Peace Talks Ended With Revisionists

Executive Rejects Plan for Inter-Party Conference

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

LONDON, March 10.—An announcement that there will be no further peace negotiations between the Zionist Executive and the Revisionists is made today in Haolam, the official organ of the Zionist Executive.

The paper dismisses the proposal made by certain Zionist groups that a round-table conference of representatives of all Zionist parties be convoked. Such a conference, Haolam says, would only lead to another opportunity for the Revisionists to assert their independence.

Plan New Measures

The startling announcement that the Zionist Executive intends to take further measures against the Revisionists in addition to the change in the text of the Shekel, which would not admit the Revisionists to the World Zionist Congress, is also made by Haolam.

"The change made in the text of the Shekel is not the last step for preserving the discipline in the Zionist Organization. The Executive will submit further proposals," the article states.

Haolam points out that despite the breakdown in the peace negotiations between the Zionist Executive and the Revisionists, the three agreements already reached between the contending factions will remain in force. These agreements bar violence in the internal struggle, provide for coordination of labor employment in Palestine and prohibit campaigning by the Revisionists against the Keren Hayesod and the Jewish National Fund.

Start Firm to Build Homes for Workers

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, March 10.—A company to build workers' houses in the Palestine Jewish colonies has been established here with a capital of $250,000.

The Workers Bank, the Jewish Agency and the NIR, the Workers Cooperative, are participating in the company, which is controlled by the Palestine labor organizations.

Sightseeing Tour of City to Mark Day Nonagenarian Found Sight

Tomorrow, Jacob Lieberman, the only "sighted" resident in the Yonkers Home of the New York Guild for the Jewish Blind, will be "man-about-town-for-a-day." It will be a day of triple significance for him; for tomorrow Lieberman will celebrate his ninetieth birthday, the third anniversary of the recovery of his eyesight after 20 years of blindness, and, while he is in the spirit, will observe the

Agency Closes School That Didn't Pay Debt

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, March 10.—One hundred Jewish school children were left school-less today when the Jewish Agency closed down the only elementary school in Kfar Saba, a Jewish colony in the Sharon district.

The school was closed by the Executive of the Jewish Agency because the colony did not pay in time its instalments towards the educational budget.

Notes 40% Rise in Relief Needs For Brooklyn

Drive Chairman Reports Corresponding Drop in 5-Year Income

Brooklyn's need for private Jewish philanthropy has increased forty per cent in the last five years, while the income of the Jewish social service agencies in that borough has decreased by approximately the same percentage.

Announcement of these figures, and others, revealed in a special survey he has conducted, is being made today by Walter N. Rothschild, Spring campaign chairman in the drive of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities for $543,500. Mr. Rothschild made his survey preparatory to the 1935 Spring campaign which will open with a dinner at the Hotel St. George the evening of Thursday, March 21.

Survey Needs for Year

Compiled in pamphlet form, the survey shows the needs of the Brooklyn Jewish Federation's twenty-five constituent agencies and gives figures on the amount of service they rendered in 1934.

In a special appeal to these workers, Mr. Rothschild asked that every effort be made this year "to broaden Federation's base by securing contributions from more individuals in both Manhattan and Brooklyn, and by insisting that those who have given to the Federation in other years must increase their gifts this year."

"We must ask contributors to give on the basis of need," he declared. "Caseload figures of our twenty-five agencies in 1934, as compared with 1929, illustrate the increased need in Brooklyn. Our family welfare agencies, the United Jewish Aid Societies, had a total caseload of 6,346 families in 1934, an increase of 43.1 per cent as

Ten Million To Be Raised By Palestine

Loan to Be Used to Spur Development of Country

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, March 10.—The Palestine government has decided to raise a ten million dollar loan to be spent for development of the country, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learned today from a reliable source.

The loan will be placed partly in London and partly in Palestine. No specific details with regard to how the loan is to be spent will be made known for some time.

The loan, it is understood, will be guaranteed in part by the surplus which the Palestine government now has. This surplus is a result of the import and export activity which is first and foremost a product of the needs of the Jewish population. The surplus is also due to the influx of Jewish capital and Jewish labor, which is influencing the increasing economic capacity of the country.

