The Handwriting on the Wall
VICE CHANCELLOR FRANZ VON PAPPEN, in a public address, sharply criticized the Nazi regime the day after Hitler had declared that "Germany's fist was ready to smash" critics and that the end of foreign dictatorship to Germany had arrived.

Von Pappen said, among other things:

"The press is no longer a safety valve. The real purpose of the press would seem to be to inform the government of defects that have crept in and point out where corruption has secured a berth, where serious mistakes have been made, where unfit men have been in wrong places and where sins are being committed against the spirit of the German revolution. An anonymous or secret service, be it ever so excellently organized, can never be a substitute for this task of the press. . . . The politicians can reform the state but not life itself. . . ."

In my opinion, the German state of the near future date find its crowning glory in a chief of state who once for all is removed from the political right-of-way and from clashes among economic and vocational interests. . . .

"Not by inciting the people, especially the youth; not by uttering threats against helpless sections of the population, but only by the truthful exchange of views with the people, can confidence be increased."

"When once a revolution has been completed, the government must represent only the people as a whole and need not be an exponent of single groups."

These statements contain the boldest criticism thus far leveled at Hitler in Germany by a member of the government.

The Vice Chancellor's daring speech was suppressed by order of the government. Only those who heard it at the Wehrburg University were started by the audacious attack on the Hitler regime. The German people were not permitted to read it in their newspapers.

On the same day General Goering made the admission that enthusiasm for the Hitler regime is on the wane in Germany and that discontent is growing.

"An application of new and perhaps still more radical and revolutionary methods would scarcely produce any improvement," said General Goering, "but it is not our place to decide whether a second revolution is necessary. The first revolution was brought to light by the German people and has been terminated by the Leader. If the Leader wishes a second revolution, then tomorrow we stand in the streets. If he does not wish that we will crush those who want to bring about a revolution against the will of the Leader."

4 Revisionists Found Guilty Of Sedition

Achmeier Is Sentenced to 21 Months at Hard Labor

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
JERUSALEM, June 19.—Abraham Achmeier and three of his Revisionist co-defendants, charged with sedition and accused of advocating and encouraging the overthrow of the Palestine government by force and violence, were found guilty today in Jaffa District Court.

Achmeier, recently acquitted of charges of complicity in the Ariosoort murder, was sentenced to twenty-one months imprisonment at hard labor. The judge explained, this leniency and the granting of a minimum sentence on the grounds that Achmeier had already been jailed for some time. Haim Dviri was sentenced to fifteen months at hard labor and Jacob Orenstein and Yehoshua Lichter respectively to nine and three months sentences of ordinary imprisonment.

The verdict in the case of Dr. Y. Yevien, Revisionist editor, was postponed until next week in view of Yevien's illness. The postponement seems to be indicative of the finding of a guilty verdict against the editor. Charges had previously been dropped in the case of Josef Katzenelson after presentation of

Baron de Rothschild Assails Hitlerism; Predicts Its Downfall

(Special to the J.D.B.)
WASHINGTON, June 19.—Baron de Rothschild, French Senator, today told a group of Jewish Congressmen that Hitlerism will soon fall in Germany. He assailed the policies of the Nazis toward the Jews.

"Most gratifying news has come," he said, "The mark has fallen and the gold reserves are reduced. I don't say it will be tomorrow, but some day the Hitler regime will fall."

The Baron received an invitation from Representative Samuel Dickstein, who said he represented the Jews of America, to attend the Jewish people's Day to be held in connection with the Chicago World's Fair on July 29.

Rabbi and Boyair-Aide Brother Snarl Charges at Each Other

Two brothers—one a Brooklyn rabbi, the other an employee of Carl Boyer & Associates, a publicity concern engaged in disseminating Nazi propaganda in this country, according to recent revelations brought to light by a Congressional investigation—snarled recriminations at each other yesterday.

"Many a preacher's son has gone wrong and a rabbi's brother may turn out bad," said Rabbi Louis D. Gross, editor of the Jewish Examiner. "This is one instance

Strickland, Davies Query Cunliffe-Lister, Who Denies Charge

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
LONDON, June 19.—The government's policy with regard to immigration of Jews into Palestine is under fire in the House of Commons again today when two members of the House, Captain W. F. Strickland and Rhys Davies, queried Colonial Secretary Cunliffe-Lister at length on the government's stand.

Pointing out, in a series of questions, the dissatisfaction existing with regard to the restriction of Jewish immigration in view of the British government's undertaking to assist the Jews in the reconstruction of Palestine, the two men asked Cunliffe-Lister whether he would consult Palestine High Commissioner Wauchope with regard to an increase in the immigration quota.

