Nazi Exaggerations

Recently Mr. Victor Rothschild was barred from the Barn Club, a roadhouse in London, because he is a Jew. He came to the roadhouse with several friends to get something to eat, and was ordered off the premises. Mr. Rothschild sought no publicity for this incident, but merely remarked:

"It does sound rather like Nazi Germany, doesn't it?"

In England the incident created a sensation. In Germany the department of propaganda, through Goebbels' personal organ, the Angriff, sees in it evidence of the rapid growth of anti-Semitism in England.

"Anti-Semitism is making progress in England," writes the Angriff. "The descendant of the Rothschilds, the heir to the vast Jewish fortune made out of the blood of the Napoleonic War of Liberation, has fled in panic to recuperate at a French seaside resort, because he is afraid of the terrible anti-Semitism in England."

And Goebbels' organ concludes that "the Jewish press spreads the cloak of silence over such occurrences."

As the Jewish Chronicle points out "the English press (and by 'the Jewish press' the Angriff of course means the English press) has not hesitated to condemn the action of the roadhouse in question."

The Daily Sketch referred to the incident as follows:

"It is abominably like (Nazi Germany), and it is the duty of those who value the liberties of our country to jump on this example of anti-Semitism. I believe in combating the beginnings of this, as of other diseases."

The Yorkshire Post wrote:

"The great mass of Britishers remain absolutely averse to any such discrimination."

The Birmingham Gazette said:

"I have no more than a suspicion of the name of the place at which they declined to serve Mr. Rothschild, but even there they assured me twice during the day that they have no anti-Semitic prejudice whatsoever, and at every other roadhouse at which I made inquiries the answer was the same. Indeed, I imagine that for some time these places will go out of their way to be especially nice in this respect."

The Sunday Express said:

It is revealed that a member of the House of Rothschild has been denied refreshment at a roadhouse because he was a Jew. Eighty years ago a Rothschild, also because he was a Jew, secured an alteration in the M.P.'s oath that threw the House of Commons open to talent. He smashed intolerance in politics. ## Arabs Plan To Increase Post Patrols

Fear Renewal of Rioting in Palestine as Moslem Plot Activities

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
JERUSALEM, Aug. 28.—Accentuating the fears being felt by the Jewish population of Palestine that Arabs are plotting to use their forbidden activities in hunting for illegal immigrants as a starting point for renewed riots with Jews as the victims, was an article in today's issue of Falastin, Arabic daily newspaper.

The newspaper announced that a committee of Arab self-appointed coast guards would hold a conference in Jaffa tomorrow at which further mobilization of coastwise patrols would be discussed. Particular attention will be placed on the problem of patrolling Nathania, according to the newspaper, where recently a band of Arab youths garbed as boy scouts were attacked by young Jews who resented their activities in attempting to aid the government's war on illegal immigration.

As a direct result of this fracas, during which one young Arab was wounded, High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope issued a statement forbidding use of unauthorized agents in tracking down immigrants who had no proper passports.

The continued participation of Arabs in guarding the coastline is in open defiance of the edict and has given rise to considerable alarm in Jewish quarters that the Arabs were planning to launch a new onslaught against the Jews as bloody as that perpetrated five years ago. This suspicion was openly voiced yesterday by Haaretz, outstanding Hebrew daily, in a strong editorial in which it declared that Arab jealousy, coupled with annoyance at the great strides toward prosperity which Jewish settlers have made recently, is behind the suspected plot.

Volksblatt Emits Yelp As Non-Aryans Use Cabs Bedecked With Swastika

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
FRANKFURT-AM-MAIN, Aug. 28.—The Frankfurter Volksblatt wants rigorous punishment meted out to Jews who have the gall—so it seems to the Volksblatt—to ride around in hired taxicabs bearing the swastika emblem of the Nazis on the way from Jewish weddings.

The Volksblatt is all steamed up that Jews should dare to do any such thing.

"It is an affront," it complains, "to the national symbol to be used for Jewish religious purposes."

Berlin Mayor Limits Social Work Body for Jews in Edict

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BERLIN, Aug. 28.—The sole body authorized to deal with Jewish social work henceforth will be the social work department of the Jewish community, it was announced today by the mayor of Berlin.

'Misquoted,' Deutsch Charges On Return From Mexican Tour

Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutsch on his return yesterday from a month's stay in Mexico, expressed indignation at the manner in which, he said, he had been misinterpreted concerning his commendation of Mexican governmental policies, as reported in dispatches from Mexico City.

He also disclosed the details of his encounter with Mexican Golden Shirts and declared that he had been assured by highest Mexican officials that anti-Semitism in Mexico, financed by money from Germany, was being used to "build up" certain politicians who saw political capital in its advocacy.

He was also assured, he said, that the Mexican government would shortly quell the movement and stamp it out.

"Upon my return from my vacation in Mexico this morning, I was informed that some remarks which I was reported to have made in the course of an address delivered in Mexico had become the subject of severe criticism by the Catholic Press," Mr. Deutsch said.

"I examined some of the critical editorials, and I find that they are all based upon inaccurate reports of my purported remarks."

Praised Public Works

"The only statement which I made in Mexico praising its progressive attitude, followed an inspection trip to public works which have recently been initiated

Curb on Zionist Units Weighed By Lithuanians

Intercession Fruitless as Government Plans Halt on Activities

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
KAUNAS, Aug. 28.—The Lithuanian government is considering the suppression of all Lithuanian Zionist youth organizations and the intercession of Jewish groups has been unsuccessful, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned today.

Yesterday the chief of police of Siauliai ordered the closing of the Zionist youth organization offices for one year. In recent weeks Lithuania has been the scene of numerous anti-Jewish outbreaks. The Lithuanian government, in a statement to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, minimized some of the incidents and completely denied others. However, Lithuanian Jewish organizations have confirmed the stories and denied government allegations that Jews were responsible for the attacks.

Paul May Buried With Orthodox Rites

Late Belgian Envoy to U. S. Is Eulogized for Work at Final Services in Antwerp

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
ANTWERP, Aug. 28.—Paul May, late Belgian Ambassador to the United States, who died in Washington last month, was buried here today. The orthodox Jewish ritual was followed strictly.

Eulogizing the deceased, Grand Rabbi Wiener described him as having been a faithful Jew, a faithful Belgian and a great personality. Rev. Weill chanted the El Moleh Rachmin, traditional Jewish prayer for the dead.

Among those who attended the services were numerous foreign diplomats, government officials, representatives of Jewish organizations and the presidents of the Brussels and Antwerp Jewish communities.

The body was transported to Belgium aboard the United States Cruiser Pensacola. Earlier, it had been kept in a vault at the Arlington National Cemetery.

British Turn To 'Beth Din' As Problem Aid

Home Office Favors Way of Jews as Solution to Domestic Difficulties

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
LONDON, Aug. 28.—The Jewish way of dealing with unhappily married couples, is the best, officials of the British Home Office who completed a study of matrimonial problems, announced today.

The report made by the Home office group recommended that Great Britain adopt the Jewish method of setting up a Beth Din, or arbitration court, to settle home disputes instead of bringing the cases into courts.

Each Jewish community customarily has a private arbitration court made up of local Jewish notables and members of the rabinate to whom cases involving matrimonial and other problems are submitted. In these courts every effort is made to solve the problem offered without recourse to the regular courts. Efforts are also made to reconcile the couples before a divorce is considered.

English legal authorities and judges are convinced that half the

Nazis Plaster Villages With Anti-Jewish Signs As Party Parley Nears

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BERLIN, Aug. 28.—In preparation for the forthcoming Nazi party congress, all villages in the neighborhood of Nuremberg, where the congress is to be held, have been decorated with large signs, "Jews enter this village at their own risk," "Jews are not wanted here" and "This village is free from Jews."

Die Deutsche Zeitung, important Nazi paper, proudly points out that even in the fourteenth century Nuremberg was already opposed to the Jews.

Nuremberg is the headquarters of Julius Streicher, editor of the anti-Jewish weekly, Der Stuermer, and Nazi commissioner for Franconia. Under his rule Nuremberg has become notorious as the most outspoken anti-Semitic city in Germany.

Lays Misery Of Jews to Poles' Policy

Former Deputy Charges Regime Seeks to Oust Them From Life

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
WARSAW, Aug. 28.—The exact manner in which the Jews of Poland are slowly but surely being ousted from the economic life of the nation through a considered government policy was portrayed here today by former deputy Apolinaris M. Hartglas, who delivered the principal speech before the convention of the Polish Zionist Federation.