City Merchants Call Rent Strike

To Be Joined Wednesday by Artisans, Laborers in Jerusalem

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, March 10.—Merchants, artisans and laborers in Jerusalem will join in a general strike on Wednesday as protest against the high rentals in the city, it was announced today.

The strikers, who comprise practically the entire Jerusalem population, demand that the government regulate the rentals in such a way that landlords will not be permitted to speculate for higher rentals. A reduction in the present rents is also demanded by the strikers.

An ultimatum was given today to Dr. Hussein Khalidi, mayor of Jerusalem, and to Major Campbell, district commissioner for Palestine government, demanding they institute rent regulation in the city not later than Tuesday. A mass meeting was called today of all tenants in the city for Tuesday evening, at which Wednesday's general strike will be officially proclaimed.

Swedish Prince Lauds Palestine

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

STOCKHOLM, March 10.—"The pioneering activities of the Jews in Palestine made a deep impression on me during my present visit to Palestine," the Swedish Crown Prince said today, receiving Chief Rabbi Ehrenpreis of Stockholm.

The prince spoke to the chief rabbi of the reception which he was given by the Jews in Tel Aviv and of his views of the Jewish colonies. The Jews have developed tremendously under difficult circumstances, the prince said.

$2,000 Bail Frees 4 Hunger Strikers

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, March 10.—Four Jewish hunger strikers in the Jerusalem jail were released today on $2,000 bail posted by an anonymous person.

Meanwhile there are still fifty Jewish prisoners in the Acre jail waiting to be released on bail. They are held on charges of illegal entry. As a result of their recent four-day hunger strike, they were to be released on 500 dollars bail each. The bail, however, has not been raised as yet.

Nazi Handbills Openly Spread In Jerusalem

Printed in English and Arabic, They Urge Boycott of Jews

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM, March 10.—Nazis today for the first time distributed anti-Jewish leaflets in Arabic and English through the streets of Jerusalem, calling for a boycott of Jewish trade.

"Every cent which goes into a Jewish pocket is a nail in the coffin of an Arab," the Nazi leaflets stated.

The Palestine government, it is expected, will start an investigation into the origin of these leaflets.

While the Nazis were calling upon the Arabs to boycott Jewish business, the Arab Association of Orange Planters in the Gaza district today joined hands with the Jewish Farmers Association in protesting against the Palestine government's plan to introduce a special high tax for new orange groves, in order to discourage the cultivation of new plantations.

In a memorandum which the Arab planters of the Gaza district submitted today to the High Commissioner of Palestine, they declared that the introduction of the contemplated tax is unjustified and will injure the welfare of the country.

The aim of the Palestine government in introducing a special tax on new orange groves is to prevent a crisis in the citrus industry in Palestine. The authorities here believe that the citrus industry has reached its highest point and should not be developed any further, since the market for Palestine oranges abroad is very limited.

Holland Acts To Protect Reich Exiles

Issues Special Identity Cards; Expects New Influx of Refugees

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

AMSTERDAM, March 10.—Special identity certificates similar to regular passports were introduced today by the Foreign Ministry in Holland for Jewish and other refugees from Germany.

The innovation was made in an effort of the Dutch government to assist the German refugees domiciled in Holland. The identity cards will be issued only to such refugees as have resided in the country not less than eighteen months.

3,000 Refugees There

The number of German Jewish refugees in Holland is estimated at about 3,000. This number is just one half of the total of Jewish refugees from Germany who were registered in Holland a year ago. Many of the refugees have since left for France and Belgium. A number of them returned to Germany.

In view of the new drive which the Nazis in Germany started against German-Jewish refugees who returned to the Reich, it is expected here that within the next few weeks there will be a new flood of Jewish refugees from Germany. The Amsterdam Jewish Committee to help the refugees is now negotiating with the Paris office of the Joint Distribution Committee for special funds to assist the expected newcomers.

Reich Enforces New Measures Against Jews

In a cable from its Berlin correspondent the New York Times reports that the speeches by Dr. Schacht and Dr. Lippert, urging moderation in the anti-Jewish policy of the government are only strategic means to cover up a new drive which the Nazis have started against the Jews.

