Continuing the Boycott

The unanimous vote of the American Federation of Labor, at the annual convention in San Francisco, to continue the economic boycott against Germany, is an effective expression of public opinion on the part of a large and important element of the American people against the despotism that prevails in Germany today.

Hitler is continuing to call the anti-German boycott the work of "the devilish international Jewish clique," but the German people will eventually discover that the economic boycott directed against Naziland is supported by the labor organizations and by other liberty-loving people, both Gentiles and Jews, in various lands. The economic situation of Germany is reaching an ever more critical stage, and it will soon be quite impossible for the Nazi leaders to conceal the truth from the disillusioned and desperate people.

Neither Jewess Nor Marxist

The works of Selma Lagerlof, the Swedish novelist and Nobel Prize winner for literature, have been banned in Germany by the Nazi authorities. Selma Lagerlof is neither a Jewess nor a Marxist. She is only one of the most gifted Christian novelists in the world, an advocate of peace and equality. She has denounced race hatred and religious prejudice, and has sharply criticized the Nazi terror. Therefore her novels are now verboten in Naziland.

The Terrible Turk

The Turkey of Kemal Pasha has prohibited Zionism, according to a report from Istanbul. All Zionist activities have been declared illegal. Moreover, all Zionist organizations have been raided, and their headquarters searched for evidence of relations with the Zionist movement. No incriminating documents were found.

In this respect Kemal Pasha, the Turkish dictator, learned his lesson from Soviet Russia. There, too, Zionist affiliations are regarded as illegal. But the Turkish dictator failed to learn from the Soviet government how to deal with anti-Semitism. The Soviet government treats anti-Semitism as one of the pernicious diseases of the nation, and it has endeavored to react and to prevent it. The Turkish government has permitted a series of anti-Jewish pogroms in various parts of Turkey. In the beginning the government denied the reports of pogroms and wholesale expulsions. Afterward it placed the blame on the local authorities. But the press is continuing its anti-Jewish agitation and incitement laws.

Poultry Men In Showdown Here Monday

Operators Remain Firm in Their Opposition to Rosalsky Edict

With New York City's great body of orthodox Jewish consumers of chicken standing anxiously on the sidelines, both sides in the dispute that the poultry industry marked over the week end while waiting for tomorrow's decisive battle at City Hall.

Tomorrow is the deadline set by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, Mayor LaGuardia's mediator in the prolonged labor and religious difficulties besetting a city thriving but never peaceful industry, for final acceptance or rejection of his edict.

The edict issued by Judge Rosalsky following a series of conferences he conducted between the warring factions provides for the following:

- 1.—Elimination of rabbinical supervision under the Kashruth Association of Greater New York.
- 2.—Tagging of chickens certifying that they were killed according to strictest kosher ritual.
- 3.—Minimum of $45 a week for shochein.
- 4.—Payment at rate of half-cent per pound of fowl slaughtered.
- 5.—Maximum production per shochein of 12,000 pounds a week.
- 6.—Tax of one cent per fowl to

Germans Mad, Says Dr. Butler At College Rite

Sees No Ray of Light in Reich for Some Time to Come

(Special to the J.D.B.)
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, said today that the people of Germany have gone "stark, raving mad."

Speaking at ceremonies marking the inauguration of Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox as the twelfth president of Union College, Dr. Butler declared that "no light and no leadership can be looked for in Germany for some time to come."

"Those people must regain their senses, turn their backs upon the silly and reactionary slogan which are now hurled at them, to be received with such highly emotional enthusiasm," the noted educator said today "cheer for the liberation of the intellectual leadership which they had so well won."

Lauds, British, French
He said, however, that "the world cannot do without Germany, no matter how propensuous and reactionary may be its ruling policies and doctrines at the moment."