Cunliffe-Lister, in reply, asserted that the immigration restrictions were based on the absorptive capacity of the country. He could give detailed figures on this, he said, without notice. In any event, High Commissioner Wauchope was the sole judge of the country's absorptive capacity.

Captain Strickland asked the Colonial Secretary whether he would not agree that there had been government restrictions on Jewish immigration. Cunliffe-Lister declared in reply that the policy of the government had not changed in the past fifteen years. He admitted, however, that the number of visas requested by the Jewish Agency for Palestine had been restricted by the government.

Mizrachi Leaves National Council

Orthodox Zionist Group Objects to Vaad Leumi Control by Labor

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
JERUSALEM, June 19.—The Mizrachi, orthodox Zionist group, today officially withdrew from membership in the Vaad Leumi, the Jewish National Council of Palestine.

The action, which had been impending for some time, was taken because "the Assefat Hachivrim, the Jewish elected assembly, has not succeeded in finding any way of bringing all parts of the Yishuv (the Jewish population) into the Knesset Israel, (Palestine Jewish community organization)."

Another reason cited for this step in the official statement announcing withdrawal was that "the Vaad Leumi in its fact entity is under the control of the Histadrut (Jewish labor federation of Palestine)."

Posters Distributed in Palestine Appeal for Help

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
JERUSALEM, June 19.—Bearing the signatures of sixteen leading Palestine rabbis, headed by Rabbi A. I. Ha Cohen, Kook, Jacob Meir and B. Z. Uziel, posters were distributed throughout the country today appealing to the Jewish population to aid the fight of Abraham Stavsky for reversal of his conviction for the murder of Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff.

Basing their action on the decision of Judge Moshe Valero, member of the Court of Appeals, who, in opposition to the majority vote of the court, held Stavsky innocent, the rabbis signing the appeal declared:

"The rabbis can testify before God and man that Stavsky had nothing to do with the Arlosoroff murder."

World-Wide Call Issued

Following the appeal of the sixteen rabbis, a call to the Yishuv and the Jewish nation in the diaspora, was issued over the signatures of 110 prominent Jewish leaders.

"We deeply believe that the court has passed a seriously mistaken judgment," the statement asserted. "An innocent man has been sentenced to death under a majority decision. Stavsky is the victim of a terrible mistake."

"We see it our duty to awaken Jewish public opinion to save the innocent. The defense attorneys for truth and justice should be continued."

"We believe and hope the truth will conquer."
Among the signers of the plea were M. Dizengoff, Mayor of Tel Aviv, and Victor Mayor Kokeach, M. Suliniansky, farmer-writer, Dr. Saul Chernichovsky, Herschel Parstein, Mizrahi, leader; Rabbi Kook, Uziel, Meier Berlin and Fishman; leaders of the Mizrahi, General Zionists, Jewish State party, prominent poets, writers, journalists, (Continued on Page Eight)

Polish Jewish Scholar Spurns Reappointment

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
WARSAW, June 19.—Professor Hercul Handelman, aged Jewish dean of the history faculty of the University of Warsaw, turned down an offer reappointment to the post which also includes administrative power in the classics department.

In his place a Christian professor of archeology, Antoniewicz, was elected.

Dr. Handelman was subjected to a (one) attack by five members of the National Democratic party, Endekes, who sent him to the hospital with serious injuries. The five were students. The university was closed on March 14 and reopened April 10 as a result of this and other similar outbreaks.

Deutch Asked to Act on Fama; Aldermen Seek His Dismissal

An appeal by Alderman Walter R. Hart, representing the thickly settled Jewish district of Brownsville in Brooklyn, to Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutch, not to countenance bigotry and intolerance in whatever form, marked the discussion yesterday by the Board of Aldermen of bigotry charges against Dr. Charles Fama.

Dr. Fama, whose removal as a member of the Medical Board of the New York City Employees' Retirement Fund is sought by the Aldermen, was declared on the basis of an Aldermanic inquiry, to be unfit to hold office. The report of the inquiry committee of which Alderman Hart was chairman, was adopted by the board yesterday afternoon without dissenting voice.

The resolution notes that Mayor LaGuardia, who appoints Dr. Fama, has accepted full personal responsibility for the appointment, but calls upon the Aldermen to find the findings of the Aldermanic committee and his own public conscience.

"Mr. President," Alderman Hart shouted, addressing Mr. Deutch, "you and I are of the same faith and I call upon you not to countenance intolerance or bigotry, whether it be anti-Catholic or anti-Jewish. You cannot delegate your responsibilities to the Mayor. Those responsibilities were conferred upon you by the electorate of the city. As a member of the Board of Estimate it is up to you to state your own mind in the matter."

