AL SMITH WARNS A. A. U.

Soviet May Aid Polish Jews

Suritz Group Sees Kalinin On Settling

Ask Him to Open Biro-Bidjan for Entry of First 300

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

MOSCOW, Dec. 7.—The Soviet government may soon permit an organized Jewish immigration from Poland to Russia, it was officially learned here today when a Jewish delegation from Poland arrived here to negotiate with the Soviet to open its doors to Polish Jews.

The delegation, headed by Dr. Michael Suritz, president of the Agro-Yid organization in Poland, was received today by M. Kalinin, president of the U. S. S. R., and handed to him a memorandum describing the economic plight of Polish Jews. The delegation asked President Kalinin to permit the settling of the first 300 Jewish emigrants from Poland in Biro-Bidjan, autonomous Jewish region in the Far East.

In submitting its memorandum, the delegation made it clear that

Aba Achimeier Term Reduced

Will Serve 18 Months on Terror Charge—Another Cut

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Dec. 7.—The Palestine Court of Appeals today reduced the sentence of Aba Achimeier, convicted of leading an alleged secret terrorist organization, Brith Habiryonim, from twenty-one to eighteen months.

The term of Chaim Divri, a co-defendant, was reduced from eighteen to fifteen months.

Others serving sentences on the same charge are Dr. B. Yevin, Moshe Sabri, Jacob Ornstein and Joshua Lichter. Joseph Katzenelson was acquitted by the court in a decision handed down June 19.

Achimeier was accused with Abraham Stavsky and Zvi Rosenblatt of having killed Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff, Zionist labor leader. He was charged with being the intellectual leader of the plot, but was freed in the early stages of the trial. He was immediately rearrested and charged with the leadership of the Brith Habiryonim.

Reich Sets Out To Split Boycott Of Great Britain

Embassy at London Acts to Form a German Trade Body

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A meeting will be held in the German Embassy here Wednesday with the avowed purpose of organizing a German Chamber of Commerce in London with branches all over England in order to break the anti-Nazi boycott, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned today.

The action was initiated and sponsored by German officials in Great Britain headed by Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch. A British-German preparatory committee is also taking a leading part in the organization of the new chamber.

Odor Bombs Greet Stavsky at Theatre

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Dec. 7.—Five members of the right wing Poale Zion organization have been arrested charged with having thrown stench bombs at a performance in the Arara Theatre. In the audience was Abraham Stavsky, who was acquitted of the murder of Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff in Palestine.

Stavsky, the central figure in the case, was tried together with Zvi Rosenblatt and Aba Achimeier. Stavsky was convicted by the lower court, but was freed on appeal. Achimeier and Rosenblatt were freed by the lower court.

Immigration 'Laxity' Laid To U. S. Jews

Boston Group Says They Prevent Stronger Legislation

(Special to the J.D.B.)

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—A group of Boston socialites and intellectuals, banded together in a forty-year-old organization known as the Immigration Restriction League, today made public the contents of a pamphlet entitled, "The Immigration Problem Today," which accuses the Jews as one of three elements "which hamper our immigration laws, and are urging legislation to weaken these laws."

A. Lawrence Lowell, former president of Harvard University, is listed as one of the vice-presidents and a member of the executive committee of the League.

Others on its roster are Joseph Lee, president; Richards M. Bradley, treasurer; Theodore G. Holcombe, executive secretary, and Thomas N. Carver, Wickliffe D. Draper and Clarence C. Little.

Streicher Man Imprisoned for Paper Racket

Used Terror in Effort to Bolster Sale of the Tageszeitung

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—H. Moritz, a circulation agent for Julius Streicher's anti-Semitic newspaper the Frankische Tageszeitung, was sentenced today to two months in prison for using strong-arm methods when canvassing for the paper.

Streicher's agent was trying to compel Jews in Nuremberg and other parts of Franconia to subscribe to the paper and threatened to arrest those who refused.

Herr Moritz is not the only canvasser for Streicher's organ who uses terroristic methods for obtaining subscriptions for the anti-Semitic paper. A staff of solicitors are now operating all over Franconia in a house-to-house campaign to bolster the dwindling circulation of Streicher's paper.

Blacklists of Jews as well as non-Jews refusing to subscribe to the Frankische Tageszeitung have been compiled by the canvassers.

Uphold Jews In Dispute on Palestine Land

Get Clear Title to 13,000 Dunams; Ban on Stern Is Rescinded

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Dec. 7.—District Commissioner S. H. Perowne, appointed by the Palestine government to decide a dispute between Arabs and Jews concerning land on Mount Canaan, today held that 13,000 of the 20,000 dunams in dispute was unquestionably Jewish property. Claims on the remaining 7,000 dunams he ordered submitted to a land court for decision.

While this was going on, the government rescinded the banishment of M. Stern, manager of the Anglo-Palestine Bank in Safed.

No Corpses to Cut, 'Med' Students Riot

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Dec. 7.—Stormy scenes took place today in the office of the Warsaw rabbinate when exasperated Jewish medical students attempted to demolish the office because the rabbinate failed to supply Jewish corpses to be used in anatomy courses. Police were called and ousted the medical students.

The rabbinate, the students claimed, failed to keep a promise made them a few days ago to supply corpses of indigent Jews for dissection. Jewish students in Polish medical schools are allowed to dissect Jewish bodies only.

Says Feeling High Against Berlin Games

Antagonism to Sending U. S. Team to 1936 Olympics Grows

The storm of protest from Jewish and non-sectarian organizations that has been brewing for more than a year on Friday burst upon the Miami convention of the Amateur Athletic Union, where the question of American participation in the 1936 Berlin Olympic Games is to be finally decided.

Telegrams of protest were sent to the A. A. U. by former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Samuel Untermyer, the American Jewish Congress and the Jewish War Veterans Association.

Smith Wires Protest

Mr. Smith's telegram to Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., objected to the Olympics being held in a land where religious discrimination is so prevalent. His communication to Brundage reads as follows:

"Live sentiment there should be no amateur meets in any country where heads of governments tolerate racial or religious bigotry."

Bring $5 Lunch To Take Exams

Applicants for State Job Can Then Observe Sabbath

A five-dollar bill in one hand, lunch and supper in the other and an entire day spent in a room under surveillance—these were the requirements laid down Friday by the Civil Service Commission for Jewish applicants for the post of senior clerk who desire to observe the Sabbath next Saturday, when examinations in that category will be held.

They will have to report at Washington Irving High School in the morning, where they will be assembled in a room and watched until after sundown. Then they will get their chance to show what they can do. The money, according to the commission, is to cover the cost of hiring extra monitors. The sum is added to the regular fee the applicants must post.

The "concession" was granted after a protest by Jewish Sabbath Alliance against forcing Jewish applicants to take Civil Service examinations on the Sabbath.

NEWS IN BRIEF

14-Year-Old Hero Saves 30 From Gas

Fourteen-year-old Mitchell Leibowitz of 2217 Mermaid Avenue, Coney Island, was acclaimed throughout the neighborhood Saturday for saving the lives of thirty persons.

He woke early Friday morning, smelled coal gas but thought nothing of it. He left the house and started for high school, but when he had gone several blocks it occurred to him there may be something wrong back home.

Running home, Mitchell found his father, mother and sister unconscious. The lad telephoned police, who dispatched two emergency trucks and three ambulance surgeons from Coney Island Hospital. Twenty-seven more in the house were affected, but all were fixed up O. K.

Jewish Club Hears Angell, Starts 2nd Year

Yale Students' Group Discusses Problems of Jewry

(Special to the J.D.B.)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 7.—The Jewish Club of Yale began its second year with an address by James Rowland Angell, president of the university, on "The University as a Center of Liberal Thought."

The club is directed by Irving Coleman, former associate professor of English at James Millikin University, who succeeds Dr. Isaac Rabinowitz, now a student under the auspices of the National Research Council.

In addition to lectures open to the entire student body, the club sponsors two discussion groups one devoted to current Jewish problems from a historical and religious point of view, the other given over to vocational guidance. Samuel Board, for many years in charge of the Yale alumni placement bureau in New York City, addressed the latter group on "Vocational Problems and Placement Trends for University Jews."

Dr. Rabinowitz, in his report of last year's work, declares the club "has eased the inner tension felt by the would-be renegade" and has solved many individual problems.

Mass. Swastika Club Changes Name Quickly

(Special to the J.D.B.)

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 7.—Because the community regarded them with suspicion, the Swastika Club of the Mt. Bellingham Church changed its name. The organization, an active charitable and religious group, has been in existence for many years.

Learning of the connection with Hitlerism and the persecution of Jews the members decided to alter the name of the club at once.

Threaten Wilno Rabbi With 'Fate of Beilis'

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WILNO, Dec. 7.—Chief Rabbi Rubenstein of Wilno yesterday received a letter from the peasants of the village of Kobilniki, threatening him with the "fate of Beilis" if he "fails to return a Christian boy who vanished recently." It is thought the boy was kidnapped.

Kobilniki peasants accuse the Jews of having kidnapped the boy and killed him for ritual purposes.

Rire Razes Sports Club

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

NOWY TARG, Poland, Dec. 7.—The Maccabi club at Nowy Targ has been completely destroyed by fire, thought to be of incendiary origin. Police are investigating the possibility that anti-Semites set the blaze.

Denmark Bars Discrimination, Leaders Averse

Express Surprise That Topic Should Even Be Considered

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 7.—Leaders of the four political parties in Denmark, who were invited to address a Jewish meeting on anti-Semitism, united in expressing surprise that Danish Jews should even consider the subject, pointing out that there is no anti-Semitism in the country and that its introduction is unthinkable.

Christian Moeller, leader of the Conservative party, said it is impossible for Denmark to assimilate 100,000 aliens, but the Jews are not aliens, he declared.

"No one was a better champion of Denmark than Georg Brandes, who added luster to Denmark by his writing," the conservative leader said, adding that "Brandes was the finest stylist in the Danish language."

The liberal leader Bro and the Radical Ragar denounced anti-Semitism as being "against civilization" and a "product of barbarism."

Kurt Rasmussen, Socialist leader, said there is no anti-Semitism in the country, but admitted there may be anti-Semitic sentiment in certain quarters, which must be vigorously opposed, he said, if it ever shows itself in the open. Such sentiment, he declared, is mainly due to envy of Jewish initiative and capacity.

Salonica Doubles Sum For Jewish Charities

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

SALONICA, Dec. 7.—Jewish charitable institutions will receive a city subsidy of 75,000 drachmas (approximately $70,000) Mayor Nicholas Manos announced today. This is double the amount assigned last year for Jewish charities.

