SECURITY COUNCIL PONDERES JERUSALEM RESOLUTION THAT WOULD AVOID U.S. VETO By Yitzhak Rabi

UNITED NATIONS, June 25 (JTA) -- The United States has not yet decided how it will vote on the issue of Jerusalem in the Security Council, a spokesperson for the American delegation said today. She said the matter will be decided after the U.S. sees the final draft of a resolution currently in preparation.

The Security Council, which opened debate on Jerusalem yesterday, was engaged today in informal consultations aimed at shaping a draft resolution that will be acceptable to the U.S. or at least avoid an American veto. The debate was requested by Pakistan in the name of members of the Islamic Conference. The Pakistani Foreign Minister, Agha Shahi, charged that Israel illegally annexed East Jerusalem and is planning to make it its capital.

The Arabs and their supporters are seeking a strong condemnation of Israel and the imposition of sanctions. But a resolution in that harsh vein is certain to draw a U.S. veto, sources here said. Efforts are underway to modify the draft, enabling the U.S. to abstain.

The sources said they did not know when the Security Council will reconvene to conclude the debate. That will depend on progress in shaping the final draft resolution. The sources said the debate may be concluded Friday.

ILO ADOPTS RESOLUTION CONDEMNING ISRAELI SETTLEMENTS

By Tamar Levy

GENEVA, June 25 (JTA) -- The International Labor Organization's (ILO) annual assembly voted 249-15 in favor of a Jordanian-sponsored resolution expressing concern over Israeli settlements in the occupied territories and their economic and social consequences. There were 165 abstentions, mainly by Western delegations.

The resolution deplored the establishment of settlements and called on Israel to end that practice and to dismantle existing settlements in the territories, including East Jerusalem. It attacked Israeli practices in the territories with respect to Arab workers. The resolution, as adopted, was modified somewhat from the original draft.

STATE DEPARTMENT ADMITS IT ERRED ON HUSSEIN'S ALLEGED PLEDGE TO BAN PLO STRIKES FROM JORDAN

By Joseph Palakoff

WASHINGTON, June 25 (JTA) -- A widely publicized assertion by a State Department senior official that Jordan's King Hussein had personally assured President Carter he would not permit the Palestine Liberation Organization to launch strikes against Israel from Jordanian soil was acknowledged by the Department today as having been incorrect.

The official made the statement last Wednesday to selected reporters in a background briefing at the State Department after the King and the President had completed their talks but while the King was still in Washington. It was prominently reported as an indication of the King's opposition to PLO terror against Israel.

However, four days later, on NBC's nationally televised "Meet the Press" program, the King said that the subject did not arise in his talks with the President. Later, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency asked the State Department, who is right and who is wrong? The State Department replied: "On 'Meet the Press,' the King said there is no change in Jordan's position. We knew that, found it acceptable and saw no reason to raise the question in our talks. It did arise when the King was meeting with the Congress. The King restated his position, and it was to that statement that the senior official referred."

The JTA asked a competent source at the State Department to whom in the Congress the King made the statement, since he had met with Senators and Representatives in separate sessions. The source replied he did not know.

FIVE JDL MEMBERS ARRESTED AFTER SEIZING HEBREW U. OFFICE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 25 (JTA) -- Police arrested five members of the Jewish Defense League this afternoon after they seized the offices of the Hebrew University and the American Friends of the Hebrew University in New York. A spokesman for the 14th Precinct Midtown South said the five were being booked but could not say immediately on what charges.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency received a telephone call at about 2 p.m. from a person who identified himself as Dov Becker and said he was a member of the JDL. He said the five had seized the offices a half-hour earlier to demand the expulsion of all Arab students from the Hebrew University unless they sign a declaration recognizing Israel's sovereignty over the "Land of Israel."

Becker said the seven staff members present at the office left voluntarily after calling the police. He said the police had come but the JDL group threatened to smash the office if they tried to make arrests. The police spokesman told the JTA that the arrests were made without injury to anyone. He could not say whether the office was damaged.

Becker read a statement to the JTA which said that "because there is overt Arab support for the Palestine Liberation Organization on the campus of the Hebrew University we are demanding that every Arab student must sign a declaration to the effect that he or she recognizes that the Land of Israel is Jewish and that the State of Israel is the State of the Jewish people. If they do not sign it, they must be expelled."

