U.S. WILL STUDY ISRAEL'S PROPOSAL ON JERUSALEM, AMERICAN DELEGATE TO U.N. DECLARES

LAKE SUCCESS, June 4; (JTA) -- Israel's proposal to create a U.N. authority to protect and control the Holy Places in Jerusalem will be "carefully studied" by the United States, Francis B. Sayre, American delegate to the United Nations Trusteeship Council, declared here yesterday.

In a radio broadcast, Mr. Sayre said that the Israel plan is "an interesting proposal which merits full consideration." He added that the United States would be interested in "any further views which Jordan may express." He said that the "really essential element in the problem of Jerusalem is to reach some solution which will win the agreement and support of the major interested parties--Israel, Jordan and the international community."

On Friday the U.N. Trusteeship Council decided to postpone its discussion of Jerusalem until June 12. Earlier, Roger Garreau, president of the Trusteeship Council, praised the "understanding and benevolent attitude" of Israel in its relations with the Council in connection with the Jerusalem problem, and described the new Israel proposal for internationalization of Jerusalem's Holy Places as "a considerable advance toward a settlement of the various aspects of the problem of Jerusalem."

Garreau Cites Jordan for Failure of His Mission

Reporting to the Council on his mission to seek ways of implementing the Council's statute of complete internationalization of the city, Roger Garreau of France admitted failure of his mission because he could not get the cooperation of Jordan. Mr. Garreau described how he had met with Israel representatives in Rome, Paris and New York and had turned down an Israel invitation to Tel Aviv because the Jordan Government had failed to reply to his demarche asking for discussions with that government as well as with Israel.

Declaring that implementation of the statute "would seem to be seriously compromised under present conditions," Mr. Garreau told the Council members that there was still ground for hope for a workable agreement on Jerusalem so long as there exists "the understanding and benevolent attitude of one of the two governments concerned," by which he meant Israel.

After delivering his report, the former Council president, who was succeeded in office at Council elections, presented to the delegates the memorandum of the Israel Government made public several days ago which includes the Israel proposal on the Holy Places.

(The Near East Arabic Radio monitored in Tel Aviv said today that Israel's latest proposals on Jerusalem are "a great step forward." The broadcast also announced that the council of the Arab League will convene in Alexandria on June 12.)

FRENCH MINISTER AND COMMUNIST DEPUTY CLASH OVER FREESING OF ANTI-SEMITES IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 4. (JTA) -- The freeing by French authorities of Xavier Vallat, pro-Nazi Commissioner of Jewish Affairs during the Nazi occupation of France, evoked a clash in the French National Assembly between Rene Mayer, Minister of Justice, and Jacques Duclos, secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of France.

In justifying Vallat's liberation, Mr. Mayer said: "I know what Xavier Vallat did better than anybody else since in 1941 I was the chairman of the Union of French Jews organized by the Vichy Government. As a Jew, and on behalf of my co-religionists, I could have had many excuses if I were to have taken a decision not to set Vallat free. However, a Minister of Justice must be able to prove that he does not confuse justice with revenge."

The Communist deputy interrupted the Minister by shouting, "Justice of the House of Rothschild," alluding to the directorship formerly held by M. Mayer in the Rothschild Bank in France. Replying to the Communist deputy, the Minister of Justice said that minutes of a previous debate in the Assembly would show that Duclos had called him a "dirty tolerated alien." This, the Jewish Minister said, proves that Duclos' own party has been polluted by anti-Semitic propaganda.

REVIVAL OF CAMPAIGN AGAINST JEWISH RITUAL SLAUGHTER IN BRITAIN IS PREDICTED IN LONDON

LONDON, June 4. (JTA) -- A campaign against Jewish ritual slaughter (Shechita) will be revived soon in Britain, it was predicted today by Sir Robert Gower, chairman, and Arthur Moss, secretary, of the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. They said that the introduction of casting pens in all slaughter houses on January 1 had not "calmed down the Shechita opponents."

Earlier, the Society rejected a demand of the Council of Christians and Jews to withdraw a leaflet depicting Jewish ritual slaughter methods which denounces Shechita as a "Barbarous method." Sir Robert declared that although the Society refuses to withdraw the leaflet, "we are prepared to meet our critics and substantiate the leaflet."

The National Council for Civil Liberties this week-end adopted at its annual meeting a resolution introduced by the Workmen's Circle voicing concern at the increase of Fascist and anti-Semitic activities in northeast London. The resolution calls on the British Government to make the "dissemination of anti-Semitism and the preaching of racial hatred illegal" and to afford "adequate police protection to citizens in areas concerned as well as at public meetings."

U.N. URGED TO INCLUDE CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY AS PART OF INTERNATIONAL LAW CODE

NEW YORK, June 4. (JTA) -- The World Jewish Congress today submitted a memorandum to the U.N. International Law Commission now convening in Geneva, Switzerland, proposing that crimes against humanity, whether or not committed in connection with war, should be included in the international code being prepared by the Commission.