In addition to arresting Jewish

Kin to Contest Will of Widow Leaving Fortune to Rabbi Kook

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

WARSAW, March 10.—An interesting case of a Jewish woman leaving her entire fortune to Rabbi I. Hachon Kook, Chief Rabbi of Palestine, is now attracting wide attention in Poland.

The woman, widow of a well-known Warsaw Jewish philanthropist, Mendel Peretz, had been residing in Palestine for the last two years. In her will she stated definately that all her capital should be transferred to Rabbi Kook and that nothing was to be given to her children or other relatives.

The widow's relatives today applied to the British consul in Warsaw for a visa to proceed to Warsaw in order to contest her will. They have also appealed to the Warsaw rabbinate to intercede with Rabbi Kook not to accept the fortune.

Merger of Reich Jewish Groups

By A Correspondent

BERLIN.

Much gratification is being expressed here at the successful conclusion of negotiations leading to incorporation within the Reichsvertretung der Deutschen Juden of the manifold activities of the Central Committee of German Jews. This merger puts direction and accomplishment of the many relief, reconstruction and rehabilitation projects undertaken by German Jewry since the advent of the Hitler regime into the hands of a single united and responsible agency. The merger will go into effect April 1. Certain aid and constructive work activities will not be incorporated within the Reichsvertretung, but will, however, be closely linked up with the major organization's activities.

Under the terms of the agreement reached by the organization committee of the Reichsvertretung, the activities of the Central Office for Jewish Immigrant Welfare, the Jewish Labor Aid Organization (which is developing the agricultural settlement at Neuen-dorf), the Central Office for Jewish Economic Aid and the Central Welfare Office for German Jews will become component parts of the Reichsvertretung.

Commenting on this important development in the struggle of German Jewry to reorganize its existence along the lines made necessary by prevailing conditions in Germany, Dr. Alfred Hirschberg, editor of the C. V. Zeitung, official organ of the Central Union of German Citizens of the Jewish Faith, finds that the moral and actual responsibility of the Reichsvertretung will be enhanced and predicts elimination of the unavoidable collisions between Jewish organizations.

"It is an astonishing fact," he declares in a recent edition of the C. V. Zeitung, "that almost eighteen months had to pass before it was possible to carry out this obvious concentration of effort."

"But those who know how difficult it is to bring independent institutions to voluntarily surrender their own existence, will not deny the wise and energetic work of the Reichsvertretung. Those who work in the big Jewish organizations, and above all in the Central Union, know by their travels in town with what lack of understanding the participating Jewish quarters regarded the unavoidable collisions between the names of the Jewish institutions in Berlin.

"Even now the connection of the constructive work is not absolutely clear. What has now to be done is mainly a question of the energy of the leadership, than of the goodwill of the independent institutions. We consider what has now been achieved a further step in concentrating the leadership in the hands of the Reichsvertretung. It seems to us to be in conflict with

Jewish Radio on Test

The much-criticized Jewish "radio hours" broadcast from radio stations in New York and Brooklyn have now attracted the attention of the Federal Commission for Communications, and a thorough study is now being made by this commission of the programs of certain stations.

It is difficult to say what the outcome of this study will be. One thing is certain: interested in keeping the air clean, the Federal Commission will have to definitely insist that the Jewish radio hours actually represent Jewish culture and are not merely utilized for commercial purposes.

A Low Standard

Jewish leaders in New York have long been dissatisfied with the programs broadcast by the majority of radio stations. A number of stations, anxious to attract more air advertisements from Jewish firms have totally disregarded the interests of the Jewish community as a whole and have indulged in broadcasting the cheapest and most vulgar of Jewish programs, which have very little to do with Jews except that they were given in the Jewish language.

The standards of the Jewish radio hours on some stations were so low that they provoked indignation among the average cultured American Jew. Instead of bringing out the best that the Jews have in music, theatre and contemporary art, these stations stooped to including jokes with double meaning, to exploiting children on the microphone, to bringing before the microphone "Jewish stars" of whom nobody had ever heard.

The Federal Probe

All this was not only detrimental to Jewish interests because of the doubtful educational value of the so-called "programs," but also because it gave to the world a false impression of the actual Jewish cultural standard. Any non-Jewish listener to such a Jewish radio hour had the full right to form the opinion that the Jews may be a people of anything but culture.