BRITISH JEWS PROPOSE HUMAN RIGHTS PRIZE FOR RAOUL WALLENBERG

By Maurice Samuelson

LONDON, June 25 (JTA) -- Raoul Wallenberg, the Swedish diplomat who saved thousands of Jews during World War II, has been proposed as the first winner of a human rights prize to be awarded every three years by the Council of Europe.

Wallenberg's name has been put forward by the Board of Deputies of British Jews which cites his "courage and devotion far beyond the call of duty." In January, 1945, Wallenberg was abducted by the Russians. Despite Soviet claims that he died in a Moscow prison in 1947, there have been 15 alleged sightings of him since then, most recently in 1975.

In its letter to the Council of Europe, the Board of Deputies stated: "In the event of Mr. Wallenberg being unable personally to receive the prize, we would propose that it be presented, for safe keeping on his behalf, to his two closest relatives, who are leading the campaign for his release. They are his half sister, Mrs. Nina Lagergren, and his half brother, Prof. Guy von Dardel."

Greville Janner, MP, president of the Board, was present in Jerusalem Sunday when Mayor Teddy Kollek and Gideon Hausner, prosecutor at the Eichmann trial, opened a park named after Wallenberg. However, the Swedish Embassy in Israel was not represented because the park is in East Jerusalem, whose annexation by Israel is not recognized by Sweden.

CJC ASKS REMOVAL OF WORDS: 'THE CROSS' FROM CANADA'S UNOFFICIAL NATIONAL ANTHEM

MONTREAL, June 25 (JTA) -- The Canadian Jewish Congress has urged the Canadian government to remove the words "la croix" (the cross) from the French version of "O Canada," the country's unofficial national anthem. The House of Commons in Ottawa is debating this week whether to make the song, in use for many years by Canada at national and international functions, the official national anthem.

In a telegram sent today to Canadian Secretary of State Francis Fox, CJC executive vice president Alan Rose said that the CJC "applauds the government of Canada's action to make 'O Canada' our national anthem. We believe that the words should be such that it may be sung proudly by all Canadians."

"Therefore, we respectfully draw your attention to the French version which contains the words 'la croix' which creates serious problems for Jews and those of non-Christian faiths. We hope that you will take note of our deep concern which is prompted only by the desire that 'O Canada' should be a proud national anthem, which can be sung by all Canadians irrespective of origin or religious belief."

IRC WILL STUDY ISRAEL'S REQUEST FOR RECOGNITION OF RED MAGEN DAVID

By Tamar Levy

GENEVA, June 25 (JTA) -- A spokesman for the International Commission of the Red Cross said today that "a committee will once again try to find a solution to the problem" created by its refusal to recognize Israel's Red Magen David as an official symbol. The spokesman was responding to Premier Menachem Begin's appeal to the IRC yesterday to extend formal recognition to the Red Magen David.

The IRC has, for years, refused to recognize Israel's emergency aid organization on grounds that the proliferation of symbols causes confusion. It has proposed that the Red Cross, which is the reverse of the Swiss national flag, be the universal symbol. But the IRC has recognized the Red Crescent of the Arab countries and the Red Lion of Iran. Israel maintains that its own symbol deserves equal acceptance.

NAVON URGES ISRAELI POLITICOS TO SET BETTER PERSONAL EXAMPLE

By David Landau

JERUSALEM, June 25 (JTA) -- The Zionist General Council, at its annual meeting here this week, heard a plea from President Yitzhak Navon for the nation's political leaders to provide "vision" and a better "personal example." It also learned from World Zionist Organization Treasurer Akiva Levinsky that the WZO's budget this year has been reduced some 15 percent by inflation although in dollar terms it is the same as last year.

Another sober note was sounded by Avraham Shenker, a member of the WZO Executive and head of its community services section, who reported a decline in the WZO's standing abroad despite its increased efforts to play an active role in Jewish communities overseas.

Navon's remarks, at the opening session of the Council meeting yesterday, stressed his faith in the Israeli nation and people generally which, he said, was "much better than it is portrayed in the media." But he noted that unfortunately there were ministers and Knesset members whose conduct did not serve as a good personal example to the younger generation. He also said that the growth in numbers of the WZO in recent years, with the accretion to it of synagogal bodies, did not necessarily increase its strength. The expansion of the WZO based on non-controversial principles -- such as support of the State of Israel -- does not mean that Zionism has been strengthened, he said.

