30,000 JEWISH TRAVELING SALESMEN TO LOSE REICH PERMITS JAN. 1

BERLIN, Dec. 25. (JTA) -- Between 30,000 and 40,000 Jews will be deprived of their livelihood on January 1, it was learned today, as a result of drastic instructions unostentatiously issued on Christmas Eve in the form of an administrative order to the police by Minister of the Interior Wilhelm Frick.

The order instructs the police not to renew the permits of Jewish traveling salesmen for the coming year. Without these permits, salesmen are not allowed to solicit orders in any district other than that in which the firm by which they are employed is located.

The order was issued on the grounds that "Jews are no longer politically reliable." It charges that Jewish drummers are a grave danger for the Reich since they constitute an element which is likely to spread atrocity stories.

So grave are the consequences of the order that Jewish leaders today, despite the fact that it is Christmas, appealed directly to Reich Minister of Economics Dr. Hjalmar Schacht for immediate action.

Dr. Schacht, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency is informed, is prepared to act promptly against this unwarranted molestation of Jews in the field of commerce. Although there has long been the threat of anti-Jewish regulation in commerce, no legislation in that province has yet been passed.

Should the instructions to the police not be rescinded, it is estimated by Jewish leaders that 10,000 Jewish families in Berlin alone will be left without a means of livelihood. The total number of Jews engaged as traveling salesmen in Germany, between 30,000 and 40,000 exceeds the combined total of those in all the professions.

NOT FOR PUBLICATION - FOR PERSONAL USE ONLY

In addition to the measure affecting the salesmen, the order provides that no licenses are to be issued to Jewish manufacturers to travel for the purpose of selling their own goods, because they also are allegedly likely to spread propaganda detrimental to the interests of the Reich.

Another Ministry of the Interior order instructs the Reichsbank and the German railways system to purge themselves of Jewish employes before the first of the year. Only a small number of war veterans and experts, who are still employed in these branches of the Government service, are affected by the order.

REVISIONIST RANKS HERE SPLIT

NEW YORK, Dec. 25. (JTA) -- A split in the ranks of the right-wing Zionists in which William B. Ziff, president of the Zionist Revisionist Organization of America, resigned and formed a new organization, was revealed today.

The new group, known as the State Zionist Organization, was formed, according to its statement, at a general meeting Dec. 15, at which Mr. Ziff, chairman of its executive board, outlined a program of 23 points demanding economic and political changes in Palestine looking toward creation of a Jewish state.

Both organizations claim affiliation with the New Zionist Organization, which was formed at Vienna in September from the right-wing elements dissatisfied with the World Zionist Organization.

A spokesman for the Zionist Revisionist Organization admitted that factional differences were behind the split, but discounted the importance of the new organization. He said the differences were personal and ideological, the latter being that the new organization was more extreme. He refused to be quoted on the nature of the personal differences.

With the resignation of Mr. Ziff, Benish Epstein-vice president, became acting president of the Revisionists, Mordecai Danzig was named chairman of the central executive committee to succeed Elias Ginsburg, who resigned last June and subsequently left for Palestine.

The following are the listed officers of the State Zionist Organization besides Mr. Ziff: Dr. L. Shandall, treasurer; Behjamin Richek, secretary; Daniel Gorelik, Franz J. Katz, Charles Borkon, B. Rabinowitz and L. Y. Boston, members of the executive board.
