Poles Reduce Home Owners To Beggary

Foreclosures Affect 400 as Many Sell Houses for Sustenance

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, Feb. 7. — Approximately 400 Jewish homes here have been foreclosed, it was reported today, and the banks affiliated with the Ministry of Finance, it was reported today, by the local press.

Hundreds of houses in Warsaw and in other cities of Poland are being offered for sale by Jews for small sums, but there are many buyers.

Warsaw newspapers report the situation as serious. The number of foreclosures has been reduced by the heavy debts assumed by many Jewish families. The hardest is in addition being unable to sell at their foreclosed prices. Jewish landlords also unable to collect rent from their Jewish tenants, most of whom have been reduced to beggary.

Offer Pianos Furniture

The tragic picture of middle-class Jews has been dramatized by reports of foreclosures. Piano, pictures in the Moment, Yiddish daily, emphasized the destruction of Jewish economic life, this paper tells how their last pieces of furniture are being offered by Jews for a price barely sufficient to buy several pounds of bread.

“It is true that the provincial cities,” the paper relates, “especially in the provinces of Wohlen, Galicia, and other places where furniture is being sold at auctions for pittance.” (Continued on Page Two)

Mosley Aid Denies Blackshirts’ Bias

(London, Feb. 7. — Times), Sir Oswald Mosley’s British Union of Fascists was anti-Semitic, British Labour Member of Parliament for Leeds, J. W. Stephenson, official of the organization, in a letter to the Western Evening Herald, said. "There is no bias of the paper with an eye from the organization," he wrote, "but from a small and very rapid bunch of anti-Semitism.

REIHEN, Feb. 6. — Former German Hermann Wilhelm Goering, as rald and assistant criminal lawyer, has been charged with the murder of a Jewish woman who was imprisoned, must be going soft. At any rate, the racial differ- ences, which are being emphasized by German Fascists, do not mean very much to the hurry of the Israels of Rastattischer Hitler. When they happen to clash with the ambitions to make the Reich’s theatre and opera as good as any in the world, they do not care to do so.

This was made apparent today when it was learned that he had appointed a Jew, Leo Hoch, as assistant conductor of the orchestra.

Pelley Hunts $1,500 for Fine: Renewes Bitter Attack on Jews

(Special to the J.D.B.)

ASHVILLE, N. C., Feb. 8. — William Dudley Pelley, leader of the anti-Semitic Silver Bill movement, has been convicted last month of violating the North Carolina "blue sky" laws, will not retreat "a single inch" in his fight with Jews, he made it plain here today.

Pelley, who is temporarily at liberty on bail, pending sentence of $250 fine, will protest his conviction for as long as five years under the statute, and according to one of the local newspapers Judge William Wilson has indicated he will suspend infliction of a prison term upon payment of a fine, the amount of which was not divulged.

In a misgribrated statement headed "Special Bulletin on The Battle of the Silver Dollars" which ran to five pages, single-spaced, the silver Bill chalitalla gave his version of the recent heated and violent frequent attacks upon the Jews.

"At the present time I am concentrating all my time and en- efусion on the heart-breaking task of accumulating the $1,000 to $2,000 that must be paid the clerk of Buncombe County on February 18." Pelley confided in this cir- cumstana, that "all activities of every nature are underway to collect it.

Frankfort Liberals Lose Fight Against Chair of Racial Science

BERLIN, Feb. 8. — The long drawn-out battle of liberal profes- sors at the University of Frankfort-am-Main, which has established a chair of racial science at the university was lost today, as the Acten announced that such a chair would be established next semester.

The University of Frankfort-am-Main, which is one of the his- toric universities of Germany, was established and practically maintained by money from Jewish sources. A public protest was systematically dismissed by the authorities of the University, but the university still remained non-committal. "In view of its liberal traditions," the announcement said.

Governor Receives Touring Team, Lands Interfaith Movement

(Special to the J.D.P.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 8—The Alabama State Senate and the House of Representatives, in joint session, were addressed today by Governor J. Orval Calhoun, chairman of the National Conference of Jews and Christians in the South, which has been brought to Montgomery by Rabbi Morris R. Lazarow of Baltimore, who is the Jewish member of the conference, and the Rev. Herbert K. Niswedge, and the Rev. Alex R. Dann of the National Conference, and the Rev. Peter A. Lawrence, chaplain of the Catholic Club at Yale University.

