Shunning the Light

Recently the organ of Goebbels, the Nazi Minister of Propaganda and Enlightenment, the Angriff, sent a special correspondent to Palestine to describe the present situation. The first few articles, devoted to the activities of the Jewish pioneers, were extremely laudatory, presenting the facts of the achievements of the Halutzim. Suddenly the series was interrupted by Dr. Goebbels. The Nazi Minister of Enlightenment must have realized the absurdity of his anti-Jewish charges that the Jews everywhere constitute a destructive element, in the light of his own correspondent's findings regarding the hard work and idealism of the Jewish pioneers who are rebuilding the Holy Land.

The Nazi Ministry of Propaganda and Enlightenment, fabricating falsehoods for home consumption and for dissemination in foreign lands, naturally shuns the light and turns away from the truth.

The Jews of Sulzbach

One Jew and seven elderly Jewess left the town of Sulzbach, Bavaria, thus marking the end of the three-hundred-year-old Jewish community. There was a time when the Jewish community of Sulzbach, though small in number, was distinguished for the printing of Hebrew and Yiddish books. The synagogue was regarded as one of the finest in all Germany. For some time the Jewish community kept dwindling, and since the Nazi regime had come into power, the last 170 families left the town. Only one old Jew and seven elderly Jewish women remained. The Jews of Sulzbach took along with them the only removable relic of the old synagogue, the Mogen David, made of stone, which was suspended in the courtyard of the synagogue over the Chuppah.

The smaller Jewish communities in Germany have been harder hit than those in the larger centers. For in the smaller towns and villages the Nazi agitators could easily single out every Jew for derision and economic annihilation.

Thus three hundred years of Jewish contributions to trades and crafts and learning in Germany have been obliterated because of the race theory of "Aryan" superiority and Nazi brutality.

The Nazi Version

Naziland has given its answer to "The House of Rothschild." The Kulturtraeger could not bear to see the Rothschilds depicted sympathetically in the Arliss film. So they now shower praise upon a mediocre play by Eberhard Wolfgang Moeller, entitled "Rothschild Won at Waterloo." Moeller is regarded as the new

Polish Court Condonos Defacing Jewish Shops

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Nov. 1.—It is no crime to deface shops owned by Jews by pasting swastikas and anti-Semitic slogans upon their windows, the Supreme Court ruled here yesterday.

The court's decision was rendered in the case of Stefan Dobrowolski, a member of the National Radical party, who had been convicted and sentenced by a police court for the crime. The Supreme Court, in its ruling, established the point of law and ordered the Nara freed.

Tries to Justify Southern Hotel With Bias Ads

Like Advertisements of Jewish Places, Manager Says

(Special to the J.D.B.)

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 1.—In an effort to placate public opinion here which has been aroused at the New Chamberlain Hotel's advertised objection to anything but a Gentile clientele, J. Wesley Gardner, general manager, has issued a statement in which he justifies the advertising on the ground that it is no different from that indulged in by Jewish hotels which advertise they are "kosher."

Mr. Gardner's statement is in answer to criticism hurled at the hotel's anti-Jewish policy by Rabbi Louis D. Mendoza, of Norfolk, and United States Senators Carter Glass and Harry Flood Byrd. Senator Byrd, in a letter to President Roosevelt, recently requested Federal action against the hotel which is located on a government reservation at Old Point Comfort.

"Shall I be denied the right," Gardner complains, "to advertise the policy of my hotels while the Jewish have the right to advertise the policy of their exclusive hotels where they cater to an exclusive patronage? Many of their hotels advertise 'kosher' or 'dietary laws'"

Find Poultry Firm Guilty in Code Case

Jury Convicts 4 Schechter Brothers on Charges of Violating NRA

Joseph, Martin, Alex and Aaron Schechter were found guilty yesterday by a jury in United States District Court, Brooklyn, of violation of the NRA live poultry code. Judge Marcus B. Campbell will sentence the brothers next Wednesday.

Remaining behind locked doors for twenty-four hours, the jury returned convictions on nineteen out of thirty-three counts in the indictment. Included among the dismissed charges were alleged offenses against the labor, intimidation and unfit chickens' clauses of the code.

The Schechter brothers, owners of two Brooklyn poultry slaughter houses, were released on $5,000 bail for Joe and Alex and $3,000 for Martin and Aaron.

Seek to Stop Picketing of Meat Shops

Code Authority to Ask Injunction Against Poultry Dealers

Injunction proceedings will be instituted this morning to prevent striking kosher poultry dealers from picketing butcher shops, it was disclosed yesterday by Leroy Peterson, regional director of the poultry code authority.

Meanwhile, dealers selling poultry exclusively yesterday continued to picket butcher shops selling poultry and boycotted wholesalers in an attempt to force rescinding of an Agricultural Adjustment Administration ruling which went into effect last Monday providing for "straight killing."

"Straight killing" refers to the practice of buying poultry from wholesalers in unopened coops as opposed to the former practice of dealers opening the coops and selecting the fowl.

Charge Discrimination

The former practice, it was claimed, discriminated against the butchers since they made their choice of poultry after the dealers and consequently were forced to accept fowl of an inferior quality.

Wholesalers yesterday expressed their determination to keep the ruling in effect and predicted the strike would be broken by this morning because, they said, poultry sales by butchers compensated for the dealers' stoppage.

Mr. Peterson said that papers he was preparing to bring into court charged that dealers intimidated butchers and carried signs libeling the character of poultry sold.

Harlem Store Acts to Enforce Court's Ban on Negro Pickets

The A. S. Beck Shoe Corporation yesterday moved to halt picketing of its store at 264 West 125th street by Negroes bent on coercing the management into replacing half of its white clerks by Negroes, following a decision by Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman.

Justice Rosenman ruled that the picketing was illegal, declaring the weapon's use must be restricted to labor conflicts and could not be called into play in racial disputes. He declared that, while the action was "born of an understandable desire" to increase Negro employment, if the practice were permitted, white pickets might seek the discharge of colored help elsewhere, with resultant danger of race riots. The decision was viewed with satisfaction yesterday by Harlem merchants.

Picketing Continues

The picketing continued yesterday, nevertheless, as Isidore Schlesinger, Beck's attorney, announced he would shortly serve a copy of the court's order upon

London Rabbi Wins $2,000 in Sweeps

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Among the winners in the Irish Sweepstakes is Rabbi Abramsky, successor to Chief Rabbi Kook as spiritual leader of the Machzike Das Congregation here.

