Students

At the present moment there are one hundred students in the art department of the Alliance, including the evening and Sunday students who have jobs and who may be classified as the recrea-tional painters. There are classes in painting, sculpture, etching and in the applied arts. The teaching staff has been reduced to three, including Mr. Ostrowsky. The course for the full-time artists is five years, which limitation is of course not ironclad. You may stay longer, you may go sooner. Important painters have come out of the Alliance, but Mr. Ostrowsky that the student stands or falls by himself; that no good teacher can overcome the defects of a bad student, and no bad teacher can spoil a good student.

He insists that the longer a man teaches art the less ready is he to predict that this student will be a success and the other a failure. He values emotional power and sin-cerity and industry far more highly than glib craftsmanship. He in-timated that he has been surprised too often by the unexpected in the fortunes of his students to venture again even to guess at what stu-dents will do with their futures or their futures with them.

Mr. Ostrowsky tells me that it was discovered, during the life of the art school, that in the course of the five-year training period, some of the more emotional stu dents get off into day-dreaming and that, as a result, many of them found it difficult to adapt themselves to the exigencies of earning a living. To help these students, to make it possible for them to live by applied art, should they find it difficult to live by pure art alone—and what a pathetically small number of painters do manage to live by pure art alone— craft classes were started, only two years ago. These classes are chiefly for the full-time students.

The Division of Study

The procedure is as follows: In the morning the students work in the craft classes and after lunch, which is provided out of the craft class funds, the students go to their painting, or drawing or sculp-ture, class. The surplus from the ture, class. The surplus from the sale of the craft studio products is divided among the students. Mr. Ostrowsky showed me some lovely block-print linens, some of which are purchased by local department stores; screens, some of which are commissioned, a large tablecloth with designs made from Hebrew motifs, and similar objects. In the craft classes the students learn about the application of art to in-dustrial needs, such as advertising and magazine illustration.

Among the well-known American painters who have passed through the Alliance art school are Peter Blume, an almost magical colorist; Moses Soyer, Saul man and Ary Stillman, whose oneman show at the Midtown Gal-leries is eminently worth seeing, leries is eminently worth seeing and Maurice Glickman, sculptor who won a Guggenheim fellows this year. Another student has been Isaac Soyer, younger brother of the Soyer twins.

Shots From Old News Reels

Although it is claimed that Cor-elius Vanderbilt Jr., filmed most of the picture in Germany and Austria, a great portion of it looked like shots clipped from old, and I mean old, news-reels. In its entirety "Hitler's Reign of Ter-ror" is inferior fare, badly directpoorly put together and exceedingly long-winded. Structurally it shows Edwin C. Hill, radio newscommentator telephoning from New York to young Vanderbilt, who at the moment is in a Berlin who at the moment is in a Berlin hotel in the midst of the Hitler riots. He is engaged in asking Vanderbilt what is going on and suggesting that "Neal" as he calls him, bring back pictures of what he sses. . From that point the film back and forth between jumps shots of action and pictures of Mr. Vanderbilt telling his story. ex-millionaire is not a bad looking chap but after about thirty profiles of him, one does become a little tired of it all

Studio Made

An unforgiveable mistake was made by the producers in insert-ing studio shots into this supposedly authentic film. While Vanderbilt was in Germany he inter-viewed both Hitler and the ex-Crown Prince. Naturally no cam-eramen were about. In recounting the interviews the producers have introduced actors into the picture who impersonate these figpicture who impersonate these hg-ures. The actors unfortunately hardly resemble the originals. In addition there are scenes of Nazi activities which are palpably faked, such as a Nazi calling Van-derbilt on the phone and telling him that the Nazis are not satis-fied with his investigations, or a shot of Vanderbilt's automobile being searched by German soldiers. This sort of thing does not increase one's confidence in the film Exhibit of Primitive Governor Herbert H. Lehman was urged last night to sign the Wald Bill prohibiting the changing of labels of origin on foreign mer or laneis of origin on foreign iner-chandise. A memorandum pleading for his signature was sent to the Governor by the New York State Lawyers Committee of the Non Sectarian Anti-Nazi League.

The bill, which was introduced by State Senator Albert J. Wald by State Senator Albert J. Walc of the Bronx, was passed last Sat-urday night by the Senate and Assembly during the last hour be-fore adjournment. It must be signed by Governor Lehman be fore it becomes law.

