According to a report from Mexico, published in the Jewish Daily Bulletin, the Mexican newspaper La Prensa attacked Jascha Heifetz editorially for refusing to permit his concert to be broadcast over the radio. La Prensa, which was recently described by the Mexican anti-Semitic Fascists as a "Judaizing" journal, ridiculed Heifetz's explanation that his contract with his managers forbids the broadcasting of his concerts. The "pro-Jewish" La Prensa writes:

Heifetz and Shylock

"We believe that the Hebrew's need for favorable publicity to counteract the unfavorable publicity received since the crucifixion of the supreme chief of Christianity was amplified by a traditional adherence to pecuniary contracts. Shylock demanding his pound of flesh is no less than Heifetz refusing to scrape gut in front of a Mexican microphone."

Only a journal published and edited by ignorant bigots can stoop to such venomous stupidity. If this is characteristic of what Mexican pro-Jewish newspapers write, we may easily imagine what the Nazified Fascists there say about the Jews. La Prensa, however, seems such an enthusiastic admirer of Heifetz's art that, according to its own peculiar reasoning, it would be willing to forgive the crucifixion if only Jascha Heifetz were to permit his concert to be broadcast. Jascha's violation of his contract with his managers would give the Hebrews the "favorable publicity" needed "to counteract the unfavorable publicity received since the crucifixion of the supreme chief of Christianity." Jascha's refusal to appear before a Mexican microphone is likened to "Shylock demanding his pound of flesh." The "pro-Jewish" Mexican organ goes back to the Roman crucifixion and to Shakespeare's misconstrued Shylock in order to attack the Jews.

Anti-Semites have always resorted to reviving long-exploded myths and old legends. But this is the first time, as far as I know, that the crucifixion and the Shylock fable have been used in connection with a Jewish violinist.

Mexico needs a great deal of "favorable publicity" in the eyes of the world. Newspapers like La Prensa, descending to such vile and stupid tactics, are surely not representative of the liberty-loving Mexican people. They are furnishing plenty of "unfavorable publicity" for Mexico.

Zionists Act For Peace In Ranks

Revisionists Meet With Executive in First of London Parleys

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Oct. 8.—A series of peace parleys, designed to achieve peace between the various factions and groups within the Zionist movement, opened here today. The first of the series, between officials of the executive body of the World Zionist Organization, which is sponsoring the conferences, and the heads of the Zionist Revisionist movement, opened today and will continue until late tomorrow. The chief topic being discussed, it was ascertained, is the relation of the political groups to the parent body.

David Ben Gurion, Laborite member of the executive, and Professor Selig Brodetsky, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency in London, are representing the World Zionist Organization, while Solomon Y. Jacobi and Dr. M. Schwartzman represent the Revisionists.

The executive, it was announced, will hold similar conferences with the representatives of other political groups in the Zionist movement, and will then decide whether to call a general conference of all the groups, where differences will be thrashed out.

A movement to end the bitter internal conflict within the Zionist movement, which have resulted in sanguinary street clashes in Palestine, Poland, and other countries, has gained great impetus in recent months.

A conference of the world organization of General Zionists, held recently in Krakow, Poland, called upon the Zionist Executive to achieve peace in the Zionist ranks.

In Palestine, where the feeling has been most bitter, and where affairs had reached the stage of open battle between the Laborites and the Revisionists, Chief Rabbi A. I. HaCohen Kook took the lead in calling conferences between the two groups to end all conflicts.

Leader of Liberal Jewry Was Strong Foe of Anti-Semitism

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LEIPZIG, Oct. 8.—Rabbi Dr. Felix Goldmann, 52, prominent fighter against anti-Semitism in Germany and author of a number of books on the subject, died here today.

Dr. Goldmann, who had occupied a pulpit in Leipzig since 1917, was regarded as one of the outstanding leaders of liberal Jewry in Germany. He was known as a writer, scholar and as a great orator.

Among the books he wrote are: "Converted Jews and Anti-Semitism," "Why We Are and Remain Jews," "The Nature of Anti-Semitism" and "Oelbau in Palastina zur Zeit der Mischnah."

380 Reich Exiles Room Seas Without a Haven

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

SALONICA, Oct. 8.—The tragic plight of a group of 380 German Jewish refugees, who have been wandering around the Aegean and Mediterranean Seas on a steamer for weeks without finding a place to land, was revealed today, when the Greek government refused them permission to settle permanently.

Last week Greek authorities granted the refugees a temporary haven on the island of Syra, but permission was withdrawn today and the refugees ordered to leave at once.

New Montreal Hospital Opens Doors to Public

High Canadian Officials Participate in the Ceremonies

(Special to the J.D.B.)

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 8.—The Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, was on hand today as the Jewish General Hospital officially opened its doors, marking a triumphant climax to years of planning and labor.

The Governor-General directed the insertion of the last stone following an address of welcome by Allan Bronfman, president of the board of administration of the new institution.

Prime Minister L. A. Taschereau of Quebec then opened the doors. "God Save the King" and "Hatikvah" were played to end the ceremonies.

Speeches were delivered by Lord Bessborough, Prime Minister Taschereau and Mayor Camilien Mounde of Montreal.

The cost of the hospital, including construction, land, furnishings and equipment, was about $1,100,000, which was raised largely by private subscription, together with a provincial grant of $300,000 and a civic grant of $50,000.

The building is modern in every respect and contains such features as lavatories equipped with Vita glass, dual electric power connections, an auxiliary steam turbine electrical generator to insure light in the operating room in case of failure of the regular circuit at a crucial moment, and a thermostatically controlled system of vacuum steam heat.

The building is on Cote St. Catherine road, on the western slopes of Mount Royal.

Before the dedication ceremonies, the guests of honor and the administrative board of the hospital.

Yeshiva College Confers Degree On Dr. Einstein

Makes Him an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

Professor Albert Einstein received the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Yeshiva College, Amsterdam avenue and 186th street, at its formal opening exercises yesterday afternoon.

Among those who spoke in tribute to him were Governor Herbert H. Lehman, who received a degree from the college at similar exercises last year, and Dr. Bernard Revel, president of the Yeshiva faculty, who conferred the degree.

Governor Lehman, addressing the incoming students, said in part:

"Let me bid you to devote yourselves to your allotted tasks to serve your God and your community and to bring credit to Yeshiva College and our people. . . ."

"It is fitting that Professor Einstein should be honored in this place of spirituality because he is

Gulden, Ingles Seek Support Of Nazi Zahne

Both Are Leaders of Vi- olently Prejudiced Order of '76

New York is on the threshold of one of the bitterest election campaigns in its history, one charged from beginning to end with anti-Semitism in its most virulent form, it became apparent yesterday with the disclosure that a veritable flood of candidates for political office have tossed their hats into the ring on blatantly anti-Jewish platforms.