Rabbi Abramsky was formerly in Minsk, where his arrest by Soviet authorities created a furore in Jewish circles abroad. The $2,000 won by Rabbi Abramsky will be used to bring his sons from the Soviet Union, he announced.

Warsaw Halts Mass Meeting Of Reich Exiles

Pact to Ban Criticism of Nazi Rule Seen Back of Move

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Nov. 1.—Criticism of the Nazi regime is no longer possible in Poland, it became apparent last night with the suppression of a mass meeting of German Jewish refugees. The committee in charge was forbidden to read a resolution which touched on the Jewish persecution in Germany and attacked the Nazi regime.

An agreement was signed recently between the Polish and Nazi governments for closer co-operation against attacks on either government. In a supplementary agreement, the censorship divisions of the two governments agreed to suppress criticism of both regimes.

In practice this means that no criticism of the Nazi regime is allowed in Poland, while the columns of the Polish papers are open to the most flagrant pro-Nazi propaganda.

Sees Plight Of Refugees Grown Worse

McDonald Tells League Ruling Body of Tragic Conditions

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Nov. 1.—For the first time since the victory of Hitlerism started the flow of refugees from Germany, many of the German Jewish exiles now find themselves in terrible misery, James G. McDonald, League of Nations High Commissioner for German Refugees, reported today at the opening session of the refugee governing body.

Destitution among the refugees is increasing. Their funds have been exhausted. Further export of money from Germany has been prohibited. With winter approaching, the situation of the refugees is tragic, the High Commissioner said, adding that the conditions of the exiles in Paris and in Praha was particularly bad.

"Pressure of economic and other conditions on the whole generation of young Jewish men and women continues such as to make their future within Germany difficult and doubtful, and within the next few months events in the Saar may add largely to the total of refugees," Mr. McDonald said.

Reviewing the work of his commission since its inception, the High Commissioner said that none were satisfied, owing to the negative attitude of the German government, the lack of funds, lack of cooperation from other governments, and the fact that Christian groups, despite repeated appeals, had never contributed to the upkeep of the 15,000 Christian refugees.

Only the united Jewish groups, the Jewish Colonization Association and the British Central Fund for German Jewry had assisted to the limit of their resources, Mr. McDonald stated.

Emigration difficulties were greater than merely finding countries for the refugees to settle in, the High Commissioner said, but the great problem was primarily,

Greeks Act to End Illegal Immigration

Place All Jews Under Strict Surveillance as Result of British Charge

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

ATHENS, Nov. 1.—Acting on the formal complaint of the British Legation that this country had become the center for an organization furthering illegal immigration of Jews into Palestine, the Greek government yesterday ordered establishment of a system of strict control over the movements of Jewish travelers here.

The order established a virtual espionage upon Jews arriving here and affects Jews of all nations regardless of citizenship. The complaint on which the order was provoked was based on the efforts of many Jews from Poland and other Eastern European countries to depart to Palestine through Greek ports.

Rev. Coughlin Denounces Bias In Radio Talk

Anti-Semitism Won't Get Catholic Aid, Says 'Radio Priest'

Father Coughlin, the Detroit Catholic "radio priest," in his opening radio address of the Fall season, denounced racial and religious bigotry and called on Jews and non-Jews to stand together.

Stating that he plans to steer clear in the future of "the destructive shoals of racial, or religious and of national bigotry," Father Coughlin spoke as follows:

"... if there is anti-Jewish propaganda being maliciously circulated it will never find support from a Catholic pulpit. And be it recorded for the benefit of the slanderers of the Jew that to my knowledge not many Jews of any importance held office in Washington during the period of the past twenty years which was recently characterized as 'the period of conspiracy against the poor.'

"On the other hand," he declared, "I admire the majority of our Jewish people for withholding their support from the frenzied few who clamored for embargoes against Germany where Protestant and Catholic citizens are suffering at the hands of Hitler, a religious persecution surpassed only by the Communists of Russia and of Mexico."

In his introductory remarks, Father Coughlin charged that "tainted interests of the exploiting class, both by innuendo and by malicious suggestion have endeavored at one time and another to turn against me, for instance, the good will of the Polish people and at another time to arouse resentment in the hearts of the Jewish people because of imaginary slanders supposed to have originated over this microphone."

The priest then stated that all sects and colors "must stand shoulder to shoulder undivided by the paid agents of those few Jews or few Gentiles who either through ignorance or malice hold us fast in financial servitude. Not all Jews are in this. Thanks be to God, the vast majority of them as well as the vast majority of gentiles are fellow sufferers and, if need be, fellow battlers for our independence."

Rabbi Calls Protocols 'Palpable Infamies'

Commenting on the Berne trial, Rabbi William Margolis of Congregation Ohab Zedek in an address last night before the Garmet Center Congregation, Seventh avenue and Thirty-fifth street, said the "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" are "palpable infamies and preposterous lies."

"One needs but a casual glance at those aspects of Judaism which direct and guide individual behavior and national conduct to be convinced that the real program of Israel bears not the slightest resemblance to the imperialistic, power-seeking plottings of super-nationalistic nations," Rabbi Margolis said.

Classes for Women

A course of Jewish studies for women will be given in the Jewish Theological Seminary under the auspices of the Israel Friedlander classes of the Seminary College of Jewish Studies, it was announced yesterday. Classes begin on November 5. The classes are sponsored by Hadassah, Ivriah and the New York branch of the Women's League of the United Synagogue of America.

Jerusalem Mufti Faces Loss of Job

Arab Publication Declares He Will Not Be Accorded Life Tenure

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) JERUSALEM, Nov. 1.—The Mufti of Jerusalem will not receive a life appointment as president of the Moslem Supreme Council, the body which administers Moslem religious property in Palestine, Meraat Al Sherik, Arab paper, says.

Previously rumors had been circulated that the Colonial Office favored his retention on life tenure, but it appeared today that elections to the Moslem Council will occur before those to the proposed Legislative Council.

Opposition circles would like the opportunity to dethrone the Mufti from the office he has held for the last twelve years.

Protests Hamper Brooklyn Germans

Are Forced to Seek New Place to Hold Celebration When Union Groups Kick

Protests made by the American Federation of Labor and other trade union groups against flying the Nazi swastika in a labor meeting hall are causing the Brooklyn Germans to seek a place other than the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum for their German Day celebration.