Haavara Tells Of Palestine's Reich Compact

New Agreement Enables Emigrants to Take More Cash

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
JERUSALEM.—Three new arrangements with the German government for facilitating the transfer of Jewish money from Germany into Palestine were announced here today by the Haavara, the organization supervising the Palestine barter agreement.

The new agreements provide:
1.—That special certificates be issued by the Haavara, with the approval of the German government, to Jewish capitalist immigrants from Germany, against the sum which they expect to take out. These certificates are to be recognized by the Palestine government as entitling their holders to enter Palestine under the category of capitalists possessing not less than five thousand dollars.
2.—That German Jews residing in Palestine and dependent upon income from pensions and rent in Germany receive their income through the Haavara.

Raise Cash Allowance
3.—That German Jews desiring to come to Palestine as tourists be permitted to take with them from Germany not the limited sum of ten marks which is provided by the present exchange regulations, but a sum of five hundred marks, on condition that these sums are paid out to the tourists in Palestine by the Haavara from the barter accounts.

Making these new arrangements public, the Haavara has issued the following statement to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency:

"According to the practice, recently introduced by the Immigration Department, immigration certificates to immigrants of the 'Category A' have been issued on the production of 'Haavara' Certificates, showing that the applicants for the immigration certificates, showing that the applicants for the immigration certificates have an amount in their favor with the above company up to £1,000.

Don't Need Bank Notes
"By this arrangement German Jews are enabled to immigrate into Palestine as capitalists without being obliged to produce bank certificates.

"The enactment of the German government which provides that a tourist may not take with him for traveling purposes an amount in cash exceeding ten marks has been a serious threat to Jewish tourist traffic from Germany into Palestine.

"This danger has been eliminated by the new arrangement of the Haavara (transfer) whereby it is made possible for every tourist from Germany to transfer an amount of 500 marks to Palestine through the Haavara.

Delay Avoided
"According to the agreement made between the Haavara and the Palestine and Egypt Lloyd, it will no longer be necessary for the Jewish tourist to wait until the Haavara will have effected the realization of the amount transferred in his favor and he will be able to obtain the sum needed by him for travelling purposes immediately upon his arrival in Palestine. It is to be noted that this arrangement applies to Palestine only and that the above enactment remains valid in regard to other countries.

"According to recent arrangements there now exists a possibility for the Haavara to transfer to Palestine moneys representing pensions and rents on the revenue of which the owners are dependent on their immigration into Palestine.

"Without this arrangement pensioners and owners of rents from Germany who have immigrated into Palestine would be threatened by the loss of their only means of livelihood.

"As already announced the Haavara grants a right of priority in the order of the payment of moneys, transferred to clients of this category. This arrangement, too, applies to Palestine only. As to other countries there is no possibility whatsoever to benefit from the pension or the annuity to which the person concerned was entitled in Germany."

THIS BANK'S EASIER CREDIT PLAN IS HELPING THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE

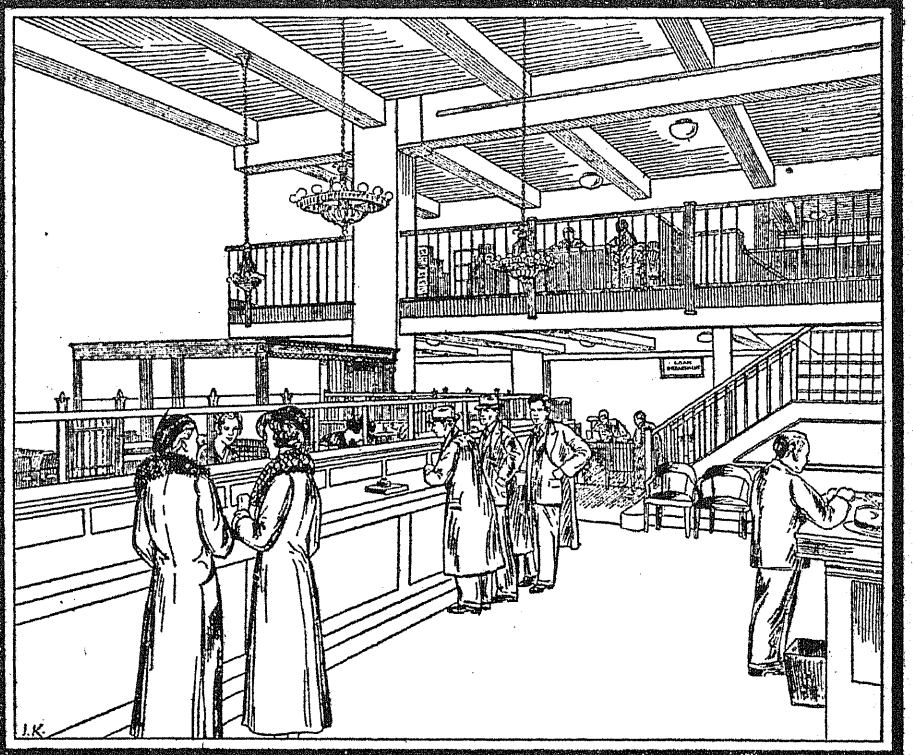

The President of the United States has asked the bankers to renew their confidence in the people of this country——and the Morris Plan Industrial Bank demonstrates such confidence with more liberal credit, making it easier to borrow and easier to repay—

You can borrow now any sum from $200 to $5000 for one year, and repayments do not start until three months later.

As a result of this new plan, the volume of Morris Plan loans has been steadily increasing. This means thousands of new applicants have been answered with loans, which have helped them personally and in total helped put the wheels of machinery again into motion. These loans have been instrumental in sending thousands of people back to their jobs, to earn and to spend—to purchase those things they need for their families, for themselves, for their homes. Do you need money? You can borrow from $200 to $5000. You get the money quickly; at your special request you can obtain the cash within 24 hours. You can select the loan plan which best suits your purpose.

If you have collateral, such as stocks and bonds, life insurance policies, trust funds, government bonds or other marketable securities, we will be pleased to appraise their value without any obligation to you whatever. On marketable stocks and bonds we endeavor to place a higher loan value than is generally available elsewhere.

If you have no collateral, you can borrow money on your own signature and on the signatures of one or more relatives or friends who will vouch for your good character and repayment of the loan.

Charges vary according to the kind and size of loan you obtain. The rates become smaller as the size of the loan increases. All charges are the regular industrial banking rates established by the Banking Laws of New York State.

Make use of this new liberal method of helping you in your business, to improve your home, to clothe your family and yourself, to adjust your financial difficulties. The Morris Plan is ready for you with its huge resources—ready to help in bringing back prosperity in the land and to each individual.

There are twelve Morris Plan branches within and near Greater New York. In addition to the 7th Avenue bank and the main office at 33 West 42nd Street, there are four Morris Plan branches in Manhattan, three in Brooklyn, one in the Bronx, one in Jamaica and one in Yonkers. Listed below you will find all the addresses. There is a convenient Morris Plan branch near your home or place of business.

More Than $100,000,000

has passed through the Garment District Branch of the Morris Plan Bank

The Morris Plan feels proud to have had such a large share in the development of the clothing center—the largest in the world. Years ago when Morris Plan opened its branch at 7th Avenue and 35th Street, the clothing industry was by no means as great as it is today. From the financial assistance of Morris Plan many have laid the business foundation upon which, in time, grew and developed into scores of important firms.

Manufacturers and workers in the needle trades will find this convenient Morris Plan branch ready and eager to serve them in all their financial needs. Drop in at any time. You will be received cordially.

Let Morris Plan Come to You

Manufacturers who find it inconvenient to visit Morris Plan, need but telephone our manager, Mr. Lingane at 7th Avenue and 35th Street (Phone: LACKAWANNA 4-9550) and he will call on you personally and make all necessary arrangements for your loan—in strict confidence of course. Or arrangements can be made entirely by mail.

3% Annually on Deposits

The Morris Plan Bank of New York has established an unexcelled record for safety. Our depositors have always found their money ready in full when needed. Even after the historic banking holiday of March, 1933, no restrictions were placed on withdrawals and everybody who asked was given their money 100 cents on the dollar. Recognizing this splendid record, the National Congress specifically named Morris Plan Banks as eligible for membership in the Federal Reserve System and this bank is now a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. This latter membership means deposits in this bank are insured under terms of the Federal Act. The three percent per annum which is paid on deposit accounts by Morris Plan is the highest rate of interest any bank may pay in this state and still enjoy the protection of this deposit insurance.

Opening the Gates

The news that the Soviet government is about to permit the entrance of Polish Jews into Soviet Russia on condition that they settle in Biro-Bidjan will be received with great interest in America, where the situation of the Polish Jews is watched very keenly.

There are over a million Jews in Poland today facing actual starvation. The desperate situation of Polish Jewry is especially noticeable among the youth. Cut off from all roads to employment, Jewish youth in Poland is depressed and forlorn.

With the immigration restrictions in Palestine, and with no other country permitting the entrance of Jewish immigrants, Soviet Russia remains the only hope for thousands of Polish Jews. There is no unemployment in Russia, so Polish Jews believe they can easily find employment there.

Informal negotiations with the Soviet government to permit Polish Jews to enter Russia have been going on for quite a time. The Soviet authorities were, however, not so keen on relieving Poland of its obligations toward its Jewish citizens.

Now the news comes that the Soviet government may permit the first 300 Jewish families from Poland to settle in Biro-Bidjan and that a special Jewish delegation from Warsaw has arrived in Moscow to negotiate this project.

Should a Jewish migration begin from Poland to Biro-Bidjan on a larger scale, it will no doubt eventually be supported by Jewish relief organizations abroad. The fact that the Polish government is driving the Jews to Biro-Bidjan by depriving them of economic existence in Poland will stimulate many organizations abroad to assist the migration from Poland, despite the fact that very few Jewish leaders would like to see foreign Jews seeking refuge in Russia.

The Polish government may not be aware of the fact that it is creating a situation whereby the Jews of the world must become more sympathetic towards the Soviet regime. With the unbearable anti-Jewish discriminations in Poland, Polish Jews would migrate anywhere, Biro-Bidjan included.

A WEEK'S EVENTS IN REVIEW

By BORIS SMOLAR

A blow to Jewish interests was dealt this week by the League of Nations in sanctioning the Franco-German agreement which drives the Saar Jews into exile.

The agreement, which is a result of secret negotiations between Germany and France, gives the Jews of the Saar one year to liquidate their businesses and move from the territory. This pact had been reached despite assurances given by the French government to Jewish delegations that the rights of Jews in the Saar will be made one of the major issues before the League if the region is turned over to Germany by the plebiscite next month.