The Jewish Daily Bulletin learned exclusively yesterday that at least two candidates for Congress have opened campaigns for nomination on independent tickets, both of which are openly seeking the endorsement of the German-American Independent Voters League, of which Louis Zahne is the president, and of the German-American Conference's political committee, which Zahne also will head.

Circulate Petitions

The first is Royal Scott Gulden, real estate man, leader and organizer of the Order of '76, a man who thinly masks his anti-Semitism behind the cloak of anti-Communism. Gulden yesterday began circulating in the Yorkville section, Manhattan's Nazi stronghold, nominating petitions seeking the signatures of 2,000 persons.

The second is a business and fraternal associate of Gulden's, William Ingles, who is seeking nomination in the Seventeenth Congressional District in Manhattan. Ingles requires 1,500 signatures. Gulden is running under the auspices of the Independent Party. Ingles' name appears on a blank entitled the National Coalition Party.

Both Gulden and Ingles, who also is a leader of the Order of '76, yesterday expressed confidence that they would receive the required number of signatures to their petitions. Both refused to divulge the source of their backing other than to say vaguely that "an American patriotic society" is sponsoring their campaign.

Endorsement Likely

Although officials of the German-American Conference could not say whether the political committee which it recently organized will endorse either or both of these Congressional aspirants, it was thought extremely likely that both men will be endorsed by the committee when it holds its first meeting since organization next week.

It is considered extremely likely, also, that both candidates will receive the vociferous "hails" of Zahne's organization. Zahne could not be reached for a statement as to the official attitude

Mayor Lauds Straus as Milk Drive Opens

Recalls Philanthropist's Work; Names Nathan Straus Jr. to Post

With Nathan Straus Jr. as chairman of the Mayor's committee in the Statewide drive to induce more milk drinking, Milk Month got under way yesterday in New York at a meeting at City Hall of the city committee for the drive.

In launching the "Drink More Milk" campaign in New York City, Mayor LaGuardia yesterday, addressing the city committee of eighty or more distinguished citizens, paid tribute to the late Nathan Straus, Jewish philanthropist, and father of the committee's chairman by pointing out that the first movement in America to teach mothers the values of milk, as the perfect food for children, was organized, directed and financed by Mr. Straus, who, the Mayor said, evinced a most noteworthy humanitarianism and public spirit in indicating the necessity for rigid inspection to ensure the sale of only pure milk and in making that valuable food product available to the city's poor and needy.

"And so it is no mere accident that Nathan Straus Jr. is chairman of this committee. It is appropriate and fitting," the Mayor concluded.

Mr. Straus outlined the objects of the drive to make New York City milk conscious, citing Governor Lehman's espousal of the campaign for the State.

Dr. John L. Rice, New York City's Health Commissioner, who addressed the committee, said that the consumption of milk in New York City was below the health standard fixed at a daily consumption of one quart for every child and one pint for every adult. Dr. Rice said that the city's estimated consumption of 3,200,000 quarts a day should, to reach the health standard, be stepped up to 4,000,000 quarts or more daily.

Mrs. David E. Goldfarb, representing the Federation of Jewish Women's Organizations, announced that one of the first demonstrations of the campaign this month would be the appearance of speakers in the drive before the meeting of the Federation on October 17 in the Emple Emanu-El Community House.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Funeral services were held here yesterday morning for Ozer Smolenskin, Yiddish poet who died here Saturday morning following a series of illnesses.

Smolenskin was seventy-two years old. He was born in a small town in Poltava Province, Russia, and came to New York in 1893, when he was thirty-one. Shortly thereafter he settled in this city. About a year and a half ago a volume of Smolenskin's selected poems was published by the Hebrew Literary Society and the Philadelphia branch of the Yiddish Culture Society.

Smolenskin was also known as the translator into Yiddish of works by Maxim Gorky and others. The deceased is survived by his second wife and five children.

The Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society (HIAS) reported yesterday that the Paris office of the HICEM gave assistance to 4,050 Jewish refugees from Germany and Jewish migrants generally between January 1 and June 30.

Of the 1,573 German Jewish refugees who were helped by the office, 397 went to Palestine, forty-two to the United States and Canada, 169 to Brazil, nineteen to other South and Central American countries, six to South Africa and six to China.

Help in settling in European countries was extended to 458, as follows: 369 remained in France, twenty-six went to Spain, thirteen to Switzerland, nine to Belgium, one to Denmark and forty to other European lands.

Reporters Exaggerate Nazi Evil, Pastor Holds

(Special to the J.D.B.)
TEANECK, N. J., Oct. 8.—A new apologist for Nazi Germany was discovered here when the Rev. Alfred Weber of Hasbrouck Heights, addressing the Senior Lutheran Society, stated that foreign press correspondents in Germany have exaggerated restrictions placed on the Jews by the Hitler government.

"All the big department stores," he said, "are still owned by Jews, as is the largest restaurant in Berlin." And this, holds the pastor, who recently returned from a vacation in Germany, is proof that, like Mark Twain's death, the story of persecution of Jews is "greatly exaggerated."

Rulers Making Robots of Men, Rabbi Cautions

Individualism at Stake; Rosenblum Warns Open Forum

Is America to be a nation of people or of robots?

That was the question propounded by Rabbi William F. Rosenblum of Temple Israel at an open forum of the college division of the American Jewish Congress at Synagogue House, 40 West Sixty-eighth street.

It is a question, Rabbi Rosenblum pointed out, which the young college graduate of today must answer "before it is too late."

The answer, he declared, does not depend entirely upon the youth of today. If it did, he said, the answer "would be a more hopeful one than can be given now."

"It depends upon those," Rabbi Rosenblum stated, "who are shaping the world of the future now and they seem to be in a state of muddled thinking. Too many people in places of leadership are overwhelmed by the idea that the struggle now is between Communism and Fascism and they make the mistake of confusing one with liberty and the other with autocracy."

The real struggle, he warned, is rather the doctrine that the state must coordinate everyone to the state policy, and that which permits individuals to find their place in society with a minimum of regulation and an absence of dictatorship.

Fascists at Columbus Day Ceremonies? Nix, Protests Newark Rabbi

(Special to the J.D.B.)
NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 8.—The decision of the general arrangements committee for the Columbus Day celebration in Newark to permit a Fascist group to participate in the exercises has aroused the wrath of Rabbi Solomon Foster, only Reform spiritual leader in this city.

In a letter to Dr. Louis A. Martucci, general chairman, Rabbi Foster declared that he will not accept an invitation to attend the ceremonies as honorary guest.

NOW

Hamsun had endorsed the anti-Jewish policy of the Hitler regime, justifying the persecution of the Jews on the ground that they belonged to an "inferior race." Hamsun has never been known as an outspoken friend of the Jews, and yet it seemed incredible that he would identify himself with the absurd and spurious race theory of the Nazis.