Hartglas enumerated in great detail the various branches of economic life from which the Jews were being forced and recalled the recent speech made by Premier Leon Kozlowski, in which he painted a gloomy future for Polish Jews and proclaimed that the government would fight against the middlemen (mostly Jews) and support consumer cooperatives. He also dealt with the amended industrial law, soon to go into effect and which, according to Hartglas, would completely ruin Polish Jewish artisans.

The speaker summarized the situation by saying that "in view of the government's anti-Jewish policy, 2,999,999 of the 3,000,000 Polish Jews are unnecessary."

Polish Jews, even those belonging to the government party, no longer have any influence, Hartglas said, adding that Polish Jewish leaders have ceased to make demands upon the government, knowing beforehand the futility of action.

A House Divided

"The Jews of Poland have ceased to believe in their own powers. Polish parliamentary Jewish life is paralyzed and the Jewish parties in Poland now constitute a house divided among itself," Hartglas said.

As an example of the tragic Jewish division, Hartglas cited the fact that even when faced with economic extinction, "the Jews cannot agree upon the formation of a united Jewish national council."

Referring to the attitude of the Polish government during the period when the Nara anti-Semites were carrying out widespread attacks on the Jews, Hartglas declared "no one could have foretold how far those riots would have spread if Minister of the Interior Bronislaw Pieracki had not

Seek Further Ban On Jewish Doctors

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BERLIN, Aug. 28.—The Medizinische Zeitung lays down a strong demand today that more Jewish doctors be deprived of the right to practice their professions and treat insurance cases.

Reporting that Berlin now has 256 fewer Jewish doctors than six months ago, the paper asserts this decrease—eleven per cent—is not sufficient.

Simon Warns Kashruth Body To Reorganize

Threatens Withdrawal of City's Support at Stormy Session

An emergency committee of the Kashruth Association led by Rabbi Nachman Ebin met yesterday with Arthur Simon, Health Department investigator in charge of kashruth enforcement to formulate plans for the reorganization of the Association.

The conference was called after a heated parley by the Association at the Hotel Pennsylvania Monday night which lasted until early yesterday morning.

Debate and recriminations marked the meeting. At one point, the meeting became so disorderly that Simon and Louis Lande, representing the City of New York, threatened to walk out and withdraw the City's support from the Association.

Simon told the 150 assembled members, for the most part orthodox rabbis, that the Association must be completely reorganized to obviate such wrangling as marked that meeting. Failing that, Simon said that the Association would not be allowed to control rabbinical supervision of poultry markets in New York as was previously planned by Judge Otto Rosalsky, the Mayor's mediator in the poultry market difficulties.

"This conference is called by the order of Judge Rosalsky," Rabbi Ebin, chairman, said in opening it. "Judge Rosalsky told me that he wants to hear the views of the Kashruth Association before announcing his decision in the poultry situation."

Rabbi Ebin and other speakers attacked the Rabbinical Advisory Council of Fifty recently appointed by Aldermanic President Bernard S. Deutsch to advise the City on Kashruth problems.

"The committee spent its time dealing in trifles," Rabbi Ebin declared.

Rabbi Ebin quoted Judge Rosalsky as saying, "I won't give a decision unless it is backed by the unified rabbinate."

The Judge was not present at the meeting.

"Not one rabbi in New York will be ignored in the plans for rabbinical supervision," Simon told the rabbis.

A resolution was adopted backing the stand of the shochtim that they cannot slaughter more than 12,000 pounds of poultry per week and guarantee that it is kosher.

Resolutions thanking Judge Rosalsky, Simon, Mayor LaGuardia, Deutsch, and Lande for their aid to the cause of Kashruth in New York City were passed by acclaim.

The Association resolved that one-half cent per pound of poultry must be allocated for rabbinical supervision and one-half cent for slaughtering.

Jewish Cattle Dealers Barred By Reich in the Southwest

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Jewish cattle dealers were ordered today to cease their trading activities in the Schwarzwald region.

The Schwarzwald or Black Forest is a mountainous district in southwest Germany of which about two-thirds lies in Baden and one-third in Wurttemberg.

Plight of Jews Explained by Neville Laski

Briton Conducts Survey of Their Conditions in Poland, Austria

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
LONDON, Aug. 28.—Neville Laski, president of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, stated at Warsaw that the Jews of Poland and Austria are suffering dire destitution, dispatches to the London press from that city reported today.

Laski is conducting investigations in both countries into the conditions of their Jewish inhabitants and is discussing their straits with the authorities and Jewish leaders with a view to achieving amelioration.

The American Joint Distribution Committee came in for praise from Laski, who said Jews of other countries might well follow the example it has set in helping the Jews of Poland who, he pointed out, comprise a large portion of the Jews in the world.

A. F. of L. Convention Will Discuss Fascist Trends Against Labor

Announcement was made yesterday that a session of the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor will be devoted to a symposium on Fascism.

The convention, which will be held late in September in San Francisco, will seek to rally the support of American working masses against forces, similar to those which have been successful in Europe, aiming to destroy organized labor.

Speakers at the symposium on Fascism will include William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Walter M. Citrine, chairman of the British Trades Union Congress, who will come here to participate in the convention, and B. Charney Vladeck, chairman of the Jewish Labor Committee, which has a membership of more than 600,000 Jewish trade unionists affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Dusterberg Not Killed But a 'Living Corpse,' He Tells Geneva Paper

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Lieutenant-Colonel Theodore Dusterberg was released from a concentration camp on August 2, it was ascertained today by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency. Since that time he has been free, it was revealed in the Tribune of Geneva, in which he makes the following statement:

"I was not killed, but I am a living corpse as a result of having been committed to a concentration camp's military jail on some silly suspicion in connection with Roehm."

A report in Monday's New York Post said Dusterberg had been slain during the June 30th purge.

Jesuit Ascribes Anti-Semitism To Envy of Superior Qualities

(Special to the J.D.B.)
SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 28.—A stirring defense of the Jews and an analysis of Judaism was delivered here this afternoon by the Rev. J. F. X. Murphy, faculty member of Boston College, in an address on "International Judaism," a feature of the eleventh annual convention of the Jesuit Philosophical Association of the Eastern States.

Father Murphy, who has frequently expressed the conviction that Christianity's debt to the Hebrew race is so profound that it can never be repaid, in his speech which led a general discussion of the topic, asserted that much of the world's hostility toward Jews today has as its basis "jealousy of the Jew's superior tenacity, perseverance and determination."

The two-day session, which will end tomorrow, has brought to Manresa Island, a secluded spot just off the coast of this city, some 110 faculty members of all the Jesuit colleges in the association.

Jew's Viewpoint Independent
Among the outstanding points emphasized by Father Murphy in his paper before the convention were the following:

The Jew, in general, is a non-conformer. His moral and social oscillation is far more in evidence than with most peoples. The history of the Jewish race, as delineated by the Old Testament, is ample evidence of the truth of those assertions, Father Murphy pointed out.

The Jewish nationalistic philosophy, he said, is a philosophy of negation, and for that reason the Jew is unassimilable in world populations today to a greater extent than are nearly any other people.

Then, citing the historic example of St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, he pointed to the great esteem in which Loyola held the Jews when he urged greater proselytization among them because they made the best Jesuits.

Decries 'Exploitation' Myth
The situation in Germany today was handled delicately by the Jesuit professor, who confined himself to the remark that it would be necessary to await the verdict of historians before arriving at a proper evaluation of its significance.

In discussing the economic aspects of Judaism, Father Murphy struck a blow at the age-old charge that Jews are exploiters of Christians. This charge, he said, was unfair, inasmuch as, like Christians, they did not hesitate to exploit each other.

Inhumanity of man to man, he declared, is a trait common to Jews, Gentiles and others as well.

Hitlerism Denounced
In a paper read prior to the discussion of Father Murphy's topic, the Rev. Laurence K. Patterson delivered a scathing attack against Hitler and "his satellites," when he characterized as preaching a gospel of nationalism "so perverted and ludicrous that it would arouse contempt were it not so dangerous."

"It is an almost obvious truism," he declared, "that exaggerated and bellicose nationalism is an outstanding world problem today. The present Holy Father, Pius XI, has written more than once concerning this burning issue. I cite but one passage from many: 'Right order and Christian charity do not disapprove of lawful love of country and of a sentiment of justifiable nationalism; if, however, egotism abusing this love of country and exaggerating this sentiment of nationalism insinuates itself into the relations between people and people there is no excess which will not seem justified, and that which between individuals would be judged blameworthy by all is now considered lawful and praiseworthy, if it is done in the name of this exaggerated nationalism.'"