Mr. Deutch said, at the conclusion of the session, last night, that he would state his position and vote in accordance with his own views on the Board of Estimate, when the Mayor, to whom the matter has been referred, has made known his decision. Dr. Fama has been accused of vigorous anti-Catholic utterances in speeches, one of which was made before a gathering of the Ku Klux Klan, some years ago, in Jamaica. Other utterances complained of were published in various publications during the past four years.

He has denied that he is anti-

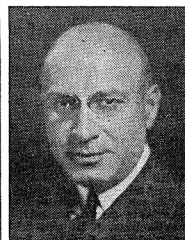

Catholic and has contended that he is simply anti-Fascist. Fama, who left the Catholic faith to become a Protestant, was also accused of being anti-Semitic. This he also denies. No anti-Semitic utterances have ever been attributed to him.

Schanzer Hits Court Removal

Assemblyman Albert D. symptomatic statements reflecting the discontent among the people and the approaching doom of Hitlerism.

It is reported from Germany that President von Hindenburg has recently become alarmed by the development of events which have isolated Germany and alienated her former friends. He has recently realized that Hitler is jeopardizing the very existence of Germany by his blunders. The old soldier is said to be determined to demand drastic changes of policy. And von Papen's attack on the present regime may be the beginning of Hindenburg's campaign to oust Hitler.

The growing economic catastrophe, the shortage of raw materials, the financial and moral crisis in Germany, the dissatisfaction and disillusionment among the deluded masses, the rising tide of discontent among the Junkers—all these point to the handwriting on the wall.

It was this crisis that caused Hitler to seek the conference with Mussolini, and, according to all indications, he returned from Venice empty-handed. He may have received sensible advice from the Italian dictator, in return for which he had to abandon his Nazi designs on Austria.

The Hitler machine is breaking down. The end may come sooner than the most optimistic observers expected.

THIRTEEN days ago Borden's Introduced Golden Crest Milk. This new milk with the deeper "cream line" made an instant hit. All over town people have been asking us how we have made Golden Crest so much creamier, so much more delicious than other Grade A Milk.

The picture above shows the answer: Since the first of the year several thousand Jersey and Guernsey cows have been added to Borden's Grade A dairy herds. These fine "cream-producing" breeds are hard to get and more expensive than ordinary cows. But they assure you more cream in every bottle of Golden Crest. (And earn an extra premium for the farmer, too—Borden's pays him more for this richer milk.) Borden's veterinarians have not only supervised the addition of these new cows to the dairy herds, they have helped, too, to arrange feeding schedules that assure richer and better-tasting milk. And every cow producing Borden's Golden Crest Milk is tuberculin-tested under the Federal-State accredited herd plan. Borden's own full-time staff of graduate veterinarians has been increased to make possible even more frequent examinations of the herd —(one more Borden safeguard to the health of your family). You can enjoy this creamier, finer milk every day. It costs no more than regular Grade A. And you can count on the same high percentage of cream. Borden's exacting laboratory tests vouch for the purity and richness of the milk as it comes from the farms.

Try Borden's Golden Crest yourself. Notice the "deeper cream line." Then taste the extra richness of the milk itself. You cannot mistake Golden Crest. It is sold only in a specially designed bottle with the distinctive red and gold seal.

Urges League To Recognize Jews as Nation

New England Zionists Make Proposal at Nashua Parley

(J.D.B. Special Correspondence)

NASHUA, N. H., June 17.—A proposal that the League of Nations extend recognition to the Jews as a nation by inviting them to occupy a chair in the League was made at the twentieth annual New England Zionist convention which opened here Saturday.

Elihu D. Stone, who declined to head the Zionist region at the fourteenth year, speaking at the banquet held following an all-day session, declared, "It countries like Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, occupy chairs in the League of Nations, the time has come for the official representative of the Jewish nation to occupy a chair in the League of Nations on the basis of equality and dignity."

"Such recognition," he said, "granted to the Jewish people by the League of Nations, would not be a statement of justice, but would be a statement of the highest order."

"Turn to Zion"

Louis Lipsky, American member of the League of Nations Executive, said that conditions in Germany and other parts of Europe have resulted in an exodus into Palestine as such took place into the United States during the 1930's.

"The eyes of the disinherited turn now to Zion," said Mr. Lipsky. "They come into Palestine to lay their own foundations and not wait to attend themselves to foundations others have built. They are making a new life for themselves in which their own ideals and traditions dominate."