That comment seemed to some observers to offer oblique support to a draft resolution strongly promoted by the younger leadership which would oblige Zionist leaders abroad to immigrate to Israel after two terms in office -- or step down. The draft has encountered vigorous resistance from veteran diaspora leaders and is therefore unlikely to be supported by the Israeli delegates who are linked by party bonds to the diaspora leaders.

WZO Failing In Diaspora

Levinsky, in his financial report, noted that the budget for this year is frozen at $50.8 million, the same as last year, though with 15 percent less buying power because of inflation. He said the freeze was not the result of a lessening of WZO income from the United Jewish Appeal and Keren Hayesod fund-raising but rather, it reflected the serious economic situation in Israel. "Business is not as usual and the WZO cannot ignore the situation," he said.

Levinsky noted that some $23 million is earmarked for immigration and absorption this year from Western countries. The WZO deals only with voluntary immigration while the Jewish Agency is concerned with immigration from areas of Jewish hardship.

Shenker told the Council that the WZO has not been entirely successful in countering the effects of anti-Zionist resolutions at the United Nations among some Jews, particularly young Jews. He said the State of Israel radiated "confused and confusing rays" to the diaspora.

POLICE ASSIGN FRESH TEAM TO KIDNAP CASE

By Yitzhak Shargil

TEL AVIV, June 25 (JTA) -- The police have assigned a new investigating team to the case of Oran Yarden who was kidnapped on June 8 in the hope that it will come up with fresh ideas leading to the recovery of the eight-year-old boy. Massive searches by the police, aided by soldiers and civilian volunteers have been fruitless so far and the investigation has failed to yield firm clues as to the identity of the abductor.

Meanwhile, Oran's parents, Penina and Amos Yarden of Tel Aviv, thanked the government and the police, in an advertisement published in newspapers today, for their efforts to find the child.

JERUSALEM (JTA) -- The first UJA-Keren Hayesod annual conference will be held at Caesarea over the weekend, KH world chairman Avraham Avi-Hai announced.

GOP REP. SAYS HE'S DETERMINED TO FORCE DEMOCRATS TO ABIDE BY PLATFORM PLANK ON JERUSALEM

By Joseph Polakoff

WASHINGTON, June 25 (JTA) -- Although the House of Representatives defeated his attempts to have the Carter Administration move the U.S. Embassy from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem by better than a 3-1 vote, Rep. Philip Crane (R.Ill.) served notice today in a floor speech that he will continue his effort at a time of his choosing. He had indicated earlier that he would seek further debate this week to pressure the Administration to abide by the Democratic Party platform on Jerusalem.

Crane, who had sought the Republican nomination for President and is now backing Ronald Reagan, brought about a long debate last Friday that found strong friends of Israel arguing against his action that included the point that his proposal would cause the State Department to close the U.S. Embassy in Tel Aviv without opening one in Jerusalem.

Crane used legislation for the State Department operational funds for an amendment that barred the use of more than $1000 toward expenses of the American Embassy in Israel outside of Jerusalem. In effect, this meant insufficient funds would be available to maintain the Embassy in Tel Aviv. The House rejected it 252-80.

Most Jewish Reps. Opposed Amendment

Of the 22 Jewish members, three voted for the amendment: Rep. Sidney Yates (D.Ill.) and New York Republicans Benjamin Gilman and William Green. Among the 101 Congressmen not voting were Reps. Martin Frost (D.Tex.), Elizabeth Holtzman (D.N.Y.), Ken Kistner (R.Colo.), Ted Weiss (D.N.Y.), and Lester Wolff (D.N.Y.). The other 14 Jewish Congressmen opposed the amendment.

Unusual voting marked the proceedings. Millicent Fenwick (R.N.J.) an ardent friend of Israel, and Rep. Paul Findley (R.Ill.), an advocate of U.S. recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization, both opposed Crane's amendment. Republican House leader John Rhodes of Arizona favored it, while Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas did not vote. Rep. Robert Lagomarsino (R.Cal.), who with Sen. John Warner (R.Va.) is co-chairman of the foreign policy unit of Congressmen for Reagan, also voted for the amendment. A majority of the 80 proponents were Republican.

Crane's amendment was offered while the Democratic Party platform writers wrangled over the plank on the status of Jerusalem, which they finally resolved after the House had voted on the Crane amendment. While some opponents of his amendment argued it was politically inspired, Crane responded that it harmonized with the Democratic Party's platform of 1976. The Republican's platform plank on Jerusalem for 1980 has not yet been formulated.