"Instead of the great law of love and human brotherhood which embraces and holds in a single family all nations and peoples, there enters hatred, driving all to destruction."

Vienna's Needy Increase, Face A Hard Winter

50,000 Jews Depend on Charity, Friedmann Points Out

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
VIENNA, Aug. 28.—Fifty thousand and poverty stricken Jews in this city, one-fourth of the Jewish population, are now dependent upon the Vienna Jewish community for aid, Dr. Desider Friedmann, president of the community, declared today. Writing in the Neue Freie Presse, important Viennese daily, Dr. Friedmann painted a gloomy picture of Jewish distress in present-day Austria.

He declared that applications asking for relief are coming in from many Jews who only recently were well-to-do, including middle class people and the numerous Jewish bank employees recently discharged from Austrian banks. Distress among the Jews is growing at an alarming rate, Dr. Friedmann said, and the coming winter is certain to see an extension of Jewish misery.

The Austrian government contributed nothing at all for relief work among the Jews, leaving the entire burden on the Jewish community, despite a government decision made in 1927 recognizing the Jewish community's claim to a government subsidy for relief work.

Adjusting Our Lives

By DR. HERMAN FRANK

City Federation for Philanthropic Work

The great variety of Jewish social-philanthropic societies and other communal organizations in the United States has brought about the recognition, on the part of the communal leaders, of the value of co-operation and coordinated activity.

DR. FRANK

In 1927, when the first official census of the Jewish communal organizations was taken by the director of the Jewish Statistical Bureau, Dr. H. L. Linfield, as agent of the United States Bureau of the Census, forty-one out of the 871 independent communities reported the existence of city federations for communal activities.

Seven communities had federations of congregations; one, a federation of educational-recreational societies; and nine, federations of social-philanthropic organizations, such as brotherhoods, sisterhoods, men's clubs, etc. All of these nine, with one exception, were women's organizations.

In these city-wide federations, each member society continues to maintain its officers, membership, and other prerogatives of an independent society.

Two Types of Federations

In addition to this class of federation of local independent societies, primarily for the purpose of the discussion of common problems, there is another class of city-wide federations of much greater importance, which may be designated as the city-wide financial federations for philanthropic activities.

The second type of federation operates with a view to promoting economy in the collection of funds, to securing more adequate support for the work, and to increasing efficiency in the management of the work by avoiding overlapping and fostering cooperation.

In these city-wide federations, each constituent organization continues to exist as an entity and maintains its officers, but it agrees that its members shall become a part of the membership of the federation and that the right to solicit funds be vested in the federation. The latter, then, with the membership of the constituent societies as a nucleus, builds up a group of contributors whose donations go into a general fund to be distributed among the various societies.

Functions of Federations

The officers of the federations are elected at the annual meetings of the contributors or members of the federations, though in some cases a part of the board of trustees are designated by the constituent societies. At these meetings there are elected, by various methods, also the officers of every constituent society; and in some cases, the officers of the constituent societies are self-perpetuating; in others, they are appointed by the federation.

Contributions from the public, with a few exceptions as will be noted presently, received by the constituent societies, are turned over to the treasurer of the federation. The constituent societies, however, reserve for themselves certain sources of income, such as contributions from the municipalities and the states, payment for services, income from trust funds, special gifts and bequests. The treasurer of the federation is expected to cover the difference between the expenditures of the constituent societies and their "direct" income, if any.

Of the forty-two federations that reported in 1927, sixteen were independent ones, while twenty-six were members of Community Chests, that is, central organizations for the city as a whole.

The membership in ten out of these sixteen independent federations was 89,220, which gives an average of 883 members per 10,000 Jews in the community.

Federations at Work

The organizations that are members of federations include health organizations, such as hospitals; organizations for the care of dependents (family welfare societies, child care societies, homes for the aged, societies for delinquents, societies for the handicapped, and so on); educational organizations (Talmud Torahs); educational-recreational organizations, such as social welfare settlements, and Jewish centers.

In the City of New York, the amounts contributed by the federations to educational organizations and to educational-recreational organizations are comparatively small, but outside of New York, the work of the local educational associations going under the name of Bureau of Jewish Education, or Department of Jewish Education, is part of the work of the federation. In fact, in the smaller communities the chief beneficiaries of federations are often those organizations maintaining the Jewish Center and the Talmud Torah.

The federations, as a rule, contribute to the support of national organizations, such as the National Farm School, the HIAS, and others.

Difficulties in Large Cities

Local Jewish welfare federations, at the time of the first official census seven years ago were reported by forty-one communities, New York City having two, one for Manhattan and Bronx boroughs, and one for the borough of Brooklyn. A total of about three and a quarter million Jews, or seventy-seven per cent of the total American-Jewish population, resided in the cities having federations. The number of constituent societies in forty-one federations in 1927, was 497.

The total number of contributing members in Greater New York is less than 50,000, or hardly three per cent of the metropolitan Jewish population. Only 232 of every 10,000 Jews in New York City were federation members, while in Philadelphia, the ratio was 815 to 10,000; and in two cities of the class of 2,000 to 8,000 Jewish residents, the federation membership averaged 1,596 to 10,000 Jews in the community.

These figures bear out the general view accepted among Jewish communal workers in America that it is more difficult to secure members for federations in the larger Jewish communities than in the smaller ones.

Federation Stages Party, Fashion Show at Great Neck

The Women's Division of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies' North Shore Group, is holding an Annual Minute Luncheon, Garden Party and Fashion Show at The Terraces, home of Mrs. Irving Geller, Pond road, Great Neck, Long Island, today at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Sidney C. Borg, chairman of the Women's Division; Mrs. Alfred A. Cook and Mrs. Felix M. Warburg are guests of honor at the event.

Toledo Rabbi, Former Envoy, Leaves for N. Y. At Ellis Island

J. S. Kornfeld, Once a Minister to Persia, Well-Liked

(Special to the J.D.B.)

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 28.—Rabbi Joseph S. Kornfeld, of the Collingwood Avenue Temple, former United States Minister to Persia, has resigned from his position and will leave for New York October 1.

Rabbi Kornfeld came here in 1924 following his diplomatic service at Teheran. Previously he had been a rabbi in Columbus.

In addition to his rabbinical duties at the Collingwood Avenue Temple, Dr. Kornfeld has taken part in various social and philanthropic movements here. He has been active in charitable and religious drives.

Commenting upon his resignation, the Toledo Blade said:

"During the decade of his residence in Toledo, Rabbi Joseph S. Kornfeld has served not only Collingwood Temple, but the whole city.

"A religious leader who believed and practiced that which he preached, he has been a force for good and his activities in civic and educational work have enriched and mellowed the community, for he was a profound student, an experienced diplomat, an extensive traveler, a keen observer of economic, political and social trends and a forceful speaker.

"It will be difficult to fill Dr. Kornfeld's place in Toledo when he departs soon for a wider field of activity and usefulness in New York City."

Macy Says He'll Seek Delay of State Convention in Deference to Jews

William Weiss, president of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, yesterday announced receipt of a letter from W. Kingsland Macy, chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, pledging that efforts will be made to adjust dates of the Republican State Convention so that they will not conflict with the Jewish High Holy Days.

"While I do not wish to speak authoritatively at this time on behalf of the party," Macy wrote, "I shall use my personal influence to adjust the dates of convention to meet the convenience of those of our delegates, who will be quite numerous, of course, in our convention of the Jewish faith."

Civic League to Conduct Services for the Needy

The Bronx Jewish Civic League will conduct free Holy Day services for the Bronx indigent at its headquarters, 888 Prospect avenue, the league announced yesterday.

Various organizations have donated the services of cantors, law-readers and other functionaries for the services. Tickets will be distributed at the headquarters from eight to ten o'clock every evening beginning September 1.

Workers' Alliance Parley Scheduled for Syracuse

(Special to the J.D.B.)

SYRACUSE, Aug. 28.—The third annual district conference of the upper New York State region of the Jewish National Workers' Alliance will be held here at the Jewish National Folk School auditorium during the Labor Day week end.

Immigrants, Deportees Will Participate in Services

Religious services on the High Holy Days will be held at Ellis Island for Jewish immigrants and deportees detained there, Isaac L. Asofsky, general manager of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America (HIAS) announced yesterday.

Rudolph Roemer, Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, has set apart a room which will be transformed into a synagogue. HIAS has undertaken to provide the necessary paraphernalia. Special Holy Day food will be furnished, Mr. Asofsky said.

HIAS has again prevailed upon the Commissioner not to deport any Jewish alien on the High Holy Days. Immigration inspectors will be instructed to facilitate the landing of all Jewish immigrants the day prior to the Holy Days so as to enable them to join their families in this country.