The announcement that the celebration, which is to be held on November 25, was scheduled for the Labor Lyceum led to a series of objections. Since a number of representatives of the present German government have been invited by the arrangements committee to participate in the program of the evening, the swastika banner must be displayed, the committee announced.

It will meet Monday evening to decide where the celebration will be held. The Ridgewood Grove, used by Nazi groups on a number of occasions, has been suggested.

Arabs Charge Zionists Have '5 Year Plan'

Papers Publish Inciting Account of Jewish 'Autonomy Plot'

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Nov. 1.—A new campaign of incitement against the Jews appeared today to have been definitely launched by the Arab press, with an alleged Zionist "Five Year Plan" as the latest peg on which to hang anti-Jewish propaganda.

Led by Esh-Shabab, the young people's weekly edited by Emil Ghery, many Arab papers charged that 1937 will find the Arabs in the minority, followed in 1938 by their complete transference from Palestine to Trans-Jordan, and that in 1939 an autonomous Jewish commonwealth will be established in the Holy Land.

Esh-Shabab, whose editor has had more lawsuits on his hands than any other journalist here, assails the scheduled arrival of Dr. Chaim Weizmann to assume the duties of director of the Daniel Chaim Sieff Research Institute at Rehoboth.

The Zionist leader is coming "to engage in the scientific side of the upbuilding of the Jewish National Home," Esh-Shabab complains.

The Arab papers published protests and articles inveighing against Jewish immigration and land settlement. More than 20,000 Polish Jews entered Palestine in a few months, it is asserted, and warnings are given that the General Jewish Labor Federation aims at displacement of Arabs from their jobs.

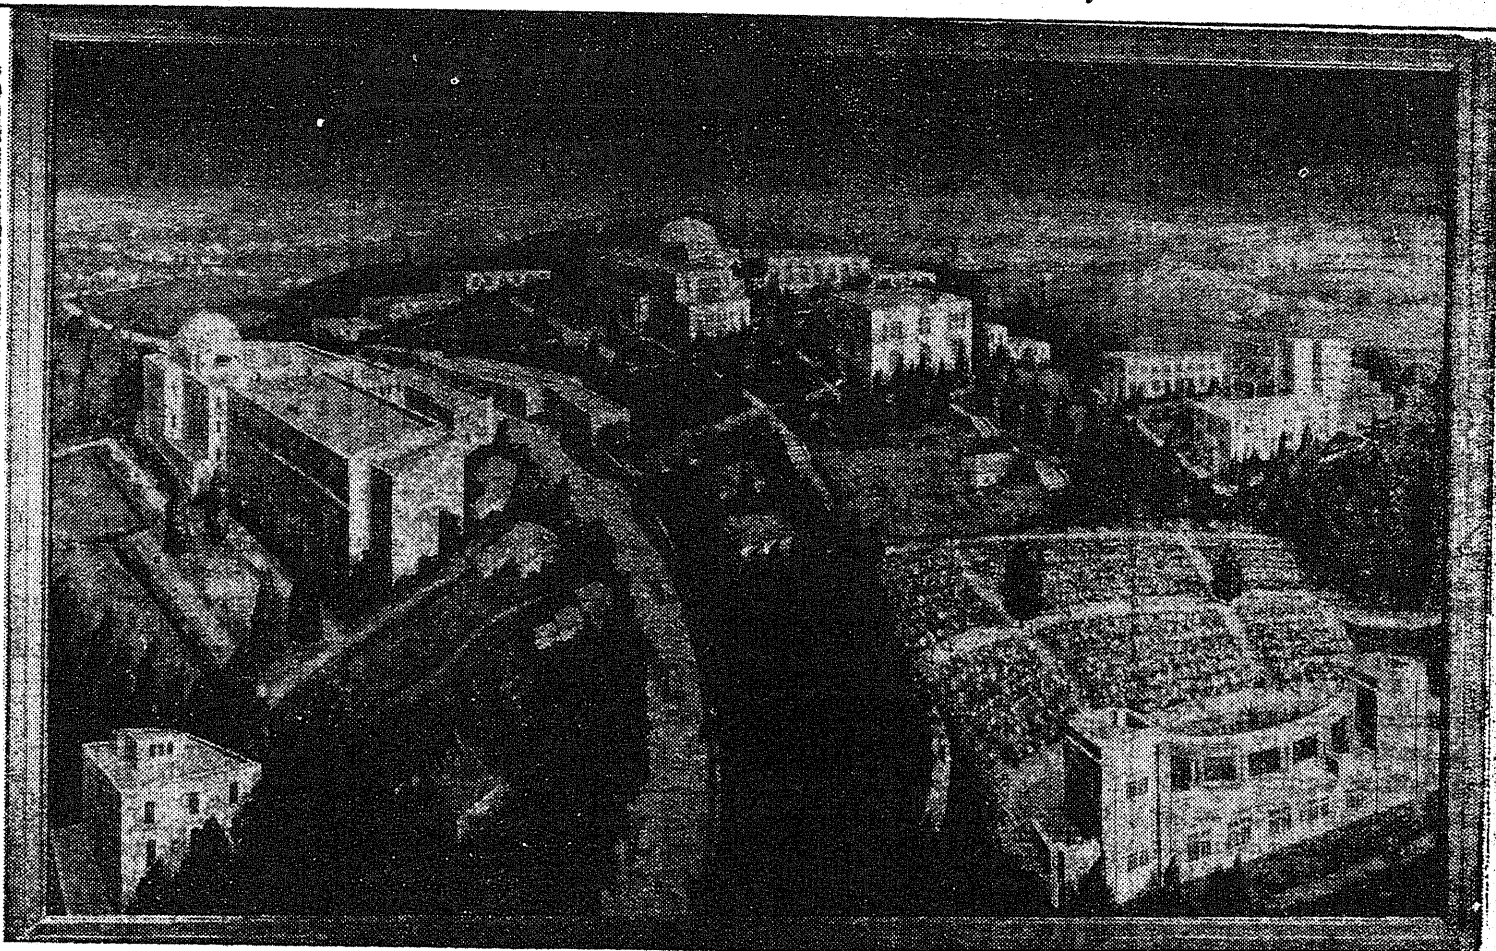

The Moslem town of Nablus is reported in advices reaching here to be seething over the issue.