Now we learn that Knut Hamsun did write a letter to a young German Jew whom he had helped to release from a concentration camp, but that instead of referring to the Jewish people as an inferior race, he extolled their superiority. The Nazi press falsified Hamsun's letter.

He wrote to the young Jew, in part, as follows:

"As a Jew you belong to a race that is dominant in every cultural domain in every land. In science, art, literature, commerce, industry—in all these the Jews hold a high rank. This is denied by no one, as far as I know...."

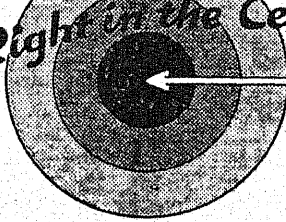

"It is a misfortune that the Jews have no great land of their own. Palestine cannot hold them all, and in all the five parts of the world it seems impossible for them to find a territory which would be large enough for them...."

"The Jews who are powerful in politics and finance should not rest until a new great Jewish land is found."

To the Nazis this letter is sufficient proof of Hamsun's approval of their racial discrimination against the Jews. They could not, however, admit to their own people that Hamsun emphasized the superiority of the Jewish race, so they distorted it to suit their own purposes.

Attack Protest Sent Mayor Of Jerusalem

Revisionists Cable to Mizrachi and General Groups

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
PARIS, Oct. 8.—The executive body of the world Revisionist organization today had sent to Mayor M. Dizengoff, of Tel Aviv, Palestine, a protest against the attack on Dr. Julius Froehlich, Palestine leader of the Brith Trumpeldor, a Revisionist organization.

Froehlich, according to reports received here, was set upon and badly beaten with truncheons on a Tel Aviv street last Thursday night.

The Revisionist executive also cabled the Palestine executive bodies of the Mizrachi organization and the General Zionists, asking public intervention against the Zionist party, members of which had assaulted Froehlich.

"Dr. Froehlich is the High Commissioner of the Palestine Brith Trumpeldor," the cable declared. "If you do not categorically interfere, you will assume responsibility for the consequences which are clear to all."

'Moment' Reports Attack On Revisionists at Mordy
(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
WARSAW, Oct. 8.—Six members of the Brith Trumpeldor were badly injured at Mordy, near Siedlitz, when a group, believed to be left-wing Cholutzin, attacked the Revisionists at the close of a meeting, Moment, Warsaw Yiddish daily, reported.

The entire group was removed to a hospital in a serious condition. A girl whose name was given as Czernowska is expected to die, the Moment stated.

Kosher Workers End Middle West Strike

(J.D.B. Special Correspondence)
CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Chicago and the rest of the Middle West once more were able to get their favorite brand of kosher frankfurters today. Yesterday marked the end of a two-day strike called by the Kosher Sausage Makers Union 485, a branch of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, when 500 members returned to their plants.

The union workers will receive pay raises of fifteen to eighteen per cent and will be paid for the six national holidays. Pay rates under the new scale will range from $25 to $33 weekly.

The strike caused the shutdown of local plants furnishing most of the kosher sausage consumed in the Middle West.

Hyman Reports On J.D.C. Work For Reich Jews

Describes Leaders There as 'Courageous' in Their Activities

The way the Jewish leaders of Germany and the groups around the Central Committee of German Jews for Relief and Reconstruction are carrying out their program for the victims of anti-Semitism in the Reich is described as "courageous" in a report by Joseph C. Hyman, secretary of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, to the executive board of that body, which is one of the beneficiaries of the United Jewish Appeal.

Means of livelihood of the Jews of Germany in many fields, Mr. Hyman declared, are being more and more restricted and, although in the larger cities small Jewish shopkeepers and business men are still "carrying on," the difficulties of the Jews in the small towns are greatly aggravated by boycott and other anti-Semitic activities.

Jewish migration from Germany is steadily continuing, he reported. Ten thousand young men and women have been receiving training for new modes of livelihood and the Joint Distribution Committee, since the beginning of the emergency, has provided $1,400,000.

Credit "kassas" and free loan societies have proved important as constructive aids, the report added. Sixty-one "kassas" have been established in the Reich by the American Joint Distribution Foundation with a working capital of 1,125,000 marks.

Ratnoff to Speak Before Labor Party

Dr. Nathan Ratnoff, president of the American Physicians Committee for the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, will be guest of honor of the National Labor Committee for Palestine and the general executive of the Jewish National Workers' Alliance at a reception at the Hotel Pennsylvania tonight.

He will give his impressions of Palestine, dealing particularly with the work of the Kupath Cholim, the sick fund of the Histadruth, the Jewish Federation of Labor.

Ritual Killing Brings Reich Butchers Grief

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
KASSEL, Germany, Sept. 27.—The Kurhessische Landeszeitung reports the detention of two Jewish butchers, Moses Katz of Spangenberg and one Speier of Baumbach, for slaughtering according to the traditional Jewish ritual, declared illegal in April of last year by the Nazis.

The story assails the Jews for their alleged cupidity in killing animals contrary to the law in order to command higher prices. That the culprits' establishments will be padlocked by the authorities for their offense, is the hope expressed by the paper.

Khaki Shirts Open Offices in Newark

(Special to the J.D.B.)
NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 8.—The Khaki Shirts of America have opened national headquarters at 913 Broad street in this city, following a merger with the National Fascists, Inc. Lee Losi of Newark is acting commander-in-chief. The commander is Art J. Smith now serving a prison term at Great Meadows, N. Y.

A meeting of seven units in this city and suburban area was held at headquarters. A post was organized only yesterday in Belleville, which adjoins Newark.

Lauds Einstein

In his welcoming address, Dr. Revel lauded Professor Einstein as "the contemporary immortal, first in the realms of knowledge and the spirit and in the affections of his fellow men."

He referred to the student body as "the type that has given the American college of liberal arts its distinctive place among our educational institutions."

"Yeshiva College," he said, "is founded upon the fundamental Jewish ideal of education, learning and culture for their own sake; study not as a task, as a duty, but as a great adventure in the search and discovery of truth and beauty."

"It is furthermore the belief of Yeshiva College that Jewish studies in the most comprehensive sense, are an integral phase of the humanistic discipline, and that the cultural and spiritual resources, traditions and heritage of Judaism, in its tragic and triumphant history, are essential for the full understanding of the unfolding of mankind and of man's history and destiny. The Jewish contributions to the life and the thought stream of the ages are seen at Yeshiva College in their continuous significance applicable to life today."

Dr. Revel urged that "our light-houses of learning and sanctuaries of the spirit lift their emphasis from material conditions and aspects of life and teach us to discern as well the intangible and invisible—often the more real and vital—forces."