Nazi Pomp Greet Soviet Diplomat, Jew

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BERLIN, Oct. 12.—Jacob Suriz, Soviet Jewish diplomat and newly appointed ambassador to Nazi Germany, arrived here today. He was greeted with pomp and ceremony by a guard of honor of black-shirted special Hitler guards, representatives of the German Foreign Office, as well as members of the Soviet Embassy.

His predecessor in the Berlin post was Leo Kitchuck, another Soviet Jewish diplomat.

Palestine Issues 1,200 Immigration Permits On Future Schedule

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
JERUSALEM, Oct. 12.—The Palestine government today advanced 1,200 immigration certificates to the Jewish Agency for Palestine against the regular forthcoming four-month immigration schedule.

"So great is the demand for immigration certificates to Palestine that the Jewish Agency has been compelled regularly to ask the Palestine government for advances on future schedules."

A. F. of L. to Press Nazi Boycott, Backed Unanimously at Meet

(Special to the J.D.B.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The American Federation of Labor, which is holding its annual convention today, voted unanimously to prosecute with all the vigor at its command the boycott of Nazi Germany, which the Federation announced one year ago and which was unanimously re-endorsed yesterday.

The Federation also urged full labor support for the newly created "chest for the liberation of the workers of Europe."

In approving the recommendation of the resolution introduced by the boycott committee, the convention also went on record as favoring whole-hearted support for the "victims of Fascism, and particularly for the refugees from Fascist countries and those brave heroes

Einstein's New Book Barred by Bavaria

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
MUNICH, Oct. 12.—Professor Albert Einstein's new book, "Mein Weltbild," was banned in Bavaria today by order of the Nazi governor as "harmful to the peace of the State."

The banned volume contains a collection of essays by the famous scientist on philosophy, politics and pacifism, Germany in 1933 and science and the Jews.

In the United States the book was published under the title, "The World as I See It."

Carol Appeals For Cessation Of Race Fight

Calls for United Nation in Stirring Address to Church Union

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BUCHAREST, Oct. 12.—A passionate appeal for the complete abandonment of all religious and racial quarrels was made here today by King Carol, who addressed the congress of the Orthodox Church Union.

"I, who am a Christian, appeal to all members of other faiths to stand at our side in the fight for unity and for a united Rumania," the King said.

The official government organ, "Independence Rumania," called the King's appeal timely and most necessary, "particularly when destructive forces, working under the cloak of a return to medieval orthodoxy, ignore the fact that religious and racial conflicts only retard the consolidation of a country."

of labor who, in spite of the tremendous risks involved, continue to hold the threat of labor solidarity and labor organization within the Fascist countries."

Green announces Nazis
In a moving speech in support of the boycott committee, President William Green, a staunch advocate of the boycott, pleaded for aid for the refugees from Fascist countries, condemned the Nazi regime for its persecution of the Jews, and declared that the labor movement would continue its fight until freedom has been restored to the persecuted workers and the Jewish people in Germany.

"We cannot be true to labor and to ourselves if we remain complacent when our brothers in other lands are being persecuted be-

Holds Populace Under Control, Nips Mob Riot

Rabbis Invited to Take Part in All Official Mourning Rites

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
BELGRADE, Oct. 12.—Assuring the Yugoslavian population that no Jew had a hand in the assassination of the late King Alexander, the Yugoslav government today took the sternest measures against anti-Jewish incitements, particularly in Croatia and Slavonia.

At the same time authorities invited Jewish representatives to participate in all mourning manifestations for the slain monarch. Only 100 Jews, however, a number of Jewish leaders were among those invited to be present at the ceremony in which the three regents, who are to rule the country during the minority of King Peter II, were sworn in.

An attempt was made last night to assassinate the Jews of Yugoslavia, a population of 2,000,000, by a mob inflamed by rumors that the killer of the King was a Jew. Jewish shops were attacked and windows in Jewish homes broken. Police intervened swiftly and drove the rioters away from the Jewish section. A government order was issued immediately after the attack ordered use of stringent measures to prevent recurrences of such attacks and declared that anyone who brought in if the troops would be brought in if the police proved unable to cope with the situation.