Immigrants whose destinations are cities outside of New York will be provided for by HIAS in its Home in New York City where religious services will be held. Jewish unemployed and homeless who are being fed and sheltered by the society, will also be given an opportunity to participate in services, it was announced.

Exiled Reich Scholars Join Seminary Here

Professors Julius Lewy and Alexander Sperber, Bible scholars in exile from Germany, will join the faculty of the Jewish Theological Seminary through the efforts of the Committee in Aid of Displaced German Scholars and the Rockefeller Foundation, Cyrus Adler, president of the seminary, announced yesterday.

tude to his memory by smashing it in private life."

The People wrote:

"There should be no 'Jewish question' in this country, where the Jews have enjoyed a greater freedom than anywhere else in the world and where we have gained inestimable advantages from their shrewdness, industry and sagacity. But ignorance and prejudice die hard. There are men who forget Disraeli and who do not seem to realize that Lord Reading and Sir Herbert Samuel are as much Jews as he was."

These are a few of the many editorial comments in the same vein. Anti-Jewish discrimination as revealed by this incident is extremely rare in England. That is why it attracted so much attention. It also served to re-emphasize the fact that there is no room for anti-Semitism in England, for this manifestation of anti-Jewish discrimination was vigorously and generally condemned in the English press.

Only the unscrupulous Nazi fabricators of anti-Jewish propaganda can distort the truth so brazenly. An isolated incident, of which the offenders are now ashamed, is construed into evidence that "anti-Semitism is making progress in England." The universal condemnation in the English press of this stupid form of intolerance is of course not mentioned in the Nazi press. Thus are the German people being constantly duped by their present leaders.

Author of the Sensational Novel

"MURDER—MADE IN GERMANY"

HEINZ LIEPMANN, famous German author and journalist, winner of Harper's Special Prize for 1929 for his book "Wanderers in the Mist," has achieved universal acclaim with his latest book, "MURDER—MADE IN GERMANY," declared the most revealing and eloquent indictment against the brutality of Hitler Germany.

From all over the world spontaneous tributes have come to him including a message from Prof. Albert Einstein.

So effective is his portrayal of the horrors of present day Germany that the German Government has made every effort to have the book suppressed instituting libel suits against Liepmann and his publishers in every country where the book has appeared. To date Liepmann has won every such suit and expects to win the one now pending in this country.

Imprisoned in a German Concentration Camp he managed to escape, sick and bruised in body. In France, deathly sick, not expecting to survive the summer, he wrote his now famous book. On the pretext of having in it libelled the head of a friendly state, the German Government had him imprisoned in Holland while he was on a visit there.

No one can present a better first hand picture of present day Germany, or better report on the plight of the German refugee in Europe, than this man who is himself a refugee having suffered so much at the hands of the Nazi Government.

Heinz Liepmann is coming to America for a brief visit. He will be available for lectures during October and November.

German Press Pushes Drive For Nazi Ideals

Education Head Demands Conception of 'Race and Nation'

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
BERLIN, Aug. 14.—That there is little relenting on the theory, at least, of National Socialism in Nazi Germany is apparent from consideration of unabated attempts of the Nazi press and leaders to foist upon the people Hitlerite conceptions, many of which are in no wise meeting with popular approval.

Dr. Schemm, Minister of Education, speaking before a conference of the National Socialist Teachers Federation here, demanded that educators open their doors to the conception of "Race and Nation."

"We go home from this conference," Schemm declared, "with the determination to stand behind our leader Adolf Hitler, the greatest educator in Germany."

Hitler wired the conference expressing his thanks for Schemm's work in "educating our nation for the National Socialist State."

Gauleiter Sprenger detailed the course of Nazi education somewhat more specifically than the minister did. "The foundations of education," he said, "must be reconstructed. Till now they have consisted of erroneous ideas."

Sprenger said that hereafter the foundation of German thought must be based on German race.

Race Issue Paramount

"We are returning to our native life," he declared, "which is home, race, nation, God. These are the foundations of German education. Who denies race denies the foundation of education."

On the economic front there is no abating on the race issue. Department stores, particularly those with which Jews were associated, have again become targets for Nazi broadsides.

Through the Westdeutscher Beobachter, the Economic Divisional Advisor of the National Socialist Party in the Cologne-Aachen district declares war on department stores.

He reminds the people that the Nazi policy toward the destruction of department stores is the same as that laid down in the party program.

"Buying in department stores, therefore," he proclaims, "is not to be reconciled with true National Socialist views."

"That certain Jewish department stores have carried out a process of so-called conformity with the Nazi state, the value of which conformity is of dubious value, cannot of course change this fundamental attitude," he continues.

Laments Jews in Trade

The Westdeutscher Beobachter recently was taken to task by the department store, Westdeutscher Kaufhof, formerly the property of Leonhard Tietz, for two scathing articles. This article is considered a reprisal.

The paper contends that the firm continues to be Jewish because two Jews, Franz Levy and Julius Schloss, remain on the board of directors. "It makes no difference," says the article, "that these two have placed their directorships in the hands of the company." It goes further to enumerate three others serving the concern as members of the supervisory council.

Recalled as damaging to the concern's good intentions is the fact that on July 1 of this year 3.85 per cent of the staff, mainly in official capacity, were Jews, while forty-seven Jewish apprentices continued to survive.

"The fact that Dr. Tietz was last year unanimously elected to

German Soviet Teacher Donates 3,000 Rubles For Biro-Bidjan Project

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
MOSCOW, Aug. 15.—Ewald Keen, a German teacher employed in a school in Tchernigov, Ukraine, has given 3,000 rubles for the up-building of the Jewish autonomous region, Biro-Bidjan, it was announced here.

Keen had won 10,000 rubles in a lottery sponsored by Ozet, Soviet Jewish organization for settling Jews on the land. He then announced his gift.

34% Employed In Soviet Shops, Survey Shows

Only 12% Are Peasants, Among Russia's Jews, Kunitz Writes

Thirty-four per cent of the Jews in Soviet Russia are factory workers; thirty-one per cent, office workers; fourteen per cent, artisans, and twelve per cent are peasants. These statistics are incorporated in a survey of the Jewish situation in Russia by Joshua Kunitz, published in the current issue of New Masses. The remainder is divided between professional and miscellaneous occupations.

The writer finds "that seventeen years of proletarian rule have finally solved the eternal Jewish question."

"The Soviet government has established a series of Jewish theatres in Moscow, Kharkov, Minsk, Kiev, Odessa, and is now building the first Jewish theatre in Biro-Bidjan," Kunitz continues.

"It is absolutely untrue that the Jewish religion or any other religion is prohibited in the Soviet Union. Of course the Jewish religion is not being encouraged, just as every other religion in the Soviet Union is not being encouraged," the article goes on to say.

Zionist propaganda is prohibited, but Yiddish papers and the study of the language are encouraged, Mr. Kunitz finds, and the last vestiges of anti-Semitism are being uprooted in an area extending over one-sixth of the land surface of the globe.

Brazilians Will Open Jewish Paper Exhibit

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
SAO PAULO, Brazil, Aug. 15.—An exhibition of Jewish newspapers in all languages published all over the world is being arranged here in connection with the celebration of the third anniversary of the publication of Sao Paulo Yiddishe Zeitung, the editors announced. The celebration will be held early this Fall and Brazilian Jewish journalists from all parts of the country are expected to attend.

The announcement requested editors of Jewish newspapers to submit copies of their papers and other information to be included in the exhibition.

New Police Post Near Tel Aviv

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
TEL AVIV, Aug. 8.—Owing to the rapid increase in the population of this city, the Palestine police force will establish a station at Nordia, on the way to the Levant Fair grounds.

the supervisory council does not prove that he holds more than 7.5 per cent of the capital of his old firm with which he is credited, but it does demonstrate that the holders of the other shares are Jews or Jew-friends, and Jew or Jew-friend is all the same to us," the paper concludes.

Contrite Dentist Seeks to Flee The Holy Land

Refugee Had Advocated Storm Troops; Now Remorseful

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
JERUSALEM, Aug. 15.—Soon after the Nazis had assumed power in Germany, a certain Dr. Sachs, a German Jewish dentist who had become baptized, found that his practice had been ruined by the boycott against the Jews and that there was no chance for him to make a living. He therefore left Germany, reverted to Judaism and emigrated to Palestine, where he settled in the flourishing Jewish town of Rehoboth. Within a short time he had established a flourishing practice and was earning $350 a month.

Today Dr. Sachs announced that he would leave Palestine as soon as he finds a country willing to accept him. The decision reveals a curious story.