Sanctioning of the agreement by the League provoked many protests on the part of Jewish organizations. The League for Defending Jewish Rights in Europe, of which Senator Justin Goddard is president, has submitted a formal memorandum of protest to the French government.

Encouraged Jews To Protest Threat

On no other occasion were Jewish leaders so misled by France as this time. While bargaining with Germany for the agreement which yielded to France $60,000,000, the French government was inspiring Jewish organization to flood the League of Nations with memorandums urging not to turn the Saar over to Germany before equality for the Jews there is guaranteed by the Nazi government.

Promising to support the Jewish memorandums when they will be taken up by the League, the French government had in the meantime conducted silent negotiations with representatives of the Reich. The agreement now concluded is a complete victory for the Nazis and is considered by many a betrayal, on the part of France, of Jewish interests.

The 5,000 Jewish families in the Saar are now definitely doomed to migration. None of them will be able to remain in the Saar a year after next January. All of them will have to leave their homes and go into exile.

Similar Fate In Silesia

The fate of the Saar Jews also may soon be shared by the Jews of Upper Silesia, a territory which will now be under the administration of the notorious Jewbaiter, Julius Streicher.

Though the rights of the Jews in Upper Silesia are guaranteed by Germany, under the supervision of the League of Nations, there is no doubt that Streicher will make the existence of the Jews unbearable as soon as he takes over the governorship of Silesia. The experience in Jew-baiting which Streicher has had in Franconia, where he made the life of the Jews bitter, will no doubt not be lost to him in Silesia.

The comparatively peaceful time which the Jews in Silesia enjoyed under the Nazis till now because of the decision of the League of Nations on the Bernheim petition may therefore be considered over. There is every ground to believe that Streicher will violate the decisions of the League of Nations with regard to the Jewish rights in Upper Silesia, especially since the League now has proven to be so helpless in compelling Germany to maintain Jewish rights in the Saar.

Borders Closed To Refugees

This opens again the problem of migration. Very few countries today permit Jewish exiles to cross their borders. In France severe anti-alien legislation is being advocated and the deportation of many refugees is expected.

Voices are also being heard in England against "undesirable aliens." Restrictions for entering Palestine also are becoming more and more evident. Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister made it clear this week in the British Parliament that the number of immigration visas to Palestine will be sharply reduced as a measure to counteract illegal immigration of Jews into Palestine.

Unprecedented precautions in checking Jewish immigration to Palestine were taken this week by the British government when it compelled Greece not to permit Jewish travelers to enter Greek territory without special permission from the central authorities in Athens. This is the first instance a stronger government exercised pressure upon a country of minor power to impose upon her the carrying out of anti-Jewish discriminations.

British Claim Greece Is Base

The British Legation in Athens, forcing the Greek government to close its borders to foreign Jews, argued that most illegal Jewish immigrants are smuggling their way into Palestine from Greece. This argument, which would be considered by any other government an insult to its independence, was swallowed by the Greeks without contradiction, and orders have been issued to all the Greek consulates abroad not to issue visas to Jews before inquiring at Athens in each case.

In connection with the anti-Jewish measures taken by the Greek government, it was disclosed this week that not less than 2,000 Jews have obtained Greek visas in Poland this year. The Greek consulate in Warsaw is now instructed to refrain from issuing visas to Jews proceeding to Greece or passing Greek territory in transit.

Transport Plans Are Nullified

One cannot say that Greek commerce will benefit from this order. It is only recently that an increased navigation between Greek and Palestinian ports has developed. Plans were formulated for a passenger air service between Salonica and Haifa in view of the growing traffic between Palestine and Greece.

This traffic will no doubt decline to the very minimum, now that foreign Jews are not permitted even to pass through Greece. Italian steamship lines will remain in control of transportation of Jews from Europe to Palestine.

Huleh Project Brightens Horizon

Perhaps the most important achievement in Palestine during the last few years was the acquisition this week of the Huleh territory by Jews. Located at the Palestine-Syrian border, this territory contains of approximately 40,000 acres of land, most of which needs extensive drainage. It is, however, estimated that the entire work of draining the land will be completed within three years. Then not less than 3,000 Jewish families will be settled on the soil, which experts believe will be very fertile and especially good for extensive colonization.

The entire project of acquiring the land and draining it is financed by the Palestine Land Development Company, the Association of Jewish Farmers in Palestine and the Palestine Labor Bank. It is hoped that the Jewish Colonization Association (ICA) also will become interested in financing the enterprise.

ICA Work in Russia Banned

The work of the Jewish Colonization Association this week suffered a blow in Russia, when the Soviet government suddenly ordered the Moscow office of the association to liquidate its colonization activities in the Jewish autonomous regions in the Ukraine.

This order came after ten years of work which the ICA had invested in Russia under the Soviet regime, spending many millions of dollars there. The Soviet government explains the ousting with the fact that the ICA has itself practically been liquidating its activities for the last few years and instead of investing money in Russia it has been engaged in collecting debts from Jewish colonists and taking the money out abroad.

The liquidation of the ICA in Russia will have no effect upon the Jewish colonists settled in the regions where the ICA had been operating. These colonists have long been collectivized by the Soviet government. They have been receiving from the government much larger funds than from the ICA. As a matter of fact they have long been more under the Soviet administration rather than under the ICA administration.

Resented Taking Of Colony Control

The ICA resented very much the fact that control of the Jew-

THE AMERICAN SCENE

By VICTOR M. BIENSTOCK

Opposition to American participation in the Olympic Games at Berlin crystallized last week and was to be manifested this week at the annual convention of the American Athletic Union at Miami. The A.A.U., a year ago, voted not to certify American athletes for participation in the games until Germany removed the disabilities against Jewish athletes. Despite the action of the American Olympic Committee in voting to accept the invitation of Germany, the A.A.U. has not yet changed its stand.

Efforts of Avery Brundage, president of the A.A.U. and of the A.O.C., whose report to the latter body led to its acceptance of the invitation, to swing the A.A.U. into support of the games appeared certain to meet with strong opposition not only from Jewish members of the body but also from non-Jewish sportsmen who expressed dissatisfaction with Germany's pledges.

Barter

At Washington it appeared that pressure of Southern representatives for consummation of a barter deal with Germany involving the exchange of 500,000 bales of surplus American cotton for $30,000,000 in German goods were to be successful. Berlin had approved the terms of the agreement, it was stated, and only approval of American government departments was necessary. Secretary Wallace declared that the negotiations were "coming to a head."

This shift in sentiment at Washington occasioned much surprise, particularly in view of Secretary Hull's admonitions to Germany on the subject of discrimination against American creditors of the Reich. The stand which the United States had taken on Germany's defaulted obligations had made it evident that this country could no longer place faith in Germany's pledges. Consequently, Washington developments of the week came as a rude shock to those who had expected the government to pay heed to the protests of the millions who are opposed to the present German regime.

Medical Schools

Much comment was occasioned by the forthright advice of President McConaughy of Wesleyan University to Jewish pre-medical students that medical schools limit the number of Jewish students and that those preparing for a career in medicine should govern themselves accordingly.

President McConaughy brought into the open what many Jewish college students have learned only through sad experience. That is that entrance to medical schools here is painfully difficult, impossible for all but a small fraction of the Jewish applicants.

Two views on an important subject were brought to the attention of American Jewish educators. Dr. Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, stressed the importance of religious training and urged the Jewish community to increase efforts along such lines.

Dr. Leo Honor, of Chicago, appealed to Jewish educators not to stuff the minds of children with "primitive notions" which the teachers themselves did not believe. He also stressed the futility of mentioning God to children too young to understand the concept.

Along the Nazi Front

Armed with information revealed by the Jewish Daily Bulletin, the Congressional Committee on un-American Activities took off last week after peddlers of anti-Semitic literature, chiefly the spurious "Protocols of the Elders of Zion." The committee questioned J. B. Snow, former statistician, whose anti-Semitic propaganda activities had been exposed by the Bulletin.

A committee hearing at which Congressman Dickstein presided took on the aspects of a farce when the bedecked Raymond Healey, youthful grammar school graduate and publisher of "Healey's Weekly," an anti-Jewish sheet published in Yorkville, was permitted to enact a Napoleonic role before a large body of appreciative members of the Friends of New Germany.

Zionist Activities

The National Labor Committee for Palestine launched a $250,000 drive for Palestine labor activities. The Masada, Zionist youth group, adopted a six-point Zionist program of activities and closed its annual convention at Philadelphia with a sharp debate on the question of unity in American Jewish youth. Senator Wagner heartily approved the project for a "Palestine Day" on January 20.

III.

ALL that I have been trying to say can be summed up in a simple statement: we need pride. An able young revisionist corrected me one day: we need a fierce pride. Perhaps. It is better surely than the other extreme of inner servility to which we have been brought by degradation and hate. For let us not be deceived: degradation degrades and hate may render the object hateful. But I am afraid of the element of fierceness in our re-awakened pride as being of the nature of an over-compensation for an inner servility of spirit and hence subject to all the unsureness and the vagaries and the possibility of sudden collapse of all such mechanisms.

Nor do I mean the well-known kind of pride that apes humility nor must we (though this is a council of hopeless perfection under the circumstances) be proud of our newly-won pride. This was meant by Arnold Zweig, himself an uncompromising Jewish nationalist, when one day he castigated the "Zionist snob."

I am humbler in my expectations; perfection is far from my hopes; I would give much, infinitely much to see many, many of the younger Jews whom I have recently met attach their notions of what is distinguished and of good repute and, if you like, even swanky, to the cause of our people rather than to the glow and glitter, the superficial distinctions and unworthier rewards of the world. For the things of the pagan world that they long for are always the trivial and the unworthy things, since (strange fate of a strange people) we always have the high and noble things.

IN EVERY generation Jewish names are numerous among the true benefactors of all mankind and in every community where Jews dwell in any number all but the blindest anti-Semite admits (and even he knows) that among the most honorable and beneficent citizens there are more Jews than according to the number of Jews in that community there need by ordinary measures to be.

Thus it is clear that the things of the world to which our servile-minded younger and older people attach their desires are the trivial and utterly perishable things, the things that the true Christian too wholly condemns: membership in clubs and fraternities, dwelling among those who quite properly desire to remain among themselves and other false and vain and negligible shows of a world the fashion of which will pass away like the shadow of a dream.

I have come so far from these things that I no longer know how to deal with them even when I meet them in their defensively-inverted form of "we don't care to go where we're not wanted" in which, alas, that negative remains a mere woeful negative and does not flower into affirmative and happy Jewish solidarity and its works and ways. I no longer imaginatively grasp these antics of a hurt servility of spirit.