The investigation by the Federal Commission for Communication into certain stations will, therefore, be welcomed by all those Jews who are interested in seeing that Jewish culture is not misrepresented. An expert inquiry into the Jewish programs broadcast from New York and Brooklyn can only be hailed by all Jewish leaders.

The regulations for operating a radio station provide definitely that the programs broadcast do not contain filth. This is exactly what the Jews of the United States demand also from those radio stations which are engaged in broadcasting Jewish programs.

A number of stations in New York do live up to the required standard. It is, however, to be regretted that this cannot be said of all stations.

Higher Level Wanted

There is no censorship in the United States and it is certainly not our intention to ask for such. But the standard of Jewish broadcasting has been too much degraded. It is only logical to expect that the Federal Commission take into consideration the resentment which exists in certain Jewish circles against the misuse of Jewish programs.

The Federal Commission for Communications is the only institution which can compel the radio stations to keep their Jewish hours on a higher cultural level.

Contends Abraham Was Hebrew, Not Jew

The assertion that Abraham was not a Jew is made in the London Daily Mail. The paper argues as follows:

The Jewish nation did not exist in the time of Abraham, who was a Hebrew.

Judah gave his name to the race—and Judah was a great-grandson of Abraham, from whom the Ishmaelites, for example, were also descended.

Neither was Moses a Jew, but one of the tribe of Levi, and the name Jew is not used in the Scriptures until a period is reached many years after the division of the people into the two kingdoms of Israel and Judah.

Why Reich Envoy Was Recalled

The Catholic Herald reports the following incident from Rumania:

The German minister in Bucharest, Herr von Dehn-Schmidt, who presented his credentials only last November, has been suddenly recalled. In diplomatic quarters it is believed that he is having differences with the Nazi party.

Herr von Dehn-Schmidt is a Catholic, and two months ago the Sturmer, Herr Julius Streicher's anti-Jewish organ, reported that he had been seen kissing the ring of the Archbishop of Dublin. He was previously minister to the Irish Free State.

Scot Paper Decries Prejudice in England

Under the title "Jew-Baiting," the Edinburgh Evening Dispatch carries the following editorial:

Jew-baiting in a British Dominion is something new and surprising. The outrage is on a small scale and apparently confined to one area, but practices of that sort, once begun and tolerated, might spread, for there are always violent and hare-brained persons enough in any community to stir up strife if common sense and authority do not intervene.

This new phenomenon has broken out in the Victorian elections, and the victim of the propaganda is the retiring member of a Melbourne constituency. Suddenly, from some unknown source, unsigned handbills have been scattered over the constituency calling upon electors not to trust, trade with, or buy from Jews. Whether the movement is religious or political is not yet clear. The appeal to join the "Christian Gentiles League and keep the world from oppression and depression" is no clue. The rankest revolutionist, like the devil, may disguise himself in the cloak of religion.

Prevent Arabs From Disposing Of Beisan Land

Government's Stand on Old Issue Kills Hope of Sale to Jews

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)
JERUSALEM. — Jewish hopes ever to acquire land in the Beisan area came to an end with the announced definite attitude of the Palestine government making it impossible for the Arab settlers to transfer their land to Jews.

The Beisan area and the Huleh basin were the two most important government lands in Palestine at the time the mandate was given. The Beisan area was settled in accordance with the terms of the Mudawwara Agreement of 1921 with the Arabs already in occupation. In Jewish quarters the arrangement has been vigorously denounced. Dr. Weizmann, speaking at the Fourteenth Zionist Congress said that the Beisan land amounting to 600,000 dunam had been largely allocated. It was not just, he said, it was done without consideration of the Jewish interests.

The question of the Beisan lands was dealt with by Sir John Hope Simpson in his report in 1930, to the Palestine White Paper of 1930 based on the Simpson Report.

Sir John Hope Simpson proceeds to deal with an area "which has unfortunately passed from ownership of the Government," the inclusion being to the Beisan lands, which form the subject of an agreement concluded by the Palestine government with the local Arabs in November, 1921.