More Purposeful Life
"A call is sounded to our youth, mentally alert and spiritually sensitive, to prepare for a life more purposeful, more just; a life spiritually and intellectually more abundant."

A Cherished Dream
A dream cherished by the leaders of Montreal's Jewish Community for many years, the project which saw its fruition today, was launched September 22, 1929, with $600,000 set as the goal of a fund-raising campaign. Later, the objective was boosted to $1,000,000 and this latter figure was considerably oversubscribed.

The situation of the structure on the lower slopes of Mount Royal provides unexcelled scenic beauties, and the extent of the property, 1,000,000 square feet, will prevent future obstruction of the view, or contamination of the air.

The total capacity of the hospital is 226 beds. More than half are set aside for public patients and special accommodations are provided for maternity cases.

With the opening of the hospital, the Administrative Board made the following statement:

"The hospital was built by staunch citizens who made great sacrifices and gave unstintingly of their time. We were aided by enthusiastic support by our workers and executives. The Jewish Hospital is now ready and waiting with open doors to the sick, injured and suffering people of our great city."

A Cherished Dream
A dream cherished by the leaders of Montreal's Jewish Community for many years, the project which saw its fruition today, was launched September 22, 1929, with $600,000 set as the goal of a fund-raising campaign. Later, the objective was boosted to $1,000,000 and this latter figure was considerably oversubscribed.

The situation of the structure on the lower slopes of Mount Royal provides unexcelled scenic beauties, and the extent of the property, 1,000,000 square feet, will prevent future obstruction of the view, or contamination of the air.

The total capacity of the hospital is 226 beds. More than half are set aside for public patients and special accommodations are provided for maternity cases.

Editor to Bare Streicher Lies In Open Court

Overlord of Franconia Brings Libel Suit Against Pair

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
VIENNA, Sept. 29.—Refutation in open court of the vile lies broadcast by the anti-Semitic Der Stuermer of Julius Streicher, Nazi overlord of Franconia, is looked for when a libel suit brought by Streicher against the editor and publisher of the newspaper Gerechtigkeits (Justice) goes to trial.

The suit was provoked by an article Gerechtigkeits carried which asserted that Der Stuermer infringed the criminal law, published the meanest calumnies, sought to incite to disorder and printed villainous caricatures.

Action Demanded

The article demanded that the public prosecutor take action.

Angry, Streicher instituted a libel action against the writer of the article, Irene Harand, who is also the publisher of Gerechtigkeits, and Franz Weniger, the editor.

A few days ago, through their counsel, the defendants submitted their brief, a document of 127 pages.

The first matter dealt with in the brief is the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion," declared genuine by Der Stuermer.

The charge of Streicher's publication that the Jews are cowards and lacking in honor is taken up in thirty pages, in which the outstanding events in Jewish history are related in order to prove this charge false.

The defendants ask that Henry Ford appear at the trial to testify as to his withdrawal of "The International Jew," of which Der Stuermer makes use.

12,000 Died in Action

Answering Streicher's statement that the war was the work of Jews, the brief lists all statesmen who were in power when the first shot was fired. Not a Jew is among them.

The defendants point out also that, despite Der Stuermer's claim that the German Jews were "slackers," 96,000 Jews enlisted, 12,000 were killed in action, and 35,000 were decorated.

The contention that the Jews are "aliens" is answered by quotation of historians to the effect that Jews lived on the banks of the Rhine before the Teutons.

Experts' statements are offered also to prove that the deduction that the Jews are racially inferior to the Nordics clashes with the facts.

Buffalo Germans Divided by Discord

Publicity Chairman Resigns, Accusing Factions of Discrimination

(Special to the J.D.B.)
BUFFALO, Oct. 8.—Dissension and political and religious discriminations among members of the Buffalo Federation of German Societies were charged by Fritz Eimans, president of the German Broadcasting Club, who resigned as publicity chairman of the Federation.

"In the face of economic depression among our own German people in Buffalo," he declared, "is it fair for us to fight against each other over such things as: What kind of a flag shall fly over a picnic? (The swastika was prohibited from being raised over Genesee Park, scene of the recent German Day celebration, sponsored annually by the German Singing Societies of Buffalo.) Who shall be the political speaker or who shall be the leader of the political field? (It was difficult

Hitler's Too Deep for Jews, Nazi Pundit Says

ALTONA, Germany, Sept. 27.—The Jew is incapable of conceiving the philosophy of Adolf Hitler, declared Dr. Kohler, district secretary of the Schleswig-Holstein National Socialist Medical Association, while addressing a conference of physicians here.

Hitler's Organ Prints Orders Affecting Youth

Regulations Ban Wearing Uniforms, Marching in Groups

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
BERLIN, Sept. 23.—New regulations applying to Jewish youth organizations are described in today's issue of the Voelkischer Beobachter, Hitler's newspaper. The orders, issued last week by police president Levetzow, prescribe the following:

1. The wearing of identical clothes, uniforms, costumes, etc., in public. This includes the donning of an association costume or any part thereof, or any distinguishing badge thereof with civilian clothes, as well as the wearing of any other even if only partial uniform clothing which is to be regarded as a substitute for the association costume heretofore in use.

2. Marching up and down in groups, defensive sports, field exercises, especially those requiring military accoutrements, as well as all marching in closed ranks. Sport exercises, hikes, excursions and walks on small scale are not covered by this prohibition provided they bear no demonstrative character.

3. Showing in public or carrying flags, banners, pennants or field badges of any kind.

4. Living together in mutual residences and staying overnight in groups, especially in private rooms or tents.

5. The production and distribution of press material of all kinds, especially handbills and films.

Punishment by fine and/or imprisonment is provided for violations.

to obtain speakers for the German Day celebration because of the pro-Nazi and anti-Nazi factions in the Federation.)"

Much of the factional trouble in the Federation is attributed by local German Americans to the organization of the DAWA and the Friends of New Germany. Although these organizations are losing members constantly, they have succeeded in creating animosity among members of the Federation, which is anti-Nazi and represents 150,000 German-Americans in Buffalo and vicinity.

Catholic Organ In Quebec Calls Jews Immoral

Sees Them Responsible for Salacious Films, Publications

(Special to the J.D.B.)
QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 8.—The Semaine Religieuse, a Catholic weekly, publishes the accusation that the Jews are immoral.

"Who exploits the immoral films?" the Semaine Religieuse asks. "Who edits and distributes the salacious publications? Not Israel alone, but mostly Israel."

"This was the situation in Germany and that is the reason why Germany expels its Jews. This is a drastic method, too Teutonic, which we would not recommend, but there are other methods which may be powerful without using violence or persecution."