The W.J.C. memorandum also stressed the necessity for establishing deprivation of property on the scale practiced by Germany as an international crime and detailed a number of additional provisions required to make acts committed by the Nazis established crimes under international law, so as to avoid recurrence in the future. In its memorandum, the W.J.C. based its proposals on the precedents established in Nuremberg, not only by the International Military Tribunal but also in the subsequent series of eleven trials of other top Nazis.

JEWISH SOCIAL WORKERS CONVENTION URGED TO FACE FUTURE IN "MOOD OF CAUTIOUS OPTIMISM"

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 4. (JTA) -- A thousand Jewish social workers, center workers and educators, worried by reports of declining fund raising and budget curtailments, were assured today by Dr. Nathan Reich, a noted economist at the opening session of the National Conference of Jewish Social Welfare that "we can face the future in a mood of cautious optimism."

The National Association of Jewish Center Workers and the National Council for Jewish Education, who are holding concurrent conventions, joined with the National Conference of Jewish Social Welfare in sponsoring the opening session of the convention which will continue through Friday. George W. Rabinoff, president of the National Conference, presided.

Reporting to the executive committee of the National Conference on the growth of the Jewish social welfare structure in the United States, Mr. Rabinoff said that America's almost five million Jews contribute almost $250,000,000 annually through over 300 federations and welfare funds for the support of overseas, national and local projects.

A rising demand for professionally-trained workers in the Jewish community center field throughout the country was reported to the executive committee of the National Association of Jewish Center Workers by its president, Sanford Solender. The Jewish Community centers already employ close to 1,000 professional workers, he declared. The increased demand, Mr. Solender said, is attributable to "the tremendous growth" in the center movement which reported a 27 percent increase in attendance at center activities in 1949. More than 11,500,000 people participated in center programs and services last year, Mr. Solender reported, adding that in response to growing calls for expanded center programs, Jewish communities commenced construction of more than $11,000,000 worth of new or remodelled center buildings last year.

In his presidential address to the National Council for Jewish Education, Judah Pilch of New York, deplored the lack of support given Jewish education by communities through the United States, although Jewish education is more and more becoming the concern of practically all Jewish organizations. "While millions of dollars are still being spent on protecting the Jew," said Mr. Pilch, "very little is given to our agencies working for the preservation of the Jew. The paradox of a climate of opinion favorable to Jewish education and a reality which threatens the very foundation of education is due primarily to the state of confusion which still exists with regard to the meaning of Jewish education and the type of organizations which should be vested with authority to finance and sponsor it."

PRIVATE EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES CHALLENGE LEGALITY OF STATE DISCRIMINATION RULINGS

NEW YORK, June 4. (JTA) -- A state Supreme court suit filed by the Association of Private Office Personnel Agencies this week-end challenged the State Commission Against Discrimination on the legality of several of its practices.

WASHINGTON, June 4. (JTA) -- President Truman during the week-end received the personal thanks of the Zionist Organization of America, conveyed by its president, Benjamin G. Browdy, for support of Israel through American cooperation in the three power resolution to end the Near Eastern arms race. It was the first meeting of a Z.O.A. president with an American President since the late President Roosevelt met with Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver in 1944.

Mr. Browdy said the President reaffirmed that he thought the arms agreement would bring lasting peace to the Near East. The Zionist leader, who visited the White House with Rep. Abraham J. Multer, said the resolution was a "relief" to Israel.

President Truman was asked approval for the establishment of a village in his name in Israel in honor of his contributions to the Jewish state. The President's reaction was "very favorable," Mr. Browdy said. The site of the village will be in Northern Galilee and it will house an initial population of 1,000 families. Construction will be sponsored by the entire Zionist movement. It will be known as the "Harry S. Truman Village."

Gen. Hildring also predicted that Israel's new proposal on Jerusalem--calling for internationalization of the city's Holy Places--will be adopted in "due course" by the United Nations. He expressed the opinion that King Abdallah of Jordan will agree to the plan. Dr. Finkhos Churgin, president of Mizrachi, told the 1,200 dinner guests that celebration of Israel's second anniversary "should evoke in us a sense of responsibility and commitment to the future needs of our people and the Jewish state."

Mr. Ford told the 700 persons attending the parley that by aiding the U.J.A. they would help Israel and thus assist in spreading democracy throughout the world. PLAN FOR CENTRALIZED PLACING OF REFORM RABBIS IS OPPOSED BY JUSTICE STEINBRINK

NEW YORK, June 4. (JTA) -- Justice Meier Steinbrink this week-end opposed a report of the Joint Placement Commission of the Central Conference of American Rabbis and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations on a standardized procedure for placing rabbis. Speaking at the annual meeting of the Assembly of delegates of the New York Federation of the U.A.H.C., Justice Steinbrink said that the plan would impinge on the autonomy and independence of the congregations.

Rabbi Roland Gittelsohn, chairman of the Joint Placement Commission, who presented the plan to the conference, called it "a representative and democratic body made up in equal part of rabbinical and lay leadership, intended to bring order into a situation which lacks both."

Frederick F. Greenman, president of the Federation, told the 100 representatives of the 54 Reform temples affiliated with the body, that he expected in the "not too distant future" to see 100 Reform congregations in New York. He called for a vigorous campaign to organize new Reform synagogues, particularly in new housing developments.