For Storm Troops

After he had established himself in Palestine, Dr. Sachs wrote a Jewish friend in Germany declaring he had a fine practice and everything was pleasant, save for the fact that he was compelled to live among the "dirty Jews." He also informed his friend that he had many Arab friends and that he would like to form storm troops among them just as the Nazis had done in Germany.

The friend, who had, meanwhile, become a Zionist, turned the letter over to Zionist leaders of his acquaintance. The case was referred to Palestine and was turned over to the German Settlers Association, for action.

The dentist was called before the association and asked to explain the letter. He made no attempt to deny the charges and was advised to leave Palestine for his own interests.

His father, Professor Sachs, of Berlin, interceded in his behalf and offered to contribute a large sum to the Jewish National Fund if his son were excused the consequences of his childish prank.

The association took no action, however, and recently received a contrite letter from the dentist, acknowledging that the charges against him were true and asking only for time to arrange his affairs and secure a visa to some country willing to accept him.

It is significant that, although he is legally entitled to remain in Palestine, the action of the association being entirely unofficial, Dr. Sachs has made no attempt to appeal to the authorities.

After a year in Palestine Dr. Sachs, a victim of Nazi hatred, is once more looking for a permanent home.

Report Abdulah Asks Wauchope for More Self-Rule for Arabs

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
AMMAN, Transjordan, Aug. 8.—A report is current here that the Emir Abdullah has written to the High Commissioner for Palestine drawing his attention to the promise made to Arabs in 1916 by Sir Henry MacMahon for their independence in Palestine, and asking that some additional measure of self-government be granted to them.

The Emir asks that he be forgiven for taking the liberty of raising the issue, which he does as "a neighbor anxious for the welfare of Palestine and as a personal friend of General Wauchope."

The High Commissioner has just spent a couple of days at a desert camp with the Emir, and it is believed that the letter may be the outcome of conversations between them.

Cream of German Jewry Forced To Seek Charity, Smolar Says

'Aryan Paragraph' Robs Doctors, Lawyers, Artists, Professors and Journalists of All Hope; Desperation Heightened by Difficulty of Emigration

The following is the last of a series of four articles that paint an illuminating picture of what Germany and German Jews may expect in the immediate future. The series is based on close observations made by Mr. Smolar, chief European correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency over a period of several months.

By BORIS SMOLAR
(Copyright, 1934, J.T.A., Inc.)

IV

BERLIN.—For the first time since the advent of the Nazi regime, it is possible now to determine definitely, by authentic figures, the actual extent of the havoc wrought upon the economic life of the German Jews by Nazi legislation. It is possible now to quote authentic figures on the number of Jews who in that time have lost their jobs as government officials, to state definitely how many professors were driven from the universities, how many lawyers lost the right to appear in court, how many doctors were expelled from the sick benefit funds, how many Jewish artists were forced to give up their careers and how many journalists lost their posts in the larger and smaller editorial offices of German newspapers.

BORIS SMOLAR

The number of these sufferers is by no means a small one. Up to July, 1934, it exceeded 15,000. More than 15,000 families of persons in the professions are now in need in Germany and are dependent upon the help which they receive from various Jewish charitable institutions.

Twenty-one months ago, just a month before Hitler came into power, these 15,000 families were the cream of German Jewish life. Not only were they not dependent upon charity, but they were in an excellent position to give charity. They paid great taxes to the Jewish community. They made considerable contributions to various Jewish and general cultural institutions. They gave lavishly on every hand.

Now, after twenty months of the Hitler rule, they are the takers rather than the givers. They sit in the cramped quarters of the Jewish relief organizations in Berlin, Frankfurt, Chemnitz and Leipzig, and wait despondently for slight sums, for occasional heavy work, for a railroad ticket to another city and even for a ticket which will get them a free meal.

The Jewish intellectuals of Germany—not to mention the small-scale Jewish merchant and the Jewish employee—have in the space of little more than a year and a half been reduced to beggary. The Jewish intellectuals of Germany have been relegated, by the Hitler brand of legislation, to degrading poverty. The "Aryan paragraph" has fulfilled its aim. It has taken the very best of German Jewry—the intellectual stratum—has broken it and robbed it of its courage. These Jews have been ground under the Nazi heel until they no longer see any hope for themselves, neither in Germany nor anywhere else.

Doctors Require Charity

It may perhaps be difficult to believe, but it is a fact that no less than 4,500 Jewish doctors are now dependent upon the aid of Jewish relief agencies. Two thousand of them have actually been classified with such organizations as being in "drastic need."

The "Aryan paragraph" eliminated more than 5,000 doctors from the sick benefit funds. It took away the foundation of their livelihood. It isolated them not only from official practice but from private practice as well. No "Aryan" dares consult a Jewish physician in Germany. "Aryan" officials in public institutions lose their jobs if it is discovered that their wives are treated by Jewish doctors. "Aryan" employees are warned not to consult a Jewish physician if he has the right to praceven if he has permission to practice, because they are afraid that, under the present Nazi regime, a Jewish lawyer can hardly win the case. Non-Jews will not consult a Jewish lawyer because they will immediately be made to suffer for having patronized a Jew.

Jewish attorneys in Germany, even those who because of their service during the war have not been excluded from the courts, are now in a very difficult position. The more so those who may not make their appearance in court.

In Prussia alone there are now, according to the official figures, 1364 Jewish advocates who have lost their right to plead in court simply because they are Jews. The number of such Jewish advocates all over the country is conservatively estimated as 2,000. This includes only the older lawyers, those with a wide reputation.

No Hope for Young

But, in addition to these older men, there are more than 2,000 young lawyers who have lost their profession. Two thousand so-called "junior barristers." Two thousand graduate lawyers who in compliance with the existing laws were always forced to serve for a certain length of time in a recognized lawyer's office before they were accepted by the court as lawyers in their own right.

Now these 2,000 junior barristers are without any prospects whatsoever. They will never be admitted before a court. Nor have they any hope of remaining with recognized lawyers, for if a lawyer has nothing to do, what need has he of an assistant?

These young Jewish attorneys are now trying to learn new occupations. They are going in for hard labor. They spent their best years studying German law, but now they are learning to become tailors, shoemakers, building laborers, bakers and whatever else possible. They will never be lawyers, they know now. The "Aryan paragraph" will not soon be abolished in Germany. Not even if Hitler should fall. Not even if some other power should come to Germany.

Tragic, too, and without hope is the condition of the Jewish government officials who have been ousted.

In Prussia 2,700 Jews have been thrown out of their jobs in government offices. Two thousand of them are persons with academic training. More than 1,500 of them worked in courts, in tax bureaus and in various administrative and municipal institutions. Two hundred and fifty of them were employed in the postal and telegraph systems. Others held positions in institutions for social service and in various departments of the Prussian government system.

Now, however, not one of them retains his position. All are without work, and most are dependent upon charity.

The great number of Jewish notaries who have been deprived of their right to practice is not included in the above figures. The official Prussian "Press Service" states that in Prussia alone 1,199 Jews may no longer practice as notaries. In all of Germany the number of such Jewish notaries is certainly not less than 2,000. The complete number of ousted Jewish government officials in all of Germany is conservatively estimated at 3,000. Five thousand persons, therefore have lost their positions without any prospect whatsoever of other work.

It must be difficult for a person on the sidelines to realize that no less than 8,000 Jewish artists and 1200 Jewish journalists are now scattered over Germany, having been driven from their positions and robbed of the opportunity to continue working in their chosen fields.

The "Aryan paragraph" hit these people of the free professions harder than it did any of the others. These 1200 Jewish journalists were specialists. Each one occupied an important position in the general press of Germany. Each one helped to make the German press the best in Europe.

Professionally Ruined

Now they are all on the outside. All are without bread. Not only may they not work in a German editorial office but they may not even print an occasional article in some newspaper. They are simply dead professionally.

The same is true of the 1200 Jewish artists. Less than two years ago they were the best actors on the German stage. They were among the most famous singers. They were considered Germany's best regisseurs. They made Berlin the world's greatest theatre center.

Now they dare not set foot upon a stage. Now they are, almost every one, hungry. They have nowhere to earn anything and nothing they could earn it with.

Teachers Must Beg

Similar is the plight of some 800 Jewish teachers and professors at German high schools and universities.

The Jewish professors and high school teachers were never wealthy individuals. They never received high salaries. They never had the opportunity to save anything for a rainy day. Now that that day has come, they are the first to be forced to beg for their bread.