Esh-Shabab, declaring that more than 100,000 dunams of land have been sold to Jews in the Beersheba district in less than a year, says:

"The country is not in need of empty words but of practical deeds and active people."

NaziProbeAide Asks $100,000 In Libel Action

Miss Waring Sues Yorkville Paper; Plans Suit Against New Masses

The Deutsche Zeitung, Yorkville's militant pro-Nazi publication which has shown signs of genius in finding hot water to step into, has again demonstrated its abilities along those lines.

The hot water this time is the preparation of pretty young Miss Dorothy Waring, "Secret Agent 89," retained by the Congressional Committee to investigate un-American activities in the United States.

In a libel suit filed in Supreme Court yesterday, Miss Waring charges that the Zeitung, now the defendant in a criminal libel action started by former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein, said she failed completely to succeed in her task of obtaining the secrets of Nazi propagandists here.

The suit, which asks $100,000 and names the D. Z. Publishing Company, Walter Kappe, editor, and William L. McLaughlin, managing editor, also charges that the publication described her as a "no longer young lady." The opprobrious term "liar" was also applied to Miss Waring by the Zeitung, she charges.

Another suit growing out of Miss Waring's connection with the Congressional investigation will be instituted by her, she announced yesterday. The defendants are to be the magazine, New Masses and the writer, John Spivak.

Basis for the suit, which is for plagiarism, is the recent series written by Spivak in which, Miss Waring charges, appears information known only to herself and a few of the highest Nazi leaders.

hope of the Nazi drama.

The new play deals with the theme of the rise of Nathan Rothschild. Moeller created a Jewish villainous financier to please the Nazi taste.

In six acts he tells the legend which connects Rothschild with the battle of Waterloo. Accompanied by his bookkeeper, Rothschild watches Wellington fight the decisive battle at Waterloo. When Bluecher's Prussian soldiers arrive, he realizes that Wellington will win, and hurrying off to Brussels, he catches a coach to Ostend, where he finds sailors willing to brave the Channel storm. Rothschild arrives in London one day before the official courier, and causes a panic at the Stock Exchange by a false report to the effect that Napoleon had won the battle of Waterloo. The bonds tumble and his agents buy them up. When the news of Napoleon's defeat arrives, the bonds rise sky-high, and Rothschild makes a million pounds in one day.

The Nazi critics, praising the play, emphasize that this dramatic work portrays truthfully the "filthy machinations of the Jewish financial speculators and war profiteers."

The Nazis describe the villain as a typical Jew "who makes money out of the sufferings of others." They are ever ready to distort the facts. And they conveniently forget all about the "Aryan" speculators and war profiteers who have made their fortunes out of the sufferings of others, and who are now making feverish preparations for a new European catastrophe.

Make a habit of glancing through the classified advertising columns. They may have a surprise in store for you.

Arab Leader Opposed To Legislative Council

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM.—The Mufti of Jerusalem is understood to have stated in private conversations that he will decline to participate in the proposed Legislative Council and in addition will forbid members of the Mejlissein Party, which he leads, to support it.

The Mufti's opposition, it is believed, derives from the report that Ragheb Bey Nashashibi, former mayor of Jerusalem, is slated to receive a high position in the Council, probably that of vice-president, and that High Commissioner Wauchope himself will preside over all sessions of the body.

The Declaration
in Effect

Seventeen years ago today, on November 2, 1917, the late Lord Balfour, writing as Minister of Foreign Affairs on behalf of the British government to Lord Rothschild, asked him "to bring to the knowledge of the Zionist Federation the following declaration of sympathy with Jewish Zionist aspirations which has been submitted to and approved by the Cabinet.

"His Majesty's Government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by the Jews in any other country."

Much has been achieved by the Jews in Palestine in the seventeen years since the Balfour declaration was issued. Palestine, seventeen years ago a small and poor country, is today one of the few prosperous countries in the world.

The Jews have proven themselves worthy of the Balfour Declaration. They have shown the world that the pledge made by the British government to "establish in Palestine a national home for the Jewish people" can be easily carried out if the proper goodwill is shown by the Mandatory Power.

Despite the Jewish achievement, efforts were however made during the last few years to hamper the upbuilding of Palestine as a Jewish national home as provided by the Balfour Declaration. Obstacles were created by the issuance of such documents as the Passfield "White Paper," the Shaw report and the so-called "tenants' law." Obstacles are still being set up by the restriction of Jewish immigration into the country.

These hindrances can certainly not be considered "best endeavors" to facilitate the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine of which the Balfour Declaration speaks. Nor can the projected legislative council be considered one of the "best endeavors."

17 YEARS AGO TODAY

By MILTON BROWN

On a murky day in 1917 during the gloomiest period of the World War, when the British heavy guns were pounding the Turkish lines preparatory to an advance on Jerusalem, world Jewry was electrified: Palestine, ancient homeland of the Jews, was to become the Jewish national home.

In simple, direct language, the late Lord Balfour, then British Foreign Secretary, wrote to Lord Rothschild:

"His Majesty's government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object."

November 2 thus became a red-letter day in Jewish history.

Hailed by All Jewry
As Epochal Event

In every section of the world, wherever Jews lived, the Balfour Declaration was hailed as an epoch making event; the righting of a great wrong consummated with fire and sword in the year 66 A.D. The Jewish people, scattered far and wide, were to have a national home and the Allied Powers were to be the prime movers. Other governments also expressed their sympathy with the age-old Jewish aspirations.

The Zionist ideal, sponsored by Dr. Theodor Herzl, was no longer a fantastic dream. It was now a reality, perhaps even a terrifying one.

In April, 1920, the European statesmen met at San Remo and the Balfour Declaration was implemented in the treaty with Turkey. Great Britain assumed the mandate over Palestine. The task of building Palestine could now begin.

Premier Lloyd George turned to Dr. Chaim Weizmann and said: "We have given you a start. It is now for you to make good."

When Dr. Weizmann returned to London from San Remo, he was given a triumphant reception at Victoria station.

Palestine in Grip
Of Arab Rioting

While the statesmen sat around a table at San Remo Palestine was in the grip of rioting. Arab nationalists were attacking Jewish colonists. Jews were being killed in Palestine because the Arab could find no other way of protesting against Zionism. The British military administration, still in control of Palestine, was hostile to the Jews. Jewish self-defense organizations were broken up and their members sentenced to lengthy prison terms.