Many of my best friends are Gentiles and I believe that the affection which unites us will last our lives. But the greater number of those who are very close to me in life are Jews. And I cannot imagine it otherwise and I should be unhappy were it otherwise.

For we are united by character and fate, by faith and memories, by common joys and sorrows, by our own way (even in our differences) of apprehending men and nature and human life. And with whom should a man—any man—feel happy and at ease except among those whose ancestors and his own stood together in good and evil days and prayed together and at need died together for the same good eternal cause?

In the company of such there is—again for every man of any kin or clan—a contentment and wealth of relationship which, without aught but perfect good will to the rest of mankind, he can find nowhere else.

AND so I regard it as infinitely right and proper that certain groups of my Gentile fellow-citizens desire to remain among themselves. For I have the same feeling concerning my group. I know certain Gentiles whom I would gladly admit into the closer circle of my friends and indeed I do so. But if there came into that circle a group of Gentiles whose chief interests, as is natural and proper for them, given their back-ground and ancestral friends, were in competitive sports or in hunting or in war or in the manufacture of material things as ends and not as means or else in their ancestral memories and their just pride therein of border-chieftains or march-raiders or valiant fighters in all the wars of the world—if such came in too great numbers into the group of my friends and fellows, would we not be, while sincerely respecting the other-ness of those others, stricken quite dumb and desolate and be cramped and ill at ease? So truly I no longer understand either intellectually or emotionally the attractiveness of that world of pagan ways and pagan values which still so strangely lures so many.

We need the pride that is in the free play of our natural loyalties and instinctive tastes. It is the release of these from false and foolish fears that is our great necessity. It is in that release and in it only that we shall find both freedom and sustaining pride.

Tremendous Improvement

To the Editor, Jewish Daily Bulletin:

A regular reader of your paper I wish to congratulate you on the tremendous improvement which I noticed in each of your departments. I read everything that you print, the telegraphic news, the fine editorials, the fascinating articles of Mr. Ziff and Mr. Lyons, the illuminating comments of Mr. Smolar, even the Sport news and the Woman's page which, naturally, my wife prefers. I like on this page especially the interview, though unsigned, readily suggests the dashing pen of Mr. Lyons.

There is, however, one thing in your paper which I do not like at all, which, in fact, I very much dislike: the ramblings of Mr. Lewisoohn. His articles are lacking in nearly everything your other contributors possess in so high a degree. They are pretentious, clumsy, confused and therefore, confusing; the "great stylist" has evidently lost his style when he discovered his Judaism. He is fortunately, a minority of one among the galaxy of excellent writers, but he hardly fits in with the lively spirit of your paper.

ish colonies had been taken out of her hands despite the funds spent by her for promoting their colonies. This resentment was, however, taken by the Soviet government very coolly. Believing that "taxation without representation" is not the proper principle, the ICA little by little began to withdraw from its activities in the Jewish colonies, thus causing the break between her and the Soviet authorities this week.

Poles Threaten No Jews in Parliament

A definite break between the Polish government and Jewish members of the Polish Parliament was seen this week in the report that constitutional changes soon will be made which will prevent Jews from becoming members of Parliament.

This will be the first time since Poland obtained its independence that Jews will have no voice in the Polish Parliament.

The Polish government seems to be very much irritated by the speech which Dr. Thon, Jewish Parliamentarian, recently delivered in the Polish Sejm, charging before the entire world that Poland is mistreating its 3,000,000 Jews economically as well as legally and has reduced a million Jews to beggary.

Partly because of Dr. Thon's speech and the general anti-Jewish sentiment now prevailing in Poland, the Polish government seems to be determined to silence the Jewish voice. The Polish government does not, however, realize that Jews abroad are well-posted on anti-Jewish discriminations in Poland; also, that non-Jewish representative bodies as well as the world's leading newspapers are quite well-informed about the status of Jews in Poland today.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

Mrs. Joseph M. Welt of Detroit has been named chairman of the program committee for the triennial convention of the National Council of Jewish Women. The convention will be held in New Orleans, March 10 to 15, 1935. The council, one of the largest and oldest organizations of Jewish women, has a membership of 40,000 in 200 cities. A campaign is now under way, under the leadership of Mrs. J. L. Langsdorf of Philadelphia and Mrs. A. H. Arons of New York, to increase that membership before the convention date.

Under the leadership of a committee headed by Mrs. Isidor Fine the Sisterhood of the Brooklyn Jewish Center, 667-691 Eastern Parkway, has arranged a theatre party for Monday evening at the Morosco Theatre to see the Group Theatre's newest production, "Gold Eagle Guy."

The fourth annual luncheon and bridge sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Yeshivah of Flatbush will be held December 18 at the Casa Del Rey. Mrs. M. Feldman, chairman, and Mrs. L. Motzkin, co-chairman, expect more than 350 guests to attend. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Yeshivah.

The Women's League for Palestine, of which Mrs. William Prince is president, plans a benefit December 19. "Merrily We Roll Along" is the play chosen for this occasion. Proceeds will go toward a fund for immigrant girls who go to Palestine without friends or means. Tickets for the performance may be obtained at the League office, 175 Riverside Drive.

The Jamaica Chapter of Hadassah will hold a "Donor Supper" in February. Mrs. Mordecai Konowitz is program chairman and Mrs. Minna Canner chairman for the supper.

The Jamaica section of the National Council of Jewish Juniors is arranging a Chanukah dinner for children December 16 at Temple Israel. The same group also plans a theatre party for the week of January 7, 1935, at the New Jamaica Theatre.

A three-day carnival and bazaar at the clubhouse of the Grand Street Boys, 106 East Fifty-fifth Street, was a social and philanthropic success. The affair was held for the benefit of the Infants' Welfare League. In charge of the benefit were Mrs. Henry Maritz, Mrs. Louis Stern, Mrs. Jack A. Livingston, Mrs. Kenneth Hoffman, Mrs. Alexander H. Pincus, Mrs. Julius Rose, Mrs. Mark Kahn and Mrs. Paul Cramers.

Mrs. Henry Broder was elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn at the thirty-third annual meeting on December 3 in the Dr. Leon Louria Memorial Building, St. Marks and Classon Avenues. Mrs. Broder succeeds Mrs. William Linder, president for the last two years.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Joshua Rinsheim, vice-president; Mrs. Israel S. Kleiner, recording secretary; Mrs. Alexander H. Geismar, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Oscar A. Lewis, treasurer.

Directors elected for three years were: Mrs. Joseph J. Baker, Mrs. Henry Broder, Mrs. Alexander H. Geismar; Mrs. Louis J. Jaffee, Mrs. Harry I. Johnson, Mrs. Jerome Katz, Mrs. Morris T. Koven, Mrs. Adolph Mayer, Mrs. Arnold X. Schmidt, Mrs. Isidor Strauss and Mrs. Samuel Wasserman.

A county fair and bunco is planned by the Richmond Hill Jewish Juniors for December 23. The committee in charge include Mrs. Eugenie Nadelman, Mrs. Esther Reich, and the Misses Sydney Silver, Esther Schmergel, Hattie Weisblatt and Sofia Leas.

The same group will hold a rummage sale on December 14, 15, 18 and 19 at a site yet to be announced. On December 13 a visit will be made by the Jewish Juniors to the Queensboro Home for the Blind, Richmond Hill.

The Brooklyn chapter of Hadassah will hold a gala affair January 6, 1935, at the Hotel St. George, for the benefit of the building fund of the Hadassah University Hospital and Medical College in Jerusalem. Mrs. A. Slomka, chairman of the Brooklyn Committee expressed her confidence that the affair will help Brooklyn meet its building fund quota.

The annual bazaar conducted by the Zion Group from November 17 to 24, has been voted successful. The arrangements committee, headed by Mrs. M. Kanin, consisted of Mrs. A. Jacoby, Mrs. K. Ostow and Mrs. Ph. Gottfried.

Manischewitz Produces Manna Matzoth Wafers

B. Manischewitz and Company, one of the most widely known bakers of matzoths in the United States, has produced what is described as a revolutionary departure in this field in its manna matzoth wafers.

Slightly salted and flavored with caraway seeds, the wafers are said to go well with beverages and to be ideal as a between-meal snack.

New NRA Compliance Director Blends Efficiency and Beauty

Mrs. Rosenberg Brings Vigor (and Flowers) to Big Tasks

Imagine a huge, severe room, the walls wood-paneled, the heavy conference table, the deep chairs suggesting important board-meetings, the large desk with its green shaded lamp and its many telephones the very epitome of efficiency and you will have visualized the office of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, the new State NRA Compliance Director. It is a room evidently dedicated to work, to constant, energetic, impersonal work. Yet there is one touch of beauty, one touch of femininity in all this uncompromising severity. On the dark, heavily carved mantel there stands a vase with fresh flowers, glowing in all the richest autumn hues.

Mrs. Rosenberg is just like the office she inhabits and imbues with her personality. Efficient, competent, engrossed in her work, she nevertheless possesses a distinctive feminine charm. Despite the pressure of her work, she is delightfully friendly even to those who come to interrupt her. In appearance she is petite, very pretty, brunette and hardly looking her thirty-three years. It is difficult to believe that she is the mother of a fourteen-year-old boy.

Clever Politician

From early youth Mrs. Rosenberg, who holds that sex makes no difference in doing work and that only personal competence ought to count, has proved herself a clever manager of political campaigns, an able reorganizer of ailing businesses. When still in school she organized the "Coming Voters' League," and even before she was actually a voter she did splendid political work in the old Seventh Assembly District. Her success as wife and mother (her husband is Julius Rosenberg of the American Rug & Carpet Co., her son a student at Horace Mann) was and is a matter of admiration and envy. She is well read, a music lover and a theatre enthusiast.

—Nicholas Muray, Inc.
MRS. ANNA M. ROSENBERG

Mrs. Rosenberg is reluctant to speak of herself, but as soon as her work is mentioned, she radiates enthusiasm and speaks with compelling sincerity.

Discusses Her Work

"The success of the NRA," she says, "depends not only on labor and industry, but also in a large measure on the ultimate consumer, the buyer, or in other words, the wife and mother who is usually the purchasing agent in the family. If women would only thoroughly understand for what the NRA label stands, if they would realize that the NRA has abolished child labor, has insured the worker a living wage and sanitary working conditions, they would be our most fervent supporters."