Montreal Newspaper Comments on Charge

(Special to the J.D.B.)
MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 8.—Commenting on the vilification of the Jews published by the Semaine Religieuse of Quebec, Lucien Pariseau, assistant editor of L'Ordre here, which has been friendly to Jews, writes in that newspaper:

"No one disputes the fact that the Jew is the bearer . . . of an invisible microbe of destruction."

This, however, is not altogether the fault of Jewry, Pariseau insists, blaming medieval persecutions "which have implanted in the Jew a hatred of the higher and organized society."

Soviet Sells Railway to Japan; 500 Jewish Families Affected

Harbin Colony, Directly Dependent for Livelihood on Chinese Eastern Road, Fears Dark Future Is Ahead

By M. ZELDES
(J.T.A. Staff Correspondent)
HARBIN, China, Sept. 20.—Would the Chinese Eastern Railway be sold? This question was constantly in the minds of all Jewish inhabitants of Manchukuo during the past year. A short while ago, after a year of dallying, the railway suddenly was taken over by the Japanese.

Sale of the railway directly involves the fate of 500 Jewish families of officials, employees and workers and indirectly the interests of all Jewish inhabitants of Manchukuo.

State Within a State
A year ago we drew attention to the important role which the Russian partnership in the railway played in the economic life of the Manchukuo Jews. The Chinese-Eastern Railway is a state within a state. A number of institutions and branch institutions have grown around it, which provide a livelihood for many thousand families, among which a high percentage of Jews is to be found. In spite of the arbitrary action by the White-Guardist police, a number of cultural, medical and cooperative organizations have been supported by the treasury of the railway. Among the higher paid employees of the various departments and of the central management, many Jews are to be found; many more Jews work in the repair and construction shops of the railway. Jewish teachers are to be found in the primary, secondary and high schools of the educational department of the railway, which accepts children of all the Soviet citizens. Jewish doctors, pharmacists and other employees of the hospitals, apothecaries and the many other institutions belonging to the department of health of the railway are numerous.

No Bias in Past
The Soviet administration has always kept open all departments of the railway for all employees and has not discriminated between Jews and non-Jews. Each honest and able man, as long as he had learned the required trade and was in possession of a Soviet passport, could apply for a position in one of the many branches of the administration where his services were needed. Besides a good pay the employees enjoy many privileges. Among the several tens of thousand employees of the railway, there are about 500 Jews, together with their families and relatives, amount to a few thousand persons. An important number of the Jewish employees are permanent inhabitants of Harbin, and have never, or hardly ever, been in Soviet Russia.

See Dark Future
Many of these employees see a dark future ahead. During the whole of last year their nerves were under a constant strain. Life in Soviet Russia is something unknown to them and they are afraid of the necessity of going to other Manchukuo or Chinese places. There is also the question as to whether they will be able to stay where they are, owing to incessant provocations by the White-Guardists.

Besides the institutions belonging directly to the railway which provide the means of living for a few thousand Jews, there are in Manchukuo and especially in Harbin also many Soviet trade posts and kindred undertakings, the fate of which is wholly or partly sealed with the sale of the railway. Many Jews are employed by these Soviet trading organizations as managers, buyers, agents, etc.

Workers Support Shops
By trading with them many of the Jewish middle class business men of Harbin and other parts of Manchukuo derive their income. Besides the threatening unemployment and loss of income of the above enumerated categories of Jews, there must be taken into account the fact that the Jewish stores and shops in the central part of Harbin live to a great extent upon the railway employees and workers. The situation of insecurity has already paralyzed the Jewish and European commercial life. With the exception of a few rich owners of great industrial undertakings the European artisans will not be able to compete with the Chinese and Japanese.

The Jews of Manchukuo are facing a difficult future.

Austria Presses 'Ghetto School' Plan for Jews

Drastic Move Shocked Community—Includes Children of Converts

(J.T.A. Special Correspondence)
VIENNA, Sept. 30.—Far from relinquishing its avowed intention of separating Jewish and non-Jewish school children in the Austrian school system, the government of Kurt Schuschnigg is proceeding even further and placing the children of Jewish converts to Christianity in ghetto schools.

The law creating the ghetto schools has met with the sharpest opposition from the Jewish community, which was taken completely by surprise when the measure was introduced. Jewish groups in Austria are unanimous in their opposition to the introduction of a school system based on the Nazi "Aryan paragraph."

Stay in Same Schools
Originally the law was designed to: "collect non-Catholic pupils into one parallel subdivision." In practice, however, Catholic and Protestant children remain in the same schools, and only the Jewish children are segregated. The decree, according to officials, was to apply only to secondary schools and to teachers' seminaries, but again in practice the law is applied also to primary and higher primary schools.

The degree of shock to Jewish organizations by the new ghetto school law is best seen in a proclamation issued by the executive body of the Vienna Jewish community:

"Already in June of this year, rumors were afoot about plans to create parallel classes based on religious viewpoints," the statement declared. "Thereupon on June 20, the executive committee of the Vienna Jewish community had an interview with the present Chancellor, Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg, at that time Minister of Education. The delegation drew Dr. Schuschnigg's attention to the serious consequences which must result from a segregation of Jewish pupils.

Accomplished Fact
"After its presentation of the case, the executive committee was convinced that the authorities would not proceed with their segregation plans.

"The decree of the Ministry of Education on this subject, dated on July 4, was published in the official gazette of the municipal school council on September 15, just before schools opened. Only in this fashion did the law become known to the executive of the Jewish community. Thus the community was faced with an accomplished fact."

Stimme, organ of the Austrian Zionists, said editorially: "Actually a school ghetto has been introduced. The decree means nothing less and thousands of Jewish parents look at it this way.

"We are of the opinion that even practical considerations should make it desirable for the government to avoid humiliating Jewish children. If it is contended that through the decree the desire for schools according to religions is satisfied, then the present decree is not the way to achieve this purpose.

"Austrian Judaism certainly has a moral interest, and according to the treaty of St. Germain, a material right to look after the education of its children. But this necessitates the establishment of Jewish schools, with Jewish curricula, Jewish principals and Jewish teachers.

"The decree of the Ministry of Education, however, has nothing to do with such Jewish schools. The teaching in the schools organized under the decree is the same as in any other school. The spirit of the decree means clearly and simply the isolation of the Jews."

The Bulletin's Day Book

Mussolini used to be a newspaper man himself. He still owns a newspaper or two in the country that looks like a boot on the map. And if the stories of the ironclad censorship Il Duce wields over his nation's public prints are true, then Mussolini in effect owns many newspapers. Which should make him a newspaper man many times over.

And which, to bring our thought to a fitting climax, should make him entirely eligible to write a Day Book for the Jewish Daily Bulletin when the regular custodian of the volume is tired and all out of inspiration.