April 24, the day of the San Remo decision, was a day of mourning in Jerusalem. Into this atmosphere of sorrow came Menachem Mendel Ussishkin, veteran Zionist leader, with a message.

"I am the bearer of a historic message today," he told a throng in the synagogue. "Rabbi Kook just spoke to you of the Diaspora, of suffering and distress, of all you have borne and seen during the last few days—but I am bringing news of our redemption, of the future, of new life, great hopes and our deep faith which has been vindicated today."

17 Years Have Passed
Since Declaration

Seventeen years have passed since the Balfour Declaration was announced. The initial enthusiasm with which it was greeted is gone. Governments have come and gone in Great Britain. Some have been hostile, others friendly. The Zionist organization has passed through crisis after crisis. Bit by bit the Balfour Declaration has been whittled down, a little at a time. The Passfield Paper, the MacDonald letter, the Simpson report, the French report and decisions of the League Mandate Commission—all have done their part in vitiating the original intent of the declaration.

The Palestine administration itself has been hostile. The Arabs have become more articulate and better organized in their protests.

Anti-Semitism is once more rife in the world, Jews are being persecuted in many sections of the world. The need for a Jewish national home is more acute than ever. Mass immigration into Palestine is hamstrung by British regulations.

Obstacles Handled
By World Jewry

But despite these difficulties and despite terrific obstacles, a mighty Jewish edifice has arisen in Palestine. More than 305,000 Jews, the greatest number since the exile, today make their home in Palestine, on the farms and in the cities. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been invested in Palestine by Jews and the ancient country is experiencing a rebirth. A Hebrew University looks down from Mount Scopus upon the city of Jerusalem. And over the length and breadth of the land, from the Dead Sea to the upper reaches of Galilee, Jews are at work building.

In 1925 Lord Balfour, then retired, came to Palestine for a well earned triumph, to see for himself the result of historic declaration and to lay the cornerstone for the Hebrew University. He was received with tremendous enthusiasm and he too was enthused by Jewish accomplishments in Palestine.

Balfour Lauded
Results in 1930

Speaking in London on April 24, 1930, on the anniversary of the San Remo conference Lord Balfour said:

"For long I have been a convinced Zionist, and it is in that character that I now speak, although in my most sanguine moments I never foresaw, never even conceived, that the great work of Palestinian reconstruction would happen so soon, or that indeed it was likely to happen in my own lifetime."

Thus spoke the author of the Balfour Declaration shortly before his death.

Since then much has happened, but the reconstruction of Palestine, set in motion by the Balfour Declaration, goes on.

The Nara Resurrected

The resurrection of the anti-Semitic Nara Party is reported from Warsaw, by the Polish newspapers. The new party will carry the name "The Federation of Young Nationalists."

When the Polish government suppressed the Nara Party last June, it was clear to the Jews that the suppression did not come as a result of the anti-Jewish riots which the Nara had organized throughout the country. It was clear that if not for the assassination of Minister Pieracki, the Polish government would never have gone to the trouble of liquidating the Nara.

The revival of the Nara Party under a new name now is, therefore, no surprise. Nor is it surprising that the reorganized Nara Party is now openly supported by leaders of the Government Party.

Government's Flirtation

The Government Party was flirting with the Naras long before Pieracki's assassination, in the hope of winning them away from the oppositionary Endek Party. It was due to this flirtation that the government did not consider it necessary to protect the Jews in Poland from the anti-Jewish Nara riots.

The underground activities which the suppressed Nara organization conducted after being proclaimed illegal seem to have convinced the government that it would be more practical to win the youths in this party by organizing them into a special youth federation which should gradually be put under the influence of the Government Party. The Federation of Young Nationalists was therefore formed and support to this federation is therefore now given by government leaders.

Jewish Disappointment

The Jewish population of Poland, which has shown its loyalty to the present regime on many occasions, certainly prefers to see the youth movement in Poland under the influence of the Government Party rather than under the influence of the anti-Semitic Endek Party. The Jewish population in Poland will, however, find it disappointing that the government leaders are approving the anti-Semitic part of the program which the newly formed Federation of Young Nationalists has just formulated.

The program of the Federation "to decrease the number of Polish Jews" resembles too much the program of the suppressed Nara Party. By approving the anti-Semitic part of this program the Government again is only convincing the world that liquidation of the Nara Party did not occur because of any desire on the part of the government to protect the Jews, but because of other motives.

With the new party enjoying government co-operation, a new wave of strong anti-Semitic activities may be expected in Poland. Polish Jewry now is in danger again. Has the Polish government no way of discouraging new political parties from making anti-Semitism a part of their programs?

King Alexander

To the Editor, Jewish Daily Bulletin:
King Alexander of Yugoslavia, the victim of an assassin, was a true friend and protector of Yugoslavian Jewry. Only now after his tragic death have some of his utterances become public, made to Jewish leaders as well as in the circle of his official family, which express a very tolerant, even pro-Jewish sentiment.

A few years ago when a law touching the Jewish communities was considered by his cabinet, he met the president of the Orthodox Jewish Landeskanslei and after a conversation with him he said to his ministers: "A country which treats the Jews well fares well. A country which treats the Jews badly fares badly."

At another time he asked the Chief Rabbi and Senator Dr. Alkalay how many Jews there were and on receiving the exact number, he said, "So few only?"

On many occasions the friendly sentiment of the King towards Jewish subjects of his country found unequivocal expression. It was due to the King in addition to the Prime Minister Jevtic that the laws concerning the Jewish community were framed in that truly liberal spirit which aroused whole-hearted enthusiasm everywhere.

Yugoslavian Jewry has no doubt that the young King Peter II and the Regent Prince Paul will be inspired by the same principles and will remain true to their task inherited from their great predecessor in the spirit of tolerance and justice.

We too are convinced that this will be the case, for the Prince is known to have received liberal education in accordance with English principles of democracy and liberalism.

Irate on Kashruth

To the Editor, Jewish Daily Bulletin:

It is about time that the disgraceful Kashruth situation be remedied. The quarrels and bickering to which we have been treated in the past few weeks, culminating in the "issur" of the rabbis are nothing short of disgusting.

It is about time that some responsible central Jewish organization took a hand in this ugly row, which is bringing the name of the Jewish people into disrepute.

Hardly a day goes by that the columns of the daily press are not filled with the recriminations and fulminations of both sides. After all Kashruth is a matter that can easily be decided by reference to Jewish laws which have been in existence for countless generations. Then why the nasty squabble which is disgracing the Jewish community?