The expressed protest against the immigration restrictions in Palestine against newcomers and urged support of the United Jewish Appeal, engaged in relief of the relief of German expatriates.

Benjamin Everts was elected president of the New England Zionist Union for the coming year. Other officers named were Max Kabatznick of Boston, secretary; Henry Yozel of Lynn, treasurer; Jacob Rabinovich of the United States, chairman of the finance committee. Others named to administrative positions were Eldad Markson, Lillian Rine and Bernard W. Marcus.

'Widow' Claims Estate, Cites Old Jewish Custom as Basis

(Special to the J.D.B.)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 19.—Judge Manley L. Fosseson now has under advisement an interesting case in which Mrs. Netta Miller, 60, claims she is entitled to the $3,650 estate of the late Abraham Miller, who died here on Feb. 20. She bases her claim on a marriage which she says took place on Jan. 21 in accordance with an old Jewish custom.

Describing the ceremony to Judge Fosseson when he appeared in opposition to the probating of Miller's will, the woman said he had announced their intention of being married in the presence of witnesses. There had been a prayer, he had placed a ring on her finger, they had embraced and had then quaffed a cup of wine which had been blessed. There was no rabbi present and no marriage license, the court was told.

Miller's will, executed prior to Jan. 21, names as heirs a stepson, Max Miller of Duluth, and Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Negroes, who had cared for him and his first wife, who died a year ago.

Neighbors testified Miller had talked to them about marrying the woman who now claims to be Mrs. Miller, and had introduced her as his wife, according to one witness.

The Bulletin's Day Book

When the final report is in on the Nazi-Jewish war in Germany, not the least interesting chapter of it may prove to be the various inconsistencies of the big, brave Nordic warriors.

Some of these inconsistencies are probably attributable to ignorance. It is difficult to imagine, for example, any other reason for Jewish Nazis, who have dedicated themselves to the task of wiping every trace of Jewishness out of their lives, submitting meekly first to the Wasserman test and then to the Ehrlich cure for the dreaded venereal disease. A 100 per cent Nazi, if he knew, that those two scientists were Jews, would assuredly rather rot from the disease than submit to a Jewish treatment for it.

An even more surprising inconsistency, surprising since in this instance the instinct for self-preservation is not among the instigating factors, is tied up with the songs that Nazis are encouraged to sing.

Recently an attempt was made to broadcast throughout the Nazi Hitlerarchy a humor program of 100 per cent "Aryan" derivation. When the Fuehrer's bright boys discovered that the vast majority of the German humor was of distinctly Semitic origin, they were honest enough to cancel the broadcast instead of trying to palm off on the public Jewish songs with an "Aryan" tag on them.

In the matter of songs, however, the Nazis have evidently reverted to their innate Germanic way of thinking. They may be able to do without their jokes when they discover their Jewish origin. But songs! Ach, how could a true German think of forsaking melody, love, or, in these modern times, "suech out to the stirring business of boycotting some Jewish store, and then to the public Jewish songs? Such a thing is inconceivable. They'll sing their songs even if it be to bring them in black and white. The songs have been written by poets who are Jews or descended from Jews. And if they feel that it is necessary, even while singing the Jewish-written songs, to show their contempt for Jewry, they can save their consciences by giving off a few sour notes here and there.

That this song-singing business is not just a figment of Jewish imagination nor part of a Jewish plot to create dissension in the Nazi ranks is easily proved by a glance at a recent issue of the Literarische Welt, the German literary review.

This publication has been giving a good deal of space recently to the memory of Germany's soldiers who were killed in the war. It remained the proud possession of the German people. Fourteen poets were discussed, poets whose songs live on in the hearts of the German people. And eleven of these fourteen were "non-Aryans"—in other words, Jews or descendants of Jews. Of these, two, the poetess Gertrude Oppenheimer and the son of Jewesses whose maiden names were Pollack and Schlesinger.

In addition to those mentioned by the Literarische Welt there are three more German poets who fell in battle against Germany's enemies who were Jews and who fought in Germany among the best. They are August Stramm, Hugo Zuckermann and Franz Ludwig Mayer. Of these, the last, Franz Zuckermann places the Nazis at their inconsistent best. For Zuckermann, for Zuckermann, the gallant Austrian cavalry officer, wrote a song called "Drueben am Wiesenrand hocken zwei Dohlen" and the Hitler youth sing it as they march out in their brown shirts against the Jews.

The song may be found printed in the Hitler Youth Song Book, published in 1934 by the supreme command.

