SABBATH QUIET IN PALESTINE; GAY CROWDS THROUG CITY STREETS

JERUSALEM, May 10. (JTA) -- With the exception of a bombing in Tiberias, which did no damage, quiet prevailed throughout Palestine on Saturday.

For the first time since the disorders broke out three weeks ago, crowds that thronged the streets and cafes of Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv appeared gay and carefree. The beaches along the Tel Aviv sea shore were crowded with bathers.

Trial of Hassan Sidky el Dajany, Arab strike leader, on charges of incitement to rebellion arising from signing a manifesto urging non-payment of taxes, was concluded, with the verdict indefinitely postponed. Both Dajany and Salakh Abdou, who was arrested on a similar charge, meanwhile are free without bail.

PALESTINE FAILS TO CONFIRM CAIRO REPORTS ON TROOP MOVEMENTS

JERUSALEM, May 10. (JTA) -- Government confirmation of reports that troops have been flown by plane from Egypt to reinforce the British forces here could not be obtained yesterday.

An official of the Government press office said he was "unable to confirm the report on the Cairo troop movement," adding that he believed troops have not yet been brought over, but are ready in case of necessity.

TROOPS BEING SENT BY TRAIN FROM CAIRO, LONDON HEARS

LONDON, May 10. (JTA) -- Troops are being sent from Egypt to Palestine by train, it was reported yesterday by the diplomatic correspondent of the London Times.

An official broadcast last night announced that reinforcements have been sent from Egypt on request of the High Commissioner for Palestine, Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope.

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE THREAT SEEN AS "THEATRICAL"

LONDON, May 10. (JTA) -- The Arab Strike Committee's decision to institute civil disobedience is regarded in Jerusalem circles as "more theatrically defiant than serious," the Jerusalem correspondent of the London Times writes today.

The correspondent sees as "mere dangerous" the strike committee's decision to dispatch agents throughout Palestine in order to strengthen popular resentment against Jews.

FILDERMAN LISTS ANTI-JEWISH DISCRIMINATION IN RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, May 10. (JTA) -- Despite official declarations to the contrary, the Jewish position in Rumania is growing worse, it was indicated today in an interview with Dr. William Filderman, president of the Union of Rumanian Jews.

Discriminations against Jews, of recent occurrence, were listed by Dr. Filderman as follows:

First year students of the Bucharest University's medical school are not permitted by Cuzists to attend lectures.

A similar situation exists at the agricultural school of Kishineff University.

Jews are no longer being taken on as apprentices by non-Jewish attorneys.

While the State has increased budget allocations to religious communities by forty million leis, the usual allocation of seven millions to Jews first was annulled and then restored with six millions slashed off.

Jewish children are excluded from membership in the scout movement.

Jews are being attacked daily in the Bacau district without police intervention.

Jewish school boys are insulted and maltreated in the military training centers at Czernowitz.

"While the Nazi press attacks us continually," Dr. Filderman concluded, "our press is strictly censored. We are not allowed to reproduce memorandums sent to the Government, report actual occurrences or even reproduce the texts of articles in the anti-Semitic press. The Nazis thus enjoy full liberty to attack us, while we do not have the right even to report these attacks."

VIENNA, May 10. (JTA) -- Dr. Sigmund Freud, whose eightieth birthday is being widely celebrated, was yesterday placed in the company of Nietzsche and Schopenhauer by Thomas Mann, famous novelist, at a festival here in honor of the founder of psychoanalysis.

Referring to Freud as "a man of heroic stature, related to Nietzsche and Schopenhauer," Mr. Mann laid special emphasis on the connection between literature and psychology.

He praised Freud for his pioneer work in the curing of human souls, introducing a new humanism and freeing humanity from the influence of subconscious hatred.

JEWISH BODIES IN ENGLAND PLAN PARLEY ON WORLD CONGRESS

LONDON, May 10. (JTA) -- Supporters of the World Jewish Congress movement in England were planning today the convocation of a national conference of Anglo-Jewish organizations to act with regard to Anglo-Jewish participation in the Congress, which opens at Geneva on August 8.

The Board of Deputies of British Jews, the Anglo-Jewish representative body, has declined an invitation to participate in the Congress. Supporters of the Congress, therefore, want a national conference which could elect the representatives of this country to the Geneva meeting.

A committee is now being formed, it is understood, in whose name invitations will go out to all Jewish organizations in the country to send delegates to a conference to be held in London. The conference will be asked to approve participation by British Jewry in the world Jewish Congress and to elect representatives to it.

GOTTHEIL MEDAL AWARDED TO MCDONALD AT SYRACUSE

SYRACUSE, May 10. (JTA) -- The Gottheil medal for distinguished service to Jewry was awarded last night by Zeta Beta Tau to James G. McDonald, former High Commissioner for Refugees from Germany, at a dinner in honor of the Jewish fraternity's founders.

The Gottheil Medal is awarded annually to the American who in the year preceding the award has done the most for Jewry. Previous recipients include Rev. Everett R. Clinchy, Father J. Elliot Rose, the late Julius Rosenwald, Felix Warburg, Governor Herbert Lehman and Dr. Stephen S. Wise.

Acceptance for Mr. McDonald, who was unable to attend, was made by Dean K. C. Leebick of Syracuse University. Presentation of the medal was made by Harold Riegelman, New York attorney.

An attack on the authoritarian state, coupled with a caution that Democracy, if it is to continue, must launch an offensive against tyranny, featured Mr. McDonald's address of acceptance.

"The authoritarian state, with its doctrine of totalitarianism based on the conception of blood and soil," he declared, "attacks not merely a single group or class; it is the uncompromising enemy of every group or individual who either cannot or will not fit into the pattern arbitrarily prescribed by the rulers. The most numerous victims are the Jews, but there are also tens of thousands of Protestants and Catholics who, having dared to follow their conscience rather than the dictation of party leaders, now suffer a similar fate.

"These martyrs for freedom of the spirit - silenced, imprisoned, exiled - are fighting more than their own battles. They are fighting yours and mine. The defeat of the principles of religious and political liberty in one country weakens these principles everywhere. The doctrine of the absolute supremacy of the state is quickly seized upon by interested groups elsewhere as a basis for attempts to regiment public opinion in their own countries. We are not immune to this danger here.

"If we are to be worthy of our American democratic heritage, it will not be enough for us to attack tyranny in other lands. Nor will it be sufficient for us to criticize those Americans who are preaching the doctrine of subordination of the individual to the state. Democracy dare not remain on the defensive. It must launch its own offensive. It must reinterpret its ideals and formulate them anew in terms that have vital meaning for the people. Then will democracy be enabled to make a stirring appeal to the spirit of adventure and idealism of American youth. Only through the re-discovery of the meaning of freedom of the individual can that freedom be made secure."