Crane, who was aided in the debate mainly by Gilman and Rep. Robert Dornan (R.Cal.) pointed to the Democratic pledge on Jerusalem. He said that "While not in the habit of encouraging compliance with the Democratic platform," he was "emphatically" urging both Democrats and Republicans "to heed this succinct and persuasive policy statement."

Gilman said "It makes no sense to continue this double standard of support for Israel with its capital in Jerusalem while our Ambassador remains in Tel Aviv."

Observing that the U.S. has consulates in "Jerusalem" and "East Jerusalem," Dornan said this situation is "unique in all the world for U.S. consulates" and that "inside Jerusalem" Americans are "working at cross-purposes." The East Jerusalem consulate, Dornan said, "does not answer to our Embassy in Tel Aviv." That is "a dangerous situation," he said, and "upsetting the Israeli government a lot."

Rep. Solárz Calls Measure 'Irresponsible'

Addressing opponents of the Crane amendment as facing "a brutal decision" on whether a "vote either way would endanger Israel," Dornan said, "As a non-Jew, you do not speak for most Israelis. They want our Embassy in their capital city. Period. However, they are afraid they are going to be Famoso-ized, NiCaragua-ized, VietNam-ized and unceremoniously dumped for oil."

Rep. Stephen Solárz (D.N.Y.), who led the opposition, said that the Crane amendment "really has to be one of the most incredibly irresponsible approaches to an extraordinarily complex problem which has ever been put before this House." He noted, "no effort was made" by Crane "to consult with those members of the House who have been most closely and deeply involved in this issue." Solárz added: "Many of the members may think the American Embassy should be in Jerusalem, but we all know that the Administration is not about to go in and move the Embassy to Jerusalem. So what would be the consequence of this amendment? It would not be to move the American Embassy to Jerusalem. It would be to close down the American Embassy in Tel Aviv and the last thing any of us want to do is to close down the American Embassy in Israel."

Rep. James Scheuer (D.N.Y.), while opposing the Crane amendment, agreed with Dornan's criticism of two U.S. consulates in Jerusalem.

"At the State Department today, the Jewish Telegraphic Agency was told that U.S. government policy is to maintain the Embassy in Tel Aviv and 'there is no change in that policy nor in the policy of continuance of two consulates in Jerusalem.'"

MOVE OF PM'S OFFICE TO EAST JERUSALEM NOT IMMINENT

By David Landau

JERUSALEM, June 25 (JTA) -- The transfer of the Prime Minister's Office and Cabinet office from West to East Jerusalem is not imminent, Premier Menachem Begin is reported to have told the U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis today. Their meeting followed a wave of press speculation that the move is imminent, which has drawn sharply negative reactions from abroad.

The timing of the press reports was seen here as especially awkward in view of the ongoing Security Council debate this week on Jerusalem. There is now speculation here -- unconfirmed by official sources -- that the U.S. indicated to Israel it would not veto a hostile resolution on Jerusalem unless any plans for the imminent transfer of the Embassy were shelved.

CORRECTION

Due to a technical error, the story in the June 25 Daily News Bulletin "Carter, Kennedy Supporters Reach Compromise on Jerusalem Plank" stated erroneously that aides of Sen. Kennedy "had fought for this qualifying sentence." It should have read "fought against."

SPECIAL REPORTLIKUD LIST OF ITS ACHIEVEMENTS SEEN AS OPENING GUN IN NEXT ELECTION CAMPAIGN

By David Landau

JERUSALEM, June 25 (JTA) — Premier Menachem Begin's senior aide, Mattityahu Shmuelevitz, has compiled a 13-page memorandum listing what the Likud government considers its major achievements during its three years in office. He submitted the document to the Premier this week to mark the government's third anniversary. Political observers saw it as Likud's opening shot in the next election campaign. Given the government's present shaky situation, no one can say when the campaign will formally begin or how long it will go on before it is declared official.

In a radio interview, Shmuelevitz, who is Director General of the Prime Minister's Office, faulted the media — especially the State-owned radio and television — for presenting a biased and negative picture of the government's policies and actions.

In his document of achievements, Shmuelevitz cited the peace treaty with Egypt at the head of the list, followed immediately by the government's "standing firm for our national rights and security interests."