That the fact of Zuckermann's Jewishness is known to the Nazis is undoubted and probably undeniable. Zuckermann's family, outraged at the thought that his work was used for such a purpose, wrote to the supreme command and declared they refused to allow his songs to appear in Hitlerist song books. They have had no reply. Since the protest five new editions of the song book have appeared, each including the Zuckermann poem under his name.

We think the Zuckermann family was wrong to have protested against the Nazi use of the song. Some day the beauty, the depth and the feeling of that song, which, translated literally means "Over there on the edge of the meadow two jackdaws are squatting," may penetrate the skulls of the barbaric Nordics, overwhelm them with a sense of their stupid behavior and the instrumental, perhaps, in returning them to the ways of civilized creatures.

Brooklyn Drive To Go On Until It Attains Goal

$500,000 Is Minimum Amount Needed, Says Nova

The Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities' $500,000 twenty-fifth anniversary campaign will continue indefinitely as long as it is necessary to what is declared to be the minimum amount necessary to meet the budgetary requirements of the twenty-five charitable societies, it is announced by County Judge Algoner I. Nova, chairman of the campaign.

In his opinion, the campaign, in a total of $500,000 must be secured, has just begun," said Judge Nova. "I call on all our supporters to tag in on all our patriotic activities, but to bend every effort to obtain every dollar possible for our great cause. The welfare of thousands of destitute, homeless and otherwise unfortunate people depends on the success of our drive."

$250,000 So Far

Nearly $250,000 in cash has been raised thus far in the Brooklyn campaign including annual subscriptions, contributions and special donations. On Federation Day, an annual event in the youth center, $42,000 was secured. Harry Zeitz was chairman of the day.

The women's division of the Federation raised in the Brooklyn campaign $100,000. It is announced by the president, Mrs. Clarence G. Bachrach, and expects to obtain the remainder through a dance and a benefit party to be given by the Ocean Front group at the Half Moon Hotel, Coney Island, Saturday night. Miss Mary E. Dillman, chairman of the Ocean Front unit. Mrs. Nathan L. Goldstein, chairman of the women's division roll call, which began May 21, and the total of $42,000 was raised in that endeavor.

The Junior Federation has completed the $75,000 quota allotted to that group in the Brooklyn Federation drive. More than $5,000 had been raised before the marine sport dance held at the Half Moon Hotel, Coney Island, last Saturday night, and funds resulting from that affair brought the total above the quota figure, according to Stuart M. Miller, campaign chairman for the Junior unit. Sam Weinberg was chairman of the dance committees.

CRITICAL MOMENTS

By GEORGE JOEL

Hail Haley

Jack Haley, who in "Good News," "Follow Thru," and "Take a Chance," three musicals which were smash hits on Broadway, ran away with the comedy honors, repeats his stage successes in the latest picture "Here Comes the Groom," which Paramount recently released.

Ablly supported by the always amusing Mary Boland and the very attractive looking Patricia Ellis, Haley is cast in the role of a piccolo player named Mike Scanlon. The mere idea, as you can guess, has humorous possibilities, and Haley gets the most out of them. In plot "Here Comes the Groom" wanders all over the lot. Mike Scanlon is shown about to hold up a poker game, but he loses what little nerve he has and finds himself a victim of another highwayman with the same intentions. The police, however, are after Mike, and he escapes to the compartment of a train occupied by Miss Ellis. She is supposed to be waiting for a suitor, a man who is about to marry her. He doesn't turn up and Mike is drafted—it shows out to be a platonic affair and poor Mike spends the rest of the trip on the observation platform of the train.

When the train reaches its destination, California, Mike still poses as a bridgegroom and assumes the role of a crooner. The fact that Mike's voice is simply non-existent makes this a very difficult task, but with the aid of a tuned-in radio he nearly gets by—nearly. All is eventually discovered and in a series of glibly provoking situations the picture finally brings itself to a logical end.

As a clown Mr. Haley has few equals and in "Here Comes the Groom" he is at his best, which means entertainment of a high order. We recommend this one for the young who, like the "hailys" laughs good for the soul.

Sailors at the Roxy

Good timing brings this only fair picture about one of Uncle Sam's sailor boys to the Roxy. It is a Universal Picture and stars Chester Morris, who plays the role of a glib diamond in the rough. One day, while off duty, he rescues an heiress from drowning but the damsel was really not in danger but waiting for somebody else to pull her out of the water. Our sailor hero is, of course, smitten and when he leaves the Navy takes a job in the factory owned by the girl's uncle. The rich girl gives our hero hopes, but when he finds out that she has done so because of a wager, he is pretty disgusted. However, before the end of the picture simple love and straightforwardness prevail and a clinch between the ex-gob and the heiress is the delight of all optimists who still believe in fairy tales. Juvenile stuff, and a trifle trite. Not for adults with adult minds.