It is pointed out that the "grant of the lands has led us to provide the Arabs with a holding sufficient to maintain a decent standard of life, and not to provide them with areas of land with which to speculate." These transactions, we are told, have "taken from the government the control of a large area of fertile land, eminently suitable for development and for which there is ample water available for irrigation."

Referring to the disappointment felt by the Jews at the government's failure to implement the relevant provisions of Article 6 of the Mandate, Sir John Hope Simpson observed that "had different action been taken in the case of the Huleh Basin and the Beisan lands, doubtless some portion of the demand could have been met."

CRITICAL STORM CENTER AGAIN

The latest work of Jacob Epstein, New York born Jewish sculptor, a huge statue of Christ called by him "Behold the Man," has precipitated a critical furor in London of such proportions that it will be aired in the House of Commons today. Above, the sculptor, to whom both the abuse and approbation of critics is nothing new, is shown standing beside a clay model of his bust of Albert Einstein. His new sculpture, which went on display Friday, is priced by Mr. Epstein at $15,000.

Spirit of Tolerance in France Nullifies Bias, Says Bodenheimer

By HENRY W. LEVY

Although there is a very pronounced anti-Semitic propaganda in France, Henri Bodenheimer, one of the leading French-Jewish leaders, believes that French Jewry has nothing to fear. Bodenheimer, president of the World Ort organization, here on a brief visit, believes in the essential spirit of equality and tolerance of the French people and government.

"The Nazis," he said, "are conducting an intensive propaganda campaign in France. They are spending large sums of money in an effort to induce some of the weaker French newspapers to take anti-Jewish stands. Undoubtedly, their campaign is in part successful. Anti-Jewish propaganda is noticeable and it can be traced to the Nazis.

"But in the long run I don't think they will achieve any great success; that French Jewry is in danger of any great wave of anti-Semitism. Nevertheless, we must keep our eyes open. We must do our utmost to defeat and counteract Nazi propaganda."

Explains Faith

After explaining that a lot of what seems to be anti-Semitic in character is really anti-alien and based upon the unemployment of one million Frenchmen, Mr. Bodenheimer explained his reasons for his belief in France's essential good-will to the Jews.

"It must be remembered," he said, "that France emancipated its Jews 150 years ago, that it took Jews out of the ghetto, gave them the same rights as all other citizens at a time when this was rare in Europe.

"France had an attack of anti-Semitism forty-five years ago, the Dreyfuss incident. Though that was a vicious manifestation, and no great credit to any country, I think that only in France was an eventual vindication for Dreyfuss possible. Since then, we have heard nothing of anti-Semitism. France has learned its lesson; it will not unthinkingly swallow propaganda."

Conversing with Mr. Bodenheimer

at his suite in the Hotel St. Regis, he didn't introduce the subject of anti-Semitism in France. That was the reporter's doing; if it were up to the visitor, the subject would never have been brought up.

The short-gray-haired man, who can neither be described as stocky or pudgy—but something in between the two—just didn't think French anti-Semitism a subject for discussion. Not believing it possible, he scarcely realized the concern that cabled reports from Paris had engendered among leading Jews here.

He was more disposed to discuss the work of ORT, the organization which he heads and the American branch of which had just tendered him a reception.

Mr. Bodenheimer described the purposes of the ORT, namely: to reorientate uprooted Jewish professionals for artisan careers and the preparation of under-privileged and persecuted Jews for a new life, sometimes in foreign countries, in which they can lift themselves above the ignorant peasantry.

Aids Bureya Project

Although not precisely a colonization organization, ORT, he pointed out, is closely allied with organized movements of Jews. A Biro-Bidjan colonization project, involving 20,000 to 25,000 families, is now being negotiated with the Soviet government, he stated. Dr. David Lwowitch, an ORT executive, he said, is now in Moscow making arrangements for the guarantee by the Soviet government, as to principal and interest, of a million dollar loan that is needed to finance the plan.

ORT in all, he revealed, has a hand in the development of 119 colonies involving 4,665 families. The organization also conducts vocational schools and factories. A total of 409 students are being vocationally trained as carpenters, painters, mechanics, blacksmiths, etc., in 11 schools and 6,800 workers are employed in eighty-seven factories.