Passage of the bill makes it misdemeanor for a dealer to sell any article on which the label has to his knowledge been altered, de-faced, obliterated or removed. The present state law only covers affirmative misbrandings. The meas-ure just passed is aimed at halting the fraudulent practices of tam-pering with labels by importers and merchants, especially those and merchants, especially those dealing in German goods who seel to overcome the growing boycott on Nazi merchandise.

The memorandum of the meas ure was prepared by Mitchell Salem Fisher and Professor Milton Handler of Columbia University.

Supplements Ruling
The Wald Bill supplements the recent Treasury Department rul-ing against the changing of labels ing against the changing of labels on goods coming into this country. The federal ruling, however, applies only to goods coming into the United States, whereas the State bill applies to merchandise already

Launch Drive to Feed

Zion School Children

The Jewish community in Palestine has launched a "feed-every-child campaign" in an effort to child campaign" in an effort to protect children attending Jewish Agency schools from nutritional diseases, according to Mrs. Her-man Schulman, national chairman drive for funds in this country.

Three hundred Hadassah chap-ers in the United States have been asked to oversubscribe their school luncheon quotas because of the influx in Palestine of refugee children, who, it is said, are especially susceptible to nutritional maladies.

Orthodox Chief Declares Controversy Confuses Iewish Public

Rabbi Konvitz

Sharp criticism of the statement issued by Rabbi Joseph Konvitz last Sunday challenging the authority of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations in questions of kashruth regulation was voiced yesterday by William Weiss, president of the Union.

Deploring the "public contro-versy, which can only result in further confusing the Jewish commu-nity," Weiss declared that the Union of Congregations preferred not to enter into extended discussion.

"This appears to be," he said.
"merely another attempt on the part of the rabbinical groups to assume for its individual rabbis the sole authority to issue kash-ruth sanctions. During the past few years, the Union has been deavoring to establish order in the chaotic field of kashruth. The kashruth policy of the Union is a non-commercial one. It is op-posed to charging fees for 'hech-sherim' (kashruth sanctions). The Union feels that the Jewish public should not be given any grounds for a complaint that prices of food products are excessively increased ccause of kashruth."

The Union of Orthodox Congre gations, founded thirty-six years ago, lists among its members Rab-bis Leo Jung, Herbert S. Goldstein, Bernard Drachman, Moses Hyam-son, H. Pereira Mendes, David de Sola Pool. Joseph Lookstein and Senator Albert Wald, Harry Fischel, Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter and Isadore Gross

Schoenberg Is Feted At Mailamm Reception

Arnold Schoenberg, composer, was tendered a recep-tion last night by Mailamm, Palestine Institute of Musical Sci-ences, at the Jewish Club, 23 West Seventy-third street.

The program featured selections by the Hall Johnson choir, and a concert by Charles Haywood and Judith Litante. A. W. Binder was at the piano.

Others on the program were Judge Jonah J. Goldstein, Presi-dent of the Jewish Club, who spoke; Mrs. Charles Zunser, president of Mailamm; Lazare Saminsky, music director of Temple Emanu-el, and Rabbi Louis I. Emanu-ei, and Rabbi Louis I. Newman, chairman. The recep-tion committee included Dr. and Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, Judge and Mrs. Julian W. Mack, and a host of distinguished musicians and social leaders.

The Bulletin's Day Book

Over Kashruth The streets of Berlin are crowd- | ures, like this: 1.000.000. today. Two million yes-men concentrate on Tempelhof Field to participate in the great May Day celebration the modern counterpart of the Roman gladiatorial games.

> The similarity between the two affairs is striking. Historians tell us that the shows in the Arena at Rome were limited to two a year, so that the appetite of the mon would be whetted continually. The imbecile emperor Claudius loved the pastime and would sit from overlooking the games, going down to the arena every so often to coax or force the poor gladiators to go on with their horrible work.

> Hitler, aping Claudius, has an-nounced that his May Day show will be bigger and better than last year, with two million or more people taking part. Last year only a million were promised. The German propaganda-hounds evidently have a better knowledge of psy-chology than even the imbecile Ro-man emperor, for they limit their big circuses to one a year, so that the mob will eagerly await each

There is no doubt that the brown shirts will do themselves brown with today's event. Everyone has to march, with attendance taken at every step he makes. One wonders how the onlookers will be supplied-perhaps their will be taken too. The most interesting feature of the shindig today is not, however, the number of people participating, or the fact that the poor celebrators will have to be on their feet for twelve hours straight with only a sandwich and a chance sip of warm beer to sustain them. isn't even the announcement that 410 doctors and 6,500 members of the Storm Troop ambulance ser-vice will be on hand all day at Tempelhof Field. The most interesting feature of the shindig lies in the reason for that announcement. And for that we must go back to the 1933 Nazi May Day celebration.