In the professional stratum alone, fifteen thousand Jewish families have been broken up as a result of the "Aryan paragraph." The havoc created by the "Aryan paragraph" among Jewish employees is a chapter in itself, one I shall have occasion to write about later.

THE END

Settled in 1621

The settlement of Jews in Dessau, Germany, dates from 1621. Moses Mendelssohn came from that city.

New England Branch of A. J. C. Hails Work of Conference

(Special to the J.D.B.)

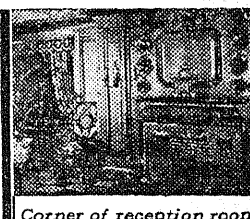

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—Unalloyed praise for the recent Geneva World Jewish Conference and condemnation of "a few leaders who are seeking to undermine the influence and the prestige of this great world Jewish gathering by questioning its validity" are contained in a statement issued today by the New England Branch of the American Jewish Congress here.

"We heartily welcome and cheerfully endorse the manly and courageous stand taken . . . in regard to the convocation of a World Jewish Congress in 1935," the statement declares in part:

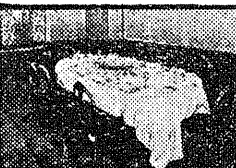

"We welcome the heroic formulation of principles for which the American Jewish Congress stands as utterly different from and opposed to the policy and tactics of certain Jewish leaders who are unduly wary and excessively cautious of bringing the sorrows of the Jewish people openly and publicly to the attention of the civilized world. The leaders of the American Jewish Congress . . . have always . . . insisted on the fullest measure of democracy in the selection of leadership. They were always opposed to a few rich Jews' arrogating to themselves the right to speak in the name of the Jewish people in a silent and hushed tone, as if the Jewish people had anything to conceal."

Opening of Jerusalem's new Luna Park, says an advertisement in the Palestine Post, has been deferred pending completion of the ferris wheel.

What a curious train of thought arises from the announcement that this city, breeding place of more history than perhaps any other in the world, is to have a Luna Park!

Somehow the idea at first glance seems incredibly frivolous. Jerusalem, we always have felt, is meant to be the scene of ponderous events. In her lap this mother-city has fostered and nurtured the world's three most important religions. Plot and counter-plot, bloodshed, an age-old heritage of misunderstanding — these have been the lot of the Holy Land's chief city.

And now we are told Jerusalem is to have a Luna Park. Twentieth century entrepreneurs, to whom nothing is sacred, have decided that even this birthplace of countless sorrows may have its lighter moments, and they mean to capitalize on them.

Had there been a Luna Park a couple of thousand years ago, history might have taken a different course.

When Christ was contemplating preaching his sermon on the Mount, his disciples might have said to him:

"You'll have to put it off for the time being. You'd never be able to raise an audience. Everyone spends all his spare time out at Luna Park these days."

We can picture the Bedouin of tomorrow, riding in from the desert to search for his wandering son.

"What are things coming to?" he wails. "Here I have a rich caravan all lined up for a raid, and that low-life son of mine leaves me in the lurch! A special costume dance at Luna Park tonight, he tells me! Before you know it he'll be settling down in one place and earning his living honestly, like these foreign good-for-nothings."

Into the park stalks the indignant Bedouin, bent on recapturing the headstrong youth and leading him back into the desert by force, if necessary.

"Ov-ah he-ah! Ov-ah he-ah!" shrieks the barker for the "cootch" show. "See the famous fan dance, as done originally at the Chicago World Fair by Sally Rand! Right this way, folks!"

The angry Bedouin suddenly feels someone tugging at his robe. It is one of the girls in the show.

"My sheik!" she giggles. "Come on inside and we'll show you some stuff that'll make the sands of the desert look cold."

Five hours later, in the topmost car of the revolving ferris wheel, the Bedouin sits scratching his chin through his beard, looking out over the Holy City and musing over the march of time.

"Maybe that kid has more sense than his old man, after all," he says to himself with a contemplative chuckle.

At the entrance gate to the roller coaster is a large sign in flamboyant red letters:

"Zionist Revisionists and Laborites will please occupy different cars, to avoid unnecessary accidents."

One of the most popular spots in the park is the shooting gallery. It is divided into several separate sections.

"Step over here, you Arab spies!" shouts the come-on man at one of the stands. "Every target on this range is an illegal Jewish immigrant!"

For both the Arab and Jewish laborers, of course, there is the Orange Grove Owners Section, where the workmen may vent their spleen on the effigies of their employers.

Through the park marches a motley welter of humanity. Almost every creed, race and color is represented. German Jewish refugee stands in line behind devout Mohammedan, each awaiting his turn to enter the House of Fun. To the uninitiated the mingling of Oriental and Western garb gives the place the appearance of a costume pageant.

One little fellow, trotting along at his father's heels, has never been in an amusement park before. Each new sight claims his rapt attention. But most fascinating of all is the merry-go-round, with its bouncing horses and its hurdy gurdy music.

"What's that thing, Daddy?" he asks, pointing to the revolving device.

"That," says his wiser elder, "is the merry-go-round, a mechanism invented by the British government to symbolize its attitude toward Jewish immigration in Palestine. In some countries, where the thing is operated by manual means, it is also known as the run-around."

Defends Dr. Wise

August 27, 1934.

To the Editor, Jewish Daily Bulletin: It seems to me that the publication of the letter of Leo Wolfstein in today's Jewish Daily Bulletin is a distinct disservice to the cause of American Jewry. This obscure individual's attack on Dr. Wise is indefensible and will be resented by the thousands of thoughtful and sincere Jews all over the world who admire him for his brilliant and self-sacrificing leadership.

Last Rites for Mrs. B. Warner In Los Angeles

Mother of Four Brothers Was 76; Died Monday

(Special to the J.D.B.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 28.—Funeral services will be held Thursday for Mrs. Benjamin Warner, mother of the four Warner brothers, motion picture producers, who died here yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Warner was 76. Only last Saturday she had celebrated with her husband the fifty-eighth anniversary of their wedding. A Polish Jewess, she came to the United States from Warsaw before the turn of the century.

In her home at Youngstown, Ohio, where she settled, the motion picture careers of her sons began at a family conference for which the boys had gathered from various parts of the country.

Albert, a soap salesman, became interested in the films at Pittsburgh. The brothers pooled their assets, the father pawned his watch—he had brought it with him from the old country—and the family bought a projection machine with which they exhibited "The Great Train Robbery." From such a start, working together with steadfast loyalty, they eventually rose to the forefront of the industry.

In January, Mrs. Warner sat by a telephone amplifier with her husband and friends and listened to the wedding in New York of her granddaughter, Doris Warner, oldest daughter of Harry M. Warner, to Mervyn LeRoy, the company's leading young director.

At the time the Warner brothers set out in the motion picture field there was a fifth brother, Sam. He died several years ago.

Movie Efforts Are 'Laughable,' London 'Cinema' Writes in Editorial

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The first report issued by the Reichs Film Chamber recognizes as the cause for the sharp decline of German film exports during the past year the "intensive boycotting of German movies throughout the world."

Commenting on this, Today's Cinema addresses an editorial to "Insolent Dictators," which reads in part as follows:

"For twelve months you have existed under the enlightened but hardly dispassionate control of Herr Doktor Goebbels and his Hitlerite minions. For twelve months you have forsaken the production of films for entertainment's sake in favor of those eulogizing Nazi ideals. And you have failed to sell the product of the consolidation of genius and artistic skill in almost every corner of the world. And you see the reason in a Jewish boycott of National Socialism.

By MORRIS WEINER

Look Out, Barney Ross

Harry Dublinsky, the slashing Jewish welterweight from Chicago, is convinced that Jimmy McLarnin will help him win the 147-pound championship of the world. Dublinsky visited McLarnin at Jimmy's training camp in Orangeburgh the other day, and along with your sports scribe watched "Baby Face" plow through a couple of sparring sessions in which he set his two opponents on their heels. At the conclusion of the settos, Dublinsky, in answer to one of our queries, declared that he was convinced that McLarnin will regain the welterweight title when he fights Barney Ross a week or so after he tackles Tony Canzoneri at Ebbets Field. And Harry is scheduled to trade blows with the flashy Italian tonight.

"McLarnin will win," said Harry, "but he won't have the title very long. He's just the kind of fighter that ought to beat Ross, and he's just the kind of fighter I would like to get in the ring with me. He's absolutely no in-fighter. In close, he loses his effectiveness. I'm sure that I'll get a match with him, and I'm just as sure that I'll win."

Well, at any rate, we've got to hand it to the Chicago slasher for cockiness and confidence.