End this bickering once and for all.

TEN YEARS AGO in The Jewish Daily Bulletin

November 2, 1924

LONDON.—On the seventh anniversary of the issuance of the Balfour Declaration, Lord Balfour, the author of the statement which gave birth to a new era in the history of the Jewish people, said: "I beg to offer my most hearty congratulations on the success already achieved by the Zionist movement, and my best wishes for its future progress. Doubtless there are difficulties still to be overcome; this is inevitable. But those who, like myself, have a firm faith in the future of Zionism may surely draw great encouragement from the past."

BERLIN.—Twenty-seven Bavarian generals signed a document proclaiming a boycott against General Ludendorff, former German war lord and now leader of the German anti-Semites. The boycott is a result of Ludendorff's assertion that Prince Ruprecht caused the failure of Hitler's and Ludendorff's "Putsch." The statement calls Ludendorff a person "with whom decent people cannot associate."

JERUSALEM.—The Parliamentary Committee of Inquiry investigating the Arab riots made a tour of inspection of the areas affected in the Arab outbreak.

MOSCOW.—The entire Soviet population in the village of Strugovo-Bude, where a Jewish woman was killed and the houses of Jewish colonists plundered during an attack by village peasants, will be brought to trial charged with responsibility for the attack.

One Year Ago

LONDON.—A central allocations committee was decided upon as part of a comprehensive program of action for the relief of the Jews of Germany at the world conference here.

JERUSALEM.—The Arab Executive petitioned High Commissioner Wauchop for complete stoppage of Jewish immigration as the only way to prevent further unrest in Palestine.

Labor Shortage Cuts Palestine Planting Area

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

APULEN, Palestine, Oct. 12.—Areas planted to vegetables in the Emek, Nuris Complex and Jordan Valley regions have decreased because of a shortage in the supply of Jewish workers, it was stressed at a meeting called by the Thnuvah Marketing Association here.

The shortage results from immigration restrictions and a demand for laborers in other portions of the country, it was pointed out. The capacity for consumption of vegetables runs far ahead of the supply. Arab growers and vendors benefit by the inability of Jewish farmers to meet the requirements of the Jewish market.

Coblens, Department Store Executive, Dies

(Special to the J.D.B.)

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—Funeral services for Leon C. Coblens, veteran department store executive, who died at Sinai Hospital yesterday after a long illness, will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Connected with local department stores for about fifty years, Coblens was vice-president of the May Company at the time of his death. He was sixty-four years old and was known as a philanthropist, contributing heavily to local charities. He was prominent in social as well as business circles, and had been president of the Phoenix Club for four years.

A bachelor, the deceased is survived by four sisters and a brother.

Digest of World Press Opinion

Nazi Inspiration Derived from French

In its department, "Topics of the Times," the New York Times comments editorially on the Berne trial, as follows:

One of the Nazi defendants in the Berne trial admitted that certain passages in the celebrated "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" bear a close resemblance to an essay by a French author published as far back as 1864, "A Dialogue in Hades between Machiavelli and Montesquieu." An expert testifying at Berne maintained that it is something more than a few passages and a resemblance. He said that in no fewer than 170 instances the "Protocols" are a verbatim copy of the French book.

It seems like hard luck that Nazism should lean so heavily, of all foreigners, on Frenchmen. The whole business of the blond Nordic and his exalted destiny was begun by Count Gobineau almost a hundred years ago. Now it apparently turns out that the "Protocols of Zion," which Nazis cite against the Jews, is a Czarist Russian forgery based on a French original. Nazi truths supposed to be rooted in the primitive Teutonic life actually trace back to a Paris library.

The London Times publishes the full text of the offer made by the Jewish Representative Council to the Hitler government to withdraw the anti-Nazi boycott provided the rights of German Jews are restored. The offer is published in The Times in the form of a letter to the editor, and signed by M. H. Davis and P. Horowitz, the joint chairmen of the Jewish Representative Council. It reads as follows:

The Offer to Drop The Nazi Boycott

Herr Hitler in his appeal for the "Winter help" movement at the meeting of the temporary Reichstag on October 9 is reported to have laid the blame on the Jewish boycott for the difficulties Germany has to face.

We would like to point out that if it be true that the present economic situation of Germany is mainly due to the Jewish boycott the German Chancellor has it entirely in his own hands to solve the difficulty and to relieve the anxiety of the German people for the forthcoming winter. The responsible authorities for the organization of the Jewish boycott have at all times made it clear that the boycott would be pursued only for "so long as full equality of status and citizenship shall continue to be denied to the Jews of Germany."

Providing satisfactory assurances are forthcoming that Jews in Germany will be restored to the position they formerly occupied the Jewish Representative Council for the Boycott of German Goods and Services is prepared to convene forthwith a conference of all Jewish boycott organizations in order to arrange for the immediate withdrawal of the boycott.

Jews view with the gravest concern the possibilities of serious distress in Germany during the coming winter, and would gladly join in any effort for the restoration of prosperity providing they could feel assured that in its achievement we shall see a Germany according to all her citizens full citizenship, rights and opportunity.

Parallelism in Careers Of Two Great Jews

The London Daily Express devotes a special column to praising the activities of Sir Isaac Isaacs, the Governor General of Australia.

Pointing out Sir Isaac's services for the British Empire, the Daily Express writes:

Governor-General of Australia Sir Isaac Isaacs, now piloting Duke of Gloucester round Melbourne, has a career uncannily similar to namesakes R. H. Isaacs, Marquis of Reading.

Both sons of Jewish merchants. Both entered legal profession as clever boys of family. Both became Benchers of Middle Temple. Both Queen's Counsel. Both M.P.'s, both Solicitors-General of their respective Governments, both Attorneys-General.

Both created Knight Grand Commanders of knightly orders. Both Lord Chief Justices, both Privy Counsellors.

Then Reading became Viceroy of India. It looked as though queer parallelism was ended. The two met in London, joked about it.

Then Isaacs was made first Australian Governor-General of Australia. Parallel was restored. Both had been supreme heads of two Empire countries.

Reading is, however, still a short head in front of Isaacs. He has peerage. Is it too much to expect Sir Isaac Isaacs will be made peer after royal visit?