Last year they had a big crowd oo. Of course, it wasn't as big as this, but even a mere million is a number that rolls out of your typewriter in nice, fat, round fig-

Forty-One Jewish Co-eds Pledged to N. Y. U. Sororities

lion is a lot. And to get that many people to attend, Nazidom had is sued an order that everybody must be there, with no excuses to be accepted at all. They came.
Workers glad to get a day off,
school children out for a noisy holiday, serious storm troopers, girls all painted up like on Saturday night, methors wires, abilday nights, mothers, wives, children, all came. Yes, they had quite a mob there.

But it seems that the Nazi order d been taken too seriouslywhich is easy to understand, conditions in the Reich being what they are. So, when the crowd came to Tempelhof Field, expectant mo thers came with the rest of them anything for the Fatherland.

And on May 1, 1933, seven children were born on the Field, prob ably fine strapping youngsters with a silver swastika in their mouths. and a curse for the Jews on their lips, and their knees all set for genufiecting before the Fuchrer. Hitler, they say, was quite upset.

He had issued no orders for birthgiving on a May Day celebration. Why, it was almost a case of insubordination!

So, today, police captains have very strict orders about the march. No babics allowed! The several thousand men acting as commanders of the parade will see to it personally. Dr. Robert Ley himself, all-powerful leader of the Nazi Labor Front, is stationing himself in a blimp over the field to make sure that no mishap occurs.

And then, of course, there are the 410 physicians and the 6,500 members of the storm troop ambu-lance scrvice, just in case some buxom blond young Frau's loyalty to handsome Adolf will overcome obedience to his orders.

lewish Financiers Aid Development: Figure Exceeds 1932

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence) JERUSALEM, April 17.—More than £6,000,000 was the sum invested by Jewish financiers during 1933 in this country, according to a special report made by the Jew-ish Telegraphic Agency Bureau. To this fact chiefly is due the in-creasing prosperity of the country. In the previous year the figure was less than half its present size

The addition there was £500,000 The addition there was £500,000 pounds invested in education and health which accrued to the benefit of Hebrew University, health branches of American Hadassah and the Technical College of Haifa.

New Plantations

Of the £6,000,000 investments over £1,400,000 was absorbed by new plantations. About £1,200,000 was invested by the Pica, the Keren Hayesod and by private land owners in agricultural undertakings.

About $2,600,000 has been placed into the construction of houses and of this sum no less than £1,-600,000 has fallen to the building trade in Tel Aviv and the neighboring village of Ramat-Gan. Roughly £800,000 had been invested in industrial enterprises. Besides productive investments, £10,-000,000 had been deposited in the Palestine banks, according to an official communique issued here.

This sum, which is double the amount deposited in Palestine banks in 1932, is unable to find its way into constructive channels.

While the investigation committee is outlining its plans, the problem of subversive propaganda ac-tivities in the United States is coming to the attention more and more of greater numbers of Congressmen and the general public.

gressmen and the general public.

The lengths to which Nazi propaganda mongers would go was clearly indicated on Capitol Hill during the past week with the receipt by Congressmen of a new receipt by Congressmen of a new publication called the "American Illustrated News," published in Berlin, and sent to the American law-makers to "sell" them the virtues of Hitler and the Nazi "American form of government.

In view of former charges that these two German steamship com-panies have been instrumental in bringing Nazi propaganda literature into this country, it is likely that Representative McCormack will have his committee look further into these charges definitely to determine the part these two campanies are playing in further-ing the spread of subversive propaganda in this country.

The attention of the Senate has been called to subversive propa-ganda activities by Senator Thom-as D. Schall of Minnesota. Senator as D. Schall of Minnesota. Senator Schall told his colleagues that he had received a letter from Emil E. Holmes of Minneapolis, former commander of the Disabled American Veterans, and in 1932 Demoican Veterans, and in 1932 Demo-cratic candidate for Congress, calling attention to "a self-styled organization known as the 'Cru-sader White Shirts—American Fascisti'." This organization is headed by George W. Christians. White Shirts Militaristic

With the letter were enclosed two pamphlets describing the organization, "saying that it will be a military organization armed with wooden staffs, officered and drilled in accordance with United States Army regulations, wearing white shirts with a large red crusader cross on the front middle, and with small crossed American and red crusader flags on the left breast, sort of a Bolshevik, Hitler, Ku Klux Klan all in one," Senator Schall said.