Chief Rabbi Alkalay issued a message to the Jews of Yugoslavia, urging prominent participation in the national mourning for the late King and exhorting the slain ruler as the great protector of the Jews.

The entire Jewish population of Yugoslavia is making extensive preparations to take part in a national funeral to be accorded the late King when his body is returned to Yugoslavia on the destroyer Dubrovnik, on which he sailed from Marseilles.

The Liberal leader was taken ill in Glasgow while on a tour. He was rushed to a hospital, where it was expected that his operation would be unnecessary.

After a distinguished career in the Liberal party, Sir Herbert was appointed first British High Commissioner in Palestine.

Sees Nazi Rule Winding Up in Wave of Blood

Last Act Will be Worst Pogrom in History, Isserman Says

(Special to the J.D.B.)
CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The bloodiest massacre in all history—a nation-wide Jewish St. Bartholomew's night—will be the last act of the Nazi drama in Germany. This conviction was voiced here yesterday by Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman of Temple Israel, St. Louis, recently returned from a visit to the Reich. He was addressing the first meeting of the season of the Community Council of the Jewish Charities of Chicago.

When Hitler's reign ends with this sweeping pogrom, Rabbi Isserman continued, anti-Semitism will be ended. The Jew is being incited into the minds of German youth and it will be extremely difficult if not impossible to stop the mass psychosis.

Jerry's greatest need today is an international conference, the speaker said. The parley should be held in London to declare the Jewish spiritual message and go on record against Fascism and for liberty, democracy and peace.

The German psychiatrist, he reported, are beginning to feel that Hitler has outlived his usefulness. The same applies to the military generals and the bankers who are no longer enthusiastic, he added.

Admitting there is little hope for the Jews remaining in the Reich, Rabbi Isserman said the plight of the refugees is possibly even worse.

"All they have is freedom—freedom to starve," he pointed out.

cause, they demand freedom," he said.

"We can appreciate our own freedom when we learn about the sufferings of the Jewish people in Germany.

"We protest with all the power we possess against the treatment which has been accorded our fellow trade unionists in Germany and the Jewish people as well.

"We will continue our protest until the merciless dictatorships in Germany and Italy are wiped out. I cannot reconcile modern civilization with the persecution and murder that is going on in Germany. We will do everything in our power to bring back freedom to the Jewish people and the Jewish people in Germany."

A special committee, consisting of Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York; John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; and Selma Borovick, president of the American Federation of Teachers of Washington, drew up the report which was approved by the convention.

The resolutions committee declared that it had confirmed, beyond any possibility of contradiction, that since the advent of Nazism, the condition of German workers has become intolerable; that wages had been reduced, work hours increased, living costs and taxation increased and that the last vestiges of the once powerful trade union and cooperative movement had been destroyed. It was out by the ruthless cruelty of the Nazi regime.

Persecution Going Ahead
The unionists, said the officials, as well as their families, are still being persecuted, incarcerated, thrown into concentration camps, and the only chance to make a livelihood is the report stated.

"The press, the theatre and the universities have been forced to serve without but the ends of a Nazi party, and all true religion is considered by the present rulers of Germany as inimical to their power."

"Measures against Catholic organizations continue in their severity. The Catholic church has been put under a dictator against the wishes of the clergy."

"The Jews continue to be hounded and abused in a most inhuman manner. The continued growth of Nazism and Fascism is constantly increasing the danger of the world and is causing increased armaments throughout the world."

Citrine Speech Influence
The stand of the convention, it is thought, was strengthened by the vigorous condemnation of Hitlerism and Fascism made at an earlier session by Walter M. Citrine, secretary of the British Legion and president of the International Federation of Trade Unions.

The British leader called for the formation of an extension of the boycott against Nazi Germany, declaring that the boycott with which to fight Nazism.

Citrine was also instrumental in the formation of a fund to assist in the liberation of European workers.