The Times of India commenting on the situation in Palestine, finds that Britain will have to administer Palestine for a long time to come. The paper states:

Sees British Ruling Palestine Long Time

The peculiar difficulties of the Palestine problem arise from the fact that a double objective was placed before the mandatory, Great Britain. Palestine was to be developed as a Jewish National Home. At the same time the indigenous Arab population was to have all its rights and interests carefully safeguarded.

This could only be accomplished, of course, by some coming together in goodwill of the two elements, Jew and Arab—and it may be said in short that owing to their racial characteristics and traditions this drawing together has seemed as hopeless of achievement as a mixture of oil and water.

Meanwhile, as far as material prosperity is concerned, Palestine is progressing rapidly. There was at the end of 1933 an accumulated treasury surplus of £2,500,000. Agriculture is advancing by leaps and bounds. A typical example is the increase of orange exports from four million cases in 1932 to five million in 1933. Private bank deposits have gone up from £7,500,000 to £12,500,000. Six hundred new industrial establishments were opened during the year. Capital investment in the 3,500 separate enterprises has doubled in the last three years.

Due to Jews

All this is largely ascribable to the immigration of the Jews—largely from Poland—but recently, owing to the persecution from Germany too.

The reverse of the picture shows however that, while the Arabs have to some extent shared in the generally improved welfare they bitterly resent the

Eradicates Ignorance

Much as we would like to see our youth studying and mastering the Hebrew and Yiddish languages, and in spite of all our efforts to spread our national tongues among our younger generation, there will always be tens of thousands of Jews who will be bound to obtain their information and knowledge of Jewish life through the source of the English language.

It is for those tens of thousands of Jews that the Jewish Daily Bulletin is so extremely valuable, being a source of accurate information, and best enlightenment of all matters concerning Jews and Judaism the world over. The Daily Bulletin eradicates Jewish ignorance from among thousands of our brethren who can read neither Hebrew nor Yiddish, and cements them to the Jewish nation and its national hopes and strivings.

The Jewish Daily Bulletin is also the best means of acquainting the gentile world with Jewish events, and, consequently, of spreading and developing good will between us and our English-speaking neighbors. Knowing well the Jews and their hard life means to sympathize with them and their struggles.

SLANTS ON SPORTS

By MORRIS WEINER

The Irish Meet the Jews Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn the Kelly Green Irish from Manhattan College will tackle the Beaver Litvacks in their annual football clash.

For the past ten years the boys from St. Nick Terrace have played over their heads to stem a mighty Jasper tide. No matter how poor the City record may have been until the Manhattan game, the brand of ball they played against the Irish was superb. And, as a result, whatever tradition in athletics there is at City has been built around this yearly gridiron classic.

This year things are different. Under a great coach, considered by pigskin experts as the greatest quarterback of modern football, the Beavers have reached a new pinnacle of success. Benny Friedman, the Jewish master mind of his Jewish warriors, is likely to spring a surprise on his Irish rival, Chick Meehan. The latter is by far the greatest showman football has ever seen but as far as coaching ability goes it looks like a horse of another color. The Kelly Greens have bitten off a schedule that included Kansas State, Michigan State and Catholic University and have suffered acute indigestion as a result.

Nevertheless, tomorrow's game will bring out the best in both teams and a hard battle between them is expected. Once again a Pinkowitz, a Weiss and a Berkowitz will face a Byrne, a Morality and a Gallagher for the "little championship of the big city."

With City led by its brilliant quarterback, Dolph Cooper, and a stalwart line to sweep the Irish defense, this corner pins its hope and faith on the Beavers with whatever remains of charity to the Irishers from Spuyten Duyvil—begorra the wearers of the green.

Nat Machlowitz and Charlie Siegal are back in the line-up for the Violet and they intend to repeat their victory of last year over the Pittsburgh engineers. Machlowitz did a splendid job of signal calling for the Hall of Famers last week but will step into a halfback position and let Charlie Siegal, diminutive Jewish quarterback, do his stuff. It was Charlie's field strategy which beat Carnegie last year and he intends to do it again tomorrow.

However, Mal Stevens told your sport Eddie that Charlie plays football too hard to please him. The 168-pound general is the type of lad who tenses himself to the limit in action and tries to take over every duty possible. His dynamic driving exhausts him by half time, declares Stevens.

Jewish Baseball Players in the Post-Season Spotlight

GREENBERG

Bill Terry is breaking up the old Giant combination of the 1934 season and desperately trying to build a winning team for next year. Reports from the Giant offices have it that Harry Danning, catcher, and Phil Weintraub, utility outfielder, may not be with the team for spring training next February. Hank Greenberg, first baseman of the Tigers, remains sure of his job. He was tendered a warm reception last night in his home boro, the Bronx.

squad, a fine field runner, a good kicker, a smart quarterback, and despite his comparative smallness, he can hit into line holes with the force of a driving ram," concluded the N. Y. U. mentor.

Well, folks, we'll cheer for N. Y. U. and put a sawbuck on the line for the Tech team.

An All-Star Card At The Garden

Tonight's card at the Garden should be a humdinger. Originally scheduled as an all-star program that featured three Italians, two Jews and one Pole, the casualty list has cut the Jewish fighters to one. We're referring to Harry Dubinsky, erstwhile Jewish boxer from the Windy City, who tried to palm off baptismal papers for authentic credentials. Harry, who in the opinion of one expert has tried to pass salt water taffy for the McCoy, was called Jewish in these columns and as a result our Chicago contemporary, the venerable Shub, put us on the book as pro-Nazi.

Nevertheless, little Al Roth of the Bronx will sport the Mogen David on his trunks when he pairs off against Eddie Cool of Philadelphia. Klick meets the "Jew who was born with baptismal papers in his right hand" and Peter Jackson, the Negro fighter, is due for a hectic ten-rounder with Del Genio.

All in all a crackerjack card. But it shows Jimmy Johnston and his Garden cohorts know a good thing when they see one. The idea behind promoting H. D. as a Jew was to gather in the Jewish boxing fans at the Garden tonight. They'll be there to see the boy get knocked out for helping in this fraud that had the country duped.

That Hank Greenberg Dinner in the Bronx

Last night the baseball fans of the Bronx threw a swell party for Hank Greenberg, the local boy who made good with the big league teams.

Quite a number of Hank's former high school team mates and coaches attended this little soiree—given in the inimitable Bronx fashion—and it was from one of these old cronies that we gleaned a new angle on big boy 'Bruggy' of the Bronx.