"Especially as far as the garment industry is concerned this support is needed and fully deserved. An NRA label in a coat or dress means that it can be safely bought, without fear of exposing oneself to any infection, without the feeling that the worker who fashioned it was exploited or starved. I often wonder how mothers, who are so careful with their little tots and try to guard them from every possible contamination, blithely go and buy garments which were perhaps made by a consumptive seamstress in dirt- and germ-laden rooms. An NRA label guarantees against such conditions, and if women will insist on this label and only patronize stores that comply with the NRA requirements they will help not only the New Deal but will protect themselves and their children."

With all her various activities, with all her manifold interests, Mrs. Rosenberg yet finds time for work in Jewish causes. She is a member of the National Council of Jewish Women and was executive director of the women's division of the United Palestine Appeal. She has associated in the work of the ORT Reconstruction Fund and has long been a member of the Joint Distribution Committee of Jewish Charities.

Her life is brimful of interest, well rounded, intensely active. In short, she represents the modern Jewish woman at her very best.

BREVITIES

Once upon a time a French queen by the name of Marie was ill. When the wise physicians were called in they decided that Her Majesty eat only very soft food, fruits cooked to pulp or strained through a sieve. The ladies-in-waiting rushed down to the kitchen and called to the chef—an artist in his profession: "Marie est malade—Marie is ill, cook her some fruit and make it so and so and thus and thus."

The chef was angry that he should take orders from mere physicians and ladies-in-waiting, but he did as he was bidden and did it beautifully. Only he gave no fancy name to the new concoction. When they came down for it he said grumpily: "Here is your marie-est-malade," and that was the name which has clung to the new dish.

Well, the new culinary creation was a great success, and when foreign visitors came to court, the chef was ordered to prepare it. Some English princess and her ladies even came down to the kitchen and learned to make marie-est-malade themselves and introduced it to the British Isles. But in crossing the channel the name suffered a sea-change and marie-est-malade became marmalade and as such has been the favorite the world over. Even those women who do little cooking themselves delight to make their own marmalade and have their favorite recipes for it. The following instructions for orange marmalade are the cherished possession of a lovely Viennese lady who permitted me to copy them for you.

Take any number of oranges and allow one lemon for each five oranges. Wipe fruit with damp cloth, cut each in quarters, then cut each quarter into very thin slices, keeping pulps as well as rind, but discarding the seeds. For each pound of prepared fruit allow three pints of cold water. Let the fruit stand in the water for twenty-four hours, cook then till peel is very tender, or about six hours, and let stand again for another twenty-four hours. Weigh the mixture and add one pound of sugar for each pound of fruit. Mix and let cook until the syrup jellies on a cold dish. Keep marmalade in glass jars and cover with paraffin.

A Letter to Twelve Jewish Students

By ABBA HILLEL SILVER

The charge of discrimination against Jewish students in American schools has again been resurrected. The occasion this time has been a letter sent by Dr. James L. McConaughy, president of Wesleyan University, to twelve Jewish students taking pre-medical courses in the university apprising them of the difficulties which they will encounter when they will come to seek admission to a medical school. Dr. McConaughy advises these Jewish students "that the opportunity to study medicine is definitely limited by the medical schools of this and other lands." More than twice as many students apply for admission than are actually admitted.

"While the racial question does enter somewhat into the selection of students, it does not enter as much as some claim. The Association of Medical Colleges reports that 17 per cent of the freshman students in medical schools are Jews. It is pointed out that in this country out of a population of more than 120,000,000 there are probably between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 Jews. They, in round numbers, make up not more than five per cent of the entire population. It has further been reported that over fifty per cent of the applications for entrance to the medical schools in 1933 were of Jewish ancestry. The above facts explain why it is difficult for Wesleyan to place her graduates of the Jewish race in medical schools."

the situation and telling the truth." For it is true that medical schools are limiting Jewish students. A few years ago Dr. Frank Gavin wrote that "Jewish college graduates of New York who desire to enter medicine have applied to as many as forty colleges before securing admission." It has been argued by Dr. Harold Rypins that "the case of Jewish students in New York City seeking admission to the study of medicine presents a special problem deserving special consideration, the solution of which will be hindered rather than advanced by unfounded claims of racial or religious prejudices."

This letter makes unpleasant reading—as does so much of Jewish news today. Our first reaction to it is one of bitter resentment. In free America, why should a young man be forced to turn aside from the path of his chosen career by the fact that other young men of the same racial stock have chosen, in numbers beyond their population quota, to enter the same profession? Neither the basic law of the land nor the classic tradition of American democracy recognizes any such race groupings or prerequisites. Why should one single race—the Jewish—be placed in one scale of the balance while all the other races in this country—Anglo-Saxon, Teuton, Slav, Celt, Latin, etc.—are bunched together and placed in the other scale of the balance?

If quotas are to be established in professional schools on the basis of race, then every race in these United States should be submitted to the same restriction and should be assigned a fixed quota. Again, if this single-race quota system in the field of higher education is accepted as just and as being in complete consonance with the American principle of the individual's right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" (which, if it means anything at all, means the right of every individual to follow the career which he has chosen, unhampered by any legal restrictions based on race, religion or color), then we shall have to acknowledge that the Nazis were justified in carrying out this principle, in their country, to its logical conclusion, and in applying it rigorously and mathematically in all fields of human endeavor.

The Nazis merely added insult to injury. . . . In this country those guilty of perpetrating the injury are too urbane to stoop to banal race libels to justify the injury. Here they are rather decent about it. They attempt to save appearances all around by making fictitious personality and psychological tests do the dirty work of discrimination. . . .

This is our first reaction. On second thought, however, and after we had relieved ourselves of our feeling of indignation, Professor Morris R. Cohen's comment on President McConaughy's letter seemed to be quite valid: "The president happens to be a very courageous person. He is facing

A. H. SILVER

Other Jewish physicians have stoutly denied that discrimination exists in American medical schools. Dr. A. J. Rongy wrote not so long ago: "We must not overlook the essential fact that every Jewish student of proper competence and talent can eventually succeed in entering the doors of almost any medical school in this country. . . . Undeniably, Jewish applicants must exert greater effort and perseverance than the non-Jewish. Still, in a country where the Jewish population aggregates three and one-half per cent of the total, Jews are represented by six times their ratio percentage among the medical student body. With this score, can we intelligently impugn the liberal attitude of the admission boards?"

But whether American medical schools are anti-Semitic or not, the cold, hard fact remains that nearly all of them are trying in one way or another to restrict the number of Jewish students while at the same time the number of Jewish applicants is mounting steadily every year. If Dr. McConaughy's figures are correct that over fifty per cent of the applicants for entrance in the medical schools in 1933 were Jews (if this figure is not the result of the large number of "multiple" applications which Jewish students are forced to make), then we are confronted by a very startling and serious situation. About fourteen thousand students apply annually to American medical schools. Of these over seven thousand are Jews, and only a little over six thousand, all told, Jews and non-Jews, can be admitted! . . .

What is the answer? Shall we build special Jewish medical schools to make room for those who cannot be admitted in existing schools? We do not recoil from the idea of a Jewish medical college out of any fear of imputed segregation. Such schools may some day be necessary. But at present, with the percentage of Jewish students already very high in our medical schools, another additional school or schools would simply increase the number of Jewish doctors in this country, whose number seems already to be excessive, especially in the large metropolitan centers of our country.

Do we not owe a responsibility

Athens Withdraws Zweig Play Because of Pro-Hitler Attacks

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

ATHENS.—Because of pressure from the pro-Hitler paper, Estis, the performance of Stefan Zweig's play, "The Flesh of the Poor," was withdrawn from the National Theater after it had played for several performances. M. Kyrrou, editor of the paper, is a prominent member of the National Theater's committee and is believed to have demanded the cessation of the performance of the play on no other grounds than Zweig's Jewishness. The Estis, which has become pro-Hitler during the past few months, has been advocating National-Socialist methods in Greek political and social life.

The closing of the show was vigorously attacked by the Socialist paper, Anexartitos. The paper points out that the Nazi rulers of Germany are not proud of having eliminated Jewish intellectuals, replacing a Zweig with pornographic Hans Evers, and a Max Reinhardt by a non-entity such as Grupus.

Dr. Rosenbaum Dies in Tel Aviv At the Age of 75

Once Cabinet Member in Lithuania; Fought for Jewish Rights

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, Dec. 7. — Dr. Shimshon Rosenbaum, former Minister of Jewish Affairs in Lithuania and until recently the Consul General of Lithuania in Palestine, died Thursday in Tel Aviv at the age of seventy-five.

Dr. Rosenbaum was one of the outstanding figures in Jewish life. He played an important role in Russia under the Czar, fighting for Jewish rights there. When Lithuania seceded from Russia and was proclaimed an independent country, he was appointed a member of the Lithuanian Cabinet, in charge of Jewish affairs.

Later when constitutional changes were made in Lithuania and when Jewish autonomy there was rescinded, Dr. Rosenbaum left for Palestine, where he was appointed Honorary Consul General of Lithuania.

Last year Dr. Rosenbaum was relieved of his diplomatic post. He nevertheless remained in Palestine, making his home in Tel Aviv.

Dr. Rosenbaum was a holder of the Order of Prince Gedimin, conferred upon him by the Lithuanian government on the occasion of the celebration of his seventieth birthday.

to our Jewish youth, in deference to their own future, to apprise them early of the facts as they exist today in this profession and in others? Ought we not to face the situation realistically, putting aside for the moment the polemical element involved in it? Why wait until such information is imparted to them by a non-Jewish president of a university, or dean of a medical college? We shall refuse to accept the principle of race quotas in our educational institutions, and we shall vigorously oppose it with all the means at our disposal and at every turn. But we should nevertheless protect our Jewish youth against future heartaches and disillusionments by advising them before they commit themselves to a professional or commercial career, of what its true aspects are. We should give them helpful, intelligent, accurate vocational guidance.

More than a year ago, we suggested in this editorial column that a program of national economic planning on the part of the Jewish group in this country is becoming imperative. We ought not to permit ourselves to wait until a drastic economic reconstruction program is forced upon us by hostile forces from without. Much can be accomplished by careful fact-finding, planning, and education from within.

Joachim Heinrich Biesenthal, nineteenth century German missionary, received the degree of doctor of theology from the University of Gießen.

Wagner for Unity On Palestine Day

Urges Jews and Gentiles to Further Aims of Justice on Jan. 20

Senator Robert F. Wagner is fully in agreement with observance of the first annual Palestine Day on January 20, he announced in a letter to Morris Rothenberg, president of the Zionist Organization of America.