It was believed the first time in history that any State Legislature had adopted an interfaith movement. The action was taken after a resolution was adopted by the County of Tuscaloosa, which provided for the continuation of the tour to appear at the Capitol. The resolution was passed unanimously.

After the team delivered the message of the Senate and House, and received the three members and expressed cordial support of the movement.

"If you wish Godspeed," the Governor said.

They are an independent group, and their activities are not influenced by any external political or religious forces. The group is comprised of prominent Jewish leaders, scholars, and intellectuals, who are committed to the preservation and promotion of Jewish culture and heritage.

The Anti-Nazi List Course Of Lectures on Fascism

The Anti-Nazi Federation of New York, 186 West Twenty-third street, will open a lecture course this morning on the meaning of fascism under the supervision of Dr. Harry Shochower of the American Jewish Congress. The first lecture will be given by Dr. Shochower.

The course will focus on the historical roots and consequences of fascism. Dr. Shochower's lecture will address the topic of "Monopoly Capitalism." Subsequent lectures will deal with the nature of fascism, the economic and social implications of the movement, and its impact on society.

The course aims to provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of fascism and its implications for contemporary society. It is an opportunity for individuals to engage in critical thinking and reflection on the role of fascism in modern history.

Deportation of Palestine Schoolmasters Summarily Expelled Without Reason

(Israeli-American Agency)

BAGHDAD—An order of deportation was issued against two Palestinian Jewish schoolmasters by the Iraq authorities. This is the second such case in the last six months.

The schoolmasters, who had been warned to leave Iraq, were expelled without a hearing or a chance to appeal. They were told to leave within 48 hours after receiving the deportation order.

The reason given for the expulsion was that the schoolmasters were not authorized to teach in Iraq. However, this seems to be an arbitrary decision, as similar cases have not been reported elsewhere in the region.

The expulsion of schoolmasters without due process is a cause for concern, as it undermines the right of individuals to work and to exercise their profession. It also raises questions about the fairness of the authorities' decision-making process.

The administration should ensure that all citizens are treated fairly and justly, and that their rights and freedoms are respected. This incident highlights the need for greater transparency and accountability in the decision-making process.

Houses for Sale

Hundreds of Jewish building lots in Wadi el-Deir are offered for public sale and nobody wants to buy them. Four hundred of them have been sold at auction. The reason is that this is the latest news to come from Poland. This news shows that the plight of the Polish Jews becomes very sharp. Had 20 years ago, when the Jews were a well-to-do people, it had not been reduced to misery.

The houses which were sold at auction as a result of the heavy taxation from which Polish Jews suffer, have passed into the hands of banks which are in direct contact with the Ministry of Finance. It is expected that the banks will be acquiring Jewish property and are liquidating Jewish wealth accumulated in the course of generations.

But not only houses are being sold by Jews for paltry sums. The Jewish press in Wadi el-Deir daily offer stories of how Jews are offering their tables and chairs, their beds and pillows for a market for just a few pennies; for hardly enough to buy a jug of water.

What is being done to help these unfortunate?

An Example

The case in Estonia, where the students association has submitted to the Minister of Education a memorandum asking for a number of clauses against national minorities, is an example of how Jews in the Baltic states are suffering from Nazi ambitions to regain Baltic territories.

Not only in the Baltic states where there is definitely no anti-Semitism. There is evidence in Germany, where against the country—as in the other Baltic nations—German students are more repressed, as an instrument in the hands of the Berlin government to strengthen the propaganda that Estonia is a part of Ger-

For a long time little has been heard about the Hasmonean Temple in Jerusalem. It was unknown what has been the condition of the Temple since the destruction of the Second Temple. Now, however, the results of the several excavations conducted last year have shed new light on the site of the Second Temple. The Temple was a magnificent structure, a marvel of architecture and engineering. It was the center of Jewish religious and political life. The Temple was destroyed by the Romans in 70 C.E., and the city of Jerusalem was razed to the ground. The Temple was rebuilt by King Herod, and it was the center of Jewish religious and political life for the next 200 years.

At the time of the Temple's destruction, its treasures were scattered throughout the city. The most famous of these treasures was the Temple Mount, which was the site of the Temple. It was believed that the Temple Mount was the site of the Temple of Solomon, and it was the center of Jewish religious and political life. The Temple Mount was destroyed by the Romans in 70 C.E., and the city of Jerusalem was razed to the ground. The Temple Mount was rebuilt by King Herod, and it was the center of Jewish religious and political life for the next 200 years.