Despite the fact that the betting fraternity along gamblers' row is beginning to string along with Dublinsky as a result of the brilliant workouts he has shown at Stillman's gymnasium the ante has been raised by the latest sucker quotations. As we get the story, it was only yesterday that Tony was a six-to-five favorite but when Dublinsky's backers attempted to bet at those odds, the prices shortened to even money.

And Still We Pick Tony Canzoneri to Win

However, this corner is consistent. Last week, before the fight was called off we figured Tony to be a better man than his Jewish opponent. Moreover, a week's delay hasn't made us change our mind. The way your sports scribe looks at this fracas the odds are all with the Italian. Canzoneri is a better fighter, much smarter, faster, and what makes for the final pay-off in the ring business—has a punch that may rock the Milwaukee Mauler and the Chi Slasher back to the sticks where he belongs. Dublinsky doesn't rate top-notch recognition but if he did we'd be the first to pull west. Harry is a fine youngster for this Jewish lad from Midwest and a coming fighter but we don't deem it wise managerial policy to offer a tyro into the fists of such a ring technician as Tony Canzoneri.

Regardless of the fact that Tony is fighting his first fight tonight as a welterweight his experience and finesse should see him through. And, as for the boys along Betting Lane getting the odds down to even money—take another squint at the facts, and you'll see that the Italian's backers are making the odds themselves and getting their results regardless of anything so fantastic as Dublinsky backers.

Al Weill—The Old Reliable

Al Weill, the maestro of the promoters, has long been famed from the Atlantic to the Coast as the man with the famous vest. Yet, despite the kibitzing that Al has stood for as a result of his sartorial stains, he is one of the best men in the promoting end of the fight business today.

The fans know this. They also know that a fight backed by Weill is sufficient return for any amount of dough that is plunked over the line. That's why all roads in New York lead to Ebbets Field tonight. It's another Al Weill show and two good men are on the card in the main event.

The Baseball Contest

With approximately two weeks left in the "Greatest Jewish Baseball Contest," this corner would like to say once again that the names of Phil Weintraub, Hank Greenberg, and Johnny Kling are still leading the list. The baseball rooters can't be blamed as to their choice inasmuch as the reasons given for their selections are excellent.

With three pairs of tickets to the World Series games in New York being offered to the writers of the three best letters the replies in this contest already exceeded the number of answers received by this department in the last contest Slants on Sports held.

And, according to the latest indications, your home town champions will play the lads from Detroit right in your own backyard. It's all yours, folks, merely for the writing.

A Soccer Merger

One of the pet schemes of this corner is a merger of two units that would bring out the best qualities of the two. Therefore, it is with great relish and gusto that we greet the plan of the Hakoahs and the Jordan Soccer clubs.

These two outfits, the best amateur soccer clubs in the city boasting of all Jewish talent, have combined into the Hakoah Athletic Club of Greater New York. Both organizations have been playing in the German-American Soccer League for many years but in the lower strata. Now they are trying to gain an entry into the Liga Division of the German American League inasmuch as the Liga chapter represents the best brand of soccer in the East.

However, there are three teams besides this new organization that have been seeking entrance into the Liga Division. The final upshot of this matter will be known Sunday afternoon when the new Hakoah A.C. of greater New York tackles the Stamford A.C. in a neutral field in the Bronx. The winner of this widely heralded football game will be the new member of the Liga division.

Some of the players who were members of the crack "A" division team formerly known as the Hakoah A.C. who will see action this Sunday are Max Sholom, Max Slone, the Liss boys, and Max Ruback. The latter is a soccer star who began a stellar career on the continent.

From the Jordans, a team that has been playing one of the best brands of football in the East, come Jack Nagler, another Viennese performer. He rates as one of the best technicians in the game today. Then again there will be Chester Marks, Sid Breitbard, Kid Liss and Abe Roth.

This new organization should take the Stamford eleven into camp this weekend and gain a brilliant entry into the Liga division of the German-American League.

Boxing Tomorrow Night

Peter de Grasse and Joe Doherty have been matched to fight the feature ten round bout at the Army Arena tomorrow night. This will be the third encounter between these two fast hard-hitting ringmen at the Post this season. Their first two battles resulted in sensational draws. De Grasse is a slight favorite to win this week's scrap.

The eight round semi-final will bring into action Pete Mascia of Williamsburg and Al Dunbar, Irish

Harry Dublinsky, the Chicago Slasher, Meets Tony Canzoneri Tonight at Ebbets Field

Harry Dublinsky, Jewish lad from the Midwest, is the fighter who plans for a new champion in the welterweight ranks. Harry tackles Tony Canzoneri tonight at Ebbets Field. The winner will probably meet the victor of the Ross-McLarnin tussle.

Hardships of Travel To Biro-Bidjan Fail To Deter Migration

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

MOSCOW, Aug. 13.—Conditions under which Jewish migrants must travel to Biro-Bidjan are abnormal and steps must be taken to make them normal, writes the responsible secretary of the Central Administration of the Ozet in an article in Emess.

The migration movement is increasing, he reports. Up to July an average of 500 emigrants passed through Moscow each month. In July, 500 passed through in twenty days. This increase of the migration movement has been accompanied by increased difficulties.

Palestine Will Build Asylum for Unbalanced

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JERUSALEM, Aug. 17.—The High Commissioner has assured Henrietta Szold, head of the Social Welfare Department of the Vaad Leumi, Mrs. R. McInnes, widow of the former Anglican Bishop and now a welfare worker, a Christian, and Mme. Ruhi Bey Abdul Hadi, wife of a senior government official, a Moslem, who visited him, that the government will take steps to provide for an asylum for the mentally unbalanced, for whom there is no accommodation at present.

The ladies told General Wauchope of the deplorable conditions of the many unbalanced in Palestine.

Road Users Cautioned As Toll of Accidents Mounts in Holy Land

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

TEL AVIV, Aug. 11.—An appeal for more care by motorists, motorcyclists and cyclists on the roads of this city and a warning to building workmen when erecting scaffolding have been made here by the Kupat Cholim, Sick Benefit Society, which notes that in one week there were 105 cases treated at the Municipal Hospital here as a result of road and building accidents.

Dr. Marcus, prominent physician formerly of Berlin and now head of the surgical department of the Municipal Hospital, said that the hospital in the German capital served a district of 400,000 inhabitants in the busiest part of the city, but did not have to handle so many and such serious accidents as occur in Tel Aviv. Half the beds in his department here are taken up with casualty-ward cases, and scores of people remain invalids or cripples, owing to carelessness and negligence.

The Tel Aviv population is urged to embark upon a "Safety First" campaign by reporting to the police all cases of reckless driving.

Palestine Germans Use Nazi Salute in Services

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JAFFA, Aug. 9.—Raising the hand in the Nazi salute and pledging loyalty to Germany was a feature of the Hindenburg memorial service at Sarona, German Templars' colony near Jaffa, according to an Arab source. The entire congregation, come to mourn the late Field-Marshal, swore an oath of fealty to the Reich.

It is said that in accordance with old German custom a grave was dug in the Sarona cemetery around which the congregation stood while the president of the community eulogized the dead Marshal.

According to reports, the German Christian community of Palestine has long shown sympathy with Nazi ideas because of its dislike of the Jews. The German Christians here are on extremely good terms with the Arabs.

Palestine Will Enforce 'Capitalist' Entry Ruling, Arab Paper Declares

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JERUSALEM, Aug. 12.—Stricter control over persons wishing to settle here in the capitalist classification is to be carried out by the Department of Immigration, according to Falastin, Arab daily.

The department is said to be aware of many cases of persons entering the country by borrowing the requisite minimum £1,000 to enable them to qualify under the capitalist category, submitting their application and having it approved, and then, after their permit for permanent residence has been issued, repaying the loan of £1,000 to the owner, plus an interest charge.

The department will cause the status of such persons to be investigated some time after the applications have been approved, and if they have been found to misrepresent their financial position they will be liable to prosecution as well as deportation, it is said.

Artists Will Paint Biro-Bidjan Scenes

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

MOSCOW, Aug. 16.—Five Jewish artists left Moscow for Biro-Bidjan, where they will paint a series of pictures depicting the life of Jews in that region. They will cover the area and their work will be shown next year in Moscow in a special Biro-Bidjan exhibition.

The decision to organize the trip was arrived at by a conference of well-known Jewish artists, critics and the central committee of the Ozet, Jewish colonization group.

Tel Aviv Gets $60,000 For School Buildings

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JERUSALEM, Aug. 12.—The Prudential Assurance Company, Ltd., of London, has granted a loan of $60,000 to the Tel Aviv municipality for the purpose of constructing schools in its municipal area. Authorization of this loan by the High Commissioner has just been issued as a special order-in-council in the Palestine Gazette. The Prudential has $275,000 invested in Palestine, it is stated.