"The first Palestine Day in America should occasion an outpouring of good will from Jew and Gentile alike that may be canalized so as to effectuate the ideals of love and justice that all good people hold in common," Senator Wagner wrote.

At the same time the Zionist organization announced that sessions of the National Conference on Palestine, which opens January 20, will be held in the Memorial Continental Hall of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Shall Reporters Tell All?

There are many problems connected with the business of reporting what transpires on screens and behind footlights that puzzle me and about them I know no help is to be expected from readers. However, there is one phase of dramatic reporting about which these same readers could be of valuable assistance. Specifically, should a critic give his readers a complete synopsis of the play or picture he is criticizing?

Personally I feel that setting down the complete story of a theatrical production tends to spoil the fun of those who decide to go to see it. If a play or film has an unusual plot, or a surprise ending, by telling your readers what this plot or ending is, you certainly eliminate the element of surprise. I know that if I were to be given an exhaustive synopsis of a book, my interest in reading that book would be appreciably less and I don't see why this same test cannot be applied to things theatrical.

I believe a reporter has done his duty when he has given the reader some idea of the plot and thesis of the production. He should confine his comments to the plausibility of the author's idea and the manner in which the work is produced and acted. What do you think? I am very eager to hear your opinion.

Unexciting Theatrical Week

The week was unexciting theatrically. "Post Road," the semi-comic melodrama about baby snatching, was the only piece worth mentioning twice. Although its reception by the critics was not unanimously favorable, most of the gentleman marked it down as better than fair entertainment. I concur.

"Tomorrow's Harvest" which Hans Rastade and Hyman Adler wrote, is a dismal and unconvincing drama about a dominating father who has his family so bulldozed that even after his death his influence is still felt. It is much too wordy.

Irving Kaye Davis, a young playwright who manages to become very very serious and profound about very obvious things, was also among those who had new plays to offer. His latest, "So Many Paths," opened Thursday evening at the Ritz Theatre, where, fairly enough, his "All Rights Reserved" recently died.

For this coming week things look brighter. Monday evening the Theatre Guild, which has been quiet this Fall, will present Maxwell Anderson's "Valley Forge." On the same evening the Theatre Union will offer "Sailors of Cattaro." Wednesday, at the Broadway, Russell Janney's musical romance, "The O'Flynn," will be the evening's attraction, and on Thursday Lew Brown's "Calling All Stars" will have its premier at the Hollywood. This elaborately produced musical starring Lou Holtz and Phil Baker, among others, had its try-out in Boston, where it was welcomed warmly.

This week will also see the end of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company four-week repertory, which stretched out into fifteen weeks.

From the Cinema

This should be a gala week-end for the film fans. Greta Garbo is at the Capitol in a picturization of the novel, "Painted Veil." George Jessel heads the stage show. At the Paramount the very much discussed "The President Vanishes" finally after many delays came in. "Broadway Bill" holds over for another week at the Music Hall. "The Battle" continues for a third week at the Criterion and at the Rivoli, Douglas Fairbanks returns to the screen in "Don Juan."

For the Holidays

It is customary to make up a list of plays for holiday consumption. Here is mine: "The Children's Hour," easily the most mature and gripping drama of the season. "Anything Goes," a gay, risqué musical comedy with Victor Moore, one of the stage's funnier funny men, and Ethel Merman, who can do more with Cole Porter's lyrics than a chorus of 100; "Say When," a musical with Bob Hope and plenty of good tunes; "Dark Victory," an unhappy but beautifully acted play with Tallulah Bankhead; "Gold Eagle Guy," a robust, exciting melodrama of a self-made man; "Revenge With Music," Libby Holman in a charming Spanish musical romance; and for a light comedy the inconsequential amusing "Personal Appearance," a sidelight on the home life of a movie star.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Lotte Lehmann, German grand opera star now appearing here, declared last night that under no conditions would she return to Germany.

"Never will I enter a country which expelled such a great musician as Bruno Walter," she stated.

"I deeply hope that the expulsion of some of the best artists from Germany will awaken the intelligent portion of the population to realize what is happening," Miss Lehmann said. She made light of her personal quarrel with Prussian Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering, declaring it had no influence on her decision.

Held at the Warner Memorial Gymnasium, 1560 Amsterdam avenue, the party was attended by one thousand persons including Harry M. Warner, president of the Warner pictures firm, his brother, Jack Warner, and members of the board of trustees of the orphanage.

A gala entertainment program was given. Professional talent was supplied by the Warners, and the children presented novelties of their own.

The Gymnasium was given to the asylum six years ago as a memorial to the late Sam Warner. It was launched with a Chanukah party, the success of which led the Warners to make the party an annual affair.

The Forty Days of Musa Dagh

By Franz Werfel. Published by Viking Press, 819 pages, $3.00.
Reviewed by Robert Rau.

The artistic importance of Franz Werfel lies in his awareness of mass movements and mass feeling before they have become evident historically. The Goat Song portrayed the rising tide of dissatisfaction and the nebulous spirit of revolution that has since become the driving force behind world events. So in The Forty Days of Musa Dagh, he shows through the medium of an incident of the World War a stiffening resistance of the persecuted races of the world, and since his interest in this situation is more than that of an artist, he has written a call to arms to his own people, the Jews.

The story of The Forty Days of Musa Dagh is a simple one. It deals with the wholesale "evacuation" during the World War of a million Armenians from Syria into the Mesopotamian Desert by the Turks under Enver Pascha. Even the Turks themselves estimated that the "evacuation" would result in the death of ninety per cent of the people. It was a measure with only the slightest pretense of military necessity and it was motivated solely by the unreasoning hatred of the Turks for the Armenians.

One of Werfel's greatest contributions lies in his description of the underlying nature of race hatred—the three basic reasons—jealousy of greater industry and wealth of the people, religious contempt and hatred, and the desire for women of alien race.

But Werfel is not content to write of the tragedy of this wholesale slaughter. He has chosen one incident of the "evacuation," an Armenian, due to his wealth and his European education, has been able to overcome the docile acceptance so characteristic of his race, of whatever life may bring, and through his example to arouse to resistance, the people at the foot of Musa Dagh, "The Mountain of Moses." They encamp on the mountain and for forty days hold the entire might of the Turkish armies at bay. The eventual result of this gallant defense becomes relatively unimportant. All that retains significance is the satisfaction that lies in action itself. Here at last the Armenian people have given notice to Turkey and to the world that they will no longer allow themselves to be persecuted by an alien race.

Forty Days of Musa Dagh is, on the other hand, a stirring tale of gallant deeds and quiet heroism. On the other, it is Werfel's solution to the problem of the Jew. Werfel's method is that when one's back is to the wall, there are only two courses of action—meek surrender to extinction or heroic resistance, however slight the chance for recovery. And through the relatively unimportant incident of the defense of Musa Dagh, he has shown his choice.

Herman Bernstein, journalist and former United States Minister to Albania, has completed "The Truth About the Protocols of Zion" which Covici, Friede will publish in January.

Continued distribution of the forged Protocols has spurred Mr. Bernstein to write the complete history of the spurious document. His book contains not only the "Protocols" themselves and the first complete translation into English of the French "Dialogues In Hell," upon which the "Protocols" are based, but also excerpts from both documents arranged in parallel columns showing how the authors of the "Protocols" took material from the "Dialogues In Hell." The book also includes documentary evidence which explains how the "Protocols" were created and disseminated by anti-Semites.

Among the Literati

For a time last week it was thought that something had happened to The American Spectator. Due on the news stands the first day of the month, no copies were available until December 3. The gossips immediately began to scurry around trying to find the reason for the delay. One facetious fellow offered an explanation, saying, "I guess Mr. Hitler's check didn't arrive in time." As a matter of fact the offices of The Spectator claimed that a shipment of paper had been late in arriving. It reminds one of the last days of The Bookman when publication day would roll around and no magazine would appear. Mr. Collins never became ruffled. He would simply let the issue pass and get out a double one the following month. Unique but satisfactory. . . .

Previews

December is the publisher's off-month and the list of books scheduled for that period indicates what was left over from the Fall's sack of manuscripts. Most of the issues are either light fiction or very serious tomes. The books thought to have a better chance of selling were released earlier in the season. However, there are a few interesting items — "Fine Prints of the Year," a collection of contemporary etching; "Hoover Off the Record," by Theodore G. Joslin. This is an attempt to justify the ex-president's actions while in office. It has not the charm of Ike Hoover's book, but how could it? Defending Mr. Hoover's behavior is tough going. "Was Europe a Success?" Joseph Wood Krutch's analysis of political developments in Europe and America, consists mostly of material which has run in the magazines. "The Complete Wine Book," by Frank Schoonmaker and Tom Marvel, is supposed to be the book to end books on wine, and a good thing too. "Labor's Fight for Power," by George Skolsky, who has been touring these United States and incidentally gathering material about union labor, and Thorne Smith's posthumous book, "The Glorious Pool," another amusing bit by a fine humorist, complete the list.

Odds and Ends

Aben Kandel, whose novel, "City For Conquest," is slated to appear in February, took ten days off to go to Hollywood to help whip a picture into shape. . . . Lillian Lustig, who for nearly ten years was Dick Simon's private secretary, is leaving Simon and Schuster, much to everyone's amazement. . . . Dodd Mead and Covici Friede are each moving their offices. . . . Bigger and better space. . . .

Zweig Story Filmed

A motion picture version of Stefan Zweig's novelette, "Amok," has just been released in Paris. Zweig is the author of the recently published "Erasmus of Rotterdam."

Swiss Urged To Act Against Nazi Rowdies

Appeal Made to Public Opinion to Condemn Hitler Tactics

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

ZURICH.—An appeal to public opinion has been issued by the Zurich Committee of the Swiss Jewish Federation of Communities in connection with last month's rowdyism displayed by Swiss Nazis against Jews, as a result of which half a dozen Nazis went to jail.

"We express our firm conviction," a statement by the committee published in the Zurich dailies declared, "that the people of Zurich condemn these methods on the ground of well-tried political experience."

Pointing out that the Jews "refuse to carry on a fight against these vilifiers, agitators and enemies of democracy with the knuckle-duster, steel whip, pistols and tear-gas bombs," the appeal assailed "the battle cry taken over by these so-called renewers from the Third Reich, 'Perish Judea!'" as it has been raised in a scandalous manner during the last few days in the midst of our city."

The statement asserted that the Jews are aware that "these elements will never be taught better" except by strong action of the authorities, adding that the Swiss people are supporting its officials in their efforts to "exterminate" Nazi rowdies.

Sees Jews Facing Intellectual Ghetto

(Special to the J.D.B.)