The problem of ORT, Mr. Bodenheimer pointed out, has been complicated by the problem of German-Jewish refugees. It is for them, as well as for disenfranchised Polish and Rumanian Jews, that the Biro-Bidjan project is being developed.

"With so many people uprooted," he said, "the problem of ORT is to help people to once again become self-sustaining. This," he very pointedly stated, "is more human than charity. Charity humiliates. We have to help the refugees find themselves so they live later without charity."

Regarding amelioration of the problems of German-Jewish refugees, the visitor made a plea for the necessity of cooperation among the various relief organizations.

Deplores Duplication

"Each organization," he said, "has a job of its own. I wouldn't be stupid enough to criticize any one of them. But there is sometimes in France, as here, too, undoubtedly, a duplication or multiplication of effort. There should be some way of unifying our work. For in unity the best results can be achieved."

Mr. Bodenheimer described himself as a Zionist. He said: "I believe in Palestine. It is a very good thing. But Palestine is not big enough for all the Jews needful of a new home."

Recalling the Arab riots of 1929, Mr. Bodenheimer said the number that can possibly be admitted to Palestine is "limited."

After expressing this point of view, he was careful to emphasize that the ORT is not opposed to Zionism.

Supplements Zionist Work

"The ORT," he said, "supplements the work of the Zionists. We prepare men—as they say in Palestine—to be good chalutzim. Whether they go to Palestine or elsewhere is unimportant, that is if they are settled under happier circumstances than under which they lived.

"Both the Zionist Organization and ORT have a reason for existence. No one should consider them as opponents."

As a Jew, Mr. Bodenheimer is a nationalist, not an internationalist. All his philosophy, he revealed, is predicated upon his French citizenship.

'Also a Frenchman'

"I am a Jew," said this man who has lived in France forty-seven years though he was born under the German flag in Baden, "but also a Frenchman. A French Jew knows only French politics. I would never do anything opposed to French policy. The country in which I live must always come first. But I am a Jew, even though a Frenchman. My two allegiances have never conflicted. There is no reason why they should."

Mr. Bodenheimer who came to this country two weeks ago will leave on the Isle de France March 23.

A banker and produce merchant, Mr. Bodenheimer is, besides being leader of the ORT, a member of the French Consistory, on the board of directors of the Jewish Seminary in France and a member of the Jewish Charity Committee of Paris.

Warn Political Shift in Hungary Menaces Jews

Vienna Leaders Are Concerned Over Growth of Nazi Sway

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

VIENNA, March 10.—That Hungarian Jewry is heading for trouble in connection with the growth of Nazi influence in Hungary is the opinion expressed here today by Austrian Jewish observers.

Jewish leaders here are very much perturbed by the fact that the political changes in Hungary will add strength to the Nazis in Germany. This they fear will also affect the Jewish situation in Austria.

The Stimme, official organ of the Zionist Organization in Austria, today predicts serious times for the Jews in Hungary. The paper emphasizes the fact that Hungary will join the countries like Germany, the Saar and Danzig, where Jews are being persecuted.

"Renewed efforts should be made by Jewish leaders in London and in Geneva for opening Palestine and Transjordan for Jewish immigration," the paper writes. "In view of the gravity of the Jewish situation in Europe, the differences now in the ranks of the Zionist party are simply criminal," the Zionist organ declared.

Nablus Not to Get Syrian Factories

Textile Men Change Plans Because City Has No Electric Plant

(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)

JERUSALEM.—The fact that Nablus is still without electricity has caused Syrian manufacturers to reverse their previous decision to establish factories there, it is reported by Al Islamia, Arab publication.

Manufacturers of textiles and sweets had decided to transfer their business to Nablus because of the cheap labor available. But as their machines require electric power, the move is impossible, it is said.

Although Nablus residents have long demanded that the Palestine Electric Corporation should be asked to electrify the town, the Municipality has not seen its way to accede to the demand.

Magazine Reviews History of Nazi Anti-Jewish Drive in U. S.

A review of the anti-Semitic activities of the Nazis in America is given by George Seldes in the current issue of Today, weekly publication, of which Prof. Raymond Moley is editor.

Mr. Seldes, in an article on "Hitlerism Marches in America," asserts that the Friends of New Germany and the Silver Shirts are crumbling, but the anti-American and anti-Semitic spirit which they raised is still abroad in the land.