Secret Missive By Weizmann Stirs Parley

Features Deliberations of General Zionists at Krakow

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

KRAKOW, Aug. 28.—A highly confidential letter from Dr. Chaim Weizmann on the internal situation in the Zionist movement was read last night at a closed session of the General Zionist conference now in progress here and immediately became the center of deliberations, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned.

Professor Selig Brodetsky, member of the political department of the Jewish Agency in London, outlined the Zionist policy as envisaged by the World Zionist Executive, calling for peace within the Zionist ranks as the only basis for discipline. He also called for an agreement not to draw the Zionist funds into party conflicts.

The main point of the debate which followed Professor Brodetsky's speech was how to solve the differences between the A and B groups within the General Zionist party. Their chief point of difference is the personality of the Zionist leaders.

The conference elected a presiding body of eleven, including Rabbi Joshua Thon, Dr. Ben-Zion Mossinsohn and Dr. Samuel Margoshes of New York.

Warsaw Zionists Confer On Internal Conflicts

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Aug. 28.—The Polish Zionist conference, now in session in Warsaw, is dealing with the same problems of internal Zionist conflict which are being discussed at the Krakow conference of the General Zionists.

However, the group following Isaac Gruenbaum, head of the immigration department of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem, is opposed to union with the General Zionists. Since the group constitutes a majority, Polish Zionists are not expected to join the General Zionist party at this time. Even a minority proposal calling for the sending of greetings to the Krakow conference was defeated by the Gruenbaum group.

Palestine Treasurer To Quit Over Tax Issue

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

JERUSALEM, Aug. 12.—According to Doar Hayom, William Joseph Johnson, treasurer of the Palestine Government, who is now on leave in England, has submitted his resignation and will not return to this country. The paper gives as the reason for Mr. Johnson's resignation official disapproval of his scheme for an income tax in Palestine.

Ukraine Helps Upbuilding Of Biro-Bidjan With Gifts

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)

MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—The Ukrainian Commissariat of Agriculture today announced that it would aid in the upbuilding of the Jewish autonomous region of Biro-Bidjan. Six trained agronomists and four veterinary surgeons employed in the commissariat have been dispatched to Biro-Bidjan. Thanks to the gifts of the Ukrainians Biro-Bidjan will have a veterinary surgeon in each of the four districts and research laboratory.

In addition the Ukrainians announced a gift of twenty-eight specially picked stallions for breeding purposes, forty-five agricultural machines and spare parts for tractors and other machines used in agriculture.

'Misquoted,' Deutsch Charges On Return From Mexican Tour

and completed, or are in the course of completion. I called attention only to the progress made in connection with these public works and improvements. The whole context of my address was directed to the public improvements which I had just inspected and had no bearing whatsoever upon the attitude of the Mexican government, either in the past or at the present time, as to religious freedom.

"My activities and efforts for tolerance and religious freedom during the past decade ought to be sufficient assurance that I would not, for one moment, condone any effort on the part of any government to discriminate against any part of its people because of religious belief, and that I would not for one moment be party to any attempt to minimize religious persecution."

Conferred With Calles on Jews

Discussing his meeting with the delegation of Golden Shirts, Mr. Deutsch said that he had had a long conference with General Plutarco Elias Calles, Mexico's "strong man" in which he discussed with General Calles the Jewish troubles in Mexico, among other things.

"It was after I had told newspaper men that the General assured me that certain political elements were endeavoring to lift themselves up by the bootstraps through anti-Semitic agitation—and that such agitation would shortly be nipped in the bud—it was after that that I received my visit from the Mexican fascismo—if they can be called that."

"Jews Control Industry"

"They called at the hotel where Mrs. Deutsch and I were staying and sent up word that a Mexican commission awaited me in the lobby.

"I came down and was confronted by six or seven big Mexicans who told me that they represented the Golden Shirts.

"Who are the Golden Shirts, I asked?

"I was told that they represented the Mexican people who were opposing the Jewish element in Mexico.

"Why do you oppose the Jews? I asked, after they told me that I was meddling in Mexican affairs and that they resented my statement that the anti-Semitic movement was political.

"I was told that the opposition to the Jews was not based on their religion but on the fact that the Jews controlled the industry of the country.

"How long have the Jews been here? I asked, and how many are there?"

Sought to Pose With Dentsch

"I was told that the Jews had only been there ten or twelve years and that there were about 125,000.

"This was absurd and I told them so, pointing out that actually there were only about 12,500 Jews in the country and that ten or twelve years ago the country had practically no industries.

"I then told them that they were wasting their efforts on behalf of the Mexican people and might do much better to champion the cause of the Mexican worker and Indian in the back-country than to fight a non-existent Jewish menace.

"They then asked me to pose with them for pictures and observing that we were already being photographed, I told them that if they wanted to pose with me after me telling them some homely truth, I was willing."

Resented by Catholics

While Mr. Deutsch's remarks on Mexican treatment of minorities was the subject of high praise in editorial comment by the newspaper La Prensa in Mexico City, it provoked a storm of resentment on the part of Catholics and Jews in this country.

In a front-page article in last week's issue of the Brooklyn Tablet, Catholic newspaper, the Catholic attitude toward this remark and another, in which he was quoted as saying that "during my three weeks' visit here I found no persecution of any class here," was crystallized in the following comment:

"Mr. Deutsch, it will be recalled, was one of the most active opponents of the present government in Germany because it persecuted the Jewish people. He has denounced intolerance loudly and regularly, insisting upon liberty and fair play. It was not necessary for him even to visit Germany," the newspaper sarcastically wrote, "before rushing to the defense of liberty."

Forward-Looking Mexico

"Recently," the Tablet continued, "he went, ostensibly on a vacation tour, to Mexico. Arriving there, where Catholics have been subjected to the worst persecution in modern times—far worse than that accorded Jews in Germany—Mr. Deutsch in a public address pronounced Mexico 'forward looking.'"

"The fact that Mexico has closed every Catholic school and charitable institution; seized hundreds of churches and expelled their occupants; permits only one priest for every 100,000 people; has arrested and jailed hundreds who sought to exercise the freedom of worship which every country but Russia tolerates; prohibits the wearing of the clerical collar; fosters the vilest type of legislation, including laws in the State of Tabasco which compel any priest to marry, and carries on a militant campaign to make atheists of every child, does not impress Mr. Deutsch."

The Tablet then said it had received many letters about Mr. Deutsch's conduct which it promised to withhold until such time as he had returned and was able to answer them.

In many Jewish quarters, as well, Deutsch's remarks were severely criticized as highly improper and ill advised. It was pointed out that his speeches would do injury to the common cause in which Catholics and Jews were bound, to wit, opposition to Nazi persecutions. Mr. Deutsch's position as president of the American Jewish Congress, which is active in fostering the boycott, was also pointed to as giving to the statement a semi-official character.

London Jews Discuss Hartglas Expose of Poland

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The widest interest was displayed in London Jewish circles today in the speech made in Warsaw by former deputy Apolinarius M. Hartglas, who pictured the tragic plight of Polish Jewry and accused the Polish government of deliberately ousting the Jews from the economic life of the nation. The speech was compared with a series of articles recently published by the Jewish Daily Bulletin of New York, written by Boris Smolar, chief European correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, who declared that the Polish government had embarked deliberately on a policy of economic extermination of Polish Jewry.

Mr. Smolar's suggestion that a non-Polish Jewish commission be appointed to survey the situation will be considered at the next meeting of the Board of Deputies of British Jews, when the situation of the Polish Jews will be discussed.

Neville Laski, president of the Board of Deputies, left Warsaw yesterday after making a personal survey of the situation in Poland.

Mr. Smolar's articles were reprinted this week by the London weekly, World Jewry, and aroused wide comment.

Austrians Jail Heimwehr Men; Many Disarmed

Police Seize Detachment After Conflict in Barracks

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—An entire detachment of Major Emil Fey's Heimwehr, Austria's National Guard which played an important role in suppressing the recent Nazi rebellion, was today disarmed and many of its members arrested by police emergency forces.

The police made the arrests following a brief hand-to-hand conflict when they rushed into the Heimwehr barracks in the working class section of Florisdorf, scene of the bloody suppression of the Socialist revolt last February. They acted on charges from other military units that the Florisdorf detachments were "untrustworthy and traitors."

It was thought in some circles here that the action was directed against Major Fey, who for some time was under suspicion of having been in league with the Nazis who had assassinated Chancellor Dollfuss.