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—Jews must fight to prevent creation of a new economic and intellectual ghetto, Rabbi Morris Lazon of Baltimore told an audience of 1,200 at a Chanukah celebration in Temple Kehilath Israel last night.

"Jewish people are standing at the defense end of the world and must reawaken a new Maccabean spirit to fight the economic and intellectual ghetto being forced upon them throughout the world to replace the old Russian and medieval ghettos of Europe," Rabbi Lazon said.

Convict 2 Butchers, Free 30 Others on Food Law Charges

Archie and Abe Wolfson, 858 Gerard Avenue, the Bronx, operators of a butcher shop, were found guilty Friday in Bronx Special Sessions of violating the State kosher laws. They will be sentenced December 14.

Inspectors Bruno Frankel and Patrick J. McKenna, of the Department of Markets, testified that they found non kosher meat in the store.

Three others held on similar charges were freed on a motion for dismissal by their counsel, Nathan Immerman. The three are Nathan Weitzmann, Nathan Shub and William Munter, all of the Bronx.

6 Arrested as Suspects In Synagogue Bombings

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WILNO, Dec. 7.—Six arrests were made by police today in connection with the bombing of two synagogues here recently. Bombs were exploded in both synagogues late Friday night after the Sabbath services.

All six were charged with being accomplices in the outrages.

Fifth News Contest On—Enter Now and Win Share in Prizes

The FIFTH Biggest Jewish News of the Week Contest starts with today's edition of the Jewish Daily Bulletin and $100 in cash prizes and medals will be awarded winners who have submitted the best 250 word-letters on this subject.

The series of contests, now entering its fifth week of competition, has proved to be a popular feature with readers of the Bulletin. College men and women have found this an interesting and educational feature. High school boys and girls are enthusiastic over their cash awards and handsome medals. Dr. Potter, principal of New Utrecht High School, said, when he awarded the medal to Edward Dauber, "This medal is a beautiful symbol of your splendid contest. I hope that it meets with all the success due an educational feature of this kind."

$300 Given Already

In Friday's edition of the Bulletin winners of the third week's Biggest Jewish News of the Week Contest were announced. To date $300 in cash prizes and medals have been awarded these winners. Chances are equal for all who enter. Everybody is eligible. Doctors, lawyers and rabbis have written to the editor, saying that the contest makes reading the Bulletin more interesting than ever. College men and women and high school students find that the Bulletin is an aid to their studies in current events. Competing in the contest lends added zest to their school work, they say.

Rules are simple. They are published in today's Bulletin. The contest bars no one except employees of the Bulletin and their relatives.

If You Don't Succeed At First
Many readers and students who have entered and whose letters were not adjudged winners were discouraged and have failed to write again. Others have entered regularly and in some cases have been rewarded for their efforts. Miss Jessie Shoban of Rhinebeck, N. Y., won in her second attempt, while Saul Shapiro of Auburn, N. Y., succeeded in winning in his third try.

Winners of the contest for any one week are not barred from further competition. Everybody becomes eligible again with each new contest. Thus far only one winner has duplicated his success. Achad Sanders, of James Madison High School, entered the contest in its first week of competition and received honorable mention from the judges. In the second week's awards he received a five-dollar cash prize and a silver medal. When the announcement of winners was made in Friday's Bulletin Sanders' name was published as a first prize winner of ten dollars, a gold medal and sufficient points to place his school in the lead for the News Trophy.

Deadline Monday

The FOURTH contest ends midnight Monday. All manuscripts must be brought or mailed to the Bulletin before the designated time. The contest board has been forced to disqualify several entrants because their letters arrived over twenty-four hours after the deadline. Winners of the fourth contest will be announced Friday, December 14.

The Jewish Daily Bulletin is sold at all newsstands. Get your copy regularly.

Many Faiths to Join in Yule Services Thursday

An All Faiths Celebration of Christmas has been arranged by the World Fellowship of Faiths for Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock at All Souls Unitarian Church, Eightieth street and Lexington avenue. "What Jesus Means to People of Other Faiths" will be the subject of the evening.

Speakers include Manly P. Hall of California; Swami Mikhilanan-da, Hindu, of India; Rev. Sokei-ann Sasaki, Buddhist, of Japan and Dr. Alexander Lyons, rabbi of the Eighth Avenue Temple, Brooklyn.

Gifts Totaling $53,319 Announced by Columbia

Secretary Frank D. Fackenthal of Columbia University has announced contributions by Henry Morgenthau Sr., former Ambassador to Turkey, Professor Frank Boas and the Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation. Gifts aggregating $53,319.26 to the university from various sources were announced.

A. Z. A. Celebrates International Day

Junior B'nai B'rith Program Includes Meetings, Banquets, Broadcasts

(Special to the J.D.B.)

OMAHA, Nebr., Dec. 7.—More than 175 active chapters of Aleph Zadik Aleph, junior order of B'nai B'rith, will celebrate International A. Z. A. Day in cities of the United States and Canada December 16, it was announced at national headquarters here today.

The local programs will be marked by open meetings, banquets and radio broadcasts. Classes of new members will be initiated.

Aleph Zadik Aleph was founded in May, 1924, at Omaha by Sam Beber, now the president of the supreme advisory council. His object was to provide a medium for organizing Jewish youth in model fraternal groups devoted to building Jewish character. Since that time it has grown remarkably.

CAPITAL COMMENT

BY NATHAN KOENIG

WASHINGTON.

As a result of intensive activities among those who desire to move greater quantities of cotton into export channels, a barter agreement between the United States and Germany now seems inevitable. Announcement of conclusion of negotiations is expected any day.

NATHAN KOENIG

The deal is expected to involve an outlet for at least 500,000 bales of American cotton, and perhaps 800,000 bales. Around $30,000,000 is involved. In return Germany will send to this country nitrates, now being obtained from Chile, and such other products as American importers think they can dispose of in the United States.

* * *

At first it was reported that the Treasury Department looked upon barter between the United States and Germany, especially as regards to nitrates, as constituting dumping. The German nitrates would replace those bought now from Chile at the price ordinarily paid for Chilean nitrates. This price is said to be below the domestic price in Germany.

The Treasury Department has been making an intensive investigation. The latest information is that Treasury lawyers were drafting an opinion which would say, in effect, that the trade of cotton for nitrates with Germany would not violate anti-dumping statutes.

* * *

The southern cotton boys are particularly pleased over the way things are developing. At first they feared they would be left with all of the cotton in their laps. What made the situation worse for them was the prospect of further increased production next year, and a greater cotton carry-over. George Peek, president of the Export-Import Bank, is doubly pleased because barter with countries unable to pay in cash is a pet idea of his.

In the event the cotton barter arrangement with Germany does go through, and there is but little likelihood now that it will not, the next problem will be the actual collecting of what is due, whether it be in the form of goods or cash. At the present time a number of European countries are having great difficulties with Germany in getting her to pay for what is received.

The Netherlands and the United Kingdom are having their troubles in getting Germany to pay for recent purchases. British cotton yarn producers recently refused to make further deliveries until overdue accounts were paid up. While an arrangement has been worked out to make some sort of settlement, in the meantime the business went to Belgium, where cash orders were placed for practically all available stocks of yarn.

Trade relations between the Netherlands and Germany are reported to the United States Department of Commerce as being "in an unfavorable state. The clearing agreement negotiated in September was denounced November 1, in part because of the alteration in the trade balance with that country (Germany) and because protest developed from its subordination of past-due current accounts. "This situation is resulting in new negotiations between the Netherlands and Germany. Meanwhile, however, "an important part of the capital of trading firms has been frozen in Germany."

Negotiations between France and Germany over the Saar Valley came as a pleasant surprise to Washington because it removes one of the dangers of another European conflagration. In view of the agreement between the two countries there is no doubt now who will be in possession of the Saar after the January 13 plebiscite.

Although a large proportion of the Saar population is German, a great number would like to see a continuation of the present status, under the administration of the League of Nations. These people have in mind their own comfort, and have the feeling that under Berlin rule they will have to bear a heavier share of the burden of taxation, contribute for increased German arms expenditures, and eventually engage in compulsory military service.

Hitler has been extremely anxious to get possession of the rich Saar Valley, and Europe knew he was not bluffing when he said the Saar must be returned to Germany. The propaganda campaign and events that went with it showed this to be true.

American arms manufacturers may find themselves under more rigid governmental regulation as a result of the Senate munitions investigation now under way. A number of senators believe that legislation should be introduced during the coming session of Congress to place armaments makers under government control.

The Senate Committee is irked at the movement of arms into Germany in spite of the Treaty of Versailles. The committee has revealed that the rearming of the Hitler government was used as a lever to increase military appropriations in other European countries.

Senator Vandenberg has pointed out that the rearming of Germany involved not only direct profits to the munitions industry, but indirect profits resulting from the fear in other countries of a re-armed Reich. British as well as American armaments manufacturers have sold arms to the Nazis in violation of treaties made effective after the World War.

When the new Congress convenes the munitions investigating committee will request more funds with which to carry on the probe. The original fund of $50,000 has been spent and committee workers are now working without pay. Committee members say that in spite of the many revelations already made public they "have only scratched the surface."

Linen Men Dine Gitlow Tuesday

A testimonial dinner in honor of Albert Gitlow, former president of the National Linen Supply Association, will be given Tuesday evening at the Hotel Astor by organizations in the linen and supply business in the metropolitan district.

The proceeds will be turned over to the United Jewish Appeal for relief of refugees from Nazi Germany. John M. O'Donoghue, chairman of the committee for the dinner, is vice president of the National Linen Supply Association.

The principal speaker will be Maurice Samuel.

Briton Relates Experiences on Trip to Reich

Met Only Bitter Hate for Jews, Colonel Says on Return

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON. — Returned from a visit to the Rhineland, the Ruhr, Berlin and several provincial German towns, Colonel E. W. Lennard reports that he failed to encounter "a single 'Aryan' German who could discuss Jews without hatred or bitterness."

Colonel Lennard, in a series of articles on his experiences in the Bristol Evening Post, writes:

"To mention the question anywhere is to invite the repetition of statements and statistics that are unmistakably of propagandist origin and from a common source."

"I profoundly distrust most of the biased and one-sided 'facts' that everyone tried to thrust upon me as an explanation and extenuation of German treatment of her Jewish citizens. Much of it boils down to the truth that the Jewish one per cent of the entire population possessed better brains or were materially less unfortunate than some of their neighbors in the post-war days."

As soon as Jews were mentioned, Colonel Lennard relates, the faces of "otherwise charming and reasonable people" would harden and a flood of invective would be loosed.