Il Duce of Rome actually has written a column for the Bulletin. He may not have written it himself, affairs of state being as pressing as they are. And when it was written, probably by some bona fide working newspaper man employed on his paper in Milan, Il Popolo d'Italia, there was no thought in the mind of the writer that it would make the Day Book in a far-off New York newspaper.

"The reason Nazi Germany talks so much of purifying the race," this Mussolini editorial cynically remarks, "is that there are so many crazy people in Germany."

Now that's one we never thought of. Is it possible that there are real lunatics in Germany? Can it be that this glorious Third Reich, over which the divinity of Adolf Hitler rules with such benevolent despotism, harbors in its borders crazy people, people bereft of their senses, out of their mind—in a word, nuts?

Now truly, Mr. Mussolini, that's one we never thought of. It's a harsh thing to say of people that they're batty or, as the water-winchellians might say, wacky. Such sweeping charges should never be made in a family newspaper. They might be condoned in a publication like Julius Streicher's Der Stuermer, where trifling with the truth has been developed to the status of an exact science. When such damning indictments of a people are made in an honest newspaper, however, they should be accompanied by proof.

Il Popolo, mindful of this duty to honest journalism, has presented what it believes to be proof:

"At the end of 1931," Mussolini's paper writes, "there were 220,000 mental cases in German asylums, according to official German statistics. Osterman (a German scientist) estimates the mental cases in the Reich in 1934 at 600,000, or one per cent. of the population."

"But it is two per cent.," Il Popolo contends, "according to the calculations of Rubin, another German scientist, who takes account of the children. Other statistics disclose that the number of mental deficiencies is increasing at the rate of 4,500 a year."

Now as far as it goes, that's not bad at all. But, of course, it doesn't go quite far enough. Somewhere along the line there has been careless journalism committed. Probably one of Mussolini's cub reporters was assigned to the task of digging up the information for the Il Popolo editorial writer. It may have been his first assignment and, probably stage-struck, the cub muffed his task completely.

He failed to dig up some frightfully pertinent material that might have clinched Il Popolo's thesis perfectly. In the first place he might have dug up the reasons why these poor people started mumbling to themselves.

It wouldn't have surprised us if one of the chief causes of the insanity was the necessity enforced upon them by their leaders of thinking up new ways to injure their Jewish neighbors and still be true to their deeply ingrained

Christian principles of "love thy neighbor."

— Or another cause that probably played an important role in the tremendous rise in the number of cases of people "teched in the head," as our hillbillies would describe their state: Reading the literary output of the Nazi leaders.

And if anyone among the readers of this column thinks that this is not an important factor, he is invited to glance ever so casually at the following collection of fruity items culled from an English book called "Hail Hitler," a sort of anthology of the most inspired sayings of the Reich geniuses:

"Anyone who really and sincerely desires the victory of the pacifist idea must strive by every means after the conquest of the world by the Germans."—Adolf Hitler. I wonder whether Adolf made that crack just before the famous purge that pacified seventy-seven of his erstwhile pals and enemies, or immediately after. It would be an interesting statistical commentary on the Il Popolo insanity story, if the figures could be adduced on the number of persons that went goofy when that remark was made public.

"He died in the faith of his Redeemer, Adolf Hitler."—An obituary notice in a German newspaper. That item probably made maniacs of at least 3,000 faithful Nazi rooters of Hitler's who feared that they might be the next to be asked to "die in the faith of his Redeemer, Adolf Hitler."

And this one almost certainly gave thousands of perfectly sound Germans the galloping D. T.'s:

"The war produced, apart from all its horrors, the great epochal source of new life. All the healing power that sprang from it has been condensed in the person of Lance-Corporal Adolf Hitler."—Karl Ranch.

After reading that one and a few others that are hardly printable in this space, I am inviting friends to visit me at Padded Cell No. 3 in Matteawan.

Critical Moments

By GEORGE JOEL

Gaumont-British, England's leading film company, recently used no fewer than twenty-four full pages of advertising in a theatrical weekly magazine to tell American showmen that they intended to invade these United States with their cinema products. The first shot in this war was "Power," which may be seen at Radio City Music Hall.

Opening their campaign in New York the British company was wise in releasing such a picture as "Power." Certainly the Jews have many just complaints against the treatment accorded the race the world over but as far as the cinema goes they have, in this country and England, come off very handsomely. "The House of Rothschild," one of the most widely attended and successful pictures of the year, was favorable to the Jews, and now this adaptation of Lion Feuchtwanger's novel "Jew Süss" which may be equally well received, is certain to create some more much needed good-will.

Conrad Veidt, the German actor who defied the edict of Hitler by refusing to return to Germany, plays the role of Joseph Oppenheimer in Feuchtwanger's epic novel of pride, oppression and vengeance in eighteenth-century Germany. You will remember the book—it is the powerful and moving story of Oppenheimer, a sensitive, determined man who, raised in the Ghetto, strives to reach power so that he can save the Jews from oppression. Insulted and laughed at, Oppenheimer attaches himself to the court of the weak, ambitious, sensual Karl Alexander, ruler of Wurtemberg and makes himself indispensable to this petty monarch. He finally becomes the most powerful man in the kingdom but at an unholy price. Unknowingly, he betrays his own half-sister to the lusts of Karl and indirectly causes his own daughter's death. But before he is marched to the scaffold and hung in one of the most dramatic scenes ever caught by a camera, he has his revenge and is able to save some of the Jews of Wurtemberg.

Ironically enough Oppenheimer, who has all his life fought for the rights of a Jew, finds that he himself is only half-Jewish and although were this knowledge to be made public his own life could be saved, he goes to death screaming the Hebrew of his mother.

Produced by Lothar Mendes on a lavish scale the atmosphere of a German principality is caught with striking realism. The scenes in which the Gentiles jeer and harass a poor Jewish peddler are cleverly pictured. The supporting cast, especially Frank Vosper as King Karl; Cedric Hardwicke as the rabbi; Paul Graetz as Landauer, the Jew; Pamela Ostrer as Naomi, Oppenheimer's daughter, and Benita Hume as Marie Auguste, play in an usually brilliant manner but it is Conrad Veidt in a difficult role which calls for great acting talent who really makes "Power" a picture far above ordinary.

'Spring Freshet' And Voodooism

Owen Davis' new play "Spring Freshet," which opened at the Plymouth Theatre last week may be dismissed in a very few lines. Mr. Davis has written some very fine plays but this story of life in a small Maine village fails to come off. It is, to be brief, just dull.

Another play that will receive little attention from the public is "Wane With Your Gods" by Kenneth Perkins which is at the Mansfield. This two-act melodrama deals with the subject of voodooism and the seduction of a Creole girl. The audience never does understand what the author is trying to do. Mr. Laurence Schwab, who produces very fine musical comedies, produced this piece and I am afraid the venture will add nothing to his stature.