"Today," Mr. Seldes writes, "published the history, platform and functions of various American Nazi, anti-Semitic and Fascist organizations, notably the Silver Shirts, whose policy of race hatred was exposed nationally for the first time.

Cites House Probe

Then came the Congressional investigation. Evidence and testimony revealed:

"That the American branch of the Stahlhelm in German army uniforms, equipped with rifles obtained from the New York National Guard, which Nazis had joined, drilled openly, under orders of German officers.

compared with 1929. The individuals in the families on this one agency's total caseload in 1934 numbered approximately 27,000. But this agency's income in 1934 was decreased by more than forty per cent as compared with 1929.

Allotments Cut

"All of our agencies have suffered similarly. Allotments have had to be reduced year by year, while the general need multiplied rapidly. In 1934, the East New York Dispensary and the outpatient departments of the Brooklyn Jewish Hospital and Beth Moses Hospital treated a total of 77,338 patients, aggregating 262,947 visits. The greatest portion of this service was free. The two hospitals reported a total of 228,256 patients, of whom more than fifty per cent were ward cases. The hospitals reported a total of 228,256 hospital days of service rendered in 1934.

"Statistics of this kind can be cited for all our other agencies. Juvenile delinquency is a greater problem in Brooklyn than it is in Manhattan. Our Jewish educational institutions receive no tuition from more than thirty-five per cent of their pupils, while more than fifty per cent of the pupils in these schools can pay only part of the very nominal tuition fees.

"Our first Hebrew Day Nursery had an aggregate attendance for 1934 of 11,957 children. Situated in Williamsburgh, this nursery has been forced to reject hundreds of applicants for service or class enrollment simply because it has never had nearly the amount of money needed for the extension of its services."

Indianapolis Fund Head Succeeds J. A. Goodman

Through an error it was reported in the Jewish Daily Bulletin of March 6 that Joseph M. Bloch, who has been elected president of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Indianapolis, succeeds Dr. Harry A. Jacobs. Mr. Bloch succeeds J. A. Goodman, and not Dr. Jacobs, who is president of the Jewish Federation, the parent organization of the Welfare Fund.

Sylvia Sapira, young American pianist, will present a Bach-Bethoven program on Sunday evening, March 24, at 8:30 at the New York Auditorium.

"(Testimony of Stahlhelm Commander Frank Mutchinski).

"That Consul General Kiep paid $4,000 for the dissemination of publicity for Germany; that Carl Byoir and Associates received that money and later contracted for $6,000 a month to spread propaganda for a German tourist bureau.

"That a minor German official was the financial backer of a German propaganda pamphlet; that a letter from the Rev. Francis Gross, retired Hungarian priest, contained the expression that 'repercussions and sensation in the American and world press might even cause the recall of Dr. Luther' if his correspondence with Luther became public.

"(Ambassador Luther denied sponsoring the pamphlet).

Hitler's Plans

"That Hitler planned to win to the Nazi cause all the Germans in the world, especially those in the United States; that he stopped activities in America after protestations by Ambassador Dodd.

"That shipments of Nazi propaganda were made on German liners."

Holland Acts To Protect Exiles

emigres returning to Germany, as exclusively reported last week by the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, the following measures have been taken in the Reich, according to the Times:

Bar Advice to Return

All propaganda urging German Jews to remain in Germany, including advice to former non-Zionist Jewish organizations and to bewildered Jewish youth, has been prohibited by the secret police. Meetings in which advice was offered have been broken up by the police, and even some arrests have been reported. For this reason the "Day of Jewish Youth," which was to unite all German Jewish youth organizations in Berlin March 10 and 11, has been indefinitely postponed.

Orders have gone out and even been published in the press by the less reticent Nazi administrators, instructing the police to discourage all work designed to train Jewish youth—that is, they are barred from academic careers, from making a living on farms and from manual crafts—unless such training is expressly designed to promote emigration to Palestine.

German Jews have been forbidden to display the German flag. This order was lifted the day of the Saar festival, but immediately reimposed the following day.

The nature of these measures seems to indicate that the main purpose is to increase the pressure on Jews in order to drive them out of Germany.