An earnest appeal to the convention to affirm the boycott policy was also made by C. B. Vladeck, head of the Jewish Labor Committee.

Pointing out that an attack against the Jews was "always a prelude to an attack on the freedom of labor," Vladeck declared that "it is hard enough to be a Jew and a work a r."

Yiddish Writer Dies Here After Brief Illness

Katzowitsch Wrote Book of Jewish Memoirs; Was 75

Israel Issar Katzowitsch, author of "Zechtig Yur Leben," a book of memoirs covering Jewish life in Russia and America from 1869 to 1919, died Wednesday at Beth Moses Hospital following a two week illness, it was learned Friday. He was seventy-five.

The son of a poor stockbroker of Wilno province, Katzowitsch received the traditional Jewish education and at the age of 14 began to earn his own living as a teacher. He continued his studies, including world literature and the Russian language, even after his marriage, at eighteen, when he became a grain merchant.

In 1881 Katzowitsch came here with his entire family, intending to establish a colony. This venture failed and he returned to Russia, where he became a cooper. He became interested in Zionism and was one of the founders of the Bnai Moshe of Potlawa. The pogroms of 1902 and 1906 prompted him to attempt American life again. The second effort was successful. After several years as a teacher and farmer, Katzowitsch became associate editor of the Jewish Farmer, which post he held until 1929.

Besides "Zechtig Yur Leben," Katzowitsch wrote "Hebrew Translation of that volume, 'Der Elbige Folk' and 'Men Ken Vers Kligger,' published shortly before his death.

Katzowitsch is survived by three sons and three daughters.

Sees Labor Restriction Impeding Palestine

The one serious impediment to the economic development of Palestine, the restriction of Jewish labor immigration, declared I. D. Berkovits, Yiddish and Hebrew writer and editor, on his arrival here from Palestine.

"The decision of the American Federation of Labor does not mean anything as far as we know as we do the devotion of the leadership of American labor to the principles of human equality and justice and realizing the large stake which labor has in her world struggle against Nazi tyranny and domination. At the same time it has been most encouraging to note the promptness and readiness and the keen understanding with which organized labor has from the outset rallied to the forces which have challenged the Nazi assault upon all elementary human rights regardless of race or creed. The Hitler rule continues to be an ever increasing menace to labor, religious freedom and civilization and a threat to the peace of the world. From the point of view of universal peace, labor too, is especially conscious of the threat that now hovers over Europe."

Effects Acknowledged
"The effect of the boycott upon the industries of Germany has now been acknowledged in the last speech of Chancellor Hitler himself, even though he has stated the case with the falsity that is inherent in all of the Nazi intellectual perversities. The news from Munich about the ruthless persecution of the Protestant Church which comes to us the same day when the Federation of Labor has reiterated its stand on the boycott is the best comment on the wisdom, foresight and the spirit of humanity that animated his similar decisions. This protest comes not only from America labor but from the Jewish labor world over. It emphasizes our contention from the beginning that this is not in any sense a Jewish question but a question of the desperate efforts of the Nazi government to misrepresent it.

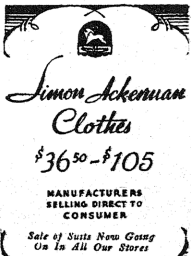

Nazi Consul Finds Reich Busy, Happy

Dr. Kempf Returns to Post in Montreal; Sees Jews Unmolested

(Special to the J.D.B.)
MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—Dr. Ludwig Kempf, Nazi Consul General and dean of the consular corps in Montreal, returned from his first visit to Germany in eight years, boasting that "the country is revived and is busy and happy under Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler."

According to the Nazi consul: "The Jew in the New Germany has all the privileges which other Germans enjoy except for restrictions contained in well-known laws issued in the Spring of 1933.

"If you travel in Germany," Dr. Kempf said, "you will see Jews everywhere unmolested. Jews may be found in the most expensive hotels in the Bavarian Alps and in the fashionable hotels and restaurants in Berlin. Many of the Jewish stores have Gentile customers."