Syracuse Host To Conference Of 4 Temples

Reform Union Is Urged to Permit Growth in Its Ranks

(Special to the J.D.B.)
SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 8.—A summons to Israel to allow for growth, not dissemination, in its ranks, was served here at the first session of the Northeast Union Conference of American Reform Hebrew Congregations at Temple Society of Concord.

Delegates from Temple Beth Zion of Buffalo, Temple B'rith Kodesh of Rochester, Temple of the Society of Concord of Syracuse and Temple Beth El of Niagara Falls, together with members of the brotherhoods and sisterhoods of these congregations, attended the meeting to discuss their common spiritual and temporal problems.

Dr. Joseph L. Fink of Temple Beth Zion sounded the keynote when he called upon Jewry to awake to "the magnificent opportunity of teaching the life of brotherhood, righteousness, justice and peace among men." Delivering the principal luncheon address, Rabbi Fink contrasted the views of British and continental Jews, pointing out the kinship of thought between members of the race in this country and in England.

"There are two interpretations of Jewish development," he asserted. "One outlook is that of continental Jewry, and the other that of Jews of Britain. British Jewry worked hard to remove all Jewish disabilities. They were primarily British, equal to every Briton in the land in every respect, but at the same time were proud, conscientious and learned members of the Jewish faith. The continental Jewry, on the other hand, want to be different, racially, nationally and spiritually, from all the other people among whom they live." Rabbi Fink pleaded for enlargement of the scope of congregational activity.

Other speakers included Rabbis Philip S. Bernstein, who made the closing address on "The Value of This Day," Abba M. Fineberg and Benjamin Friedman, and Benjamin Stolz, president of the local temple. Discussion groups were led by Mrs. Jonas I. Oberdorfer, Sol J. Levy, Benjamin Goldstein, A. H. Finley and Isadore Belloff.

The Syracuse conference was called into session by Supreme Court Justice Samuel J. Harris of Buffalo.

Baptist Leader Paints Hitler as Soapbox Orator

Seattle Delegate to Berlin Parley Describes Impressions

(J.D.B. Special Correspondence)
SEATTLE, Oct. 4.—"There is a distinct, definite atmosphere against the Jew throughout Germany. Only a fool would deny that Hitler's program is to subordinate the Jew in every way. Nobody, not even the non-Jew, dares utter a word of criticism in Hitlerland today. But the Jews have a vast sympathetic following."

Picturing Germany as a land ruled by fear, Corwin S. Shank, prominent Seattle attorney, former president of the Baptist Convention of America representing 9,000,000 American Baptists, president of the Japan Society here and a local resident forty-three years, today related his impressions of a three-week stay in the land of the swastika from which he has just returned.

"How will it all end? Hitler may be bumped off," Mr. Shank said. He is trying to do something that has never been done in the history of the world before in attempting to make, by terror and propaganda, every avenue of influence—political, social and economic—subservient to his plans.

"I saw Hitler the day after Hindenburg's death. He is loud, demonstrative, dynamic. In America he would be a soap-box orator. I spoke to many Jews. But they have to keep their mouths shut."

Mr. Shank was a Seattle delegate to the recent Baptist convention in Berlin, where resolutions deploring anti-Semitism and other religious hatred, aimed at the Nazi regime, were passed in the very center of Hitlerism—the German capital.

The conference adopted a series of resolutions opposing formation of a legislative council in Palestine; urged Great Britain to increase Jewish immigration to the Holy Land; renewed the pledge to boycott all German-made goods; pledged full support for the American Palestine campaign; and called for an end to factional fights in the Zionist movement.

Another resolution adopted committed the organization to join in the protest against the Palmer House and the Hotel Stevens for renting quarters for the DAWA convention.

The Chicago Zionists also adopted a number of resolutions calculated to strengthen the organization in the city.

The officers were officially installed at a mass meeting addressed by Dr. A. L. Sachar of the University of Illinois and B. Horwich, veteran Zionist leader.

Clean Own Back Yard, Canadians Are Advised

(Special to the J.D.B.)
MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 8.—The Rev. H. H. Bingham of Toronto, addressing a local audience on the German situation, advised Canadians not to be too loud in their denunciation of racial prejudice in the Nazi Reich when there is anti-Semitism in their own country.

It was odd, the speaker observed, that the press of Toronto should attack Nazi anti-Semitism and yet never take cognizance of the existence of the pestilence in its own back yard.

Gulden, Ingles Seek Support Of Nazi Zahne

Both Are Leaders of Violently Prejudiced Order of '76

the group will take towards Gulden and Ingles.

The petitions of both would-be Congressmen were being circulated with an attempt at secrecy.

Questioned by a reporter for the Jewish Daily Bulletin, Gulden admitted he will seek the support of the various German-American groups here which last Saturday night, at the Madison Square Garden German Day celebration, heartily booed the names of Governor Lehman, of the Republican nominee for governor, Robert Moses, and of the Socialist candidate, Charles Solomon.

"Anti-Communist"

Gulden denied he would run on a "red hot anti-Semitic platform," as was suggested to him by the reporter. He said his platform would be anti-Communist.

He added that it will be a "common sense" platform, with "no brain-trusters" in it and "dead nuts against Roosevelt."

In order for the petitions to be valid they must be filed with the requisite number of signatures appended at the office of the Secretary of State at Albany by midnight tonight.

Following this formality, Gulden and Ingles declared, they will issue a complete statement elucidating their stands on the various political questions of the day.

In the meantime political circles were in a state of pre-election excitement over the impending endorsement by the German-American Conference, which controls some 200,000 votes in Greater New York, of former Mayor John F. Hylan. Hylan's name was enthusiastically cheered by the throng that attended German Day celebration Saturday night. "Red Mike," as he used to be known, is out to get 12,000 signatures to a petition naming him the Recovery Party's candidate for Governor.

Although Judge Hylan refused to comment on the possibility of his endorsement by a pro-Nazi group that has been outspoken in its anti-Jewish sentiments, aside from asserting that he would not refuse endorsement from any patriotic group of Americans irrespective of nationalities and creeds, close former political associates said for him that he positively would not avow openly anti-Semitic sentiments.

One former politician close to Hylan stated he had too many Jewish friends to take an anti-Jewish stand.

Hylan, this man said, will not overtly express anti-Semitic policies or run on an anti-Semitic platform to court the favor of the German-Americans.

Whether Hylan will, however, despite his many Jewish friends and associates, seek Nazi support by under-cover promises remains problematical. In the opinion of the source referred to above, such a course is not beyond possibility.