Other points in the list of achievements include: strengthening Israel's Defense Force; a successful war against terrorism, including constant assaults on terrorists at their bases; a "significant improvement" in aliyah. In 1977 the aliyah figure was 21,429; in 1979 it was 37,000; improved aliyah absorption services and facilities; and significant progress in solving the housing problems of the poorest segments of society. In 1976 some 3.6 percent of Israeli families lived in conditions of three or more to a room — by 1979 the figure was only 1.5 percent of the families; social legislation under Likud which included such measures as the minimum wage law and the free high school education law.

Peres Scornful Of Likud Claims

Shimon Peres, chairman of the opposition Labor Party, reacted scornfully to Shmuelevitz's catalogue. "He forgot to mention that this government succeeded in putting Israel in first place worldwide in national inflation," Peres remarked. Similarly, the Labor leader said, the list did not mention the foreign policy dead-end into which the Begin government had led the nation, nor the "fact that the social gap is now deeper than it ever was."

One lengthy section of Shmuelevitz's document is headlined "On the Way to Economic Recovery." It underscores the government's achievements in cutting subsidies, cutting down the civil service, intensifying tax collection, abolishing currency restrictions, easing restrictions on personal imports, boosting exports and slashing imports, maintaining the real value of wages and at the same time keeping up full employment. There was also an increase in the number of tourists visiting Israel, the document noted.

Another section extols the government's "settlement momentum," which, it says, is unprecedented since the State was founded. One hundred and sixteen new settlements have been established during the past three years — 21 in Galilee, 10 in the Negev and Arava, another 28 "mizpim" (outpost settlements) in Galilee, and the rest on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. The number of Jews living on the West Bank has risen since 1976 from 5000 to 13,000, Shmuelevitz noted.

The document coincided this week with abundant other signs of a heated-up political front. Labor and Herut spokesmen clashed sharply Sunday over the Premier's call to the nation — in the wake of a proposal by Chief of Staff Gen. Raphael Eitan to the defense establishment — that everyone volunteer one day's pay a month to the defense effort. Labor ridiculed the proposal, and challenged the government to impose new taxes if it could not make ends meet. Herut Secretariat chairman MK Yoram Arido, retorted that Labor's attitude showed the party was still not ripe to return to office because it put its own party interests before those of the nation.

There were similar sharp exchanges over Labor MK and former Premier Yitzhak Rabin's brief weekend visit to Vienna and three-hour discussion with Chancellor Bruno Kreisky. Herut lambasted Labor for its readiness to associate with statesmen who advocate recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization. Herut spokesmen linked Rabin's trip to the "bitter feud" between him and Shimon Peres for the party leadership.

In the Cabinet Sunday, Begin warned his ministers that their failure to grapple with the present economic crisis would lead to a return to power of a party committed to "cede the heart of our country" to foreign rule. Begin has been using this characterization of Labor policy repeatedly in recent weeks in an apparent attempt to sharpen the public's perception of the policy differences between his government and the main opposition party.

DAYAN CALLS FOR EARLY ELECTIONS

By Yitzhak Shargil

TEL AVIV, June 25 (JTA) — Former Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan called in effect today for early elections. "The time has come for us to send the ball back to the people's court and have them decide whom they want as their leaders and what course they want these leaders to take," Dayan told the graduating class at Haifa University in a commencement address.

Dayan, who resigned from Premier Menachem Begin's Likud-led Cabinet last Oct. 22, said "There is an increasing gap between the government and the people and therefore the government should go to the public so that it may elect its representatives. You may elect whomever you may, but it is essential that there is confidence between the people and the government," he said.

Dayan saw few differences between Likud and its chief opposition, the Labor Party, on basic issues. He noted that both parties agree there must not be a Palestinian state; both agree that Israel's army must be deployed along the Jordan River. He said that even on the explosive issue of settlements on the West Bank, the disagreements between Labor and Likud involve only a few controversial settlements. He pointed out that the first Gush Emunim settlements were established while the Labor government was in power.

AMSTERDAM (JTA) — The "Para-Olympics," a series of sports events for handicapped persons, opened in Arnhem Saturday with the participation of a 60-member team from Israel, one of the largest, among the 42 countries competing. The events include basketball, volley ball, swimming, table tennis, sharpshooting, weight-lifting and gymnastics. One of the volley ball matches is between Israel and Egypt. The "Para-Olympics" were conceived by Sir Ludwig Guttmann who arrived in England in 1939 as a German-Jewish refugee and in 1948 established the first sports events for handicapped persons there.