Today, the Temple Mount is a sacred site for Muslims, Christians, and Jews. It is the site of the Dome of the Rock, the Al-Aqsa Mosque, and the Western Wall. The Temple Mount is a symbol of the heritage of the three Abrahamic faiths, and it is a site of pilgrimage for people of all faiths from around the world.
An amazing story of how a young American stumbled across the story of the Little Sheenah, told by Eugene Lyons in his autobiography, "Personal History," just published by Doubleday & Company, is one of the stories of excitement, both physical and intellectual, but for a Jewish reader the initial chapter with its realistic and tautly-cogged epilogue remains the high point.

At the ripe old age of thirty-four this Sheenah—this girl, this shipload of letters—has crowded more action and more thinking into his life than less favored and less enterprising men have in a lifetime. Each page, each chapter of this book, is like a creature, a prince of the world.

Of course the book is no fairy tale. It was started on a New York City subway train. That was a fatal mistake. It was the signal to jump into the maelstrom of a Jewish career.

"You cannot possibly belong to it and stay in regular school or college life," she informed him. "She'll go with you—no matter where you are. As long as she's in the room, you can't do anything that is not of the Jewish kind. Everything else is not Jewish. It's as if you were a prisoner in a Jewish prison."

The book is a classic of its kind. It is a story of the little Jewish girl who will not be turned into a gentile. She is so Jewish that she makes the gentile Jews feel as if they were not Jews.

"You must give up the Yiddish," she told him. "You can't write in English. Yiddish is the only language you can write in."

But the memory of that humiliation burned deep into his soul. After seventeen years its marks are still fresh, though he has by this time outlived the "notion that the Jews are a sinister race, gifted in the black arts or bent on getting in their society." He has learned this lesson, he believes, and he is trying to avoid the mistake of the 1790s and the 1890s, when the Jews were deprived of their civil rights.

"If I'm a Jew, I'm a Jew. The only way to be a Jew is to be a Jewish Jew," he says. "I'm not a Jewish Jew like the other Jews. I'm a Jewish Jew who is proud of being Jewish."

There is a lesson in this story. It is that the Jewish Jew is the only Jew who can save the Jewish people. The Jewish Jew is the only Jew who can save the Jewish people.

The story of the boy's ignominious retreat from the Jewish faith is a lesson to all Jews. It is a lesson to all people. It is a lesson to all people who are not Jews.

The story of the boy's ignominious retreat from the Jewish faith is a lesson to all Jews. It is a lesson to all people. It is a lesson to all people who are not Jews.

Haddassah Opens Up New World To Its Aides, Mrs. Shulman Holds

Attitude Expects Quick Rise to Eminence of Group's Secretary

With Mrs. Herman Shulman, national secretary of Haddassah, there was born a young girl, a student at the Hebrew University, who then was in the war which was to make the woman who was to become the enthusiast of her youthful heart, the girl, loyal to and loyally ideal, interrupted her studies to undergo a rigorous course in nursing. To serve humanity seemed to her the most important, to study the humanity of the sick, and as so many other young and eager spirits she hoped that out of that turmoil of the world a world would arise reformed and dedicated to true social justice.

Mrs. Shulman as well as all her fellow enthusiasts suffered a rude awakening in the spring of peace-time that followed the great upheaval of war. Mrs. Shulman, at the moment of the ultimate triumph of the war, did not feel abandoned. It was in the spirit which is to be that in Palestine this ideal will come to be true fruition.

Gave Best in Her

A splendid worker for the great Haddassah cause, as she proved to the world— as she herself puts it— "we are the health fighters in a war that each one has to fight for his own health and for the health of his family." And as so many other young and eager spirits she hoped that out of the turmoil of the world a world would arise reformed and dedicated to true social justice.

MRS. HERMAN SHULMAN

"What is Haddassah?" Mrs. Shulman, who is known as "the soul of Haddassah," was asked to explain what she is doing for Haddassah.

"We are the fighters for the health of the Jewish people around the world," she replied.

And now, the question: "What are we doing for Haddassah?"

"Our work is done not only in the hospitals, but also in the schools, in the homes, and in the communities. It is a work of peace, and it is the work of the whole Jewish people."

Mrs. Shulman then went on to explain the various branches of Haddassah's work, including the Health Service, the Medical Library, and the Youth Movement.