"The utmost concession (and that by no means general) that I got was that while Jews richly deserved their fate both present or pending, it might have been better, in view of foreign opinion, to have 'spread it over' a little, and not to have been so prompt in denouncing and despoiling them."

The Jewish Chronicle, commenting on the articles, calls special attention to Colonel Lennard's reference to the fate of the Jews as "Present or pending" and points out that his views are doubly valuable because he was in Germany as a non-Jew moving among non-Jews.

"Jewish observers moving among Jews," says the Chronicle, "are liable to be misled by an understandable tendency to minimize matters."

Al Smith Warns A. A. U. on Olympics

Inform Parley Public Opposes Participation

Untermeyer, AJC, Vets Join in Protest to Miami

The American Jewish Congress in a lengthy communication to the convention requested that the A. A. U. uphold its resolution of last year and follow the precedent set by the Dutch Amateur Athletic Union.

Refutes Brundage

The Congress message refuted the assertions of Avery Brundage that Germany will keep "her solemn pledges to uphold all principles upon which the Olympic Games and international sport are based." It affirmed that the conditions which led to the strong resolution of the A. A. U. last year not only continue but have been intensified.

The message further asserted that since Brundage visited Germany last summer and since the formal vote of acceptance of Germany's invitation by the A. O. C., Germany has contravened the spirit and text of its promises.

In this summary of the entire situation, affecting Jews in sports from July, 1933, to December, 1934, the American Jewish Congress charges that none of the discriminatory decrees have been withdrawn. The communication was submitted by Bernard S. Deutsch, president.

Untermeyer's Message

Samuel Untermeyer, president of the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league to champion human rights, in an open telegram to Avery Brundage urged that the A. A. U. refuse to certify entries to the 1936 Olympic games if held in Germany. The telegram follows:

This is to renew protest of the Non-Sectarian League against holding Olympic games in Berlin on grounds stated in my letter to you dated September 26, copy of which being mailed you tonight with request that it and this message be read in their entirety to convention. Every promise made is being flagrantly violated by Nazi government. You are doubtless aware that Berlin Olympic Stadium has been pledged as barracks to Reichswehr after games and that everyone contributing through participation becomes supporter of Germany's militaristic policies. I doubt whether any American sportsman will relish that situation. Answering your argument

Race Prejudice Here Rapped by Justice

"Royal Scott Gulden and his Order of '76, of which my son was falsely accused of being a member, are un-American," Pelham St. George Bissell, President Justice of the Municipal Court, told a Jewish Daily Bulletin reporter Friday.

"Let me add," Justice Bissell continued, "that any organization which directly or indirectly makes for racial prejudice is abhorrent to everything this country holds sacred."

David Blum, the jurist's Jewish secretary, expressed anger at charges of anti-Semitism lodged against Justice Bissell.

"I've known him for seventeen years," Blum declared, "I've never met anyone more tolerant nor more friendly to Jews, both in deed and in thought."

Important Figures in Olympic Tangle

Avery Brundage (left), who recently made survey of situation as to Jewish athletes in Germany, and Charles L. Ornstein, Jewish member of American Olympic Committee.

on your return from Germany that as this question is restricted to sport no political implications can be considered, may I refer you to the Bible, Proverbs, chapter 26, verses 18, 19, in which King Solomon declared as follows:

"As a madman who casteth firebrands, arrows and death; so is the man who deceiveth his neighbor and saith am I not in sport?"

Sport cannot be made the football for all iniquities of the Hitler régime. I hope convention will refuse to certify entries from our country to 1936 Olympiad if held in Berlin.

The Veterans' Wire

The Jewish War Veterans, in a telegram signed by Julius Klausner, Jr., commander of the New York State Division, said:

The Department of New York Jewish War Veterans of the United States sincerely hopes that the spirit of Americanism and fair play will uphold the opposition of the A. A. U. to participation in the Olympic Games scheduled to be held in blood-spattered Naziland where sixty-five million sportsmanlike brown shirts crushed to earth 600,000 of their fellow citizens because they were Jews.

Sport lovers who are lovers of fair play must realize that participation in Germany will be accepted by the Nazis as approval of their vicious misdeeds.

As veterans representing 225,000 Jews who bore arms for America in the World War we ask that you stand steadfast in behalf of the gentleness and mercy preached by Jesus Christ.

Richard J. Beamish of Philadelphia announced yesterday that the World Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi Council will hold a "Festival of Freedom" in four countries to compete with the Olympic Games in Berlin. This festival will be held May 1 to Sept. 30, 1936, in England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales to offset the action taken by the British Olympic Committee in accepting the German invitation to participate in the 1936 Berlin Olympic games in Berlin.

The British A. A. U. Mr. Beamish said, is considering the invitation to withdraw from the Olympics and enter the festival games.

Carry Fight To Miami

(Special to the J.D.B.)

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 7.—Opponents of American participation in the 1936 Berlin Olympics who are trying to keep the policy of the Amateur Athletic Union against American acceptance of the Nazi bid, are carrying the fight to the last ditch at the annual A. A. U. convention here.

The participation issue has reached such proportions that a fresh controversy, growing out of feeling against anti-Jewish activity in Germany's athletic circles, threatens to delay the program of the national convention.

Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., whose visit to Germany last summer and subsequent approval of the German Olympic program figures in the international argument, had hoped to sidetrack the anti-Jewish issue in committee sessions. This feeling, however, was not shared by delegates who supported the resolution at last year's convention, and feel that Germany has yet to remove the stigma of racial discrimination.

Charles L. Ornstein, of New York, only Jewish member of the American Olympic committee, who led the opposition against acceptance of the Nazi bid last year, and Joseph Dresner, of New Orleans, president of the Southern Association of the A. A. U., are foremost in the non-acceptance battle this year.

who was punished for leading a group of Jewish workers who ploughed the land and clashed with Arabs.

The land has been the property of Jews for more than forty years, but recently the notorious Arab agitator, Subhi Bey Khadri, appeared on the scene and claimed the land belonged to Arabs by virtue of an alleged deed signed more than 500 years ago. The tract was originally purchased by the Jewish Colonization Association.

Twice the ownership of the land was called into question, once under the old Turkish administration and again in 1925. Each time Jewish ownership was upheld.

A victory for the Arabs, it is held, would have resulted in a flood of law suits against Jewish owners of land in Palestine.

There will be no discrimination against Jewish firms, the German Embassy informed the Jewish Telegraphic Agency. No question as to race or religion will be asked, the embassy stated, the only conditions being good commercial standing and willingness to join the German cause. German officials also declared that they did not discriminate in any way against the Jews in Great Britain.

Warburg Among Donors Of $15,624 to N. Y. U.

Jews and Jewish foundations are among contributors of $15,624.29 to New York University since June, it was announced by Chancellor Harry Woodburn Chase.

Felix M. Warburg, Mrs. Henry S. Stiefel and the Committee in Aid of Displaced German Scholars Jr. Foundation turned over $4,000, while Mrs. Percy St. Straus contributed $1,800 and Percy S. Straus $1,200.

vice-presidents. Under the subheading, "Forces Opposed to Restriction," the pamphlet states:

"Another element opposing legislation to improve the immigration laws is made up of persons whose racial interests and prejudices warp their judgment as to the general interest. (This is especially true with many of Hebrew origin). Persons classing themselves as leaders have not grasped the fact, fully recognized by their more progressive and clear thinking associates, that the solution of their problem lies elsewhere than in spreading poverty and want from one overpopulated area to another through continued and uncontrolled mass migrations. We can sympathize with their feelings, but we cannot agree that what they are doing holds promise of permanent benefit to their own peoples, the United States or the world at large.

"This racial element has found that our country as a whole is in favor of limiting immigration. In the face of overwhelming evidence to this effect, they often give lip service to the principle of limitation of immigration, while opposing every effort that promises to make substantial limitation effective. They are therefore working to counteract the will of the people in another way."

Music Prodigies Hear Their Problems Aired

Sixteen Jewish and two non-Jewish children were a group of musically gifted boys and girls who on Friday evening attended the first of a series of lectures on the educational problems of gifted children, held at the New York University School of Education in cooperation with the Child Study Association of America. The group was from the Music School of the Henry Street Settlement.

Mrs. Hedi Katz, director of the Music School, spoke on the discovery and development of these boys and girls.

Poultry Group Ends Objection To Trade Code

Commission Merchants Take New Stand in Surprise Move

An open hearing was held Friday at the Hotel New Yorker on a code of fair competition for the live poultry industry in the north-eastern states. The proposed code, aimed at wiping out unfair trade practices and racketeering, met with almost unanimous support from live poultry dealers and slaughterhouse men present.

A surprising point in the hearing arose when Herbert Frankel, representing the New York poultry commission merchants, announced that these former bitter opponents of the New York code now support it.

David S. Andron, representing the kosher butchers' group, asked protection for retail poultry sellers from competition of wholesalers who also sell retail.

He urged that kosher poultry retailing be placed under the code for kosher meat retailers because this code regulates closing of places of business on Jewish holidays and provides for kosher supervision. Failing adoption of this recommendation, Mr. Andron demanded that poultry wholesalers be forbidden to sell retail poultry as kosher.

He said the matter can be settled by negotiation between code authorities.

The regional code, estimated to cover an annual live poultry business of 75,000,000 pounds, is sponsored by the New Jersey Poultry Dealers' Association, the Retail Live Poultry Dealers' Protective Association of Philadelphia and the Greater Boston Live Poultry Slaughterhousemen's Association.

Soviet May Aid Polish Jews

the Agro-Yid, an organization interested in helping Jews migrate to Biro-Bidjan, will contribute $150 for each Jewish family which the Soviet government permits to enter Russia and settle in Biro-Bidjan.

This contribution will be made on condition that the Soviet government guarantees to supply the families with houses and food in Biro-Bidjan and with at least one cow per family. The first 300 families will be permitted to settle in the Jewish region not later than the spring of 1935.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency was informed today from most reliable sources that the above conditions will most likely be accepted.

The memorandum to President Kalinin deals chiefly with the present desperate economic condition of the Jews in Poland. It has been known here that of the 3,000,000 Jews residing in the Polish republic at least 1,000,000 are suffering acute starvation due to the anti-Jewish economic policy of the government. Reports received here during the past few weeks disclose that the number of Jewish suicides in Poland is growing daily because of hunger and privation.

It is believed here that the Polish government, though not willing to see its citizens go to Russia, will nevertheless not make difficulties for those Jews who migrate to Biro-Bidjan, since Polish authorities are interested in seeing as many Jews as possible leave.