Cinema Notes and Happenings

Irving S. Cobb, humorist and short story writer, will have his first effort in comedy motion pictures released soon, under the title of "Speaking of Relations."

Leontine Ragan, the lady who starred in "Maedchen in Uniform," has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, for whom she will do some directing. Her first production, as yet untitled, will be released in the Fall.

From office boy to director is the up-ladder story of Charles Barton of Paramount. In 1926 he was incident stamps and running errands. Last week he received his first assignment as a director—it will be "Wagon Wheels."

The new Chicago World's Fair is a feature of this week's newsreel program at the Embassy Theatre. A twenty-minute tour which shows everything at the Fair includes a trip around the world along the Street of Nations.

Wagon Point graduation with former Secretary of War Baker presented diplomas, shows 250 Cadets becoming second lieutenants.

Brought ravages, revealing the extent of the disaster, show the rich farmlands of the Midwest becoming an American Sahara.

The colorful Trooping of the Color for King George is the Britain's contribution to the current program.

Goldblatt Honored By Notre Dame

Art Expert Receives Honorary Doctor of Laws Degree for His Work

(J.D.B. Special Correspondence)

CHICAGO, June 17.—Dr. Maurice Goldblatt of Chicago, art expert, received an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Notre Dame University at the annual commencement exercises at South Bend, Ind. The invitation from vice-president John F. O'Hara to Dr. Goldblatt, who also is a director of the University of Notre Dame art gallery, read:

"Your work for the development of this splendid cultural adjunct to the University has been notable and the University has designated you to receive the honorary Doctor of Laws degree, primarily as a recognition of your great contribution to the development of the Americans of an appreciation of real art."

Several years ago Dr. Goldblatt was elected by President Herriot, when in France, for his research work at the Louvre, and his findings regarding the painting of Leonardo da Vinci.

Sydney Carroll Comments On 'The House of Rothschild'

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

LONDON, May 29.—Sydney W. Carroll, writing in the Sunday Times, comments on "The House of Rothschild," screen hit, as follows:

"It cannot help querying the wisdom, from a Jewish standpoint, of a film, of that portion of the world that will accept it, a film that cannot as propaganda serve any other purpose than to ask Christians to believe that the only Jews in the world are good Jews; that in a battle of wits the Jew always surmounts his opponent; that, as husbands, fathers, lovers and business-men they have no equal, whilst they are perpetually aware of the fact that the Gentiles are anxious to destroy them. Propaganda of this kind is like a boomerang, that may return and injure its sender."

Tugwell's Senate quiz, which resulted in his confirmation, furnishes the verbal highlight of the show. The Iowa quadruplets, American rivals of the Canadian quadruplets, make their movie debut.

Other subjects are the Catalina plane crash; the San Salvador hurricane disaster in which 3,000 died; the Endeavour, British challenger for the South American title, showing her speed; General Harbord addressing the Second Division reunion, and the Latvian band.

Foreign stories include King Carol of Rumania inspecting his guards; Japanese wrestlers competing for the world championship; boxing for King Michael as a Duchrest schoolboy; Australian tennis stars playing in Paris; gymnasts of sixteen nations competing in a contest in Rome; and the King of Italy at a review.

Whether or not, domestic or foreign, it is the Jewish Daily Bulletin.

The hilarious story of an unbalancing act for King George is the Britain's contribution to the current program.

10,000 Youths Lend Boycott New Strength

Jewish Congress Group Reveals Plans for Vigilante Body

Ten thousand young people in New York City will be enlisted in a vigilante movement for the purpose of strengthening the boycott against Nazi-made goods, in accordance with a decision adopted at a conference attended and presided over by 300 delegates of professional, fraternal, religious, labor and business groups, held at the Central Jewish Institute under the auspices of the youth division of the American Jewish Congress.

The city is to be divided into fifteen zones, with committees set up in each to conduct the activities. The plan is to make a complete check of all places of business in an effort to establish whether or not they are continuing the boycott producing material in Nazi Germany. Measures will be taken to induce such business houses as continue to buy from Germany to discontinue such practices.

To Compile 'White Book'

The activities of the Vigilante Committee will make possible the compilation of a "White Book," carrying the names of business houses, hotels, restaurants, etc., purchasing from Germany as a protest against the Hitler government's regime of terror.

Max Lelive was named chairman of the vigilante committee, which will immediately initiate its program throughout New York, to be carried on in cooperation with the boycott department of the American Jewish Congress, of which Dr. Joseph Tenenbaum is chairman. The plan was adopted following addresses by Dr. Tenenbaum, Rabbi William F. Rosenblatt, Joseph Temple Israel, Max Lelive and I. Pomasny.