"Hank was always a big fellow," said our narrator, "and up until a few years ago was the gangliest guy you ever saw. His number eleven feet were always getting in his way. Undoubtedly the Tiger scout remarked to Bruggy about this matter and told him he'd go places if this awkwardness was removed. And what do you think Hank did? That guy, weighing 215 pounds and standing six feet four inches, took dancing lessons to develop himself into a major league ball player."

The Hockey Situation And a Levinsky

In the year of the big wind, when the Chicago Assassin, under the nom de plume of the Windy City Terror, breezed into town, preceded by his bodyguard and manager, Leaping Lena Levy, the name of Eddie Krakow was comparatively unknown. Those who remembered the name recalled a fish stall on the Chicago south side, where the lad peddled his wares. It was when the fish failed that Krakow became Battling Levinsky. And in some parts of Brooklyn the people actually believe that Chicago was monickered after the keed brudder of Leaping Lena and renamed the Windy City.

But despite the things that Lena and her prize did to the Levinsky clan, a youngster from Winnipeg, Canada, is streaking to New York to show that the Levinskys are still good. The latter is an A-1 hockey player who has been signed by Les Patrick to play with the New York Rangers. He is considered one of the fastest men in the pro leagues and a flawless defense man. Not only that, but the Garden hockey management wants to offer the New York fans "a real, authentic, dyed-in-the-wool Hebrew hockey player" to increase their gate receipts.

Baseball, boxing and basketball have bowed to the demands of the sports fans for Jewish players and athletes. Hockey is going the way of the big dough and stocking up for the Winter with a brand new supply of Hebrew talent.

Split by River, Budapest Jews Refuse to Unite

Those on Buda Side of Danube City Spurn Merger Plan

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BUDAPEST.—Unification of the Jewish communities in Buda and Pest, divided by the Danube River, but which together form the city of Budapest, was definitely turned down at a meeting of the Buda Jewish community, which expressed itself sharply as opposed to unification under any circumstances.

Dr. Adolf Kriszhaber, president of the Buda community, read a declaration at the meeting condemning the unification movement, which was termed "injurious." He also stated that the community was taking steps to end the unity agitation and would settle outstanding differences with the Pest community by means of an agreement. The declaration was unanimously adopted.

The unification group, however, issued a statement declaring that 3,000 members of the two communities were in favor of unification and that they intended to pursue their activities.

Bishop Pleads For Unity From Temple Pulpit

Rt. Rev. Farthing Speaks at Emanu-El Dinner in Montreal

(Special to the J.D.B.)

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 1.—A call for cooperation for the common good was issued last night by the Rt. Rev. John C. Farthing, Bishop of Montreal, who addressed a large dinner gathering of Temple Emanu-El Brotherhood in the Temple auditorium.

This is the first time in the annals of Canadian Jewry that a Christian Bishop has spoken in a synagogue on religion. Bishop Farthing's address was entitled: "Religion — the Practical and Stabilizing Factor in Life."

He praised the Montreal Jewish community for communal uplift work. "I congratulate Montreal Jewry upon their self-respecting independence in this city," he said. "I am not a pessimist," Bishop Farthing stated, "but in Canada, as elsewhere, we are passing through a crisis and it behooves us to go through it with honor and victory."

"What is needed is cooperation for the common good, for the world is crying for a restoration of confidence in all branches of endeavor. Nothing except living and practicing a righteous life can bring this about."

The Bishop urged Canadian citizens to take the lead in this regard.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT.

The Jewish Daily Bulletin is of great value to the entire community because the ideals of Judaism and the accomplishments of Jewry alike are sources of inspiration to everyone untouched by the unholy hand of prejudice.

ROBERT F. WAGNER.

At no time in modern history has it been more essential that there be unity and the fullest knowledge within American Jewry than at the present time. In contributing largely to the accomplishment of that objective The Bulletin should have the fullest cooperation and grateful appreciation of all American Jews.

LAURENCE A. STEINHARDT.
U. S. Minister to Sweden.

It is difficult to believe that ten years ago there was no Jewish Daily Bulletin—that American Jewry actually was able to get along without it. Today it is indispensable, it has proved its worth. Long live The Bulletin!

Open Palestine To Poor Also, Wedgwood Plea

Liberal Stirs Commons With Address on Entry Issue

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
LONDON, Nov. 1.—A plea to "open Palestine for the poor as well as the rich," was delivered today in the House of Commons by Colonel Josiah Wedgwood, Liberal M. P., and friend of Zionism.

The veteran Liberal questioned Colonial Secretary Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister on the importation of German goods into Palestine by immigrants in the capitalist category who brought their capital with them in the form of German goods. He urged the Colonial Minister to "promote British trade with Palestine in the best British tradition."

Sir Philip answered for the government that the extent of immigration to Palestine is determined by High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope and is based on the economic absorptive capacity of the country.

Barnett Janner, Jewish M. P., for Whitechapel, called the attention of Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, to the ban on all Jewish papers set up by the Iraq government.

The Foreign Office, Sir John replied, has instructed the British Charge d'Affairs in Baghdad, to ascertain whether such a ban exists and what reason the government had for imposing a ban.

According to earlier reports, Jewish papers and even British, French and American newspapers commenting favorably to Zionism, have been banned in Iraq, where a strong anti-Semitic movement is in full swing.

the inability to secure funds to finance emigration.

A plan to secure a sum of $1,250,000 necessary to finance the settlement of refugees abroad was submitted by the advisory council to the governing body.

High Commissioner McDonald declared that he would shortly go abroad to negotiate directly with several governments for permission to settle a fixed number of refugees in their territory, although "German propaganda throughout the world was making it increasingly difficult to secure the admission of exiles from Germany."

The matter of settling German refugees is not only a purely German concern and directly affects world economics.

observed' which means to those of the Jewish faith that they will be welcome and feel at home, and at the same time means to the Christians that they will not, and cannot feel thoroughly at home, even though as the good Rabbi Mendoza has said to me they will feel welcome."

Asked to comment on this explanation of the hotel's policy, Dr. E. N. Calisch, of Beth Ahabah Synagogue, scored it as "pitiful and misleading" and pointed out that use of the words "kosher" and "dietary laws observed" did not even remotely imply discrimination of the sort understood by the words "Gentiles only." He said the phrases are "precisely as though a hotel or restaurant advertised Southern cooking."