WOMEN WISE AND OTHER WISE

Pertinent and Impertinent

THE VARIOUS parent organizations which, under the leadership of modern child psychologists and educators, do such splendid work in cooperating with school and teacher to further the intellectual and physical development of our children have issued recently an appeal to mothers to provide for their children "vital toys."

Many of you may have asked yourself: What is a vital toy? Is it just another fad? Some new-fangled notion of a pedagogic theorist who in his study or laboratory has only the vaguest ideas as to what makes the average child, the capabilities of the average mother No. by no means. In fact, the more modest a home, the busier a mother, the greater is the chance that she will, quite instinctively, choose for her children vital toys. For a vital toy is a toy that evokes the imaginative cooperation of the child, that enlists the creative instinct of the youngsters. In short, a toy which only with the help of the child itself becomes a real amusement. Thus, for instance, an expensive French doll, with a complete, perfect trousseau is far less a vital toy than a set of cheap building blocks out of which the child can form all possible and beautiful things.

PERHAPS the ideal vital toy for every boy and girl from, let us say, five or six years to fourteen and older, is a toy theatre. A toy theatre for which the children themselves can make the puppets, cut out the decorations, and—after a short coaching by an interested mother or sympathetic teacher—compose the plays. Especially the Jewish mother should find in the toy theatre the opportunity to make the biblical and historical scenes of her real alive and interesting to her children. For the Bible as well as Jewish legends abound in a wealth of possible dramatic subjects which can easily be presented by the youngsters. The story of Esther, King Ahasuerus and Haman is, of course, so obvious a field for theatrical entertainment that it has been done over and over again. Children delight in it as actors as well as spectators and the downfall of Haman is always greeted with thunderous applause. No wonder that out of those so-called "Purim Plays" the modern Jewish stage with its typical Jewish plays has developed. But there are other incidents which would be equally successful on a toy stage. Take the story of Samson. With the simplest means an effective drama can be created. I have seen a presentation given by two little boys, eight and nine years old, who made a truly moving figure out of the blinded and betrayed hero. They had built the temple of the Philistines in the last act out of anchor blocks which at the proper moment came tumbling down with a really dramatic crash, and I am certain that for those boys the story of Samson and Delilah was no less a reality than the story of the Passover and the lamb. Other topics will easily suggest themselves, and to those mothers who want some help in the matter we can offer various simple outlines for suitable biblical plays. In any case, in the toy theatre the Jewish mother has the means to create a play which will be enjoyed by her children, an amusement that will not only entertain the youngsters but will also be of lasting influence in the formation of their ethical consciousness.

Clarice Baright, Trail-Blazer, Brought Women to the Bench

Was First of Her Sex to Be Admitted to the Bar Association

To be the first in arriving at some goal or in realizing some achievement has been, since ancient times, the most potent lure for human ambition. And special honors are very justly due to those who are not followers, but trail-blazers, not seconds and thirds, but firsts.

Former Magistrate Clarice Baright—now practicing as one of the most able and versatile women attorneys of our city—has abundantly tasted the joy of being first in the various endeavors connected with her profession.

She was first to present a demand for women judges before the proper authorities and she argued a motion to that effect before Corporation Counsel Lamar Hardy at a time when women had not even been granted the right to vote. She was the first woman to belong to the Bar Association and, during the war, she was the first, may better, the only woman who ever took a case before the General Court Martial. She was also the first Jewish woman appointed to the bench, although she is principled that she was right by right and which was actually promised to her—to be the first woman magistrate ever appointed. She was denied her through political machinations.

How She Missed One "First"

She herself tells the story with a rueful smile.

"You see," she says, "I had worked for years and years to have women lawyers appointed judges. I had argued motions, presented briefs, and when success was achieved Mayor Hylan decided to call me to office and I was supposed to come up next day to be sworn in as magistrate. And then politics took the stage. Certain circles resented the idea that a Jewess should be the first woman magistrate, and so Jean Norris was chosen instead of me.