In the course of her remarks, she pointed out the importance of education in the fight against disease and the promotion of health.

She concluded her talk by emphasizing the need for cooperation between Haddassah and other Jewish organizations in the struggle for improved conditions for the Jewish people.

Mrs. Shulman was seated in a chair in front of the hall, and the audience listened attentively to her words.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Samuel H. Goldfarb, and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride.

The bride was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage to the groom. The couple then left for a trip to a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride, attended by many members of the family and close friends.

The bride, who has been associated with Congregation Emanu-El for the past three years, has spent her whole career in the service of the Congregation. She has been a member of the Women's Auxiliary, and has served as secretary of the Congregation's Women's Club.

Mrs. Shulman also spoke of the importance of education in the fight against disease and the promotion of health.

She concluded her talk by emphasizing the need for cooperation between Haddassah and other Jewish organizations in the struggle for improved conditions for the Jewish people.

Mrs. Shulman was seated in a chair in front of the hall, and the audience listened attentively to her words.

I AM A RABBI'S WIFE, by Esther Bengis (Block Publishing Company).

Every phase of Jewish communal life is taken up separately in this book—the school, the synagogue, the homes, the children, the physical and mental illness, the weddings and funerals; all and all are written with the intimate knowledge of the province of the rabbi and his wife, their lives are a round of duties to the community and they seem to have as much privacy as gold fish.

Esther Bengis writes simply and directly of her own experiences and those of her husband, whose health finally gave way under the strain. There are amusing stories and some sad ones. All of us recognize the "pillar" of the congregation—what he brings the price of their jewelry or furniture as a topic of conversation when the rabbi and his wife come to call; the man who had the cold in his home to see his new brightly-tiled bathroom, and the socially-envious hostess who posed when Mrs. Bengis left her bridge club early to call on the socialite.

Mrs. Bengis has simply answered the question which she says is often asked, "What do a rabbi and his wife have to do, anyway?" A full and accurate one for both, it seems to be, and one can but hope that Rabbi Bengis will retain his health in order that he may come once more the leading spirit of a congregation.

There, in quotations from the Bible and the Talmud you have an outline of the Jewish background, but the entire story of this slender novel. Nathan, with his prismatic ability for selection of details, does more than sketch a picture. He brings in light here, a shadow there, of this complex people across the face of Europe and Asia.

He plays lightly on the difficulty of languages between Jews who do not speak Yiddish. He brings a language of the French, the Russian, and the Polish, with their notions of business, sex, and the respectability of the old and married with elegance in the shadow of exile.

In every episode, every story, incident, there are many things left unwritten—things about which the reader must speculate for himself, remember, situations and references which the Jews know only too well. The story of the leader of the Keretski Rabbi, the death of Mrs. Bielman, and the story of the Gutfried family toward whose husband in exile, for David Wills, the story of the post, are particularly touching. The Rise and Destiny of the German Jew. By Dr. Joseph H. Goldblatt. A study of the gradual rise and present Jewish situation in Germany. The book is not without its weaknesses. Inaccurate. Dr. Marcus, for instance, in enumerating the best-known contemporary writers of German Jewry, includes "Poleksin," "Porter," and "Rudolf". No such writers are known. The book is the story of the rise and development of the Jewish people in Germany from their earliest days, till the present time. It is a careful and accurate study. It is valuable not only be-cause it is a concise and complete narrative of modern Jewish history, but also because it is written in a way that will win the confidence of the ordinary non-Jewish student. Demands Poles Give Stand on Jews

Sejm Member Asks for Steps To Aid Needy

Double-Dealing Charged to Officials by Rosmarin

Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WARSAW.—The Polish government, in the person of Deputy Minister Henryk Rosmarin, speaking in the Sejm yesterday, charged the Poles with trying to act as "deputies of Jews" to tell what it intends to do about the persecution of the Jews.

"We have already appealed you of the grave situation in which the Jewish exploitation is placed and the growing misery among them," Dr. Rosmarin said. "We have shown that in some towns as much as sixty per cent of the Jewish population could not depend on charity.

Crisis Created by Taxes

"This crisis," he said, "has been created especially by the special tax legislation that applied to the French Poles but not to the Jewish Poles. There was a large proportion of the population that was unemployed, and the law restricting trade; the refusal to allow Jews to hold official positions, to be employed in government or municipal offices, and in government-controlled enterprises.