The recent moratorium declared by Germany on all its payments to the Jews was interpreted by Dr. Tenenbaum as a clear-cut indication that the Hitler regime is beginning to "crack up."

Sees 'Hoodwink' Attempt

Germany's explanation that the boycott was forced by the effects of the boycott upon her exports was described by Dr. Tenenbaum "as a wilful attempt to hoodwink the world into calling the boycott a 'harmless' and a military and propaganda expedient."

The most telling indication of the imminent collapse of the Hitler regime was the visit of Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, Hitler's personal press agent, to the United States, in the opinion of Dr. Tenenbaum. "Dr. Hanfstaengl," he asserted,

'Putzy' Invited to Attend Query In N.Y. on Truth About Reich

Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, aide to Chancellor Hitler and visitor to the Harvard Class of 1909 reunion, has been invited to attend a series of hearings designed to establish the truth about present day Germany. The hearings, to be held in New York for three days beginning June 27, are under the direction of the American Jewish Congress.

According to information from the commission, a number of well known attorneys and writers have consented to interview witnesses on conditions in Germany. The names, as given out by the commission, include: Clarence Darrow, George Z. Michale, Arthur Garfield Hayes, Dudley Field Malone, George Gordon Bittle, Stanley High, and Raymond L. Wise, the last mentioned serving as acting secretary. Mayor LaGuardia has been invited to speak.

Among the topics upon which witnesses will be questioned are political persecution, religious persecution, the Reichstag fire, the execution of German labor unions, new laws, and Nazi organizations in America.

Witnesses who will appear to testify on conditions in Germany include Gaston Bergery, ex-secretary of the French Foreign Relations Committee; George Harby Hay, the Earl of Epsom; Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld, well known German physician.

Revisionists Found Guilty of Sedition

the prosecution's evidence against him, when the court ruled that no sufficient evidence to hold him was presented. Moshe Svorai was found not guilty by the court at the same time the four others were found guilty.

The seven defendants were charged with organization of an alleged association, the British Bryonians, which allegedly aimed to cause disaffection with the Mandatory Power and the Palestine government.

The British Bryonians, according to the prosecution, was organized in November, 1931, as a secret terrorist organization. Twenty-three Revisionists were arrested throughout Palestine in wide raids conducted by the Palestine police last July on charges of belonging to the organization. Most of them were subsequently freed. The trial which concluded yesterday was an outcome of these raids.

Posters and Bodyguards Pursue Dr. Hanfstaengl

(Special to the J.D.B.)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 19.—Anti-Nazi posters and a brace of stout bodyguards followed Dr. Hanfstaengl to pursue Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, Hitler's No. 1 aide, as the towering Nazi went through the third day of the Harvard Class of '09 reunion.

Hanfstaengl, scarcely as communicative on political subjects as during the previous two days, today refused to discuss the von Papen speech or any other aspects of Hitler's Germany which might be construed as having political aspects.

The Hanfstaengl guards, four stout, coppery drawn men, the most competent of the force, dodged the bulky Nazi about the campus obviously feeling uncomfortable in the presence of the class of '09 and appearing quite unnecessary as the towering form of their ward, looming above the heads of the crowd, that gathered to see him indicated that he might well be able to take care of himself.

During Hanfstaengl's meeting with the press yesterday one representative of a Jewish newspaper asked: "You said that the 'Jewish question would wipe itself out' did you mean extermination?" At this, the enormous Nazi went into a tangle with his guards, who urged him to disregard the query. He was hustled away from the reporters without further ado.

Palestine Highways

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JERUSALEM, June 1.—Previous to the World War there was a very first class highway through Jerusalem. In 1933, there were 1,015 kilometers of good roads comprising the chief arteries of Palestine, according to the Commercial Bulletin.

Labor Quarandary Faces Shop Owners as They Weigh Strike

A cloud of conflicting reports and clashing interests descended over nearly 2,000 kosher butcher shop proprietors, who met last night at Webster Hall, 119 East Eleventh street, to decide whether to close their stores in protest against prevailing wholesale meat prices.

The meeting, under the auspices of the Federation of Kosher Shop Owners of Greater New York, was in charge of Charles Cohen, the organization's president.

Faced with the strong likelihood that if they should decide to close their stores they would not receive the cooperation of their 8,000 employees, all members of the Hebrew Butcher Workers Union, the shop owners found themselves in a quandary.