"Of course it was a disappointment. But, after all, it is a test of character to bear a personal disappointment without losing the enthusiasm for the principle involved, and I did not permit myself to let that to vitiate and weaken my labor for the cause. And in the end I secured a belated justification. For the career of Jean Norris

Last week's high light was Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman's tea for the officers and members of the Women's Division of the Federation. The tea was held in Mrs. Lehman's New York home, 820 Park avenue, and was sponsored by a special committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Richard J. Bernhard.

The hospitality shown to the Federation Group is again proof of the warm interest the First Lady of the State has always taken in the various philanthropic activities of Jewish Women Organizations.

Of interest also was the first regular membership meeting of the season of the Women's American ORT held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lande, 28 West Eighty-ninth street.

The B'nai Brith Ladies are planning a busy Fall and Winter season and the various women's auxiliary groups are evidently determined to make 1934-35 their most successful year. Already several interesting meetings have been held. The Rebekah Women's Auxiliary No. 65 is foremost among the B'nai Brith groups in planning evenings and afternoons which are for members and the public of stimulating interest. On October 17 such a meeting will take place at the Clubhouse, 36 West Sixty-ninth street, at 8 o'clock.

No members are invited.

The Council of Women's Auxiliary Lodges of the B'nai Brith comprises in New York City the following units: Manhattan-Washington, No. 22—meets the second Thursday evening of the month at the Clubhouse, 36 West Sixty-ninth street. New York Women's Auxiliary No. 22—meets the second Tuesday evening of the month, also at the Clubhouse. Jordan's Women's Auxiliary No. 28—meets first and third Wednesday afternoons, 14 West 67th street. Also Yonkers City No. 33 which meets every second Monday afternoon at the B'nai Brith Clubhouse, 14 West 67th street. The Chanannah No. 39 group which meets second Sunday afternoon at the B'nai Brith Clubhouse, 14 West 67th street. The Henry-Jones Lebanon No. 17 auxiliary which meets fourth Tuesday evening of the month at 36 West Sixty-ninth street, and Rebekah No. 65 which has designated two meeting places. It assembles the first Wednesday evening of the month at the Vasa Castle Hall, Bronx, 146th street, and the third Wednesday evening at the Clubhouse at West Sixty-ninth street.

President of the Council is Mrs. Lilyan E. Nathan of Springfield, Mass. Vice president, Mrs. Fannie Klein of New York City.

"The Sophisticates," a club composed of young Jewish girls between the ages of twenty-one to twenty-three are going to hold their second annual dinner at Hotel Montclair's Casino in the "Air," Forty-ninth street and Lexington avenue, on November 11. Tickets can be obtained from Mrs. Harry Klein, 1935 Park avenue, New York City, or from the secretary, Miss Dorothy Sockloff 424 East 161st street, the Bronx.

♦ BREVETTES ♦

"What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," says the proverb. It states a distinct coincidence and not merely a truism.

For even the most fastidious gourmet will concede that goose and gander, and even ducks and squabs and other birds can be served and enjoyed with the same sauce, and that only for chickens, capons and turkeys, with their lighter meat cooking, a different sauce, a slight variation will be necessary.

But the habit prevailing in many cheap restaurants, and adhered to by other kinds can be served at home, to serve all meats with one sauce recipe will seek quite barbarous to those who look upon cooking as an art. The variety of different kinds of meat demand different sauces and garnishes, and the greater or lesser ability of the cook to use them must be taken into consideration in the choice of the preparation of her sauces. The perfect sauce, of course, can only be created by the perfect artist, and the cook who, for instance, invented

Sauce Bismarck, was decidedly an artist who experienced an inspired moment.

But even those of us who are not culinary artists can do much with the right recipe. Lamb, for instance, will become a treat if served with a Curry Sauce, while more boldly beef is a dish for the gods if a Horseradish Sauce gives it piquancy and flavor.