"It is the duty of the deputy charged the Ministry of Interior with failure "to hold the conscience of the em-tire population and to work in cooperation with the government departments of the state to maintain order.

"So far as the Jewish population is concerned," he declared, "this equilibrium has been upset and the Jews are being pushed into bankruptcy and misery." Wanzs Candl Statement

"He called upon the government to make a candid statement explaining what steps it will dedicate the savings of the Jews.

"These steps should be set in accordance with the deci-dation of the Sejm," he said. "The interests of more than 3,000,000 inhabitants of the state cannot be placed outside the interests of the state itself.

"They should be the foundation of the whole state. No one will take measures that suggest that a population of 3,000,000 souls can be shoaled in the wretched political and economic life of the country without shedding the pilsars of the state and undermining the legal and normal relations on which the welfare of the whole of the population depends.

"Asserting he was convinced the Minister of the Interior was in agreement with this view, Dr. Rosmarin continued:

"The Jewish population expects help, will follow up his words with deeds."

Before reaching this conclusion, the Jewish deputy painted a black picture, a highlight of which was the case of the Ministry of the Interior, instead of protecting the Jews, it protected the axis of anti-Semitic, tolerated and encouraged the persecution of the Jews.

"There are certain sections which are, without any resistance whatever, spreading hatred and

NAT WASHER DEAD

In San Antonio at 73

Was Widely Known in Texas as "Grand Old Man" for His Varied Activities

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 8—NAT M. WASHER, "grand old man" of San Antonio, who was widely known throughout Texas for his activity in civic, educational, philanthropic and fraternal circles, is dead here at the age of 73 years.

Mr. Washer was chairman of the local NRA compliance board. For eight years he had been head of the state Board of Education. He was the oldest living past grand master of Texas Masons.

During the World War he was acted one of the four-minute speakers, delivering patriotic addresses.

For years he staged annual Christmas dinner for local newsboys. Rural services were under the joint management of a syndicate of which Mr. Washer was once a member of the board of trustees, and the Masonic order.

Early Data on Jews Is Sought by Canadian Congress in Appeal

(Washington, D.C.)—Montreal, Que.—An appeal has gone forth from the executive council of the Canadian Jewish Congress to the Jews of the country, asking them to help the Canadian Jewish Congress Committee, which wants to collect and preserve every bit of data having historical and cultural value.

The Canadian Jewish Congress Committee is a standing committee of the Canadian Jewish Congress which has been formed to carry out this mission.

The appeal is made through a circular letter under the names of E. W. Jacobs and H. M. C. Chiiaram, president and general secretary respectively, of the Congress; and H. Hershkovitz, H. S. K. Stahl, and E. Abramson, chairman, vice-chairman, and secretary, respectively, of the committee.

We address ourselves to every individual Jew and organization throughout Canada, to every Jewish community, be it large or small, that they must join us in our work," the letter adds.

The secretaries of Jewish institutions of all kinds are requested to send "everything which they have in their possession which is of interest to the history of the Jews in Canada and which they do not wish to throw away."

"We ask them to forward to us all Jewish books, newspapers, periodicals, circulars, pamphlets, and all other material which may in the future be of value,"

All material intended for the collection should be sent to the committee, in care of the Canadian Jewish Congress, 9505 Bloor Street, Montreal.

Reports Polish School Pupils Suffer Hunger
WelfareSituation in Land Is Miserable, Physician Tells JTA

The case of C. W. Rock described the silage and grain feeding, not the feeding of the herd. However, the amount of feed is a factor in the success or failure of the farm. If the feed is not properly balanced, the cows may be undernourished or overfed, which can lead to health problems.

The next step in the production process is the milking of the cows. Milking is done at least twice a day, usually in the morning and evening. The milk is collected in large containers, which are then transported to the dairy for processing.

Once the milk is collected, it is pasteurized to kill any harmful bacteria. Pasteurization is done by heating the milk to a specific temperature and then rapidly cooling it down. This process destroys any harmful bacteria that may be present in the milk.

After pasteurization, the milk is homogenized to break down any fat globules that may have formed during storage. Homogenization improves the shelf life of the milk and makes it easier for people to digest.

The milk is then pasteurized again to ensure that it is free of any harmful bacteria. Finally, the milk is bottled and distributed to stores or delivered to homes.

The whole process takes several hours, during which time the temperature and pH of the milk are closely monitored to ensure that it remains safe for consumption.