Approximately thirty-five per cent of the butcher workers union members, it was explained, are employed only by kosher butchers who own more than one store. This latter group, which has an organization of its own and is not affiliated with the Federation of Kosher Shop Owners, at present has no intention of striking, it was learned, since it is continuing to purchase merchandise at wholesale cut prices and is unaffected by the problem confronting the independents.

Splits Prevail

Last night's session found itself split up by factional influences, with a strong contingent of Bronx dealers holding firm for an anti-strike resolution, in the face of opposition voiced by

Wise Receives Appeal for Stavsky Defense Aid

Dr. Stephen S. Wise yesterday accepted receipt of a cable from Professor Joseph Klausner of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, in which he asserted the innocence of Abraham Stavsky, Revisionist leader, who was accused of the murder of Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff, and urged a fight to save the condemned man from death.

The cable, which was received June 15, reads as follows: "Abraham Stavsky sentenced to death in Jerusalem is innocent. In the name of justice, fight with all power to save him from death. The time is short."

Commenting on the cable, Dr. Wise said: "It is extraordinary to find that Professor Klausner does not say that Stavsky has not been fairly tried or that his guilt has not been adequately proven, but that he is innocent."

Others named were Jacob A. Brith, treasurer; Dr. David Gross, Prefecture, finance; Samuel I. Einhorn, relief and philanthropy; Louis Maron, junior activities; Joseph Fishberg, supply; Harold Berman, situation; Dr. H. West, printing; David Biederman, state of order; Julius L. Gross, scholarships, and Benjamin Steinman, general secretary.

Announcement was made that the 1935 convention will be held in Atlantic City.

Manhattan owners and others. The situation was further befuddled last night when the report came that the city-wide strike of non-Jewish meat trade workers is doomed to collapse.

The basis for this belief lay in reports that the Independent Butcher Workers Union, which has been organized to the effect that delegates representing those slaughter house workers who are still out—many of whom are returning to work—have gone to N.R.A. officials and asked their help toward reinstatement of the old status quo. These workers are perfectly willing to take their back without being fit of union membership, according to the above report.

If this story proved to be based on fact, the Independent Butcher Workers Union, at its meeting on Friday night, will decide against a walk-out; it was learned on reliable authority that the union has decided to take no action, but to wait until the situation is cleared up.

Poultry Dealers Protest

Further murmurs of dissension were reported yesterday among New York City poultry dealers, and the hot battle lines were being drawn. The dealers said they too will close their stores, in protest against truck unloading charges.

Although the Federation of Kosher Shop Owners was still in session at a late hour last night, a spokesman for the organization declared that if a strike should be called, the stores will finish out the week, closing down late Friday afternoon, not to reopen until some settlement of the grievances against the packers is reached.

Rabbi and Brother Assail Each Other connections with the Byoir firm.

"Soon after the expose of Carl Byoir & Associates at the recent Revisionist convention," David Gross, by the Congressional committee," his statement said in part, "Rabbi Louis D. Gross, learning that Carl Byoir is a Jew, the son of Russian Jewish parents, vigorously denounced Byoir as a traitor to the Jewish race, and scored Byoir's claim that he was really acting in behalf of the Jews."

When this portion of the statement was read to David, he snorted.

"Speaking not as a brother but as an individual," he said, "I shall continue to maintain my loyalty to Carl Byoir until it is proven beyond a shadow of doubt to my satisfaction that his activity is in Nazi empire. As matters now stand, I positively deny that he has such connections."

More from Rabbi Gross's statement.

"Pointing out that the daily press had carried stories about the connection with the Byoir concern of one David Gross, referred to as 'David Gross' by the Revisionists," he explained that he knew nothing of David Gross's connection with the Byoir concern until the expose at Washington, having been completely out of touch with him for the past four years. Upon being apprised of the situation, the editor of the Jewish Examiner informed him that David Gross severed his connection with Byoir. To this David Gross declared that his only connection with the public was only that of a minor employee, and that he was a little better than that of a clerk."

Better Than That

David took exception to the final phrase of the above paragraph.

"Little better than a clerk, eh?" he said. "How does he know what I do? The fact of the matter is, I'm a contact man for Byoir, and I'm a contact man for the great friend of the Jews, Byoir and I are trying to end anti-Semitism once and for all. We don't believe in the boycott. We see the boycott as a temporary measure and although it might accomplish its purpose for the time being, it wouldn't solve the problem."

More from the Rabbi Gross statement declares:

"Dr. Gross stated that... despite the fact that David Gross was not charged with any responsibility in the management of the Byoir concern, his status even as a clerk or scribbler placed him in a position of being a traitor to his people."

The charge David vehemently denied.

"I am now and always shall continue to be a friend to the Jews," he said.