Col. Dreyfus of Cause Celebre To Be 75 Years Old Tomorrow

able duels were fought over him. Riots swept the great cities of France. A President of France resigned because of "l'Affaire Dreyfus." Emile Zola went into exile. France split up into Dreyfus and anti-Dreyfus factions. Barricades went up in the streets of Paris. Revolution was in the air. War threatened with Germany. And all because a Jewish captain on the general staff of the French army, an ardent patriot, had been falsely accused of selling the military secrets of his country to Germany.

A Cause Celebre Is Born

In 1894 the French general staff ascertained through its agents that French military secrets were being sold to the German military attaché in Paris. A document, the famous "bordereau" offering French artillery plans to the Germans, came into the possession of French officials. The writing bore a slight resemblance to that of Captain Dreyfus who, although a brilliant young artillery officer, was disliked by his colleagues because he was a Jew.

On October 15, 1894, the young officer was called to the Ministry of War and asked to write from dictation. When he finished writing he was arrested and charged with high treason. He indignantly denied his guilt and refused a proffered revolver for "an easy exit." A court martial swiftly convicted him and sentenced him to penal servitude on Devil's Island. In front of assembled troops and spectators he was stripped of his uniform and his sword was broken and thrown away. A wave of anti-Semitism swept the French Republic.

Picquart Finds Forgeries

Colonel Picquart was appointed to head the intelligence division of the general staff. Soon he discovered the forgeries in the Dreyfus case. He placed his find before high officials of the general staff, but was told to keep his mouth shut.

"What does it matter if the Jew is out there?" the chief of staff asked.

"But he is innocent," Picquart replied.

"Nobody will know if you keep silent," the general said.

The brave Picquart was sent on a dangerous mission to Algiers, but he refused to keep silent and helped to free Dreyfus.

But his family, particularly his brother, Mathieu, was firmly convinced that he was innocent. Public spirited French Gentiles also became certain of the innocence of Dreyfus. A movement began for a revision of the sentence. But the French general staff, positive that Dreyfus was guilty, found it necessary to secure proof.

Dreyfus had been convicted on flimsy evidence. So Major Henry, of the intelligence department, as he later admitted before he committed suicide, "manufactured" further evidence against Dreyfus. The staff also discovered that Major Esterhazy had dealings with the German military attaché. But that case had passed beyond the stage of the guilt or innocence of Dreyfus, so the story was suppressed and Esterhazy exonerated.

Zola Rallies to Defense

Little by little Mathieu Dreyfus won the support of George Clemenceau, Emile Zola, Jean Jaures, Yves Guyot and Gabriel Monod. In 1897 Mathieu wrote, to the Ministry of War openly accusing Esterhazy of the crime. Esterhazy was tried and acquitted. Alfred Dreyfus was brought back from a living hell on Devil's Island, tried again, and once more convicted.

Esterhazy fled to London and there admitted his guilt, but not before another year was over was Dreyfus freed. Five years later he was completely exonerated and re-

Poland Reaches Press Gag Pact With Germany

Will Suppress Anti-Nazi Attack, London Reports

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The increasing tempo in the Nazification of Poland was revealed, the London press declares, by a series of conferences between officials of the Polish and Nazi foreign ministries, in which an agreement was reached for mutual protection against attacks on both countries.

In order to guard against unfavorable publicity in the press, books and on the radio the two governments agreed on closer intellectual cooperation and the frequent exchange of speakers and lecturers.

According to The Daily Mail, the censorship organizations of the two dictatorial regimes also agreed to suppress any unfavorable comments against either government. Thus The Mail commented, Polish Jewish newspapers will be prevented from reporting and commenting on the German Jewish situation, while the Polish press will be opened to Nazi propaganda.

Since the signing of the Polish-Nazi commercial treaty, the Polish government appears to have been moving closer to the Nazi regime and away from French influence.

stored to his rank in the army.

In the World War, Colonel Dreyfus served with distinction. His son was killed in action. Later he was retired and decorated by the French government. But "l'Affaire Dreyfus" continued to stir people.

In the files of the German army and in the memoirs of the German military attaché, Colonel von Schwartzkoppen, proof was found after the war that Esterhazy was guilty and that Dreyfus was innocent.

Case Lives On

In 1930 a play on the affair was given in Berlin, based on the complete knowledge of the case made available by German official documents. The actor who played the part of Dreyfus was jeered by the Nazis and so intense was the feeling that when Dreyfus, in the play, proclaimed his innocence, members of the audience leaped to their feet and shouted "You are a liar, you are a traitor."

When the play was produced in Paris, Major Esterhazy's daughter struck the playwright who had "dishonored" her father. He replied that Esterhazy had dishon-

Weizmann Voices Outspoken Demand

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Oct. 7.—An outspoken demand that the government of Palestine open Transjordan to Jewish enterprise was voiced today by Dr. Chaim Weizmann addressing the special conference of the Zionist Federation of Great Britain and Ireland.

In his speech Dr. Weizmann, who is chairman of the Zionist Commission to Settle German Jewish Refugees in Palestine, called attention to the fact that the Balfour Declaration was intended to apply to both sides of the Jordan river. This provision, he pointed out, was the subject of discussion during the 1918 to 1921 parleys on creating a Jewish national home.

Despite the Balfour Declaration, however, the country one day found itself cut into two parts overnight, Dr. Weizmann declared, adding that "now the same people do not permit Jews to enter Transjordan while at the same time they open Palestine to the Arabs."

"We do not wish to change the status of Transjordan by applying the Balfour Declaration there," Dr. Weizmann explained, "but the anti-Jewish restrictions in Transjordan is something novel in the British Empire's practice, especially since many Arabs there express a desire to have the Jews."

Opposing the establishment of the proposed legislative council for Palestine, Dr. Weizmann declared that an Arab-Jewish rapprochement is not impossible provided it is not interfered with by forcing a body upon Palestine which is bound to operate against the Mandate.

Referring to the Palestine government's immigration restriction policy, Dr. Weizmann assailed the sixty per cent. curtailment in the labor schedule as a great injustice to Jews since it was indisputably proved that a labor shortage exists. Arabs, he said, are taking advantage of this shortage by pouring into Palestine to find work.

Sir Oswald E. D'Avigdor Goldsmid, chairman of the Council of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, in his address to the conference urged upon Jewry the importance of continuing the careful friendship with England.

Sir Oswald expressed the hope that the Jewish Agency's "aide memoire" to the Colonial Office will impress it to the extent of cancelling its plans to establish a legislative council which, he declared, might disenfranchise new arrivals in that country.

In the second session of the conference, the executive body of the federation was authorized to negotiate with the World Union of General Zionists regarding conditions under which the federation could join the world union.

ored himself. She said "you have been paid for writing." He answered, "No; in any case it was not in German marks." Once more there were riots in Paris about Dreyfus. But they died down. The play was forgotten. That same year Mathieu Dreyfus died.

Colonel Dreyfus still lives. On Wednesday he celebrates his seventy-fifth birthday.
